U.S. Sunflower Ass'n. Retains Biochemist

Dr. Ahmad Moustafa of Cincinnati, Ohio, has been retained by the National Sunflower association (NSA) to assist the research departments of major U.S. food companies in developing sun oil products. Dr. Moustafa has a Ph.D. in biochemistry and 30 years of experience in food research in the U.S. His most recent work was as director of research and development for a major margarine manufacturer in Cincinnati.

According to Judi Adams of the NSA, the domestic market for sun oil has been increasing slowly over the last several years. That is due to the large and competitively priced supplies of soybean oil and the inconsistent supply of sun oil. But in addition to that, there are misconceptions in the U.S. food industry about the quality and application of sun oil.

"It is in this area that Dr. Moustafa will concentrate his time and we are confident that his experience and expertise will pay off in increased domestic consumption," Adams said.

The money for this position is the culmination of a two-year study and fund raising campaign initiated by the domestic sun oil promotion committee of the NSA. Sunflower companies, farm equipment manufacturers, banks, elevators and chemical companies have all contributed to make this position possible. If progress has been made after two years, there will be an effort to continue the position.

Dr. Moustafa's first duties will be to attend the national sunflower convention in Bismarck, February 1 and 2 and become acquainted with the industry.

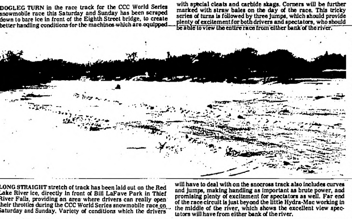
DOGLEG TURN in the race track for the CCC World Series snowmobile race this Saturday and Sunday has been scraped down to bare ice in front of the Eighth Street bridge, to create better handling conditions for the machines which are equipped with special cleats and carbide skags. Corners will be further marked with straw bales on the day of the race. This tricky series of turns is followed by three jumps, which should provide plenty of excitement for both drivers and spectators, who should be able to view the entire race from either bank of the river.



LONG STRAIGHT stretch of track has been laid out on the Red Lake River ice, directly in front of Bill LaFave Park in Thief River Falls, providing an area where drivers can really open their throttles during the CCC World Series snowmobile race on Saturday and Sunday. Variety of conditions which the drivers will have to deal with on the snocross track also includes curves and jumps, making handling as important as brute power, and promising plenty of excitement for spectators as well. Far end of the race circuit is just beyond the little Hydra-Mac working in the middle of the river, which shows the excellent view spectators will have from either bank of the river.

Stumpf Reports On Efforts To Save Rail Lines

In a recent senate transportation committee meeting attended by State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer, testimony was given on the proposed abandonment of hundreds of miles of additional railroad lines in the state by private rail companies and the Interstate Commerce commission (I.C.C.).

"Applications pending before the I.C.C. propose that over 458 miles of private lines be abandoned over the next three years, in addition to the 443 miles of line the companies applied to the I.C.C. for abandonment in August of 1983," Stumpf said.

"The state has a limited number of options to take to protect some of its 5,646 miles of rail line so important to the economies of our area — to our farmers, our shippers and the many small businesses that would be greatly impacted by this loss," he added.

During the 1983 session, the state legislature set up regional rail authorities to receive assistance from the Minnesota rail service improvement account, and the state rail bank, which was created by the legislature in 1980 to give the department of transportation (DOT) authority to purchase and preserve valued railroad rights-of-way.

Between 1977 and 1983, the costs of rehabilitating rail lines has soared to over $40 million, with the state paying 30 per cent, the federal government 30 per cent and the private carriers picking up the remaining 40 per cent of this cost.

"A group of private shippers recently organized to purchase an abandoned line from Norwood to Hanley Falls, and applied for $2.6 million for that purpose. Private or public developers are also organizing to finance needed rehabilitation of railroads," Stumpf said.

"These private-public partnerships efforts to save our vital rail links are important, and are good examples of users and government working together for the common good," Stumpf said. "An abandonment not only closes down a line, it also isolates a community and makes it difficult for commerce and transit in and out of areas where many road weight limits don't exceed nine tons.

"I think we can defend the legislation we have passed to help finance the rehabilitation of these abandoned lines and the funding we approved for it last year ($13.5 million) should be sufficient for this purpose," the Senator continued.

Whole Greater Than Parts For Job Happiness

by Lynette Lamb
'U' M News Service

Simply asking people whether they're satisfied with their jobs may more thoroughly reflect their true feelings than would their responses to a whole list of specific questions about their jobs.

University of Minnesota psychology professor John Campbell has based this conclusion on his recent study and the data of others, all of which indicate that overall job satisfaction is not completely accounted for by the sum of satisfaction with a series of individual job elements. In other words, writes Campbell: "The whole appears to be more complex than the sum of the presently measured parts."

To get at some of the major determinants of job satisfaction that standard questionnaires were not measuring, Campbell and colleague Vida Scarpello, a management professor from the University of Georgia, asked open-ended questions of 185 Honeywell and 3M employees, the majority of whom were engineers and technical personnel.

They found that scheduling flexibility, pleasantness of work interactions, workspace, tools and equipment and how much their co-workers helped with work figured prominently in respondents' job satisfaction, but were not included on typical job satisfaction surveys.

In addition to these elements, workers' job satisfaction also seems to be affected by how content they are with their occupational choices and how they view their jobs in terms of their career goals or other goals. "The objectives people have for working influence how satisfied they think they are with their jobs," said Campbell.

Career objectives were particularly salient with the group of engineers that Campbell tested. "If you see a hard or low-paying job as a useful stepping-stone in your career, you may be satisfied with it," explained Campbell. But for another group — blue collar workers or office workers, for example — this career factor might not be important and an entirely different factor — perhaps job stability — might be.

Job objectives such as career motivation are very difficult to determine, and vary not only from occupational group to occupational group but from person to person. And, added Campbell, "Job satisfaction surveys, with their standard variables, do not assess the context in which an individual evaluates his or her feelings about a job."

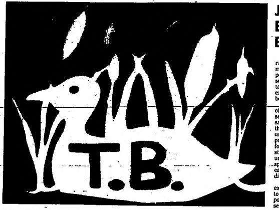
Life off the job also seems to affect a person's overall job satisfaction, said Campbell. The question of whether life satisfaction compensates for job satisfaction or accentuates it has never been completely settled, Campbell said, but he feels that the evidence supports accentuation. "Happiness or misery in one area tends to spill over into the other," he concluded.

It is no wonder, then, that the sum of the parts so rarely equals the whole in job satisfaction since there are so many elements — some unrelated to the actual work — that affect it.

But Campbell doesn't think human relations and personnel managers should despair. "It's true that overall satisfaction is composed of more aspects than are normally measured, and that there are theoretically hundreds of variables," said Campbell. "But you can't divorce the question of how you should assess a job satisfaction survey with what you'll eventually use the information for, so you might as well only measure what you can manipulate."

Despite some evidence to the contrary, Campbell thinks that overall people are about as satisfied with their jobs as they've ever been. He also thinks that working conditions have improved but that employees today also expect more from their jobs. This is particularly true of young people, who as a group are less satisfied, he said.

Many questions remain to be answered about job satisfaction, among them how members of other occupational groups would respond in open-ended interviews like those the engineers took part in. Campbell said he'd be fascinated by what people in agriculture would say, because he has noticed that farmers complain constantly about their jobs but would never consider doing anything else. He also admitted to an interest in studying what he considers the three toughest jobs in the United States today: the urban police officer, the supervisor at a heavy manufacturing plant and the urban high school teacher.



PHOTOGRAMS were one of the techniques taught by Seitu Jones, a professional artist who visited Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls last week under the COMPAS artist in the schools program. Jones taught the students to use photographic techniques to create pictures without expensive equipment. This print was made by laying paper cutouts over a piece of light sensitive paper before exposing it to light. After developing the prints, many of the students used techniques of photo painting to add color to the black and white creations.

Job-Hunting Expenses May Be Deductible

Because the unemployment rate continues to remain high, many Americans are out pounding the pavement in search of a job. Here are a few tax facts about job-hunting expenses and unemployment benefits.

Job-hunting expenses are often deductible for those seeking employment in the same trade or business and there is not a long period of unemployment between a previous job and the search for a new job. What constitutes a "long period of unemployment" is not specified in the IRS rules, so each case will be judged individually.

What types of job-hunting expenses are a person allowed to deduct? Travel or transportation expenses incurred in seeking employment in the same trade or business are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions. For instance, if you interview for a job in a distant city, you may deduct travel expenses — including living costs — even if you don't get the job. You are allowed to include other job-search expenses — such as employment agency fees you pay, the cost of resumes, postage and telephone bills — with your itemized deductions.

First-time job seekers and those who have been out of the job market a long time are not allowed to deduct their job-hunting expenses.

Anyone who received unemployment compensation during the year may be taxed on all or part of it. For most taxpayers, unemployment compensation received under a federal or state law will be partially or totally taxable only if total income (including unemployment compensation) minus most adjustments, is greater than $12,000.

If you are married and file a joint return, this base amount increases to $18,000; if you are married filing separately and you lived with your spouse at any time during the year the base amount drops to zero. You will be required to pay tax on either one-half of your total income in excess of the base amount for your filing status or on the unemployment compensation you received during the year, whichever is smaller.

Be sure to report your job-hunting expenses and unemployment compensation correctly, so your taxes are not higher than they should be.

Baby Picture Contest Drew Many Entries

Marshall County Central Jaycee Women report that they have received many entries in their baby photo contest, and they are now urging people to view their display at the Marshall County state bank in Newfolden and vote for their favorite picture.

Pictures will be on display through the rest of the week, and votes can be cast in the form of a donation placed in a container corresponding to their favorite picture. Proceeds from the contest will be used to support the Tri-community scholarship fund.

Top three donation getters in the photo contest will be awarded cash prizes and be featured in various publicity releases.

Highways, interstates, turnpikes, freeways, expressways — they crisscross America, leading in every imaginable direction. And, they get you there so fast, you are past the right exit before you know it. We live in such a speed-oriented world that, when we are not working, we feel we must "hurry up and relax." At times we even feel guilty when we are not busy about something.

We don't really like our foolish pace. We speak longingly of peace of mind and quietude, and we take tranquilizers by the ton. We search frantically . . . on vacations, on "lost weekends," on "fun activities" . . . but tranquility is hard to find.

Perhaps we are seeking too hard. Perhaps tranquility is not to be sought. Rather, isn't it what happens when you are at peace with yourself, no matter the circumstances?

You can be at peace with yourself only when you are at peace with God. He is the very center of your being, and His peace is freely given when you accept it.

Accept this great gift of God in the very best place of all — His Church.

New Elevator Designed By Computer

Some new elevators are getting a big lift from computers these days. Designed by computers, they can be ordered and delivered in less than half the time for delivery of conventional elevators.

Richard Lucas, general manager of U.S. Elevators, a subsidiary of Cubic Corporation, and the nation's fifth largest producer of elevators, says that the new elevators are for low rise and mid-rise buildings. They can be ordered, packaged and shipped to the construction site in under 12 weeks.

The entrance to a new pre-engineered elevator is being designed with the aid of a computer.

Aside from quick delivery schedules, the new product line features a variety of inside cab colors and decors.

EXPENSIVE CAMERA equipment is not necessary to create artistic photographs. That was one of the major lessons stressed by Seitu Jones, a professional artist who visited Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls last week, under the COMPAS artists in the schools program. This picture was taken by one of his students there, using a simple camera made from an oatmeal box. Distortion of shapes is caused by the curved back of the round box, while the ghost-like appearance of the boys climbing the tree was caused by their motion during the long "time exposure."

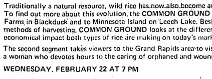
RICE CAPADES



Traditionally a natural resource, wild rice has now also become an agricultural crop. To find out more about this evolution, the COMMON GROUND crew travels to Landreth Farms in Blackduck and to Minnesota Island on Leech Lake. Besides the different methods of harvesting, COMMON GROUND looks at the differences in taste and the economical impact both types of rice are making on today's market.
The second segment takes viewers to the Grand Rapids area to visit Mrs. Loretta Sharp, a woman who devotes hours to the caring of orphaned and wounded wildlife.

Reforms Needed

Following commentary was written by Win Borden, president of the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry, an organization of approximately 5,000 individual companies, local chambers of commerce and state trade associations:

1984 will not be a happy year for Minnesota business when it comes to unemployment compensation taxes. In 1983, every Minnesota business had a 10 per cent increase in its state unemployment compensation taxes, and a 41 per cent increase in its federal unemployment compensation taxes. On January 1, 1984, federal unemployment compensation taxes went up another 30 per cent.

The reason for the increased taxes is simple.

The unemployment compensation fund in Minnesota is virtually bankrupt. We are in debt to the federal government for almost $400,000,000. The federal loan will have to be repaid.

The unemployment compensation system is complex, but the reason for the heavy debt to the federal government is simple. While 34 states have a higher rate of unemployment than Minnesota, our average pay-out per recipient is the fourth highest in the country. We generally pay more people unemployment benefits; we pay them slightly more than average per week; and we pay them for far more weeks than do most states.

Many people don't understand that dollars to maintain the unemployment compensation fund come solely from taxes on Minnesota business. Of course, those taxes are a cost of doing business which is passed on to every consumer. In 1983, Minnesota business will pay $250,000,000 into the unemployment compensation fund, but benefits paid will exceed $330,000,000. Loans from the federal government will continue to make up the difference, and the state debt to the federal government will continue to grow.

The magnitude of the cost of the current system is further illustrated by the fact that in some years, Minnesota business pays 150 per cent more in unemployment taxes than it does in corporate income taxes.

Some believe the huge deficit in the unemployment compensation fund should be made up exclusively with even greater tax increases on business. But business taxes for unemployment compensation in Minnesota already far exceed the national average. (The tax rate for each business is determined in major part by the company's employment record. A company with few layoffs pays a much lower rate than a company with a record of numerous layoffs). Unemployment taxes for the minimum rate employers in 1982 were three per cent above the national average. The average state tax per employer in Minnesota was 17 per cent above the national average, and the maximum rate employers paid 65 per cent above their similarly situated counterparts across the country in 1982. Since then the situation has grown progressively worse.

Minnesota is now borrowing 30 per cent of the money necessary to keep our unemployment compensation fund from going belly-up. The pressure from organized labor and some legislators to increase business taxes to pay off the federal debt is intense. Business is willing to pay increased unemployment taxes, but not before the system is reformed to pay benefits to those who can't find work and no one else.

That's not how the system operates today. Under current law, someone earning less than $100 per week for 15 weeks is eligible for unemployment compensation. Those who work part-time for less than four months become eligible for benefits. Adding insult to injury, many seasonal workers who work part-time earning far more than the average Minnesotan makes working full-time also routinely draw benefits. In fact, in a typical year, some 20,000 Minnesotans making more than $20,000 per year will file for benefits. Some will earn more than $70,000 and then go on to routinely collect unemployment benefits.

The average business person has deep sympathy for someone who is unexpectedly unemployed and can't find work. Yet the average Minnesotan has little sympathy for someone who has a job available to him, refuses to take the job, and instead draws unemployment benefits. At a time when the unemployment system is virtually bankrupt, the legislature must change the law to provide unemployment benefits to those who can't find work and no one else. If the Minnesota legislature would adopt that standard, only then will Minnesota business be willing to pay increased taxes to pay off the federal debt.

Love And Courage

The following editorial was written by Sanna McKinzie, co-editor of the student newspaper at Bemidji high school, and reprinted in the Bemidji Pioneer:

Just the other day, I was in the attendance office, talking to my mom on the phone. After a short conversation, I said, "G'bye, Mom. I love you," and hung up. Immediately, the people around me burst into loud, mocking laughter. Even the secretary was smiling.

Why were these people making fun of me? Because I had the courage to tell my mother I love her, even though I knew people would laugh at me behind my back for it. Let's face it — the phrase "I love you" consists of three little words, but many people can't say them. How many times have you told your parents you love them? Think of all the things they've shared. No matter how many times you tell your mother or your father of your love, you can never repay them for their devotion. But why not try?

Friends are very important, very special. But few people let their friends know that they're loved in a special way. Why? Because people don't have the guts to tell each other what's in their hearts. People are afraid that their friends will think they're weird and talk about them.

Romantic love follows the same vicious cycle. Men and women don't tell their special someone of their love because they're afraid it won't be returned. This is a lousy excuse. If you tell the one you love of your feelings and they don't share them, it's not the end of the world. You will have given them a special gift — a gift of a warm feeling inside and the knowledge that they are worthy of being loved. Love is like quicksilver. If you give it freedom and expression, love will always return to you. Of course, if your loved one shares your feeling, it could be the start of a special, caring relationship.

Love is never wasted, never futile. It always has a purpose. It can brighten someone's life and bring that person happiness. If you truly care for someone — parent, friend, girlfriend or boyfriend — let that person see what is in your heart. It takes courage. But love is always worth the effort.

Veto Value

Following editorial is from the Sacramento Union:

President Reagan well knew when he sought authority for the line-item veto last month that he was advocating a major shift of power from Congress to the White House.

The line-item veto would allow the president to strike individual expenditures from a congressional spending bill without scrapping the remainder of the legislation.

President Reagan used the line-item veto skillfully to hold down costs when he was governor of California. Governors in 42 other states who are empowered with a similar scalpel for surgically removing spending items have performed with mixed results.

Overall, we agree with Mr. Reagan that the president should be given line-item veto authority.

At the same time, like anyone with a fiscal and political philosophy, we would most like to see the power utilized by presidents with whose financial priorities we agree.

We shudder to think, for example, of a pacifist president using the line-item veto to weaken our national defense capability.

Most any president, however, would be likely to use the line-item veto to trim out some of the spending fat proposed by congressmen as payoffs for special interest in their home districts or those of their fellow politicians with whom they are trading votes.

The entire line-item debate, of course, is largely academic. There is no indication that congress is about to cede more power to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. And even if the president were handed the line-item veto, the majority of federal spending would be exempt from the knife.

It has been said that Mr. Reagan raised the issue of the line-item veto in his State of the Union address partly so that he can use it as a campaign tool.

There is nothing wrong with that.

The fact that the line-item veto has been proposed by presidents as far back as Ulysses S. Grant speaks to the fact that it has merit.

So does the fact that Mr. Reagan used it so well in California.

And pointing out in a campaign year that an unused tool exists to curb spending is honest and good politicking.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The turn of the year traditionally is a time for introspection, a time to evaluate the past before taking a deep breath, then plunging along the road ahead. It's obvious that the road to economic recovery is very complex. Recovery can come to full bloom only when interest rates decrease. Yet, interest rates remain high because of the huge national deficit. The high interest rates retard economic recovery because it costs too much to borrow money needed for business to buy new plants and equipment required to increase production and for consumers to borrow to buy more products.

With the U.S. dollar propped up by high interest rates, it is now the strongest national currency in the world — that can be good or bad. U.S. manufactured products are not being bought by other countries because of their high cost. This creates a U.S. trade deficit which hurts American wage earners — trade deficits also lead to world-wide depressions.

A Gallup Poll dated June, 1983, found that seven out of 10 Americans favored a balanced federal budget amendment to our Constitution. Republican and Democrat senators are in complete agreement on a balanced federal budget, but, we have a president who makes up his own rules for playing the game.

Under Article V of the U.S. Constitution there are two ways to propose amendments to the U.S. Constitution. One is through a two-thirds vote of each house of Congress, the other is through resolutions by the Legislatures of two-thirds of the states calling on Congress to convene a constitutional convention to draft an amendment. Thirty-two states have passed such resolutions calling on Congress to approve the amendment or be faced with a constitutional convention call. Only two more states are necessary to provide the two-thirds (34) states that will trigger the constitutional mandate.

Faced now with $200 billion dollar deficits growing greater by every year (military-armament) — is such an amendment realistic? By all means — today (1984), it is an absolute necessity. We have had a virtual breakdown in the political process on Capitol Hill — President Reagan by dynamic persuasion has quadrupled military budgets. Special interest organizations simply overwhelm the budget process. Repeated pledges by senators and representatives and even the President to restore fiscal responsibility have failed.

We want to end deficits and certainly a constitutional convention seems to be about the only way to get the job done. No one expects a constitutional convention to happen. Such a convention might repeal the Bill of Rights is the favorite argument of those who oppose the amendment and a balanced federal budget.

First, Congress would not call a convention. It couldn't tolerate ordinary citizens preparing an amendment that would limit their spending and taxing powers.

The purpose of including a call for a constitutional convention as approved by 32 states is to keep the pressure on Congress to act to propose a balanced federal budget amendment, to be ratified by the states. Without that pressure, the possibility of Congress acting would be limited.

The proposed amendment seeks to reestablish constitutional limitations on federal spending and deficit practices that existed in earlier years through an array of formal constitutional positions which have been eroded over the course of recent years and especially by this administration.

This spending bias has created severe economic and political difficulties that are fully deserving of being addressed by the Constitution. As conditions exist now, the problem of the huge national deficit will need to be approached with optimism as well as caution, fairness, understanding and cooperation by all citizens.

Write your senator or congressman and tell him to support a balanced budget amendment. You will be doing a big favor for your children and the future generations of Americans.

NOTICE TO HAULERS

The Pennington County Sheriff's Office has been notified to strictly enforce load limits this spring. Severe road damage occurred last year due to wet conditions.

Truckers and farmers are reminded to do as much of their hauling as possible before the load limits go on. Limits will be in effect at the same time restrictions are on Trunk Highways. If the roadway is not posted, the legal limit is 10,000 pounds gross weight per axle.

Heavy loads are proven to be the major factor in road damage. Please notify the Sheriff's Office or County Engineers Office if you know of any overloads - it will protect roads your money helped build.

Great Careers start at Bemidji State University

BSU GRADUATE PROFILE: Warren Wick
POSITION: Product Specialist, MSA Support, Sperry Computer Systems
RESPONSIBILITIES: Sperry manufactures, designs and develops large scale computers. I fit into this structure by supporting our systems through marketing human resource software for personnel and payroll departments. I go out and help these people use the software and hardware. It's a mixture of public relations and technical work.
COMMENTS ON BEMIDJI STATE: It is big enough to offer a variety of programs, but not that big that you get lost. There was more instructor to student interaction and relationship. That helped make the university friendly. I attended BSU because it was small, personal, and you received a quality education. It's still that way.

Farm Protest Attracts Attention From Officials

Efforts to draw attention to the plight of area farmers in hopes of getting some type of long-term, low interest financing which would enable them to stay in business, began to bear some fruit last week following a demonstration at the Thief River Falls FmHA office on Wednesday.

News reports of that demonstration (in which tractors were used to encircle the building), were picked up by wire services and published nationwide, and national television and radio news networks repeated the story, apparently raising enough interest to upset the hierarchy of the federal bureaucracy, and pull a number of politicians into the bandwagon.

On Thursday, State Attorney Gerald Hubert H. Humphrey III announced that he would investigate whether legal action could be brought to force FmHA to speed up the application process of loan requests by northwestern Minnesota farmers. With FmHA officials promising to reduce the backlog of loan applications by disptaching more personnel to area offices, Humphrey stated, "I intend to monitor the progress very closely. If the FmHA won't get the job done, we may be required to initiate a lawsuit to force it to fulfill its obligations in handling these loan requests in a timely manner."

On a local level, State Representatives Jim Tunheim and Wally Sparby, and State Senators LeRoy Stumpf and Keith Langseth met with Cy Carpenter, president of the Farmers Union on Friday at city auditorium, to announce that they would be opening an office in Thief River Falls, which would be help to faciliate calls and letters to incumbent Republican Senator Rudy Boschwitz and Congressman Arlan Stangeland, as well as Agriculture Secretary John Block, action to get the issue "off dead center."

Langseth, who is seeking the office presently held by Stangeland, allowed that the action was "definitely political," but added, "everything else has failed, and applying political pressure in an election year is a last resort." He noted that the authority to process the loans and help the farmers in need is already available to Block, "if he would only use it."

Sparby commented, "We've had hearings both here and at the Capitol in St. Paul. We've also met with Secretary Block in Chicago and Washington, and now we need help." He noted that farmers are facing the 1984 crop season without either the money or the credit available to buy seed and fertilizer necessary to put crops in the ground.

Stumpf said that the office would be open at 1008 Second Street in Thief River Falls, in a building owned by Sam Genereux, who was donating the rent. Expenses for telephones and other necessities would be shared by the sponsoring group, with volunteer assistance of all kinds accepted. He noted that the office would not be actually making phone calls to the national officials, but would instruct people on how to call or write them. One farmer present noted that he had already made all the calls he could afford, to which was

AREA FARMERS, who drew the attention of national news media to Thief River Falls last week by staging a "tractorcade" protest outside the local FmHA office, got some of the attention they were hoping for at back-to-back press conferences on Friday morning, but their faces expressed doubts that help could arrive in time to allow them to get spring planting done. In the center photo, DFL politicians (from left) State Representatives Jim Tunheim and Wally Sparby, and State Senators LeRoy Stumpf and Keith Langseth, joined with Farmers Union president Cy Carpenter in announcing that they would open an office in Thief River Falls to help channel letters and phone calls to the federal offices where they would have the greatest effect. That conference was immediately followed by a meeting of the Northwest Minnesota Emergency Action committee, which also got television coverage, as they explained what they felt were signs that a shake-up was occurring with the FmHA. # Dr. Nancy Rust On Local Staff

New addition to the professional staff of the day-night mental health unit of Northwestern hospital services is Dr. Nancy Rust, who began work February 14 in a newly-created position as clinical psychologist.

Dr. Rust has a BA degree in psychology from Pasadena college in California, an MA degree in theology from Fuller Theological seminary and a PhD degree in psychology from Fuller Graduate School of Psychology in Pasadena. The latter school is fully accredited by the American Psychological association.

Because part of the psychology program at Fuller requires two one-year internships, Dr. Rust spent one year at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, working in a hospital psychology situation. Her first year in the internship program was served on staff of a community mental health center.

Dr. Steve Levinson, director of the day-night unit, said that there has been a need for an additional clinical psychologist here for the past year and that administration has been seeking the proper individual to fulfill that role. The unit now has a full mental health service, Dr. Levinson said, and began contracting with Pennington county to provide full mental health services two years ago. Contract for similar services was begun with Marshall county in January of this year.

Patients being served by the mental health unit here can have a choice of which professional they wish to see, Dr. Rust said, and she believes having a woman on staff will be of assistance to women who may feel uncomfortable counseling with a male psychologist. She cited victims of rape, incest or domestic abuse as prime examples of such patients.

Dr. Rust, who is married to a Presbyterian minister serving three rural parishes at Calvin, Sorels and Hannah, ND, said she looks forward to meeting and working with people in other agencies where she can provide consulting service. She will be working with people on both an in-patient and out-patient basis.

Movement Seen In Negotiations

Some movement in negotiations on the 1983-84 and 1984-85 contract for Thief River Falls school teachers took place over the weekend but settlement was not reached and a session with a state mediator is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday, March 15.

As a result of the negotiations beginning last Tuesday and continuing Sunday afternoon, the board of education for School District 564 has increased its offer to an eight and one-half per cent increase over the two-year contract term. The Thief River Falls Education association has returned to its request for an increase of 19½ per cent.

At the negotiations session Tuesday evening, the board offered to increase its long-standing offer of four per cent over two years to three per cent each year. The TRFEA committee considered the offer, and returned with a verbal one time only offer to split the difference between the board's six per cent offer and the TRFEA's 19½ per cent request. That proposal would have meant an increase of 12.75 per cent over two years.

The board asked for time to compute costs of the proposal and agreement was reached to meet again at 3 p.m. Sunday. At that time the board met in caucus for about an hour, decided it couldn't fund the 12.75 per cent request, and rejected the proposal. The board then made the offer of four per cent for 1983-84 and an additional four and one-half SHARING THE DAIRYING is a way of life for Mr. and Mrs. Arden Lundeen of rural Oklee, Pennington county's honor dairy farm family for 1983-84. Arden and his wife Mary Jo both operate the five-unit milking system which connects to a pipeline transferring the milk to a 600-gallon cooling and storage tank. Arden grew up as part of the Floyd Lundeen dairy operation, then bought out his parents' farm after farming together with them for several years. Mary Jo, and the other hand, had no such exposure to dairy cattle and is getting acquainted with them out of family necessity. Is she now a converted herdswoman with an abiding love for the animals in her keeping? "I married a carpenter," she explains, leaving the question unanswered in a tactful sort of way.

Arden Lundeens Honored As County Dairy Family

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When one talks to Mary Jo Lundeen in the humid, aromatic warmth of the family's dairy barn, one might have the first impression that she would really rather be someplace else. She has been learning the business first hand for the past several years after she and her husband Arden purchased his parents' dairy operation.

"I married a carpenter," she explains tactfully in answer to the question of whether or not she has come to enjoy her familiarity with the dairy operation.

It is likely that there are a good many people associated with dairying who would really rather be doing something else. And if this seems like a negative introduction to an article about Pennington county's 1983-84 honor dairy farm family, it is not intended to be. Rather it is a tribute to the cooperative spirit and willingness to contribute that makes farm families tick.

Arden grew up with dairying on the Floyd Lundeen farm, graduated from Oklee high school and went on to complete the two-year auto mechanics program at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. He was engaged in carpentry in Thief River Falls from 1969 to 1976, and married Mary Jo Carriere of Brooks while in the carpentry business.

But the carpentry trade slowed down and Arden turned to farming with his parents, later purchasing the 300-acre farm and its dairy operation. Because dairying is a family affair, Mary Jo found her services needed in handling the herd. It takes courage for someone of her diminutive physical stature to squeeze between a pair of three-quarter ton Holsteins for the first time — or any time, for that matter — but she now does it on a regular basis. And Arden is proud of her involvement, especially since she had no exposure to large farm animals before.

Arden is also proud of the herd itself, consisting of 44 grade Holsteins, every one of which was produced on the farm and introduced into the milking string as a successor to another Lundeen animal. He handles the breeding program as an AI technician and continues to select heifers from within the herd as production replacements.

This fall the herd reached its production peak in its four years of testing with the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association by averaging 16,600 pounds of milk and 628 pounds of butterfat per cow. The top individual producer in the herd has a record of 23,500 pounds of milk and 723 pounds of butterfat.

A year ago the Lundeens added 60 feet to the north end of the barn, creating a 34x112 area for the milking herd. In addition there is a 24x42 calf barn and a 12x22 area housing the barn's manure pump equipment. The pump pushes the manure outside the barn where it is piled on a slab to

Photos of other local entries who also earned awards in the competition are published elsewhere in today's Times.

Loiland And Malzahn Vows Exchanged At Ely

JoAnn Elaine Loiland and Jeffery Malzahn marriage vows were exchanged recently at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses at Ely.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Loiland of Embarrass. Parents of the groom are Virginia Clark of Minneapolis, and Jerome Malzahn of Anoka.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kriel, Goodridge, grandparents of the bride.

Mark Kortkamp, a minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, officiated at the two o'clock ceremony.

For the ceremony, the bride was attired in the wedding gown worn previously by her aunt, Joyce Ruud of Thief River Falls. Fashioned of antique satin and lace, the gown was styled with a fitted bodice, sabrina neckline and long, lace sleeves with satin covered buttons securing the cuffs. Complimenting the gown was a cathedral-length veil, edged in lace and pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses, in ivory and dusty rose, backed with lace and accented with cascading ivory ribbon.

Rebecca Ruud, Thief River Falls, attended her cousin as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Susan Mogen, Embarrass, a friend. Their dusty rose floor-length gowns, made by Carol Mogen of Embarrass, were in southern belle style with fitted bodices, hoop skirts and bustles. They wore matching headpieces of bridal illusion accented with tea roses. Their bouquets, all made by the bride, consisted of roses in ivory and dusty rose, accented with violets, babies' breath and ivory ribbon. Their pearl earrings and necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Flower girl was Jessica Kortkamp of Embarrass. Her dress, identical to the bride's, was also complemented by an ivory veil edged in lace. She carried a basket filled with roses in ivory, dusty rose and silver. Escorting her down the aisle was Brett Rohloff. Like the groom, he wore a gray tuxedo with tails, a white shirt with wing collar, bow tie and a rose boutonniere in pink and silver.

The matching wedding bands were carried by the maid of honor and best man, Howard Leikas of Virginia, a friend of the groom. Craig Loiland, Newport, a brother of the bride, was groomsman. The ushers were Dan Loiland, Newport, a brother of the bride, and Mike Ruud, Thief River Falls, a cousin of the bride. Their attire was similar to the groom's.

The mother of the bride was attired in a silk dusty-rose, street-length dress with fitted bodice and elbow length sleeves. The groom's mother wore a pink street-length dress with three-quarter-length sleeves and a flared skirt. Their corsages, also made by the bride, were of Old English roses, accented with silver roses and ivory ribbon.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception and dance at the Embarrass Town hall. At the guest book was Arlene Coan, Embarrass, a friend of the bride. Ladling punch were Tammy Detzel, Isabella, and Christine Koski, Tower, also friends of the bride.

The three-tiered wedding cake, made by Carol Mogen of Embarrass, was iced in dusty rose and decorated with apple blossoms, white wedding bells and swans. Topping the cake were two silk-covered wedding bells. The cake was cut and served by the bride's aunts: Joyce Ruud, Thief River Falls, and Connie Kriel, Devils Lake, N.D. Lynne Thoreson, Embarrass, a friend of the bride, and Dianne Bennett, step-sister of the groom, arranged the gifts.

The couple honeymooned at Cascade lodge on the north shore of Lake Superior. They are now at home in Ely.

CPAs Advise Single Parents On Tax Breaks

Like so many of the 6.5 million single parents in America, Maria longs for those precious few moments at night when she can relax. At 7 a.m. Maria drops off her son at her mother's house and leaves for the hospital where she works as a nurse's aide. Then, at 5 p.m., three times a week, she drives 20 miles to a restaurant where she works as a waitress. Marie works two jobs because she needs the extra money to get by. After all, taxes take such a big slice from her income.

But single parents like Maria might be able to strike a better deal with the tax collector than they realize, says the Minnesota society of certified public accountants (CPAs). They should take advantage of the child care tax credit and some often overlooked deductions. In addition, they need to understand how alimony, child custody agreements and child support payments can bring the best possible tax advantage.

For instance, Maria is eligible for a tax credit because she pays her mother to watch her son. In addition, she can cut her tax bill by deducting the costs of traveling from her job at the hospital to her job at the restaurant. She can get another deduction for buying and cleaning her uniforms for both jobs.

Take a look at how the child care tax credit works. If you must pay someone to care for your child or any other dependents while you are at work, you can reduce your tax bill by at least $480 for one child and $960 for two or more children. Credit works on a sliding scale based on your adjusted gross income. Parents with incomes over $28,000 are entitled to the minimum $480 credit. For a parent with two children and an adjusted gross income of $10,000 or less, the credit could rise to $1,440.

Expenses that qualify for the credit include baby sitters, housekeepers or a nurse who cares for a dependent unable to care for himself or herself. Cost of a day care center qualifies and so might a summer camp. You can even include the costs of paying a relative to care for your child as long as that relative is not also your dependent.

Single parents with less than $10,000 may also benefit from the earned income tax credit. If your income is below $6,000, you can receive the maximum credit of $500. On incomes above $6,000, the credit is reduced by 12.5 per cent for the excess over $6,000.

Another tax saving idea for someone who works two jobs is to deduct the unreimbursed business costs. For instance, Maria can deduct $640, the cost of commuting 20 miles from her first job to her second job three times a week. This is based on a rate of 20.5 cents per mile. She can also deduct $200, the cost of buying and cleaning her uniforms for work. If Maria's taxable income before these adjustments was $11,500, the added deductions would reduce it to $10,660 and cut $153 from her final tax bill.

Most single parents are divorced or separated, and one of the trickiest questions from them frequently is which spouse claims the exemption on their children.

Generally, the exemption goes to the custodial parent, CPAs say. But there are exceptions. The noncustodial parent gets the $1,000 exemption if it's provided for in the divorce decree or separation agreement and if he or she provides at least $600 a year in support. The other instance in which the noncustodial parent claims the exemption is when he or she contributes at least $1,200 a year for support of the child and the custodial parent doesn't establish that he or she paid more.

Divorced people who pay or collect alimony or child support should be sure they are getting the best tax break they can. Alimony payments are taxable as income to the person receiving them and deductible by the person paying them. Child support is neither taxable nor deductible.

BIBLE REFERENCES ON DRINKING

Too long have we listened to the pious expression from many quarters, "Let the preacher stick to his Bible and leave the liquor question to laymen and politicians."

One has only to examine the bible to find abundant references condemning the use of alcoholic beverages. In fact, if the preacher is to "stick to his Bible," preach the whole truth and be fair to the Word of God, he MUST preach against alcohol.

1. Gen. 9:20-26. The first drunkenness and the attendant immoral behavior.
2. Gen. 19:30-38. Drinking results in Lot's debauchery of his own daughters.
3. Gen. 27:25. Isaac was drinking when he mistakenly blessed Jacob.
4. Lev. 10:9. An express command not to drink.
5. Num. 6:3. The vow of the Nazarite.
6. Deut. 21:20. Drinking leads to stubbornness, rebellion, and gluttony and brings dishonor to parents.
7. Deut. 29:2-6. Abstinence assures a closer walk with God.
8. Judg. 13:4, 7, 14. Samson's mother, an example of all womanhood, was commanded not to drink. Was alcohol recognized even then as a protoplasmic poison, injuring posterity?
9. I Sam. 1:14-15. Hannah, an example of honored motherhood, refrained from drinking wine.
10. I Sam. 25:32-38. Nabal, a rich but churlish man who opposed David, died after a drunken spree. He had already lost his wife's respect.
11. II Sam. 11-13. By having Uriah plied with strong drink, David attempted to cover his own sin.
12. II Sam. 13:28-29. Ammon, in a drunken brawl, was murdered by his brother, Absalom.
13. I Kings 16:8-10. While a king was "drinking himself drunk" in his own home, one of his captains conspired against him and slew him.
14. I Kings 20:12-21. Drink and war. While Ben Hadad and thirty-two other kings were drinking in their pavilions, a small band of Israel's men fell upon the Syrians and put them to flight.
15. Esther 1:5-12. Drink wrecks homes and separates man and wife. At a week's feast of food and wine, King Ahasuerus drunkenly tried to subject his queen to the beastly gaze of inebriated nobles, causing separation of the royal husband and wife.
16. Job 1:18-19. The children of Job were feasting and drinking when blown away in a cyclone.
17. Pr. 4:17. Violence results from drinking.
18. Pr. 20:1. No wise man will indulge.
19. Pr. 21:17. He that loveth wine is not rich.
20. Pr. 23:21. Drinking leads to poverty.
21. Pr. 23:29-30. Strong drink produces sorrow, contentions, wounds without cause, babblings, redness of eyes.
22. Pr. 23:31. Do not be tempted by intoxicants.
23. Pr. 23:32. God's Word warns that liquor eventually harms all who drink.
24. Pr. 23:33. It fills men's minds with adulterous and impure thoughts.

Sweepstakes Mail May Violate MN. Real Estate Law

"Sweepstakes" advertising is one of a number of increasingly popular direct mail programs used to induce a prospective purchaser to visit a time share unit, resortominium, condominium, or other type of subdivision, according to the Minnesota department of commerce.

The direct mail brochure sent to individuals typically offers a multiple gift incentive to entice persons to visit a specific subdivision. Gifts range from simulated pearl necklaces to silverware to expensive cars. It is not always clear from reading the brochure exactly what is being offered or the conditions of the offer.

This kind of advertising stirs the imagination of its recipients by the promise of a dream come true — free! It is often difficult to determine the obligations imposed by the offer and the exact chance of receiving one of the expensive, major gifts. In addition, the recipient is usually unaware of the fact that the give-away program is only part of a national program used by many developers of different projects in different states, which significantly reduces the odds of receiving the expensive gift.

The reality of the offer is that the odds, usually listed in small print on the back of the offer, can be as high as 150,000 to 1 with no assurance that the person receiving the gift will even be a person in the state in which the offer is made. Furthermore, it is sometimes difficult to determine what gift is being offered and what the true retail value may be. The fact that the offer is being made to sell a product, or even type and price of the product, often remains unmentioned.

If you receive sweepstakes advertising, ask yourself the following questions and evaluate the offer before dashing off to claim your gift:

(1) What are the conditions of the offer? What are my obligations, and will I be able to fulfill them? Am I eligible for a gift? The obligations usually include traveling to the project at your expense, bringing your spouse if married, taking a tour of the project and listening to a persuasive sales presentation.

(2) Look at the listed odds and the likelihood of which "prize" you will win. Is the value of the most likely "prize" worth your expenditure in time and mileage in driving to the project?

(3) Exactly what is the developer selling and where is it located? Sweepstakes advertising is used to offer a variety of subdivided land. Are you really interested in the purchase of a lake lot, a time share unit, a condominium, or whatever the developer is offering, or are you only interested in the prospect of receiving an expensive gift? Will you feel cheated if the gift does not meet your expectations?

(4) Who is the developer? Can you determine from the advertising who is making the offer? If a telephone number is listed, determine if it is the number of the developer or just a line in a direct mail phone room.

The department of commerce regulates the offer and sale of subdivided land. Subdivided land includes, among other things, the offer of time share units, resortominiums, land, condominiums and even condominiumized boat slips. Sweepstakes advertising may also be subject to review by the department of commerce. If the project is required to be registered under the subdivided land act, all advertising is reviewed to ensure that it is not fradulent, misleading nor deceptive. In addition, the person making the offer must be licensed as a real estate broker by the Minnesota commerce department.

For further information regarding sweepstakes advertising and subdivided land, contact Lorraine M. Rowe, Minnesota Department of Commerce, 500 Metro Square Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, (612) 296-2990.

Wheat Gains In Southeast Asia Popularity

"As standards of living improve in most Southeast Asian countries, so does the interest to provide a more nutritious, varied diet for their population," according to Darla Tufto, nutrition consultant to the Minnesota wheat research and promotion council.

Tufto, who is also the nutrition specialist for the North Dakota wheat commission, recently returned from South East Asia where she evaluated the potential for increased wheat food consumption.

"The Southeast Asian region is becoming aware of the value of nutrition as it relates to health," Tufto said. "Nutrition education materials and information are lacking in this region. As interest grows, these types of materials concerning wheat-based foods should also grow. The more the Southeast Asian consumers know about the nutritional value of wheat foods, the more likely they are to purchase the products."

The United States wheat market share of the Southeast Asian market ranges from 60 to 100 per cent, depending on the country. South East Asian wheat imports from all sources are growing at an annual rate of 10 to 12 per cent.

Tufto said continued support of school lunch pilot programs in this region by the regional, check-off funded, market development organization, U.S. Wheat Associates, is essential.

"This vehicle is a positive way to reach school children whose food habits are still being formed. Tying nutrition education in with school lunch programs is a double reinforcement in the need for a balanced diet and the contribution wheat foods can make to a balanced diet," Tufto said.

While in Southeast Asia, Tufto lectured at flour mill baking schools; conducted television shows concerning nutritive value of wet noodles and gave western-style noodle recipe demonstrations; and presented programs on wheat nutrition education to food technologists, food establishment managers and government personnel.

"Food editors in this region are a source that should be utilized to educate the public about the nutritional value of wheat foods," Tufto said. "Providing accurate nutrition information will enhance product consumption."

Tufto said the promotion of baked products and wet noodles as opposed to flour appears to be most likely accepted by consumers in Southeast Asia, because their kitchens are not generally equipped with ovens.

The Minnesota wheat research and promotion council and the North Dakota wheat commission sponsored this Southeast Asian wheat consumer evaluation trip as a special project with U.S. Wheat Associates, and are currently funding a Southeast Asian noodle project. The noodle product will define noodle quality of the Southeast Asia region; develop testing procedures for assessing quality; and evaluate the region's noodle formulations and try to improve their processing techniques.

Brunelle Gives Thanks To TRF For Support

Willard Brunelle of Red Lake Falls, chairman of the Northwest Minnesota Emergency Action committee, has expressed the committee's appreciation to Thief River Falls area people for cooperation and support in the recent protest action at the Farmers Home administration office and at subsequent meetings.

"This peaceful demonstration was held to show that we family farmers need financial help and need it now," Brunelle said, noting that the protest was held in conjunction with a meeting in Washington, DC. That meeting involved FmHA director Charles Shumann, Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, Congressman Arlan Stangeland and their aides, as well as several area farmers.

"That two and one-half hour meeting in Washington was held to reaffirm the findings of a special Washington task force which had found wrong within the FmHA in our area," Brunelle said. "The task force findings were basically the same as our action committee findings.

"We hope and pray that the politicians will keep their commitments to us and get the ball rolling so farmers have the money they need to continue operating their family farms," Brunelle added. "That will mean our communities will survive and grow. We all need each other to accomplish this and work for justice.

"The Thief River Falls area is to be commended for its hospitality, especially in a situation that was presented to you on Wednesday morning," the committee chairman added. He expressed appreciation to law enforcement, chamber of commerce and others providing refreshments, office space and news coverage.

Homeowners To Be Aware Of Fire Hazards

Frigid temperatures of another Minnesota winter will keep more residents inside. With that reality comes the need to be more aware of home fire hazards, warns the Minnesota department of public safety.

Eighty-two per cent of all Minnesota fire deaths occur in family dwellings, mobile homes or apartments, according to state fire marshal statistics. "Every family should be prepared for fire by installing smoke detectors and fire extinguishers, and by preparing and practicing home fire drills," said Wes Werner, state fire marshal. "Most home fires can be prevented by the following practical measures that nearly everyone can employ."

If you have or intend to buy a portable kerosene heater, make sure the unit has a U.L. or FM listing and follow the manufacturer's instructions exactly. Use only the best grade of kerosene, usually called K-1 or water clear. Never, under any circumstances, substitute any other type of fuel as this may result in a fire or incomplete combustion. Proper maintenance of kerosene heaters is also important for safe use. Remember, portable kerosene heaters are supplemental heaters only and should never be used as a substitute for your home's heating system. It is absolutely essential that sufficient ventilation be provided to avoid possible carbon monoxide poisoning.

Being inside more can result in the increased use of appliances, television, lights, power tools, hobby equipment, etc. Make certain your electrical system is up to handling the job. If you repeatedly blow fuses or trip circuit breakers, chances are your system is overloaded or the load is not properly distributed. Before using a high-wattage appliance such as an iron or a heater, be sure the circuit to be used is adequate.

Many people use portable electric heaters during cold weather which may overload wiring and present direct fire and shock hazards if they are not used and cared for properly. Always set portable electric heaters away from combustibles and in places where they will not be accidentally bumped over. Do not stand or walk near a heater because it might set fire to your clothing, especially loose, long nightgowns and robes. All heaters should have a safety switch that turns off the power to the element in case they are knocked over or picked up. Older heaters lacking this feature should be replaced with safer and probably more efficient newer units.

Keep appliances in good repair and refrain from using extension cords whenever possible. Check all power cords, especially the plug and the part that enters the body of the unit. Repair or replace all faulty cords and all defective wiring and equipment without delay. Avoid the use of extension cords, but if you feel you must temporarily use one, be especially careful where it is placed. Never run extension cords through doorways, windows or under carpet where they may be damaged.

Smoking is a leading cause of fatal home fires. In Minnesota smoking and smoking materials account for approximately 47 per cent of fire deaths each year. Have plenty of safe ashtrays available and never put a lighted cigarette down anywhere except in an ashtray. Never smoke when you are drowsy or in bed. Make sure that there are no butts smoldering in the ashtray when you empty it. A good idea is to dump ashtrays into a metal container, which would then be emptied into a trash can outside. Avoid smoking in areas that have a lot of combustible materials, such as the attic or when using flammable liquid products. Finally, keep matches and lighters out of reach of children.

Never store gasoline in the house for any reason. Keep gasoline in approved containers in the garage. Gasoline will ignite down to a temperature of -45 degrees Fahrenheit and so it is not necessary to keep it warm for your snowblower, snowmobile or even your car.

Family Farm Remains Cenex Co-op Focus

Family farmers remain the backbone of American agriculture and should be protected "through controlled agricultural production, reasonable finance and effective domestic and international marketing programs," Cenex board chairman Joe Larson told delegates at the cooperativie's annual meeting in Minneapolis recently.

"Your board of directors remains firm in its belief that family farms are in the best interest of our nation and are essential to the welfare of our cooperatives and rural communities," Larson told more than 2,000 delegates, representing 500,000 farmer owners from 14 states.

Larson, speaking at the Minnesota convention center, said the cooperative continues to support family farm-oriented legislation, as well as call for the development of an effective national food policy.

The board chairman said that food policy should:

— Be in the best interests of family farmers;

— Provide more predictability and stability in agriculture and the marketplace;

— Give the farmer a more equitable return on his investment of labor and capital;

— Be fair to all those involved in the production and distribution of food;

— Expand conservation programs; and — Include aggressive market development and world trade programs which would enhance our balance of trade.

Larson also commented on the board's stance on waste disposal issues.

"We continue to oppose landfill projects and other disposal plans that would cause the loss of productive farmland," he said. "We urge the government to develop programs for solid waste disposal through approved, safe incineration."

Other issues outlined in Larson's address included the board's opposition to natural gas deregulation, support for the setting of uniform weights and lengths for trucks, and support for U.S. energy self-sufficiency.

"The mission statement approved by the board last year has provided us with a sound blueprint for designing policies that will enable your regional cooperative to continue to set the pace in agriculture," Larson said, noting that the mission is:

— To anticipate and meet the needs of farmers, ranchers and rural communities;

— To enhance farmer and rancher profitability and the rural quality of life through cooperatives;

— To be the predominant supplier of products, services, and applied technology, while providing political, economic and educational leadership; and — To be a financially cooperative system.

Landscaping Work Provides Summer Jobs

Landscaping projects in public parks and recreational areas meant jobs for 307 unemployed Minnesotans this past summer, reports Barbara Beerhalter, commissioner of the Minnesota department of economic security, which administered the program.

The program, funded by a $791,800 grant from the U.S. small business administration, also acted as a stimulus to 168 small businesses which supplied landscape materials for the projects, Beerhalter said.

Between July 1 and September 30, thirty-two Minnesota communities completed projects such as planting trees and shrubs, controlling erosion, reforesting, brushing, seeding, improving trails and other park areas.

Among these communities was Plummer, which has work done on the downtown and East Parks.

Shirley Hokanson, director of the office of intergovernmental and community relations for economic security, said that the communities had high praise for the program. "For emergency jobs, this grant was an excellent example of a program that could provide immediate employment and accomplish work of lasting value," she said. Hokanson's office was responsible for selecting and monitoring projects.

Benefiting directly from the projects were 21 cities, two counties, one Indian reservation, two public schools, five nonprofit community groups and the state department of natural resources which had several projects in state parks in the northeastern area of the state.

Persons hired for the summer landscaping projects were recruited by the state job service offices, Hokanson said. Grant monies were used to pay wages of up to $4 an hour and to purchase trees, shrubs and other landscape materials required to complete the projects.

It was stipulated that materials must be purchased from small businesses and the program allowed that subcontracts for the actual work also could be done by such businesses, she said.

Heart Association Announces 1984 Prince, Princess

Both were born into families of brothers and both know the special joys and perils of being the youngest child in the family. But Amy Huffman and Aaron Bakkelund have more in common than their families.

Amy of Arden Hills and Aaron from Granite Falls have both had heart surgery at a very early age and they shared their experiences with the American Heart association, Minnesota affiliate's leadership conference. During the conference, Amy and Aaron were installed as the 1984 state heart fund princess and prince.

Looking at Aaron now, a lively five-year-old, it is hard to believe that he has already undergone two heart surgeries. Aaron was born with a congenital heart defect known as pulmonary stenosis, the narrowing of the pulmonary heart valve which obstructs the flow of blood. The narrowing causes the heart to pump harder to maintain near normal pressure beyond the obstruction point.

An additional problem for Aaron was that the valve flap was much thicker than normal and consequently did not have the necessary flexibility. Aaron was born to Mr. and Mrs. Dennuth Bakkelund at Chippewa county-Montevideo hospital but was transferred to the University of Minnesota hospitals two days later. On the following day, Aaron had heart surgery.

"He is a miracle baby," said his mother, Linda. "He was just the 16th newborn to have the surgery to correct his defect and he was only the second to survive the procedure. Now the survival rate is 80 per cent for newborns undergoing the same surgery."

Surgery enlarged the pulmonary heart valve and also removed some tissue from the valve flap making it much more flexible. "We knew the first operation was only temporary, and that Aaron would probably need surgery again when he was seven or eight," said his father, Dennuth. "But when Aaron was three, he returned to the University hospitals for the same surgery," he said.

Now a kindergarten student at Granite Falls elementary, Aaron is fully recovered. With his brother Craig, age eight, Aaron enjoys deer and pheasant hunting, camping, fishing, football and swimming lessons.

"It is hard for us to treat him as normal healthy boy now — but we are happy to remind ourselves that he is just that," said Linda.

The news to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Huffman was unbelieveable. Just three hours earlier, their daughter Amy had been born, and now the doctor was telling them that Amy was dying. Amy was born without a pulmonary stem, consequently her blood could not flow through her lungs and into her heart. (The pulmonary stem provides the entry into the heart.)

Within 24 hours of her birth, Amy was transferred from Eitel hospital to the University of Minnesota hospitals for heart surgery. Amy was given a Waterston shunt, which bypassed the defect and allowed her blood to flow through her lungs into her heart.

"The only thing Amy had going for her was the fact she was a big baby, 9.2 lbs., when she was born," said her mother, Joyce. "The doctors told us before her surgery that she had less than a one per cent chance of survival."

Amy beat the odds and survived her first surgery. At that time, her congenital heart defect was diagnosed as tetralogy of Fallot with pulmonary atresia. This defect is a combination of four abnormalities. A large hole exists between the two ventricles which allows unoxygenated blood to pass from the right ventricle to the left ventricle and out the aorta to the body without passing through the lungs.

There is also a narrowing in or just beneath the pulmonary valve. This blocks the flow of unoxygenated blood going from the right ventricle through the pulmonary artery to the lungs. Additionally, the right ventricle becomes more muscular and the aorta is directly over the ventricular septal defect.

"After Amy had her surgery and recovered we were finally able to bring her home," said her father, Bob. "We were thrilled that she was alive but we knew Amy would need additional surgery," he said.

Until the second surgery, when Amy was 5½, the Huffmans could only watch their fragile and sickly daughter watch other children run and play. "We tried not to pamper Amy but she seemed to restrict herself and because of that she was a quiet and shy little girl," said Joyce.

Amy's second heart surgery was done at the Minneapolis Children's medical center. "Even though Amy had less than a 25 per cent chance of surviving the surgery, we had to make the decision or we know Amy might not live through her teens," Bob said.

Heart surgery included a patch closure of the previously constructed shunt, a patch closure of a large ventricular septal defect and the placement of a conduit from the right ventricle to the pulmonary artery.

"It was very enjoyable to see Amy's development, both physical and psychological, after her second surgery," said Joyce. "It was like watching a flower open to the sun in the morning. Now at ten, Amy is in scouting, enjoys running, basketball, biking, roller and ice skating and sewing. She has many friends as a fourth-grader at Valentine Hills elementary school and is very outgoing."

"We were always very open with Amy about her condition and the corrective heart surgery she had," said Bob. "Therefore, Amy was always open with her friends and playmates. With three older brothers, Craig, Blake and Scott, Amy has always been just a kid sister to them."

Aaron and Amy, as the 1984 state heart fund prince and princess, will represent the American Heart association, Minnesota affiliate throughout the state during the 1984 state heart fund campaign.

Heart association seeks to reduce premature death and disability due to heart disease through efforts of heart research, community service programs and public and professional education.

Research by the Heart association helped provide solutions for the congenital heart defects experienced by Amy and Aaron. Advances are being made to improve procedures and techniques to give all children with heart defects "a fighting chance."

Last year, the Minnesota affiliate raised ovdr $2.6 million to combat America's number one killer, heart disease. And progress is being made. For the first time since 1948, the percentage of all deaths due to cardiovascular disease has fallen below 50 per cent on the national level. In Minnesota, deaths attributed to cardiovascular disease fell from 16,983 to 11,917 in 1981.

Despite this progress, heart disease remains America's number one health concern. Heart disease claimed 979,500 Americans in 1982. In Minnesota, heart disease is responsible for 36.3 per cent of the deaths, more than any other single cause.

RELAXATION TECHNIQUES and massage were taught to about 40 volunteers from the Northland Community Hospice program on Thursday night in the Northwestern Hospital chapel. Cris Scaglione, (left), a Ph.D. practicum psychology major from the University of North Dakota, currently spending a year practicing in the day-night unit at the local hospital, led the group through a series of exercises which they can utilize in providing assistance to home-bound or terminal patients. Assisting her in a demonstration were volunteer Eleanor Johnson of Karlstad, and Darla Twomey, director of the Northland Community Hospice program.

Dr. Nancy Rust Joins Staff At Day Night Unit

Impressed with the difference in people between her native California and North Dakota and Minnesota, Dr. Rust said she finds people in these states more open, friendly and willing to help others. Her hobbies include cross country skiing (her California hobby of body surfing is not applicable here!), fishing, gardening, knitting, baking and reading.

Expansion of the mental health unit staff is in part due to the service contracts with Pennington and Marshall counties, Dr. Levinson said, and in part the result of increasing involvement in health psychology. He noted that length of stay for inpatients at the day-night unit here averages eight or nine days, about half of the average length of stay in facilities of this type in Minnesota.

Others on the day-night professional staff in addition to Dr. Levinson and Dr. Rust include Dr. Scott Bentson and Dr. Scott Temple, staff clinical psychiatrists; Don Janes, community services coordinator; and Henry Holte, activities coordinator. Dr. Ronald Young, who was associated with the unit when it was first originated and later served for 10 years as medical director for the Minnesota department of public welfare, serves the unit on a consulting basis. Dr. Levinson has been with the unit here for 11 years and Dr. Bentson for 10 years.

"We feel that Nancy will be a valuable addition to our professional staff," Dr. Levinson said, "and will provide an added dimension to the consultative services that our unit is able to provide."

Farm Protest Gets Attention From Officials

answered, "That's why we want this office, to divide that effort between as many people as possible."

Following that meeting, members of the Northwest Action Committee met to discuss the progress as a result of the protest. Chairman Willard Brunelle, Red Lake Falls, noted that State FmHA director Russ Bjorhus had been called to Washington that very morning, "with barely time to pack a toothbrush," adding that he expected him to be called on the carpet for some of the statements which he had made to local staff people on Wednesday. Brunelle also said he understood that John Dornfeld and Paul Fredricks had been removed from the Crookston office of FmHA, and Charles Shuman was expected to be in Thief River Falls within two weeks, with additional staff to handle the backlog of loan applications.

Bob Miller of the St. Hilaire elevator noted that credit was all used up for most of the distressed farmers who have had up to five years of crop failures due to drought and flooding. "They need help now if they're going to be able to get a crop in this year," he said.

Jackie Dobmeier, a farmers advocate who has been helping farmers fill out loan applications, noted that FmHA offices were offering loans at 15 to 17 per cent interest, if farmers agreed to liquidate their assets if it was not paid back next year. Brunelle commented that local FmHA officials had been instructed from higher up not to offer lower interest, long-term loans adding that he knew they were available, "because I got one."

"The only way we're going to get the kind of help we need in this area is if we set up a squeal that can be heard all the way to Washington, and keep it up until we get action," he added.

Following a caucus, the TRFEA committee rejected the board offer and withdrew its one-time offer to split the difference, returning to its previous 19½ per cent request.

Supt. Robert Block said that the eight and one-half per cent increase offered for the two year contract would cost the district approximately $375,000, including about $290,000 for kindergarten through grade 12 instruction and $85,000 at the area vocational-technical institute.

Apart from the salary schedule, the board and faculty are near agreement on contract language items.

Better Effort Made To Deal With Asbestos

State officials responsible for Minnesota's occupational safety and health program will be participating in a stepped-up effort to deal with asbestos-related hazards in the workplace during the coming year.

U.S. occupational safety and health administration (OSHA) has called for increased inspections of work sites where employees may be exposed to asbestos, as part of a "national emphasis" program. The state department of labor and industry (DLI) administers the OSHA program here, and the Minnesota department of health (MDH) conducts inspections for asbestos exposure and other health-related problems in the workplace, under a formal agreement with DLI.

The two agencies are responsible for enforcing federal standards dealing with worker exposure to asbestos, which have also been made part of Minnesota state law. MDH has 13 OSHA inspectors who engage in enforcement activities, and three who act as consultants to employers. DLI has 30 inspectors, who deal primarily with safety problems and also inspect for asbestos, especially at construction sites.

Under the national emphasis program, Minnesota OSHA will de expected to intiate at least 10 inspections during 1984 at work sites where asbestos may be a problem, selected at random from a list supplied by federal OSHA. List will include area firms which fall into one of 10 basic categories of industrial or construction activity. These categories will represent the types of industries most frequently cited for asbestos violations in the past.

Minnesota OSHA officials anticipate that the local effort will exceed the requirements of the federal program, both in terms of the number of inspections conducted and the types of firms inspected. Additional industries to be inspected here may include power companies, paper mills and refineries.

In addition to initiating investigations under the national emphasis program, Minnesota OSHA will continue to conduct investigations in response to complaints and other reports of asbestos-related problems. By law, the agency must respond to "catastrophic" situations involving human deaths or hospitalizations, employee complaints, and "referrals" from DLI, other government agencies, physicians, and other interested parties. MDH conducted 45 investigations involving asbestos during the first 11 months of 1983, and 19 of them resulted in the issuing of citations for violations of the asbestos standard. DLI conducted roughly the same number of asbestos-related investigations, and issued a comparable number of citations during that period.

In addition to the emphasis program, the U.S. environmental protection agency (EPA) and the Minnesota pollution control agency are participating in an expanded effort to inform Minnesota OSHA about situations where building demolition or repair projects could be exposing workers to asbestos. Use of building materials containing powdered asbestos has been banned by law in Minnesota since 1973, but asbestos exposure remains a potential problem in maintenance, repair or demolition projects involving older structures. All such projects must by law be reported to EPA, if there will be a potential release of asbestos into the air.

Exposure to asbestos is associated with a number of serious health problems, including a characteristic deterioration of the lungs called asbestosis, lung cancer, and a special form of cancer known as mesothelioma. Federal OSHA recently published a new emergency standard for asbestos, which would reduce the permissible level of exposure to asbestos in the air by 75 per cent.

ARCTIC CAT'S newest sled finally proved that it was a competitor on Sunday, as Joel Hallstrom of St. Hilaire rode the 1985 El Tigre to a first place finish in the Sport 7 class, giving the Thief River Falls crowd something to really cheer about. Although the sled had been plagued with handling problems on Saturday, Hallstrom still managed to qualify for Sunday's race, and after a long night of brainstorming on chassis set up, the sled pulled out in front early in the race and never relinquished its lead. Presenting Hallstrom with his trophy was Miss Thief River Falls Beverly Rustad.

Ontario Delays Land Use Fees

(Editor's Note: The following article regarding proposed restrictions in use of Ontario lands and waters by non-residents was written by Jim Blubaugh in the Internationl Falls Daily Journal.)

Ontario has delayed its plan to implement day-use fees on border waters, bringing sighs of relief from Minnesota officials.

The Ontario cabinet Wednesday decided to delay the program until Minnesota has a chance to implement proposals discussed at a meeting last week in Toronto, Don Simkin, a recreation planner with the province reported.

The program not only will be delayed on Rainy Lake and Lake of the Woods but on the inner lakes in the Northwest District, Simkin reported. He said a program to charge a $3 (overnight) camping fee on Crown lands for persons 17 and over will be put into effect this season, however, and already implemented 'base-of-operations' hunting rules will remain in effect.

Ontario has set no timetable for reconsidering day-use fees, Simkin said, indicating that the situation will be assessed by fall. It probably will be at least midsummer before Minnesota's proposals can be put into effect and evaluated, he added.

The three major proposals submitted by a delegation headed by Lt. Gov. Marlene Johnson were:

— Minnesota will pass legislation to immediately buy out commercial walleye fishing operations on Rainy Lake and Lake of the Woods.

— Minnesota will do away with double limits.

— Minnesota and Ontario will set up discussions leading to cooperative resource efforts, including enforcement.

Several Minnesota officials, including Johnson and DNR Commissioner Joe Alexander, predicted that the measures will be passed with little problem. They pledged that Minnesota will aggressively pursue its end of the bargain.

Legislation to buy out commercial fishermen over the next five years already is in place. Legislation to allow money derived from a $2.50 tacked onto sport fishing licenses to go for the buyouts immediately is needed, however. The double limits can be taken care of with a commissioner's order, according to Alexander.

Specifics on how joint discussions would work were not revealed. Instead, Ontario Natural Resources Minister Alan Pope said he would outline some of the province's hopes for a joint research program in a letter to Johnson.

"I feel surely it will be led by Pope and Alexander," Johnson said about the joint committee, "because they're in charge of (natural resources) management on either side. We'll have more to say on that after we receive their letter."

Johnson called the decision "good news" for Minnesota. She said it shows the Ontario leadership is flexible and willing to share a dialogue with the state over a long period of time.

Johnson said the negotiations and subsequent decision reflects a "commitment on both sides." She said the situation is such that the state and province can't afford not to be together.

Alexander predicted the legislation would be no problem. "I'm sure that it will be a popular measure."

There is no question that Minnesota and Ontario have some "vast differences" in their view of resource management, Alexander said, "but not enough that we couldn't get together." He said the first thing that must be done is to come up with an agreement on what is wise resource management and then work out joint programs.

"We bought a little bit of time," Alexander said. "I don't think Ontario's all wrong in their view of these resource problems. There have been some potential problems for a long time. Since we've agreed to get together and mutually solve these problems we've come a long way."

Borderland legislators Bob Neuenschwander and Bob Lessard, who were both part of the delegation, expressed pleasure at the decision.

"I believe that Minnesota is now responsible to meet all our obligations in good faith as we negotiated them in Toronto," Neuenschwander said. "Ontario has met us halfway with no border water restrictions. It's up to us as a state to work with them as an alliance to get to a point of assessing the true condition of the fisheries on these border waters. . ."

The goal now is to try and eliminate future problems, Neuenschwander said. "I hope I'm involved on the commissions and various groups that will work on this."

Lessard said he was surprised that the province eliminated the fees on the inland waters of the district. "We felt that was obviously their prerogative and made no effort to change that. We just felt the border waters were unique and that's where we made our efforts to come up with a solution."

Lessard said the goal must be to look at the situation on a long-term cooperative basis. He said the committee should include federal and state officials and representatives from the local area.

Mike Trueman, newly elected president of the Border Lakes Coalition, said "what they've come up with so far sounds good." He said the coalition, which consists of businesses and individuals from Lake Superior to Lake of the Woods will continue to meet on Ontario-Minnesota border problems, however. He noted that some customs and immigration problems also remain to be solved. "Who's to say what problems will pop up in a year or two?"

The best thing about the delay is that a dialogue has been opened between the state and province, Trueman said. "The animosity going back and forth wouldn't be good for tourism for either country — and nobody can dispute that. The part I like is that Ontario has said 'let's work it out together'."

Simkin said he doesn't attend cabinet meetings and couldn't report on why the inland portion of the program was dropped. "The cabinet will continue to pursue solutions to border waters fishing problems," Simkin said, "as a result of a meeting between the lieutenant governor and the minister. Ontario will pursue ways and means to limit the harvest of fish by U.S.-based Americans in Ontario waters by working in consultation with Minnesota."

Except for the $3 Crown land camping fee and the hunting program, the decision means fishing life should return pretty much to normal in the border area, Simkin said. "At least I hope so."

Simkin said the $3 fee will be assessed to someone (17 or over) obviously staying overnight on Crown lands. The per-person fee includes houseboats.

A little bit of the sting will be taken out with a $5 per-night family plan, he said. He defined a family as being a husband and wife and children under 17.

There will be no fee for day use on Crown lands, one of the primary uses being for shore lunches, he emphasized.

Correction

Court cases from February 15, which were published on page nine of the February 22 edition of the Times, listed Arthur Stanley Olson of Thief River Falls as having been convicted of theft under $300. There is apparently more than one person by that name residing in the city. Address of the one convicted of theft has been further identified as 424 North LaBree Avenue. The clerk of court's office and the Times regret any inconvenience which the omission may have caused to any other Arthur Stanley Olson.

Coal Is Major Fuel Used For Electricity

The general public strongly recognizes the importance of an adequate supply of electricity to power our economic growth in the United States. "But a growing view is that if additional capacity will be needed, it will be easy to provide. That's just not the case," says Harold B. Finger of the U.S. committee for energy awareness based in Washington, DC.

"Because of the current 8-to-14 year lead time needed to plan and construct generating plants, decisions on what plants to build for 1995 and beyond need to be made very soon," states Finger. "Americans are accustomed to always getting the electricity they need, but they also have little knowledge of the sources of their electricity."

His organization conducted a survey which found:

Three-quarters of those surveyed didn't know that coal is the major source of electricity, yet, currently it supplies more than 55 per cent of all electricity.

—Almost half guessed we have 20 nuclear generating plants. The real number is 84, supplying 13 per cent of all electricity.

—Two-thirds believed solar energy could be supplying a significant part of U.S. electricity within 10 years. Even the U.S. department of energy estimates that by the year 2010, solar — along with other renewables such as biomass and geothermal — may supply only seven per cent of all electricity.

—In a July poll 39 per cent picked nuclear energy as the primary source of electricity in 10 years and 24 per cent picked solar. Only 14 per cent thought the number one source will be coal, although coal probably still will be.

VIKING . . .

Adolph Peterson of River Valley celebrated his birthday Sunday at his home. His guests were Ben and Milan Olson, Herbert Lundeen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mabel Hofstad, Ida Manderud and Joe Peterson. The day was spent playing games. # Warning Given By BBB About Free 'Gifts'

Better business bureau (BBB) of Minnesota is warning local business owners and employees to be on their guard for phone calls from California companies offering "gifts" with the purchase of office supplies.

Ron Graham, BBB president, said "one promoter begins the phone pitch with a gift offer of a television set or a personal computer or video tape player. You will receive one of these valuable gifts the promoter promises, just for letting us introduce our ball-point pens imprinted with your company name."

"It all may sound terrific, but the promoter has two gimmicks in the deal," Graham said. "First, the ball-point pens are usually of low quality and priced at seven to 10 times their actual value. And second, the value of the so-called gift may be grossly exaggerated. When the promoter says you will receive either a television, or a personal computer, or a video tape player. . . chances are that you will receive the personal computer. The gimmick is that your personal computer is a small hand-held calculator."

Another deal features a "motor boat, complete with motor," with an order of 75 imprinted pens. The BBB investigation of the offer revealed that while the pens cost $190, they are worth less than $40. And the motor boat turned out to be a small inflatable raft with a tiny electric motor, no battery. . . and no paddles.

The BBB reports the promoters usually send the items C.O.D., so when a company opens the package, it's too late to reconsider. Graham said the number of California companies engaging in the promotions has reached such a magnitude that the U.S. postal service has established a special task force to investigate the offers.

"Calls to the BBB reporting the promotional gift offers have increased during the holiday season," Graham said. "And some who went for these deals have already discovered there is no Santa Claus in southern California!"

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District 1

This past week at the State Capitol in St. Paul, we increased our discussion of some of the legislative issues we are likely to consider as the 1984 session opens on March 6, including a wide variety of bills being heard in a number of Senate committees.

Included among the bill discussions in the Senate's Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee is a measure that would give the Commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) the legal authority to approve a one-year, timber-cutting permit extension under certain extraordinary circumstances.

This bill would essentially give the DNR commissioner the power to grant an additional extension to present timber-cutting permits beyond the current statutory Dec. 31, 1983 deadline previously approved by the Legislature. However, an additional extension is needed in this deadline since a number of unique circumstances have occurred for some loggers.

For example, there is the case of a logger from International Falls whose permit was extended until Jan. 4, 1984. He had 106 cords of wood left to cut on a permit valued at $1,855, which had already been paid to the DNR.

In view of the economic hardship and the decline in the demand for lumber at certain periods of time, we believe this bill is necessary to help loggers absorb this shock.

In an unrelated Capitol matter, the Governor and his Administration Commissioner, Sandra Hale, are trying to develop a plan that would help in the long run to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of state government and also help clarify the relationship of the executive branch to the rest of the state.

Hale has indicated that this program would be applied to statewide planning, the development and approval of agency budgets and the reporting of these results to the Governor. It would follow some three-year plans developed by each agency this spring, would emphasize a revised budget format and objectives, and generally would improve the statewide management of state government services by the governor and the department of administration.

The state already makes special efforts to increase its costs efficiency in purchasing, such as buying at the lowest cost available, and buying only Minnesota and American products whenever and wherever possible.

If you have any questions regarding these or any other issues, please feel free to contact my office at: 306 Capitol Building, St. Paul, MN 55155, (612) 296-8660.

Elevators On Mississippi Break Records

Minnesota terminal grain elevators on the Mississippi River have broken all prior season records for both receipts and shipments of crops, based on volume estimates through November, according to Deputy Agriculture Commissioner Rollin Dennistoun.

But statewide, Minnesota's 1983 terminal crops marketings are likely to be second high to the prior record year of 1980 when almost 927 million bushels of grains and oilseeds were received and more than 827 million bushels were exported.

The 11 month total for Minnesota terminals this year was estimated at nearly 858 million bushels received and 799 million bushels exported. Compared to a year ago, receipts of crops this year were higher by almost 160 million bushels or 27 per cent.

River terminal elevators accounted for 588.8 million bushels received and 533.3 million bushels of the total exports. Respectively, these topped last year by 34 per cent and 42 per cent and bested 1980 by 11 per cent and 22 per cent.

Terminals at Minnesota's world seaport at Duluth through November had received 269 million bushels and shipped 265.5 million bushels, both figures about 12 million bushels higher than in 1982.

Water transportation accounted for almost 83 per cent of the total crop exports by the Minnesota terminal elevators, more than 661 million bushels. Fifty five per cent of the exports were shipped via barge on the Mississippi River, and 28 per cent of the export left Duluth port on deep water ships.

Dennistoun noted the importance of Minnesota's integrated land and water transportation systems, with the 11 month volume received and shipped utilizing more than 526,144 truck movements and 175,396 railroad hopper cars, as well as more than 8,500 barges.

Those logistics represent daily averages of 1,880 semi-trailer trucks and 626 rail hopper cars unloading and loading grain at the terminal elevators in Minnesota. During the peak of the barge season that opened March 6 and ended December 9, river terminals loaded a record 371 barges of 1,500 ton or 50,000 bushel capacity in a single October week.

Where's Jane Fonda Now?

Following editorial was written by Ralph Mason in his "High Finance" column appearing regularly in the metro area's "Skyway News":

Jane Fonda and others of her ilk, whose hearts bled over U.S. "crimes" in Vietnam, have been mysteriously silent while the North Vietnamese communists executed thousands of South Vietnamese and pushed thousands of others out to sea in leaky boats. They also have been blind and deaf to the Soviet "peace" offensive in Afghanistan. The media even refers to the Afghanistan natives as "rebels," while most people might consider them as "patriots."

The latest Soviet outrage was revealed by George F. Will of the Washington Post, who reports that the USSR is spreading plastic mines throughout Afghanistan — green where there is vegetation, brown in arid areas, and white where there is snow. The ghastly part is that the mines are intended to maim rather than kill, because the victims become a drain on the community due to the constant care they require. Those who lose a foot, a leg or a hand usually die a lingering death from gangrene, septicemia or staphylococcus infection.

Another Russian refinement is the scattering of boobytrapped pens or red toy trucks — targeted for children whose hands or arms are blown off. This amounts to genocide, similar to the Soviet genocide of 1933 when millions of Ukranians were starved to death. The United Nations convenant forbids genocide, but no U.N. agency seems perturbed about what is going on — anymore than does Ms. Fonda and her friends.

The American press has given considerable attention to Communist trampling of workers' rights in Poland, but little has been written about the fate of Czechoslovakia. A Czech family in the Twin Cities has explained that a similar genocide is going on in their homeland. Every phase of Czech culture — history, art, customs, literature — is being destroyed, along with any citizen who is loyal to tradition.

"I never thought it could happen," a former Czech leader said, "but I can see the day coming when my homeland will cease to exist."

Young Victims

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

An interesting question is raised by a legislative proposal to allow juvenile sexual abuse victims to testify outside the courtroom. The bill will come before the legislative session that convenes in St. Paul next month.

There will undoubtedly be some tough civil liberty issues to weigh in HF 1279, which was approved in a preliminary session review by the House Judiciary Committee Monday.

The law covers a number of issues in sexual abuse cases involving minors and intrafamilial victims, but it is that section of the law dealing with admissibility of out-of-court statements that will draw the most attention. The question is this: should we make exceptions for children to testify as to alleged sexual offenses without having to appear in an intimidating courtroom situation, as is required in all other judicial proceedings where the accused has the right to face an accusor?

First, we have to look at the finer points.

As sponsored by IR Representative Connie Levi of Minneapolis, HF 1279 would establish video-taped out-of-courtroom statements as admissible testimony in sexual abuse cases. The option would be applied where the victim is 10 years of age or younger.

We believe there is a need for such out-of-court testimony, if it can be assured that the defendant's right to due process is not endangered. To guarantee that a fair trial is not jeopardized, all such testimony should be video-taped before prosecutors and officers of the court and the entire statement-questioning procedure should be presented (in video replay) in court. The due process of admitting evidence through the bench and assuring opportunity for defense questioning must be maintained as in any trial.

A courtroom appearance to make statements accusing another person of a serious crime can be very difficult even for adult victims, and obviously can be terrifying for younger children. The problem of a family member being the accused party compounds that fear. The young witness-victims often freeze up unable to utter a word.

The sponsors properly suggest an age limit for such removed testimony. Older juveniles and adult victims must still appear in the courtrooms to ensure due process rights of the accused. While there might be some concern among lawmakers as to where to draw that line and how to set the guidelines for obtaining statements outside the courtroom, we are confident they will see the need for this special exception.

Young victims bear an incredible weight in such cases before they ever get to the trauma of the courtroom; this law would help to guarantee justice with no loss of due process.

Ready For Rhetoric

Following editorial is by Tim Berg of the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock:

The Iowa caucuses, the first test of strength for Democratic candidates prior to the nominating convention, took place yesterday amid a barrage of press hype and a rather bizarre visit to the state by the Republican president.

Now that the starting gun has sounded, we're off and running to a summer of endless campaign rhetoric and fund raising events. Ready or not, here we go. This is the stuff that politics are made of.

The prospect of nine months of hyper-political activity may not get everyone's adrenalin going, but at this stage of the game there is a certain sense of energy prevailing that's hard to resist.

Fill it to the rim with vim.

Closer to home, the campaigns are considerably more subdued but equally fascinating. Candidates on the state and local level may divorce themselves from the national platforms to varying extents, even though running under the same party banner. The incumbent's records speak for themselves and the challengers generally confine their attacks to the issues at hand, rather than the person or the party.

It would be a mistake to lump all Republicans under Reagan's brand of politics or link all Democrats to the announced policies of Mondale, Glenn or Jackson.

The despicable tactics of the National Conservative Political Action Committee (NicPac) have nothing to do with Minnesota Congressman Arlan Stangeland nor do Mondale's apparent ties with organized labor have anything to do with D.F.L. Representative Jim Tunheim.

At any rate, the campaigns are under way and the American political system is functioning more or less as intended. The more one gets involved with the game, the easier it is to put up with the sound and the fury that, like it or not, will be with us for some time to come.

Morals Of Miracles

Following editorial is from the Red Wing Republican Eagle:

These years of medical miracles tend to harden the soul against the imaginable. Still, the birth of a baby who is the product of an embryo being taken from one woman and transplanted in another shocks the conscience a bit. But maybe that's only because the novelty hasn't worn off yet, or because the parenting benefits aren't fully appreciated.

Clinics enaged in test-tube babymaking are pushing right alone, with about 250 test-tube babies already born around the world.

All this fiddling around with the creation of human lives ought to make people uneasy. Manipulation implies a potential for abuse and harm to fundamental human values. At the same time, it is easy, in our uneasiness, to lose sight of the benefits.

Undoubtedly, the question of quality control, ala the cow connection, will be the first major moral conundrum for embryo transferring.

Other questions arise.

Should the procedure, which ranges from $4,000 to $7,000, be made universally available through public financing?

Is morality trampled on by making a business of embryo transfer?

Does embryo transfer cheapen these human lives by turning them into commodities to be bought and sold, or does it enhance their lives by overcoming defects in parents and expanding the human potential?

Borrowed Nonsense:

The first gray hair you barely see,
The second one you hide;
The third is still a novelty,
A cinch to brush aside.

But when the snow starts making tracks
With new streaks every day,
You're finally forced to face the facts:
You're prematurely gray!

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Last Tuesday night I had the pleasure of attending Band Night. At this time the Lincoln high school band performed at halftime of the girls basketball game. They were terrific! It was easy to see Mr. Engstrom has excellent rapport with the students.

In the next two issues of the Times it was interesting to note not a mention was made of the band's performance. There was, however, two-and-one-half pages of sports, complete with pictures. I was not surprised. In the 15 consecutive years we have had children at Lincoln, sports have always been first, music a poor second.

The hockey team goes to state, it's a big deal. The band is chosen to represent our entire state in Norway, it becomes a "hot issue" to Mayor Bob; an issue causing much concern as to "who pays?"

When our family was discussing the trip, at no time did we consider asking the taxpayers of Thief River Falls to pay for our son's trip to Norway. For the record, he is paying for much of the trip himself, with money he earns working after school, on weekends and summers. I am sure there are other band members who are doing this also.

Come on Thief River Falls, let's show these kids we are proud of them, and give Mr. Engstrom and the band the credit they deserve. After all, when you are top in the state, you're good. Even if you play an instrument instead of dribble a basketball, or shoot a hockey puck across the ice.

Board Quits Studies Of Bedrock Waste Disposal

Minnesota waste management board has discontinued its study of the feasibility of "crystalline bedrock disposal" of hazardous wastes — citing "technical, institutional and economic barriers" to such a facility in Minnesota — and, as a result, has eliminated from further consideration crystalline bedrock "study areas" in Stearns, St. Louis, Redwood and Yellow Medicine counties.

At the same time, however, the board approved a resolution urging further study of the potential of long-term underground storage of hazardous wastes in rock or bedrock, but concluded that the time and resources required for such a study are beyond the board's capabilities and may require the attention and effort of more than one state.

The board took its action in a meeting Thursday at the Holiday Inn in St. Paul, following one of several recent board discussions on the feasibility of disposal or storage of hazardous wastes in a "crystalline bedrock repository" for hazardous wastes. Such a facility would resemble a mine excavated deep into granite or similar "crystalline" rock, where waste shipments would be stored in isolated chambers.

Board chairman Robert Dunn explained that, at recent board meetings, the feasibility and requirements of a crystalline bedrock disposal facility have been discussed and seriously questioned.

"In 1983 the Minnesota legislature authorized the board to examine the feasibility of crystalline bedrock disposal or storage for hazardous wastes, as well as to identify potential crystalline bedrock facility 'study areas' in Minnesota," Dunn said. "The board's study of that disposal facility technology is significantly different from its consideration of other potential disposal facilities — including a secure landfill or an above-ground storage facility — in that the legislature required the specific study of the feasibility of crystalline bedrock disposal.

"In recent board meetings several technical experts and consultants have testified on the feasibility of such a facility," Dunn added. "It has become clear that the use of the crystalline bedrock technology for hazardous waste storage or disposal is too experimental, with many unknown factors.

"In addition, a full and adequate evaluation of potential sites would require costly tests and investigations over a long period of time," Dunn added. "The effort needed to evaluate both the technology and potential sites is beyond the board's capabilities, and cannot be justified within the board's overall process for planning for hazardous waste management in Minnesota and siting new hazardous waste facilities."

Dunn said the board would continue to evaluate four candidate hazardous waste disposal or storage sites. Two, in Carver and Scott counties, have met minimum "intrinsic suitability" standards for either a secure landfill or for an above-ground storage facility, while sites in Aitkin and Marshall counties have been certified as suitable for above-ground storage only.

"More importantly, however, we will continue to pursue a program that approaches hazardous waste disposal as a last resort, and which emphasizes alternatives to disposal," Dunn said. "Our major effort will be in programs to achieve waste reduction by industry, and in establishing incinerators, treatment plants and other processing facilities to reduce the amount of hazardous wastes requiring disposal or long-term storage."

The board, in its resolution, noted that the long-term feasibility of the use of crystalline bedrock for the storage of hazardous wastes does warrant further evaluation, but that such an evaluation would require a large amount of effort and money over a long period of time.

The board is recommending that the U.S. Environmental Protection agency undertake a study to evaluate the feasibility of using bedrock for the storage or disposal of hazardous wastes, including an analysis of the technical, institutional and economic barriers to developing and operating such a facility.

"The board has concluded that there are too many barriers to establishing a bedrock facility at this time in Minnesota," Dunn said.

Arden Lundeen Honored As Dairy Family

await spreading on the farm's fields.

Feeding a large dairy herd and the youngstock accompanying it requires a large amount of hay and grain. The expanded barn has a subtantial loft which will hold 8,500 bales of hay. A nearby pole shed 40x70 feet in size and 14 feet high will keep another 6,000 bales under cover. About 2,300 bales of straw are required for bedding each year.

Grain ration includes an even mixture of oats, barley and corn with 20 gallons of molasses added to each 100 bushels of grain. The molasses is added through a spray unit attached to the roller mill which Arden purchased two years ago. The grain mixture is stored in an eight-ton feed tank and augered into the barn from that outside tank. The roller mill greatly reduces the dust which is normally associated with ground feed.

Arden and Mary Jo farm 300 acres and rent an additional 35 to 40 acres of hay stumpage. The cattle are kept in the barn year around to eliminate the need for pasture and to control the animals' environment. Ability to control flies and mosquitoes through the indoor housing can mean double the milk production in the summer Arden said.

A five-unit milker is used, along with a stainless steel pipeline transfer system which carries milk directly from the cows to a 600-gallon cooling and storage tank in the attached milkhouse. Milk is sold through the National Farmers Organization marketing system at Lakota, ND, which supplies a private plant.

The Lundeen farm has traditionally sold some of its surplus heifers, but Arden expects that the dairy program recently enacted may reduce the demand for heifers. Anticipation of the program had already cut heifer prices in half to about $600 each before January 1. Dairy steers are raised until fall when they are sold as feeders. Arden targets the herd for freshening in the fall since that system fits in best with his grain and dairy operation.

In addition to helping with the milking, Arden's wife also is a truck and tractor driver and drives the tractor pulling the bale wagon during haying time. The Lundeens use a mower-conditioner which shortens drying time and improves hay quality. And when Arden severely injured his arm when it was caught in the power take-off of a manure spreader, Mary Jo's ability to do chores and handle equipment helped keep the farm operating.

Arden and Mary Jo haven't had time to become involved in many things outside their farm operation. They are members of the Bethel Assembly in Fosston and the Pennington DHIA, and Arden is chairman of the NFO dairy board for Pennington county. Mary Jo enjoys macrame but is kept busy with the couple's four children, Michelle 10; Andrea 7; Vanessa, 5; and Chad, 4.

A trophy recognizing their selection as honor dairymen for Pennington county was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Lundeen last week at the Red River Valley Dairymen's association awards dinner in Crookston. The trophy was presented by Lori Ann Olson of Fertile, Northwest Dairy Princess.

ARDEN LUNDEEN FAMILY of rural Oklee, Pennington county's honor dairy farm family for 1983-84, includes Arden, his wife Mary Jo, and their children Michelle, 10; Andrea, 7; Vanessa, 5; and Chad, 4. The Lundeens farm about five miles southeast of the River Valley bridge in Deer Park township, milking 44 grade Holsteins in a continuation of the dairy operation which Arden's father Floyd started in 1941.

VERY LITTLE DUST is involved when Arden Lundeen feeds a grain mixture to his Holstein herd. He purchased a feed mill two years ago to prepare his own rolled grain feed ration. He has since added a unit to spray liquid molasses into the feed on a ratio of 20 gallons to 100 bushels of grain. The grain ration is about an equal mixture of oats, barley and corn. The feed is brought into the barn on a conveyor system from an outside storage bin.

Management Of Solid Waste Is Problem In MN

by Robert G. Dunn, Chairman
Minnesota Waste management board

Although Minnesota's hazardous waste problem is indeed serious, the state is also confronted with another waste management problem that is much more pervasive — the need to properly manage solid waste.

Unlike hazardous wastes, which consist primarily of chemical waste by-products generated by industries, solid waste consists of non-hazardous industrial wastes and the paper refuse, yard and food waste, glass, metals, and other materials discarded everyday by households, schools, and businesses.

Amount of solid waste generated in the state far exceeds Minnesota's hazardous waste generation. In fact, hazardous wastes comprise only a small portion of our total waste volume. Waste management board estimates Minnesota annually generates approximately 174,000 tons of hazardous wastes. However the state pollution control agency estimates that well over three million tons of solid waste were generated in Minnesota during 1982 alone.

While the responsibility for proper management of solid waste rests primarily with Minnesota's many county and municipal governments with technical information or financial assistance to help them solve their solid waste problems and utilize new solid waste management technologies.

In keeping with this role, three state agencies — the waste management board, the pollution control agency, and the legislative commission on waste management — are among the sponsors of a two-day informational conference on solid waste management entitled "Evaluating Waste Management Options," February 23 and 24 at Brooklyn Center.

Currently, most of Minnesota's solid waste is deposited in sanitary landfills, many of which are nearing capacity. Siting and establishment of new landfills has become more difficult in recent years because of dwindling available landfill space and stricter siting standards.

Waste management act, a comprehensive law passed by the 1980 legislature to improve the management of solid and hazardous waste, places top priority on waste reduction and alternatives to land disposal facilities. To promote the establishment of new solid waste management facilities serving as alternatives to sanitary landfills, the waste management act authorized the board to distribute 8.8 million in grants and loans to local governments and special solid waste management districts to help finance such facilities.

Upcoming conference will help local government officials and their technical staff to deal with their solid waste problems by outlining and discussing the many options available to counties and municipal governments that could help them maximize resource conservation and minimize land disposal.

While the conference is designed primarily to assist local government officials, other interested citizens are welcome and encouraged to attend. Registration fee is $35 for governmental, engineering, and business personnel. Other citizens and students may attend for $25. Those unable to pay the registration fee may apply to the waste management board for a fee waiver.

Conference will provide information on the suitability and comparative advantages of four major solid waste management methods, each an important alternative to sanitary landfills: source separation and recyling, yard waste composting, co-composting, and incineration.

In addition, the conference will assist local government officials in developing and implementing local solid waste management plans based on sound economic and environmental considerations. Local officials need to learn about how new projects can be financed, how they can find markets for recovered resources, and how individual citizens can get involved in properly managing solid waste.

A variety of waste haulers, waste management consultants, government officials, and citizen leaders will make presentations at the conference. In addition, vendors of various solid waste management technologies will make presentations and be available to discuss their products.

To obtain further information about the conference and a registration form, please contact: Leslie A. Denny, program coordinator, Department of Conferences, 220 Nolte Center, 315 Pillsbury Drive, S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455; (612) 373-5325.

Results met expectations in the opening round quarterfinals of the 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament played over the weekend in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

It was figured that Roseau would handle Moorhead; Thief River Falls and Crookston would be an extremely close match; Bemidji might have its hands full, but should beat Warroad; and Fergus Falls was an overwhelming favorite against Alexandria.

Well, the Rams skated by the Spuds 8-3; the Pirates edged the Prowlers 3-0 in a game that was a one-goal affair until the final minute; the Lumberjacks did beat the Warriors 4-1, but with an open net goal at the end and with some difficulty; and the Otters crushed the Cardinals 9-2.

That sets the stage for the semifinals. Tonight (Monday), Roseau will be a favorite against Crookston, but the Pirates have been playing extremely good hockey lately and might push the defending champion Rams. Tuesday an outstanding hockey game looks to be in the marking when Bemidji and Fergus Falls tangle.

That Crookston-Thief River Falls match-up lived up to its pre-tournament billing and provided some great entertainment. The end results was naturally disappointing to the Prowlers, reminiscent of that frustrating 1-0 championship game loss to Roseau a year ago at East Grand Forks. It should have been 1-0 Friday, too. But two Crookston goals in the final 60 seconds make the final score deceiving. Actually, most Thief River Falls observers figured it should have been 1-1, but a quick whistle by the officials, who lost sight of the puck in the Crookston goal crease, erased an apparent Tim Bottem rebound goal at 14:43 of the second period. The red light came on, but the officials said no-goal.

It marked Thief River Falls' shortest post-season play since 1971 when East Grand Forks stunned the favored Prowlers 4-2 in first round Region 8 tournament action. For times since then the Prowlers have lost in the opening round quarterfinals, but in 1972- 1974- 1975 and 1977 they won at least one sub-section game to get that far. In 1977 Thief River Falls beat Indus 10-0 and stopped Mount St. Benedict 4-2 in sub-section play before losing to Fergus Falls 6-2 in the Section 8 tournament quarterfinals.

It also marked the first time Crookston has ever beaten Thief River Falls in post-season hockey action. Actually, they've been infrequent tournament opponents since hockey was officially sanctioned by the Minnesota State High School League for the 1944-45 season. The two long-time athletic rivals met in just five previous tournament games — all won by the Prowlers, including a 5-4 quarterfinal victory in 1980 and a 4-1 semifinal decision in 1976.

Disappointed in the loss, Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand still took a great deal of pride in the Prowlers' accomplishments this winter in light of the number of injuries that sidelined four key seniors (defenseman Brian Johnston and forwards Tim Bottem, Rick Spong and Steve Wiskow) during portions of the 1983-84 season.

"Considering the adversity these kids have had to deal with, its a real tribute to their character that they were able to accomplish as much as they did. Considering those things, I think we had an outstanding year. We're really proud of them."

Northland Basketball

Congratulations go out to the Northland community college basketball team as the Northmen won the consolation championship trophy at the 1984 Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state tournament completed Saturday.

A surprise state tournament entry in the first place after finishing in a three-way second place tie with Brainerd and the University of Minnesota-Crookston behind winner Fergus Falls in the Northwest Division, the Northmen made the most of their post-season opportunity, awarded on the basis of a coin flip.

And with Fergus Falls winning the state title, the Northwest Division, often maligned by the bigger, supposedly stronger southern schools in the MCCC, went 5-1 in state tournament play and for the second straight year produced two trophy winners. A year ago Fergus Falls was state runner-up and Northland was a third place finisher.

"It was another good showing for the Northwest Division," smiled Northland coach Chet Engelman. "You don't hear too much about realignment from the southern schools anymore."

While Northland has had a very successful basketball program over the past ten years, the 1982-83 and 1983-84 squads were the only state tournament trophy winners for the Northmen and four players had a hand in both prizes: Kevin Sanders of Thief River Falls, Rick Van Camp of Newfolden; Shorty Johnson of Kenai, Alaska; and Kyle Ramsey of Milwaukee, Wis.

Miscellaneous

+ Looking at the Section 8 high school hockey tournament semifinal match-up tonight, Crookston coach Mike Lundby says the Pirates will have to do a better job containing Roseau's Paul Broten, who collected five points during the Rams' regular season 5-1 victory over the Pirates. They'll also need goalie Derek Bray to have another strong game like he had against Thief River Falls Friday. Broten excluded, Roseau coach Gary Hokanson says his Rams aren't loaded with stars this year. "We don't have the blue-chippers," he said. "They're red-chippers. We have a lot of kids who are classified as average hockey players, but they have good mental attitudes, and they never quit."

+ Bemidji speed vs. Fergus Falls size is the match-up Tuesday's Section 8 hockey tournament semifinal that should fill the Thief River Falls sports arena. It should be a state tournament-caliber game. The Lumberjacks, who have some pretty good-sized kids themselves, were the last team to beat the Otters when Bemidji broke open a close game in the third period for a 5-2 victory over Fergus Falls on Jan. 11. "It should be a good game," promises Bemidji coach Bryan Grand. The Lumberjacks, he hinted, will try to skate around the hitting the Otters can produce with their roster full of heavyweights.

Rams, Pirates Are Friday Night Winners Over Spuds, Prowlers

Roseau and Crookston were opening night winners Friday in the 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament quarterfinals at the Thief River Falls sports arena.

No. 1-seeded Roseau managed to withstand an early Moorhead threat to pull away from the Spuds 8-3 in the doubleheader opener, while sub-section survivor Crookston took a 1-0 lead and turned it into a 3-0 victory over host Thief River Falls in the final minute of play, eliminating the No. 4-seeded Prowlers from post-season competition.

Roseau and Crookston will meet tonight Monday) in a 7:30 p.m. semifinal game. The winner will advance into Friday's finals with a shot at winning a state tournament berth.

Roseau . . . . . . . . . . 8
Moorhead . . . . . . . . . 3

Roseau's timing couldn't have been better in an 8-3 tournament-opening victory over Moorhead.

After spotting the heavily-favored Rams a 3-1 lead, including two Roseau power-play goals, the Spuds caught fire in gaining a 3-3 tie with two goals in just 31 seconds. Tim McGeehan had a wide open net to shoot at from 25 feet out in the slot after a pass from the corner from teammate Jim Steen at 12:50, and before the cheering had subsided the Spuds' Craig Timm tied it at 13:21.

But the Moorhead celebration abruptly ended a quick 17 seconds later when Roseau's Bruce Helgeson, Vatnsdal, a senior defense-standing right at the doorstep, blasted home a centering pass from Sean Bucy as the Rams regained the lead at 13:38.

Another timely goal late in the second period put Moorhead in a hole to start the final 15 minutes. Although they put just one shot on goal in the second period, the Spuds still stayed within 4-3 until the Rams' David Drown bounced off a check in front and backhanded the puck into a wide open net at 14:10 as Moorhead goalie Chris Miller became entangled with several players near the goal crease.

Finally, Roseau's third timely goal did Moorhead in for good when the Rams made it 6-3 just 26 seconds into the third period. Miller couldn't hold onto a rebound on the play, and when the puck popped free, Drown had a wide open net to shoot at.

"Those (timely goals) definitely can take the wind out of a hockey club," acknowledged Roseau coach Gary Hokanson. "The key goal, I think, was the one late in the second period. That one really frustrated them (Moorhead), and I think they were still zapped from that one when we scored right away in the third period."

Drown, a senior wing on the Rams' first line, and Scott man, scored three goals apiece, completing their hat trick performances to close out the scoring. Moorhead coughed up the puck behind its own net, Drown picked it up and stepped out front to score at 5:54, while Vatnsdal's long shot at 6:17 handcuffed Miller.

"We needed all the good things to happen for us to win, and they didn't," explained Moorhead coach Terry Shercliffe. "We caused a lot of our own problems. We mishandled the puck an awful lot, but then, Roseau's quickness had something to do with it."

Shercliffe, too, said Roseau's penchant for scoring at just the right time, raised havoc with the Spuds' attempts to stay in the game. The real back-breaker, he said, was the one to start the third period, and he took some of the blame for that one as he instructed his team to begin a breakout pattern out of its own end with a pass in front of the Moorhead net. It worked, he explained, in a 3-2 subsectional win over Brainerd earlier in the week, but this time the pass bounced off a Roseau defender and wound up in the net off Drown's stick.

"A coaching mistake," he confirmed.

Moorhead had opened the scoring as Chipper Ole rapped home a centering pass on a power play at 1:58. An unassisted goal by Broten, who showed deadly accuracy with his shot from the slot at 4:39, tied it 1-1 and Vatnsdal had a pair of power play goals 68 seconds apart to make it 3-1. He blasted home a shot from the point at 8:04 and slammed another one through Miller's pads from 15 feet out at 9:12.

Moorhead finished the year at 12-10-1. Roseau, ranked seventh in the latest Associated Press hockey poll, will take a 17-4 mark into the semifinals.

Crookston . . . . . . . . . . 3
TRF . . . . . . . . . . . . . 0

Large crowd on hand anticipated a close encounter when long-time rivals Crookston and Thief River Falls were matched up in the Section 8 quarterfinals, and they weren't disappointed. It went into the books as a 3-0 victory for the Pirates, but it was a 1-0 nail-bitter until the winners popped in two insurance goals in the final minute of play.

It was a goaltending duel between the Pirates' Derek Bray and Steve Solheim as the evenly-matched combatants slugged it out in nearly scoreless fashion for 44 minutes.

Only goal to that point was a haunting one the Prowlers shouldn't have surrendered as Thief River Falls put the puck out front on a break-out attempt — right to a wide-open Pat Madigan and the Crookston junior quickly capitalized at 3:31 of the second period.

Lots of close calls, but no more scoring kept things plenty interesting until the Pirates' Mark Lyczyewski, just as a Thief River Falls power play opportunity expired, intercepted a cross-ice pass by the Prowlers near the center face-off circle and came in on Solheim with a clean breakaway. Solheim had stopped him moments earlier in the same situation, but this time he put the point-blank shot into the net as the clock showed exactly one minute left in the game.

Final goal was an open net job by the Pirates' Rich Clauson with just two seconds left.

Bray kicked out 26 shots for the shutout. Solheim was just as impressive with 22 saves.

"He (Bray) has been playing well throughout the year for us," explained Crookston coach Mike Lundby, who was quick to give a portion of the credit to the Pirates' defensemen. "Good defensive play has been the key to our success lately," he pointed out.

"Certainly he (Bray) had an excellent game," agreed Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "We feel we had some excellent scoring opportunities that we didn't capitalize on. It certainly wasn't a 3-0 hockey game."

It was a defensive struggle, admitted Lundby. "Give Thief River credit," he said. "They don't give you a lot of rushes where you can burn them. They make it awfully tough on your offensively."

Thief River Falls and Crookston finished the regular season schedules with identical 12-7-1 records. The Pirates, after adding subsectional wins over East Grand Forks and Hallock, plus the victory over the Prowlers, will take a 15-7-1 record into the Section 8 semifinals. Thief River Falls ends the year 12-8-1.

CROOKSTON GOALIE Derek Bray emerged a hero Friday night with an outstanding 26-save effort that shut out host Thief River Falls 3-0 in the opening round quarterfinals of the 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament in the sports arena. Here, Bray sits back on the puck as Thief River Falls forward Bob Breiland (13) looks for a scoring opportunity and Crookston defenseman Mike Madigan (11) looked on from the side in the first period. Bray turned back numerous strong Thief River Falls scoring opportunities in protecting a 1-0 lead that was fattened in the game's final minute of play.

THRILL OF victory and agony of defeat is reflected in this photo from Friday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament quarterfinal game as Crookston's Rich Clauson celebrated a game-clinching goal while Thief River Falls' Tim Bottem skated away, head bowed. Ahead 1-0 in a closely-fought, tense struggle, Crookston scored twice in the final minute of play — including an open net goal by Clauson with just two seconds left — to win 3-0 and move into the tournament semifinals.

'Jacks Defeat Warriors; Otters Handle Cardinals

Bemidji defeated Warroad 4-1 and Fergus Falls handled Alexandria 9-2 in Saturday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament quarterfinal round doubleheader played at the Thief River Falls sports arena.

That sets up a 7:30 p.m. Tuesday Bemidji vs. Fergus Falls semifinal confrontation that promises to be a great hockey game, with the winner moving into Friday's championship game against the winner in Monday's (tonight) Roseau-Crookston semifinal game.

Bemidji . . . . . . . . . . 4
Warroad . . . . . . . . . . 1

Favored Bemidji, the tournament's No. 2-seeded team behind Roseau, jumped out to a 3-0 first period lead, but then watched sub-section qualifier Warroad carry the play most of the final 30 minutes before tacking on an open net goal to finish off a 4-1 victory in Saturday's first game.

"I thought we played really well for some stretches," explained Bemidji coach Bryan Grand, "but when we played poorly, we really played poorly."

Bemidji was at its best in the first 15 minutes. Senior forward Mike Johnson came around from behind the net, shrugged off a check and stuffed a backhander past Warroad sophomore goalie Scott Foster at 3:13.

Sophomore John Yetter made it 2-0 at 10:33 when he put the puck into a wide open net. Foster had committed himself to stopping Don Sauer, who beat a Warroad defenseman and carried the puck past the goal mouth. Foster made the save, but the rebound was left in front for several moments before Yetter popped it into the net.

Sauer cranked up a slap shot while on the move from the left wing and beat Foster on the short side on a power play at 13:12 as the lead mounted to 3-0.

But that was it for the Bemidji scoring until the end. Foster made a number of big saves the rest of the way, along with fellow sophomore Steve Peters in the Bemidji nets. Warroad did get within 3-1 late in the second period, but the Warriors just missed on numerous other scoring opportunities over the final two periods.

Freshman defenseman David Marvin got the goal at 13:45 when Bemidji became careless in the Lumberjacks' zone, leaving the puck unattended in the corner. Marvin picked it up and walked in unmolestad, putting his shot over Peters' shoulder on the short side.

Good back and forth action produced entertaining hockey, but no more scoring until Bemidji's Pat Braaten hit an open net at 14:31 to ice it. Foster was pulled in favor of an extra attacker just 15 seconds earlier.

Despite the loss, Warroad coach Jon Bittner was more than satisified with the play of the underdog Warriors. "I'm very, very proud," he said. "We scrambled for that second goal; if we could have put it in, it might have been a different hockey game. They (Bemidji) capitalized on some scoring opportunities in the first period, but our kids kept working, kept the pressure on them."

Bemidji will take a 15-5-1 record into the semifinals. Warroad finished the year 10-12-1.

Prowlers Draw Otters Tonight

Thief River Falls was scheduled to visit Fergus Falls and Moorhead was scheduled to be at Detroit Lakes tonight (Monday) in the opening round of the 1984 North Sub-Region 8AA girls high school basketball tournament.

Top-seeded Bemidji and No. 2-seeded Park Rapids received first round byes and will host semifinal games Thursday. Following the Lumberjills and Panthers, coaches on Wednesday seeded Detroit Lakes No. 3; Fergus Falls No. 4; Thief River Falls No. 5; and Moorhead No. 6.

On Thursday, the Thief River Falls-Fergus Falls winner will visit Bemidji and the Moorhead-Detroit Lakes winner will be at Park Rapids.

Championship game will be played Saturday at the site of the highest seeded team. All games will be played at 7:30 p.m.

Thief River Falls will carry a 9-10 record into post-season play, closing out the regular season on the road last Tuesday against the same Fergus Falls team, with the Otters winning 63-52. Fergus Falls is 7-10 for the year.

"If we're healthy, we can give them a run for their money," noted Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer, whose team has been battling colds and the flu as the season neared an end. The Prowlers, explained Schafer, would like to capitalize on Fergus Falls' tendency to play sporadicly on offense. A steady offensive-defensive effort by the Prowlers, he said, could beat the up-and-down Otters.

Although Bemidji and Park Rapids have the top two seeded, Schafer figures the tournament is a "wide-open" affair.

Thief River Falls' familiar starting line-up is expected to remain intact, with senior Paula Wilkens and junior Penni Johnston at the guards; junior Michelle Olson and sophomore Connie Grovum at forwards; with sophomore Michelle Puetz at center.

MOORHEAD GOALIE Chris Miller reached out in vain as Roseau increased its lead to 6-3 on a David Drown goal just 26 seconds into the second period of Friday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament-opening game at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Jon Helgeson of the Rams (19) was in position, if needed, to pop the puck in the net and teammate Paul Broten (7), along with an unidentified Moorhead player looked over their shoulders to catch the action. Roseau reached the tournament semifinals with an 8-3 win over the Spuds, who trailed only 4-3 after one period.

Northmen Win Consolation Title At State Basketball Tournament

Northland community college bounced back from an 80-64 first round loss at the hands of Worthington Thursday with wins over Itasca 102-90 Friday and Rochester 91-83 Saturday to win consolation championship honors at the 1984 Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state basketball tournament played in Bloomington.

It was the first state consolation title for the Northmen, who won the tournament's third place trophy a year ago. They finished the year 14-9 overall.

"It was a good way to end the season," acknowledged Northland coach Chet Engelman. "Our kids played pretty well overall, other than the fact that the ball just wouldn't drop for us that first game."

Northwest Division champion Fergus Falls beat Anoka-Ramsey 73-67 in the state championship game Saturday afternoon.

Northland . . . . . . . . . 64

Tone was set for Northland's tournament opener in Thursday's final quarterfinal round game at Normandale community college when the Northmen grabbed the opening tip-off, sprinted downcourt and got off three shots before Worthington even touched the ball. But the Northmen missed each time and wound up shooting just 36 per cent from the field for the game in an 80-64 loss.

"We did some things well, but the ball just wouldn't fall in for us," explained Northland coach Chet Engelman. "The game was just one of frustration."

Worthington led 43-29 at halftime and was never seriously threatened.

Rod Scales had 18 points and 18 rebounds for the Northmen, with Kyle Ramsey scoring 16 points and handing out six assists while Shorty Johnson scored 10 points. Jebb Dykstra scored 23 points for Worthington and Todd Mattson had 18.

Northland was just 30-for-83 from the field, while Worthington was 32-for-67 (48 per cent). The winners were also a productive 16-for-21 at the free throw line, where the Northmen were 4-for-5. Rebounds were even at 46-apiece and Worthington had one more turnover, 15-14.

EGF Routs TRF

East Grand Forks routed visiting Thief River Falls 77-40 Friday in a high school basketball mis-match.

"It had to be our poorest performance of the year by far," admitted Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "It was not very good basketball on our part. We lost our composure. We played a poor game in every area."

East Grand Forks took a 16-10 first quarter lead and turned it into a 31-18 halftime cushion. The Green Wave opened up a 51-27 third quarter gap.

"I felt before the ball game we could compete with them, but we didn't do any of the things we needed to do to play with them," explained Hunt.

East Grand Forks guard Rod Mosher broke away for 21 points, with 6-6 sophomore David Vonesh getting 17 and Troy Hammargren 10. Senior guard John Brandt led the Prowlers with 16 points.

Impressive shooting figures highlighted the East Grand Forks win as the Green Wave went 31-for-61 from the field (51 per cent) and 15-for-18 at the free throw line (83 per cent). Thief River Falls was just 18-for-51 from the field (35 per cent) and 4-for-9 at the line.

East Grand Forks also dominated the boards, outrebounding the Prowlers 43-26. Thief River Falls had twice as many turnovers as well, 20-10.

DNR hotline

1. Why is there no public access on some lakes and public access on others? I would like to see an access on Loon Lake in Ottertail county and Acorn Lake and Wimar Lake in Becker county.

Many lakes within the state have either inadequate or no public access. To remedy this situation an accelerated acquisition and development program for public access was initiated by the legislature in 1979. A list of important lakes needing access was established and the Department of Natural Resources is actively looking for willing sellers of good access sites to lakes on this list.

I am happy to say that some progress is being made on the lakes you are interested in. Parcels have been purchased on Loon Lake and Acorn Lake with construction scheduled for Loon Lake early this summer and hopefully on Acorn Lake by next spring. A site on Wimar Lake is presently being appraised. If we are able to purchase this property, it will provide access to both Wimar and Graham Lakes.

More information concerning the Department of Natural Resources Public Access Program can be obtained by contacting the Trails and Waterways Unit in Bemidji at 755-3972. Ardon Belcher, Regional Trails & Waterways Coordinator.

2. How do I qualify for a wetland tax credit?

Wetlands that are identified as being protected wetlands on the County Protected Waters Inventory Maps qualify for the Wetland Tax Credit. The tax credit reduces the tax liability by one-half of one per cent of the average estimated market value of an acre of tillable land in the township. This is then multiplied by the number of acres of wetlands owned by an individual. The Wetland Tax Credit does not apply to wetlands that are currently enrolled in the State or Federal Water Bank Programs. Contact your County Assessor for further information. Kirk English, area hydrologist.

3. Do you have a question, complaint, or suggestion regarding how your natural resources are being managed?

DNR Hotline is your direct channel to a representative who will answer you whether it concerns parks, fish, wildlife, forests, waters or minerals. Write DNR Hotline, 2115 Birchmont Beach Road NE, Bemidji, MN 56601; telephone 755-3976.

Fergus Falls made it 3-for-4 for the seeded teams with a 9-2 drubbing of Alexandria Saturday in the final game of the opening round quarterfinals.

It took the Otters a while to get the goals to come, but once they started they never quit. It was scoreless until Brad Baglo put a tip-in past Alexandria goalie Dave Faber at 12:15 of the first period. But it took just 23 more seconds for the second goal — by Jason Wentler — and Fergus Falls tacked on one by Mike Donley before the period ended.

Again in the second period it took a while for the Otters' offense to take off, but five goals in the final 4:15 of the period made it 8-0 and made for a quick third period as the clock remained in motion under the Minnesota State High School League rules calling for running time when there is a six-goal or more difference during the third period of a hockey game.

It was 9-0 before Alexandria closed it out with two goals. Baglo and Wentler both scored twice for the winners, while Blaine Rude, Chuck Lundeen, Paul Quam and Myron Russel joined Donley as single-goal scorers.

Troy Olson and Ross Campbell scored for the Cardinals, out-shot to the tune of 40-10.

Fergus Falls moved to 16-5 with the win. Alexandira finished 10-13.

LHS Freshmen Lose Playoff Opener 45-38

Lincoln high school freshman basketball team dropped a 45-38 decision to Schroeder junior high of Grand Forks in first round Grand Forks Freshman League post-season playoff action Thursday.

Thief River Falls started with an 8-6 quarter lead and owned a 22-17 halftime advantage before host Schroeder went ahead 33-26 in the third quarter. The winners started the third quarter by making six of their first seven field goal attempts, while at the same time Thief River Falls was going 0-for-9 from the field.

Andy Gengler scored 11 points and Tom Knoff had 10 for Thief River Falls, while Dean Ramsett scored 14 for the winners.

Thief River Falls finished with a 5-14 overall record this winter, but five of those losses were by one point, and two other setbacks were by three points — one of those in double overtime. Schroeder, the No. 3-seeded team in the playoffs, owned a pair of one-point wins over No. 6-seeded Thief River Falls during the regular season.

UMC Hockey Team Claims State Title

University of Minnesota-Crookston successfully defended its Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state hockey tournament title with a weekend sweep of Hibbing in a two-game, total-goal championship playoff series.

UMC won the series opener Friday night in Hibbing 7-5 and added a 6-5 Saturday afternoon victory when the series was shifted to Coleraine for a 13-10 total-goal victory margin.

Hibbing was the regular season MCCC pennant winner, with UMC finishing second in the six-team league. The Trojans eliminated Rainy River and the Cardinals ousted Rochester in first-round two-game total-goal series played the previous weekend.

UMC earned a spot in the four-team MJCAA national hockey tournament with the state title, with the tournament scheduled to be played March 10-11 at the College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn, Illinois. Hibbing will face North Dakota State - Bottineau this week in a two-game, total-goal series for a national tournament berth as the No. 2 team representing Region 13.

Hibbing is 20-4 for the year, and all four losses have come at the hands of UMC. The Trojans, meanwhile, are 18-4-2.

Grygla Girls Lose First Round District 32 Game

Grygla girls high school basketball season came to an end Thursday when the Eagles lost a 51-38 first round District 32 tournament game to Tri-County at Karlstad.

Tri-County, after leading by just 17-13 and 28-24 at the first two quarter stops, opened up a 38-29 third quarter cushion to move into the tournament quarterfinals Saturday against Stephen.

Fouls took their toll on the Eagles, who lost four players to fouls and watched the Rabbits spend a 15-for-29 night at the free throw line.

"I really thought we could win this one," offered Grygla coach Mike Gast afterwards. "Tri-County came out and played tough. The ball wasn't dropped for us, and we ran into foul trouble."

Kim Kuznia led the winners with 17 points and Tarek Oistad had 14. Kathy Foss closed out her basketball for Grygla with 9 points.

Grygla shot only 26 per cent from the field (15-for-57) and went just 8-for-20 at the free throw line. Tri-County shot 35 per cent from the field (18-for-51).

The Eagles finished the year 4-16 overall.

Marshall County Central began with a 17-2 first quarter lead and finished with an easy 55-22 first-round District 32 tournament victory over Greenbush Thursday at Newfolden.

"I was really pleased with the way the team came out and played well at the start," explained Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We really passed the ball well. It was by far our best game of the season so far."

Marshall County Central led 29-8 at halftime and enjoyed a 39-10 third quarter cushion.

Nancy Nelson scored 14 points and Shelly Anderson had 11 for the winners. No Greenbush scorer reached double figures.

Greenbush shot just 16 per cent from the field (8-for-49), while Marshall County Central shot 43 per cent (25-for-48). Neither team did very well at the free throw line, where the Tigers were 6-for-13 and the Nordics were 5-for-13. Marshall County Central had a big 41-23 rebound advantage, which included 14 offensive boards. The Nordics also topped the turnover figures 19-18.

| Middle River | 47 |
| Lancaster | 29 |

Unbeaten Middle River played poorly, said coach Tom Neibauer, but the Skippers still beat Lancaster handily, 47-29 in Saturday's District 32 quarterfinals at Karlstad.

Thirty-four turnovers and 25 fouls charged against his team, which doesn't have the bench strength to cover up losses to personal fouls, had Neibauer more than a little concerned going into tonight's semifinal encounter against Argyle.

Still, Middle River, now 20-0, had quarter leads of 14-5, 26-10 and 34-16 as the Skippers' defense held Lancaster to just three field goals through three quarters.

Middle River was 18-for-48 from the field (37 per cent) and 11-for-22 at the free throw line. Lancaster was 15-for-33 at the line.

A game-ending Marshall County Central rally fell just short Saturday as the Nordics lost a heartbreaking 32-30 District 32 tournament quarterfinal decision uto Argyle at Karlstad.

Despite missing three starters at the end — two on fouls and one due to an injury — Marshall County Central, trailing by six points with 1½ minutes left, pulled within 31-30 with four seconds remaining when Becky Knutson made the first shot on a bonus free throw opportunity.

She missed her second try, but the Nordics' Jodi Foss rebounded and put up a base line shot that was just tipped by an Argyle defender. The Eagles gained control, drew a foul and added a free throw with no time showing on the clock.

"It was tough to lose," admitted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, "but I was really proud of the way the kids came back. They played a heck of a game. It was anybody's game at the end."

Marshall County Central led 8-6 after one quarter, fell behind 17-11 at halftime and gained a 19-19 tie at the end of the third quarter.

No player on either side reached double figures in the low-scoring affair. In fact, scoring chances were held to a minimum. Marshall County Central put up just 33 field goal attempts, making 12 of them (36 per cent), while Argyle shot 39 times, hitting 11 (28 per cent). The Nordics were 6-for-12 at the free throw line, where the Eagles were 10-for-21.

Marshall County Central finished the 1983-84 season with a 12-9 mark.

Nordics' Defense Nets 43-40 Win Over Hallock

Marshall County Central relied on its defense Friday to produce a regular season-ending 43-40 high school basketball win at Hallock.

After opening up a 14-6 first quarter lead, Marshall County Central's offense became quiet as Hallock pulled within 23-19 at halftime and went ahead 30-27 at the end of the third quarter.

It wasn't until the final three minutes the Nordics began to put points on the board.

"We did a real nice job defensively, and it was fortunate because we had a tough time getting going offensively," explained Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "But it was a good win for us; Hallock has a good team."

After missing a bundle of free throws during the middle of the game, Marshall County Central received two free throws apiece from Randy Dahl and Scott Gustafson in the final minute to seal the victory, produced in part by the defense as the Nordics' full-court pressure got the offense going down the stretch, pointed out Ueland.

Chad Swan was the Nordics' leading scorer with 12 points. Tom Vagle had 11 for Hallock.

Marshall County Central shot 40 per cent from the field (17-for-42) and 43 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-21). Hallock shot only 36 per cent from the field (13-for-36) but shot 74 per cent at the line (14-for-19).

Rebounding and turnover figures were nearly identical. Marshall County Central had one more rebound, 25-24, and Hallock had one more turnover, 15-14.

Marshall County Central finished its schedule 13-7.

| Argyle | 80 |
| Goodridge | 49 |

Goodridge closed out its 1983-84 regular season schedule Friday at Argyle, losing an 80-49 game to finish at 8-12 for the year.

Final score was a little deceiving, noted Goodridge coach Dan Brinkman, as the Huskies substituted freely at the end when the Eagles fattened their lead.

Argyle led at the quarter stops 19-13, 39-26 and 59-38.

Goodridge actually had the upper hand at the start, pointed out Brinkman, but Argyle's Ray Safranski suddenly rasied havoc with the Huskies' zone defense with a 5-for-5 shooting display from the outside in the first quarter. "That was the key right there," he pointed out.

Safranski and Brian Riopelle finished with 17 points apiece and teammate David Durand had 16. Scott Groven of Goodridge led all scorers with 21 points, and Tony Wiseth added 13.

Goodridge shot 38 per cent from the field (18-for-47) and 72 per cent at the free throw line (13-for-18). Argyle shot 47 per cent from the field (31-for-66) and 60 per cent at the line (18-for-30) in the physically-played game. Goodridge had a 32-31 rebound edge.

| Grygla | 59 |
| Strandquist | 54 |

Grygla watched a 10-point lead shrink in half in the final minute of play Friday, but the Eagles managed to hold on for a 59-54 victory over visiting Strandquist.

Four Grygla scorers reached double figures, with Tony McLean, Jeff Klein and Rick Carlson all getting 12 points and Wayne Byklum 11. Dave Moyer was the game's leading scorer with 18 points for the Warriors, while Dean Nelson added 11.

"That's the first time all season we've had balanced scoring like that," explained Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "We're pleased with the win. We played some pretty solid basketball in the second half."

Strandquist had a 13-10 first quarter lead, and the Warriors nursed a 25-24 edge into intermission, but Grygla went ahead 41-37 in the third quarter and led by as much as 48-37 before Strandquist rallied at the end.

Both teams shot 44 per cent from the field, but Grygla was 26-for-59 while Strandquist was 20-for-45. The Warriors, though, were 14-for-23 from the free throw line (61 per cent), where the Eagles were only 7-for-16 (44 per cent). Grygla had a 41-34 rebound edge and Strandquist topped the turnover figures 17-14.

Johnson said he was most pleased with the play of Carlson and McLean, but also singled out Moyer for his efforts on the Strandquist side.

Grygla finished its regular season with a 7-13 record.

| Sacred Heart | 57 |
| Middle River | 47 |

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart took advantage of a lackluster Middle River performance Friday as the Eagles defeated the visiting Skippers 57-47.

"We played with no emotion," reported Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, who made it clear he wasn't happy with the Skippers' play.

Sacred Heart led 14-10 at the end of the first quarter, made it 24-16 at halftime and opened up a 39-28 third quarter cushion.

Darrin West led the winners with 18 points, with Mike Nefs adding 15 and Rod Oas 10. Kevin McKeever scored 16 points for the Skippers, with Tom Neumann getting 12.

Sacred Heart shot 53 per cent from the field (23-for-43) and 69 per cent from the free throw line (11-for-16). Middle River shot just 39 per cent from the field (18-for-46) and 79 per cent at the line (11-for-14).

Middle River, 8-11, will complete its 1983-84 regular season schedule Tuesday with a make-up game at home against Tri-County, a team the Skippers will face in first round District 32 tournament play Friday at Roseau.

National Wildlife Federation News Release

Before the advent of top quality field binoculars, bird watchers studied birds with shotguns. For them, the only sure way to get close to a bird was to kill it.

Among those who relied heavily on dead birds for models was the famous ornithologist, John James Audubon.

Audubon once implied that "it was not a really good day if he killed fewer than 100 birds," writes Roger Tory Peterson in the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Peterson, the originator of the Peterson Field Guides, says that modern day birders are well equipped with powerful binoculars enabling them to closely observe birds — alive — in their natural habitat. Now, writes Peterson, birders are demanding better and better guides to help them identify nature's abundant bird species.

First illustrated bird guide published in America was done by Alexander Wilson in 1808 — with illustrations painted from freshly killed specimens.

Audubon had a greater influence on bird guides, says Peterson. Audubon's "Birds Of America" "showed birds lifesize, in action poses and in their proper ecological setting . . . for the first time the majority of the birds of eastern North America and many of those of western North America were adequately portrayed," according to Peterson.

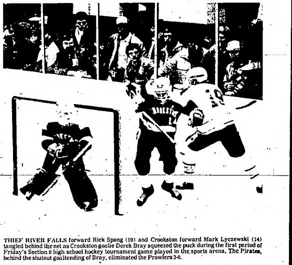
Shotgun school of ornithology, which prevailed for over 75 years, changed with Ludlow Griscom, a curator in the bird department of the American Museum in New York.

"When (Griscom) was a young man developing his field glass technique, he was challenged by one of the old boys who made all his own identifications through the sights of a shotgun," Peterson says in National Wildlife. "Griscom pointed out a female Cape May warbler in the top of a sycamore. The old boy blazed away. He picked up the bird; it was a female Cape May."

Peterson gives Griscom, whom he met in the 1930s, credit for the philosophy and fine points of field recognition that Peterson used in his Field Guide to the Birds.

Peterson's own career as an illustrator began in the mid 1930s, and it continues today. There are now 30 titles in the Peterson Field Guide series, and Field Guide to the Birds has sold nearly three million copies. His books are unique for his innovative drawings, which detail key bird features for fast field identification.

Of his series, Peterson says, "This reference library, I like to think, has made significant contribution to the environmental movement by making it easier for people to know what they are looking at."



THIEF RIVER FALLS forward Rick Spong (19) and Crookston forward Mark Lyczewski (14) tangled behind the net as Crookston goalie Derek Bray squeezed the puck during the first period of Friday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament game played in the sports arena. The Pirates, behind the shutout goaltending of Bray, eliminated the Prowlers 3-0.

Trophies were awarded for first through third place and ribbons for fourth through seventh place in the competition. Most of these skaters will be featured in the local recreational skating association's Fantasy on Iceskating revue in the sports arena.

Precautions Are Needed For Ice Activities

Persons using frozen lake and river surfaces for winter activities should know dangerously thin ice can develop anytime, said the Minnesota department of public safety.

Early season temperatures that hover above, below or at freezing usually aren't cold enough to freeze water to the ice thickness required to support individuals or vehicles. In mid winter pressure ridges can cause gaps in foot thick ice and water currents beneath the ice can bring warm water near the surface resulting in melting and a thin layer of ice.

A number of lakes are being aerated this winter to maintain oxygen levels to prevent a die off of fish during winter months, according to the department of natural resources. This will create areas of open water and thin ice which can pose additional risks for ice fisherman, snowmobilers and others using the frozen surface of lakes.

Persons should obtain information on ice thicknesses before using any frozen surface for recreation. They can do so by contacting police or sheriff departments which monitor ice conditions on local lakes and rivers.

Here is an ice thickness guide for persons using frozen water surfaces for winter activities:

— A two inch thick layer of ice is usually enough to support one individual walking across a frozen surface;

— Three inches of ice can support a group of people walking single file across a frozen surface;

— Four inches is recommended for sitting safely on the ice while fishing;

— Five inches would carry the weight of a snowmobile; and — Eight to 10 inches or more of ice is needed to prevent cars, trucks and trailers from falling through the ice.

Individuals who spend time on frozen rivers or lakes should be prepared to act if someone falls through the ice. Always be on the ice with a group of people and be sure each individual has a branch, pole or rope handy to assist anyone who falls through the ice.

Snowmobilers are urged to keep a length of rope with them on their vehicle for any emergency rescue.

Parents should also caution youngsters to never walk on a frozen lake or river without first getting permission.

If someone does fall through the ice, rescuers should lie prone on the ice as far as possible from the broken edge and use a pole or rope to pull the person out. Provide immediate shelter and warmth to the victim. Remove wet clothes and put on dry ones if available. If not available, wrap the victim in a sleeping bag or whatever else is on hand. Have the victim drink warm liquids and eat high energy foods such as chocolate, raisins, honey and nuts.

Watch for intense shivering by the victim which is the first sign of hypothermia — a dangerous condition of subnormal body temperature.

Death from hypothermia can occur within 90 minutes if nothing is done to correct the temperature imbalance.

If the victim slips in semi-consciousness, advanced hepothermia has begun and the body has lost its ability to reheat itself. Try to keep the victim awake while adding warmth internally with hot, non-alcoholic liquids and externally with heat from a fire or contact with other persons, and contact medical assistance immediately.

HIGHLANDING

On Saturday Arlyne Hyland spent the day visiting at the Virgil Defreece home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Nelson and Brian were Sunday dinner guests at the Virgil Langseth home of rural Goodridge.

NUMEDAL . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Helgenset, Rodney Helgenset, Mr. and Mrs. Len Waswick, Randy Carpenter and Roger Hible attended funeral services for Leighton Hamre at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Insurance Is Often Included In Financing

According to the Minnesota department of commerce, when you apply for a loan or credit to finance the purchase of consumer goods at a dealer, it is likely that life insurance or total disability insurance will be offered as an option or included in the monthly installment payments. Some very important facts should be kept in mind when considering such credit insurance:

+ In most cases, credit life insurance and credit disability insurance, offered by the bank, credit union, savings association, consumer finance company or appliance or automobile dealer is optional. It is up to you to accept the coverage and pay the additional cost added to the amount you borrow or to reject it and decline the premiums. The decision is yours and should not affect whether you qualify for the loan or credit.

+ If credit life insurance and credit disability insurance is offered voluntarily and you accept, you will be asked to sign your name to a statement that you want the insurance and that you agree to pay the cost. Ask for an explanation of the cost, how it is paid, what the coverages are and who to contact regarding a claim. Not all coverages are alike and there may be options available which are more suited to your needs. Some of the types of credit insurance include—

— Only life insurance and no disability insurance.

— Joint life insurance if there are two or more borrowers.

— Policies offering differing periods of time befose disability benefits begin.

+ If the credit insurance is required by the lender or credit granter in order to qualify for the loan, you are entitled to the following:

First, you have the right to substitute insurance you already have or can buy elsewhere instead of buying the insurance offered by the lender. Minnesota law gives you the option to provide your existing life and-or disability insurance benefits to the creditor to cover the amount of the loan. Your own personal insurance agent can explain how this is done.

Second, the cost of credit (interest rate) must be disclosed in writing to you in terms of "annual percentage rate". This includes the added insurance premiums if the insurance is required and you don't provide your own policy. Therefore, if the interest rate quoted is 18 per cent per year, with the addition of the insurance premiums, the actual cost of credit will be at a higher rate. This is part of the consumer protection and disclosure requirements under the federal truth in lending act.

These are some items to consider when credit insurance is offered or required in connection with a loan or credit purchase. The Minnesota department of commerce regulates most lenders and all insurance companies. Your questions about lender practices and insurance coverage can be answered by calling the department at (612) 297-2695.

Coalition To Reform Jobless Compensation

Eight Minnesota business organizations joined forces recently to form the coalition for unemployment reform and equity (CURE), which will work to reform Minnesota's unemployment compensation laws during the 1984 session of the legislature.

"Making Minnesota's unemployment costs more competitive will help create a climate in which new industries and jobs can be attracted to Minnesota," said John E. Van Doorn, president of the Minnesota Retail Merchants association and chairman of CURE. "Under our current system of allocating unemployment costs, stable employers with little turnover of people bear more than their fair share of the unemployment costs burden."

Van Doorn said CURE is studying proposals that would provide a more equitable method of cost sharing, together with changes in eligibility for benefits and other revisions that would restore solvency in the state's unemployment compensation fund over the next few years. He said the group has concurred on a number of essential reforms in the benefit, tax and administrative areas.

Van Doorn also noted that CURE is evaluating the fiscal impact of its proposed reforms and studying the department of economic security's citizens' proposal before making final recommendations. CURE expects to announce its reform plan later in February.

Business groups represented in the coalition have combined membership of more than 20,000 Minnesota employers, ranging in size from small retail proprietors to multi-billion-dollar corporations.

During the recent recession, Minnesota's unemployment insurance program borrowed heavily from the federal government to meet its obligations. At the end of 1983, these borrowings totaled $420 million.

Unemployment compensation system is financed solely by employer taxes. "The tax rate for each employer should more closely reflect the amount of benefits paid to employees of the firm — a concept known as 'experience rating' — however, Minnesota's experience rating system is less than satisfactory and needs improvement," said Van Doorn.

Members of CURE support an unemployment compensation system that continues to provide good benefits for individuals who are unexpectedly unemployed. "However, parts of the Minnesota system go beyond that and our members — and Minnesota's economy — can no longer afford it," added Van Doorn. "We must make Minnesota's cost for unemployment compensation more competitive."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

There have been persistent misconceptions floating around concerning the Minnesota-Ontario border resort conflict which have been leading to an inaccurate understanding of the issues involved on Lake of the Woods. Some of these rumors have erroneously dragged in the commercial fishing industry.

First of all, it was only last spring that the Minnesota Legislature settled the commercial fishing controversy on the Minnesota side of Lake of the Woods. This settlement only came about after a long and intense political battle which the commercial fishermen lost; but they were given the option to either stop fishing in 1985 or to take a gradual phase out until 1994. To force the commercial fishermen out of business this spring, as rumors tell it, would be contrary to this new law.

The law made last spring makes it very clear that the commercial fishermen must be party to any new changes; but contrary to hearsay, the commercial fishermen have not been formally approached by the State of Minnesota on whether they would be interested in ceasing operations this spring. Despite the rumors floating around, recent history has shown the DNR and the State of Minnesota to have reneged on their word and the contracts they have entered into with the commercial fishermen. We have no indication that their integrity is any better now. Unless the commercial fishermen are fully consulted, a very obvious legal and political battle is sure to follow.

Secondly, the resorters' implication that it was Ontario who insisted that Minnesota's commercial fishing be stopped is erroneous. A survey of all the studies and statements relevant to the issue show that Ontario has never stated or even asked that Minnesota commercial fishing be stopped. It is no bargaining card for Minnesota to propose something that Ontario has never asked for, and it is totally unethical for the resorts and their political negotiators to again falsely drag the commercial fishing industry into this.

In fact, because of the extreme differences in lake hydrology between Minnesota and Ontario, Ontario biologists Guy Winterton and Val Macins have stated that if the Ontario waters of Lake of the Woods were as fertile and healthy as the Minnesota waters, Ontario would not be curtailing any of its fisheries.

The real reason for the implementation of regulations has been stated numerous times in Ontario's statements and usually ignored in Minnesota's statements — Rainy River resorts continue to take an inordinately large portion of Ontario's fish resources and give nothing back in return. Consequently, Canadian fish industries, both sport and commercial, are going out of business. Another factor certainly influencing Ontario's decision is the Rainy River launches' notoriety in ignoring game laws and Minnesota law enforcement's notoriety in ignoring game law violations in the Rainy River resort area.

Thirdly, on Lake of the Woods, there already is a regulation prohibiting holders of both Minnesota and Ontario licenses from taking two limits. For Minnesota to again propose this reported regulation is to offer Ontario nothing.

Another factor rarely talked about in this controversy is the stocking of steelhead salmon in Lake of the Woods by Minnesota resorts and the DNR last spring. Ontario strongly objected to this program because they were concerned that the steelhead would migrate to Ontario waters and harm the walleye and other indigenous species there. The American Fisheries Society also objected to this stocking for similar reasons. But these protests all fell on deaf Minnesota ears. Is it any wonder that Ontario is upset?

Producers Of Veal To Watch Drug Mistakes

Federal inspectors in some parts of the country have discovered an unusually high rate of illegal residues from drugs in veal calves, especially baby veal from dairy farms. Although nearly all livestock leave the farm free of illegal residues, occasionally drug or pesticide misuse occurs and violative residues result.

Incidences of this type create problems for veal producers in two ways:

First, any hint of contamination, no matter how small, could serve to undermine consumer confidence in veal, and possibly cause reduced consumption of veal products.

Second, veal producers marketing animals with illegal residues may lose income from the condemned carcasses. Repeat offenders may face prosecution and fines.

These problems can be avoided if a few simple safeguards are observed, says the Animal health institute, the trade association of animal drug manufacturers. Principal guideline to keep in mind is to always read and follow label directions on all the animal drugs and pesticides you use.

Keep that in mind, especially, for products that have been used for some time. Occasionally withdrawal times and approved dosage recommendations change, so it's wise to check the label each time. And it's better to check the label than to leave it to memory.

The institute adds these other tips:

— Record medication plans. In consultation with a veterinarian, keep accurate notes of all types and sources of health products: medicated milk replaces, as well as dosage-form products and pesticides.

— Give the right dose of the right product. Don't assume that the same medication given to dairy cattle — sulfa boluses, for example — can be used the same way in veal calves. It may provide too high a dose. It might not even be the right medication. Check the label to see if the product is approved for use in calves, and what the dosage recommendation is.

— Know what withdrawl period means. It's the time between the last administration of the product and when the animals go to slaughter. Don't include days in transit. Withdrawal period should elapse before the calves leave the farm.

Veal calves require very special attention. Extra time you spend making sure you're using animal health products properly will save time and money in the long run.

Farm Leaders Ask Block To Take Action

Leaders of two general farm organizations and a regional dairy cooperative based in the upper Midwest recently called upon U.S. agriculture secretary John Block to institute measures to stabilize and improve livestock prices during the administration of the new federal dairy program recently enacted into law.

Cy Carpenter, president of Minnesota Farmers Union; Stewart Huber, president of Farmers Union milk marketing cooperative; Steve Pavich, dairy director of the National farmers organization in Wisconsin; and Gene Paul, dairy director at National farmers organization in Minnesota wired a joint letter to block, who is in the process of finalizing rules for the administration of the new dairy program, asking him to take action to avoid additional pressure on already depressed livestock prices.

"For agriculture to have stability, understanding and action must be provided which avoids pitting the producers of commodities against one another," the leaders stated in their joint letter. "To avoid this situation in the operation of the present dairy program, we ask that you consider immediately implementing the following courses of action."

"Recognizing that the production of milk must be reduced the full amount of the contractual agreement, encourage participating dairy farmers to voluntarily limit sales of culled dairy cattle according to a systematic pattern. For those farmers culling five or more head during the fifteen month program, encourage marketing to be limited to no more than ten per cent per month. Those farmers culling less-than-five-head should be encouraged to limit sales to one head per quarter," they stated.

Farm leaders also joined in urging Block to reduce meat imports.

"We urge a one-third reduction in the amount of beef imports allowed for the next fifteen months to offset the possibility of a further decline in the already severely depressed market for hamburger, beef and pork that could result from disorderly marketing of dairy cows," the leaders stated.

"This would provide understanding and direction for both farmers and processors which would immediately give greater stability to both the meat and dairy industries," the leaders added.

Farm organization leaders based their request for a reduction in meat imports on U.S. department of commerce statistics which indicate that the volume of beef imported into the United States during 1983 totalled 1.217 billion pounds through mid-December, about three times the volume of culled dairy cattle estimated to be potentially marketed during the new dairy program. A one third reduction in beef imports would largely offset any added pressures brough to beat on livestock markets by culled dairy cows.

In their joint statement, the leaders made clear to Block that they are encouraging dairy farmers to participate in the new dairy program, which offers dairy farmers a paid incentive in return for agreeing to reduce their milk production.

"It is our strong desire to have the present dairy program operate with enough participation and success to bring production to an acceptable level and allow for additional improvement in the immediate future," they stated.

"We are encouraging farmers to participate with the hope that long term stability and fair pricing can be developed," the leaders added.

Under the new dairy act scheduled to be fully implemented next month, the secretary of agriculture was given authority to develop detailed rules governing the program.

These rules are being prepared for adoption without the benefit of public hearings and the farm organization leaders submitted their joint letter to Block in lieu of public comments which they would have made had such hearings been scheduled.

Ice Build Up Causes Attic Problems

Are you wielding a roof snow rake and an ice pick in the battle against the ice dam? The ice age has hit many Minnesota homes this year, but you can prevent its return to your home.

Roof raking is a relatively new sport in Minnesota. Back in the days when houses had little or no insulation in the attic, heat escaping from the house kept roofs warm enough to rapidly melt snow. Today, most attics are moderately well insulated. Unfortunately, the attic insulation in most homes allows enough heat through to slowly melt the snow next to the shingles.

Melting snow flows down the roof underneath its insulating top snow, and then freezes when it reaches the cold eaves. This ice builds up, forming a dam, behind which more water and ice accumulate. This pooled water and melting ice can leak through to the walls and ceiling of the house and cause a significant amount of damage, resulting in soaked and inefficient insulation, cracked and stained plaster, and stained and peeling wall paint on the inside and the exterior.

But insulation really isn't the bad guy in this horror story. The problems are air leaks from the house to the attic that "bypass" attic insulation, and inadequate attic ventilation.

Attic bypasses include openings around wires, pipes, chimneys, light fixtures, the tops of walls, and dropped ceilings found over some closets, linen and china cabinets, and medicine chests. Insulation poured or laid over these air leak areas doesn't prevent heat from escaping through them. Even in houses with adequate amounts of ceiling insulation, it pays to locate "bypass" air leaks in the attic and to carefully seal them with caulk, plaster board, sheet metal, and plastic sheeting.

The job of attic ventilation is to keep the attic cold and dry by carrying out any heat or moist air that leaks into the attic. If air leaks to the attic are carefully sealed, and the attic is at least moderately insulated (at least R-20), there should be one square foot of ventilation for every 300 square feet of attic floor. Attics in which air leaks have not been sealed need about twice this amount of ventilation. Half of the ventilation should be at the soffits or low on the roof, and half should be near the ridge, to allow good air flow through the attic.

A house with a well insulated, carefully sealed, well ventilated attic avoids the scourge of the ice dam. Its owners don't have to rake the roof after every snow fall. By the way, its owners also will probably notice some savings in the fuel bill, since less heat escapes through the attic.

More information on ice dam prevention, ventilation, attic bypasses, and attic insulation is available from the Minnesota department of energy and economic development. Call the energy information center at 1-800-652-9747 from outside the Twin Cities (ask for "Energy"), or 296-5175 from the Twin Cities area.

State Tillage Organization Is Established

Farmers, agricultural businesses, government officials and concerned citizens are getting together from around Minnesota in a grass roots approach to promote conservation tillage. With the support of the Minnesota chapter of the soil conservation society of America, they have formed an organization called the Minnesota Conservation Tillage council (MCTC).

Diversity of crops and soils dictate that no one conservation tillage system is best for all of Minnesota. However, there is general concern about the need to coordinate conservation tillage activities around the state.

Through a coordinated effort of MCTC it is hoped more farmers will adopt the idea of leaving crop residues on the soil surface to reduce soil erosion and improve water quality. This plus conservation of soil water, energy and improved habitat for wildlife will improve the quality of life in Minnesota. Coupled with the need by farmers to minimize crop production costs and maintain crop yields, this objective represents the spirit by which MCTC was formed. To accomplish these objectives, the council plans to assist local groups in coordinating tillage demonstrations, field days and other activities.

With the formation of many fine local tillage clubs around the state, MCTC hopes to make their efforts even more effective. With joint cooperation of agribusiness, MCTC is hoping in the future to promote conservation tillage with large tillage and trade shows as is already being done in Iowa. Through this joint approach MCTC hopes businesses will learn of farmers needs and develop new products for use in farming with conservation tillage systems.

An additional goal of MCTC, with input from the membership, is to identify important research needs in conservation tillage and obtain financial support for the research. The council also hopes to encourage cooperation and coordination of education, technical assistance and research efforts.

On January 20, the first annual meeting of the MCTC was held in Minneapolis. At this meeting, the membership elected 12 directors to carry on the business of the council. To maintain the grass roots input, six of the directors are farmers who are practicing conservation tillage. Each farmer represents a geographic area of the state. Of the remaining six directorships, two directors represent agribusiness, two, governmental and education agencies; and two, the general public including wildlife and farm organizations. Together this collage of members forms a nucleus to carry out the goals of MCTC in promoting conservation tillage in Minnesota.

Advice Given On Avoiding Fire Tragedy

Minnesota recorded 19 fire-related deaths during the month of December, 1983, prompting public safety commissioner Paul Tschida and fire marshal Wes Werner to urge residents to pay closer attention to fire safety matters, particularly those related to wood-burning stoves or fireplaces.

The 19 fire deaths in December brought the 1983 total to 67. Of the 67, 18 were children under the age of 10. Twelve of those died during waking hours. Thirty-nine people (28 per cent) died of fires related to smoking and 16 (14 per cent) fire deaths were caused by wood-burning stoves.

"Our main concern is fires resulting from wood-burning stoves," said Werner. "We're not attempting to get people to stop using these stoves. We don't expect people to spend large sums of money buying new equipment. We want to stress some safety tips that will make the wood burning in present equipment safe."

A suggested mid-winter checklist should include the following:

— Make sure no insulation is against the chimney in the attic and that the chimney is at least two inches from any burnable materials.

— Improper stove pipe connections to chimnies are a major cause of fires, especially when a stove pipe passes through a wall or ceiling. Stove pipes should be at least 18 inches away from any wall or ceiling composed of burnable material.

— Stove pipes develop a creosote buildup faster than a chimney and should be checked weekly with a simple test. By tapping your stove pipes, you can get a good indication of excessive creosote buildup. Creosote will cause the pipe to "thud" instead of "ting." If your pipes "thud," clean them.

— Any stove pipe that is longer than six feet, has more than two elbows or is closer than 18 inches from any burnable material is potentially dangerous.

— Make sure all baskets, ornaments, wood boxes, furniture and any other burnables are well away from your wood stove. Heat can slowly warm surrounding objects and eventually start them on fire.

— Use of wood heat in a mobile home can be particularly dangerous.

— Any discoloration, crumbling or leaking of the outside wall of the chimney can mean a weakness or hazardous condition. If either problem is detected on the chimney have it repaired immediately.

— Overfilling a stove with too much wood can cause problems. Smaller and hotter fires with the wood added more often reduces creosote production and lessens the chances of an overheated appliance or chimney fire.

— If wood is needed now, do not go out and cut it for immediate use. Fresh-cut wood, even though it may have been dead for a long time, contains a lot of moisture which is a major cause of creosote and overheating.

Buy properly dried wood or borrow it from a neighbor.

"We believe fires can be prevented," Werner added. "Improperly installed or overheated stoves cannot be allowed. Also smoke alarms must be installed and properly maintained and checked periodically to make sure they work."

CPAs Advise Singles About Tax Breaks

If you are single and treat your 1983 federal income tax return like an unwanted houseguest you can't wait to get rid of, you may miss out on some good opportunities to save money.

Most singles file a short form and claim the standard deduction, or the zero bracket amount, of $2,300. That's because they usually don't amass more than $2,300 of deductible expenses and it doesn't pay to itemize their return. If that's your situation, you may still find ways to save on taxes without itemizing, says the Minnesota society of certified public accountants (CPAs).

At the bottom of the 1040 long form there's a section called "adjustments to income." That can be the route that will enable singles to lower their taxable income without the paperwork of itemizing.

Let's say you moved to a new location in 1983 to start a new job, and the distance between your old home and your new job is more than 35 miles. You can subtract from your gross income the cost of moving all your personal effects. You can also subtract up to $1,500 for the cost of house-hunting trips and any temporary housing and meals until you were settled. In addition, you can reduce your taxable income by any fees or commissions paid to real estate brokers. However, there are limits on these indirect expenses associated with moving, so check the IRS rules.

Another way to reduce your taxable income, within the adjustments-to-income section, is to subtract any unreimbursed business expenses. Include meals, transportation, lodging and any incidental costs incurred while you were on an overnight business trip.

If you hold two jobs, you can include the cost of traveling from your first job to your second job. Do not adjust income for the cost of commuting from your home to your primary job.

Perhaps the most common method of reducing taxable income is making contributions to an individual retirement account (IRA). About a quarter of those eligible maintain IRA accounts. A single person can contribute up to $2,000 a year to an IRA account and reduce taxable income by that amount.

There are differing opinions on whether a young single person should opt for an IRA. If you put $1,000 a year in an IRA, it will be worth $216,565 in 30 years, based on the prevailing 10 per cent yield compounded quarterly for a "conservative" IRA. That sounds great, but young single people have other factors to consider. If after five years of $1,000 contributions to an IRA you decide to withdraw the money to take out a home mortgage or to buy a business, you must pay a 10 per cent penalty for withdrawing before age 59 and a half. You may want to consult a tax advisor on your personal situation before opening an IRA.

CPAs say the very best way to save on taxes is to plan ahead, and bunching your tax deductions is an effective tax strategy for singles. Think about this for your 1984 and 1985 taxes. If your itemized deductions and the standard deduction are about the same, try to bunch two years of itemized deductions in either 1984 or 1985 and claim the standard deduction the other year.

Let's say you are a single person with itemized deductions of about $2,300 — the same as your standard deduction. But maybe you can defer payment of $1,500 of those deductible items until 1985 and claim the standard deduction for 1984. Then, for the two years, you get deductions totaling $6,100. That's the $2,300 standard deduction in 1984 and $3,800 of itemized deductions in 1985 — your usual $2,300 plus the $1,500 shifted from 1984. Thus, you increase your total 1984-85 deductions by $1,500 — from $4,600 to $6,100 — and you've saved yourself a substantial amount of tax dollars.

Try to work this out before next tax season, CPAs say.

Young Boy Dies When Gravel Pile Collapses

Collapse of a projection on a gravel pile in Thief River Falls Tuesday afternoon resulted in the death of six-year-old Mitchell Amiot, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Amiot of 1002 LaBree av. N. The accident happened at the city's gravel storage area on Horace av. N.

Mitchell was reportedly playing on the gravel pile with a young friend, Brett Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnson, when a frozen projection on the gravel pile gave way. The Amiot youth was caught under the large frozen mass of gravel which required use of two front-end loaders, a D-7 Caterpillar tractor and a road patrol grader to move.

The accident happened about 5:20 p.m. and it took until about 7:15 p.m. to move the gravel so that the boy's body could be removed. Initial call was made by Mrs. Wally Heaton to her husband who is a dispatcher at the Minnesota state patrol office. She had been stopped by the Johnson youth who told her Mitchell had fallen into the gravel pile and been covered up. Police, sheriff's department and city street department responded to the call.

Funeral services for Mitchell Amiot will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. from Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Richard Larson officiating. Visitation will be at Belmont Funeral chapel from Thursday noon and at the church for one hour before the time of service. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Harry Sieben, Bob Wolfe To Be Here Thurs.

Citizens of this area will be given an opportunity to visit with Minnesota's Speaker of the House, Harry Sieben Jr., Hastings, as well as Bob Wolfe, district engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation, Bemidji, following a noon lunch on Thursday, March 1, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Lunch has been arranged by the legislative-transportation committee of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, and will be held in summit rooms A and B, at a cost of $5 per person. Reservations are requested and may be made by calling the chamber office, 681-3720. Sieben's visit was arranged by Representative Wally Sparby.

Wolfe will discuss projects involved in MnDOT's 1986 to 1989 program of work, as well as the planned accelerated transfer of funds for highway projects. Following his presentation, an opportunity will be provided to ask questions of both Sparby and Sieben, concerning matters of state government.

Council Opposed On Zone Decision

Thief River Falls city council caught static from several fronts last night in city auditorium as adjacent property owners protested a February 14 decision to allow construction of two 12-plex condominiums in an area previously zoned for low density residential housing.

Other major topics of discussion included settlement of salary negotiations with department heads, supervisory employees and police federation representatives; potential legal action over the Consumers Coop building; and approval of an ordinace establishing a lodging tax.

Four property owners from the vicinity of the proposed condominium development east of the Holiday station were present to voice their objections to council. Ken Wiebolt, acting as spokesman, began by asking for an explanation of the council's rationale for granting the rezoning after it was unanimously denied by the planning commission on two occasions.

Mayor Bob Carlson attempted to explain that council had acted on the basis of economic benefits to the city through the availability of special purpose housing and resulting increased taxes and consumption of utilities. He also cited the "excellent reputation" of the developer, Julian Gunderson. Carlson expressed a belief that the planning commission had to deny the request because it was bound to uphold the city plan.

Alderman Bill Penning explained that he looked at the project as filling a need for housing for elderly people with too much money to qualify for subsidized housing, but allowed that he held some reservations about the ability to restrict it sufficiently. City Attorney Bob Wurst explained that there were constitutional problems involved in attempting to restrict housing by age, race or other criteria, but gave an opinion that the cost of the units (at $49 to 50,000 each) would serve to limit their sale to people with some money saved.

Ruth Jennings, legal counsel for Gunderson, gave an opinion that the property owners had been given sufficient notice that council

Hunt And Olson Write Top Tests

Two graduates of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute's practical nursing program received the highest marks that can be obtained in the Minnesota LPN testing program for state certification.

Sharon Hunt of rural Thief River Falls and Debra Olson of Newfolden both attained test scores of 800. Computerized print-out of the test results was received at the local AVTI practical nursing department recently. Both women are currently employed at Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls.

According to Sharon Erickson, one of four instructors in the program, only 22 of the 915 persons who took the test achieved the top score of 800 — slightly over two per cent. Passing score was 350 and 42 persons failed the test.

Of the 24 Thief River Falls AVTI graduates who took the test, two gained the 800 score, one ranked above 750, two above 715, one each above 700, 690 and 640 and two over 630, Mrs. Erickson said. Mean test score for the U.S. is 530 and for Minnesota is 547.9. Graduates of the Thief River Falls AVTI course had a mean test score of 551.4.

Sharon and Debra credit Mrs. Erickson and their other instructors (Mrs. Betty Roadfeldt, Mrs. Sylvia Jensen and Mrs. Mary Kay Isaacson) with having them well prepared to take the test. They said four hours were available to complete the 250-question test but that the full time was not necessary.

Both of the high scorers also agreed that the clinical experience they had obtained at Northwestern hospital through its affiliation with the LPN training program aided them in writing the test. The experience enabled them to use reason in considering answers rather than only textbook information.

Now employed in the pediatrics department at Northwestern hospital, Sharon previously was an operator and administrative clerk for Northwestern Bell Telephone company for four years. She also has credits from Northland community college and Bemidji state university with an emphasis on psychology and is looking toward the potential of a four-year nursing degree.

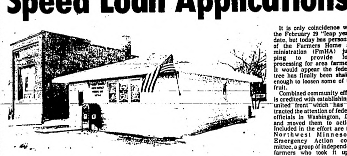
FmHA Adds Personnel To Speed Loan Applications



NEW POST OFFICE was put to use for the first time in Viking Saturday, according to postmaster Richard Audette. The 20x28 frame building in the foreground contrasts with the previous post office in the background, a brick and concrete former bank building which had served as post office for a number of years. The new building is owned by the city of Viking, was built by Peterson Lumber company of Thief River Falls, and is leased to the U.S. Postal department for 10 years with two five-year options for renewal, Audette said. Work on the building was started late in October. A grand opening will be conducted within the next several weeks.

NEW MAIL BOXES are located in the lobby of the new post office in Viking which was used for the first time Saturday. The 110 boxes are opened with keys, replacing the 100 boxes in the former post office which had combination locks. Checking the Hartz store box is store owner LaVonne Seaverson. Post-master Richard Audette said 43 of the 110 boxes are rented. The lobby and window are open from 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday with the exception of a dinner period from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The window is also open Saturdays from 7 to 9 a.m. when career replacement clerk Edna Gustafson is on duty.

It is only coincidence with the February 29 "leap year" date, but today has personnel of the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) jumping to provide loan processing for area farmers. It would appear the federal tree has finally been shaken enough to loosen some of the fruit.

Combined community effort is credited with establishing a united front which has attracted the attention of federal officials in Washington, DC, and moved them to action. Included in the effort are the Northwest Minnesota Emergency Action committee, a group of independent farmers who took it upon themselves to go to Washington and plead the area's case, the chamber of commerce which has joined in support, and a number of other individuals and groups who share similar interest in local agricultural recovery.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. today, personnel from all Farmers Home administration offices in the eight-county area of Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Mahnomen are meeting at the Best Western in Thief River Falls.

Purpose of the meeting, according to district director John P. W. Friederichs, is to "provide additional training in the processing of emergency loans and coordinating efforts to get farmer program type loans made as quickly as possible."

Friederichs said that 28 additional FmHA personnel have been assigned to the FmHA offices in Thief River Falls, Warren, Crookston and McIntosh to assist in processing pending loan applications. A federal task force which visited the offices several weeks ago found more than 700 loan applications dating back as far as 1982 which had not been processed.

People being assigned to the area to assist in loan processing include county supervisors and assistant supervisors from county offices in other areas of the state, Friederichs said. Today's meeting includes Russ Bjorhus, state FmHA director; two representatives of the farmer program in the FmHA state office; and Morris McGlynn, a retired FmHA director who has been assigned to coordinate the supplementary personnel.

Expediting of the loan applications was a major point of the protest staged by the Northwest Minnesota Emergency Action committee last Wednesday at the FmHA office in Thief River Falls. That protest involved ringing part of the federal office building with farm tractors and calling for quicker processing of loan applications.

Coincidental with the emergency action committee's protest activity, five area farmers were in Washington, DC, to meet with elected and appointive officials. They were Joe Ose of Thief River Falls, Terry Bjerke and Vance Wiseth of Goodridge, Mike and Lyle Pierce of East Grand Forks. They emphasized that they were representing no par-

Czech Folk Dancers Have Local Crowd Breathless

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

The person who said work didn't fatigue him because he could lay and watch people do it for hours probably had never seen "Lucnica", the Czechoslovak folk ballet. Concert-goers leaving the Lincoln high school auditorium last night seemed out of breath from simply watching this energetic young group.

One would expect dancers who had expended so much energy to be totally exhausted, but tour director Bentley Roton said many in the group were hopeful that there would be music in the Best Western lounge so they could "disco" after the concert.

"They are extremely well conditioned young people," Roton said. "That should be evident from their performance. And they are also a delight to be with although only a couple of them speak some English. They are very well-mannered and well disciplined and not at all demanding, which isn't always the case with touring dance groups or other artists."

Lucnica included 30 dancers and nine musicians, 11 of whom had been in the United States on previous tours. One of the girl dancers, most proficient in English among the group, said that she had been on tour here in 1977 for about six weeks and for a 10-day stay several years ago when the group was hired by Walt Disney Productions for opening of the Epcot center near Orlando, FL.

Artistic director Stafan Nosal had only a very few words to say in English, but when we asked questions of the English-speaking young lady, he answered before the question was repeated. We have the distinct impression that his comprehension was far greater than he wanted to admit.

Appearance of Lucnica (pronounced looch-nit-sa) in Thief River Falls was part of the Thief River Falls concert association series. Its artistry blended with athleticism and the musicians were exceptional performers in their own right, producing interesting sounds from a variety of instruments unfamiliar to most people here.

One of the more interesting instruments was a cimbal, a stringed instrument about two-thirds the size of a piano which was played by striking the strings with a pair of felt-tipped wands. The vibrant sound was very melodic and carried the tone of the performance, ably abetted by violins and other instrumentation. Another unique instrument was the fujara, a long, hollow tube with an attached smaller tube and tiny mouthpiece which produced sound varying from almost electronic vibratory notes to flute-like quality.

The group is mostly young with the dancers ranging from 18 to about 24 years of age. Most of them are students in gymnasiums (high schools) or universities in Czechoslovakia, but only two or three are studying dance in school. Others in the troupe include several engineers and one surgeon who simply enjoy dancing and are interested in preserving this part of their country's culture and heritage.

PRECISE STEPS were a trademark of the Lucnica Czechoslovak folk ballet which appeared in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening. The 30 dancers — 15 men and 15 women — filled the Lincoln high school stage with color and intricate movement. Split-second timing and exceptional athletic ability was displayed for an enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

Arriving in Chicago about two weeks ago, Lucnica was in concert in that area twice, then had Minnesota concerts in Austin, Albert Lea, Virginia and International Falls as well as Milwaukee and Rice Lake, WI, before arriving in Thief River Falls. Traveling in a chartered bus and using an enclosed truck to carry instruments, costuming and other luggage, the group members will virtually circle the United States before leaving for their home country April 21.

Their tour will take them into Lead and Rapid City, SD, Scottsbluff, NB; three towns in Wyoming; Logan, UT; Elko and Carson City, NV; half a dozen cities in California; two cities in Arizona and two more in New Mexico; El Paso, Del Rio and Laredo, TX; Pensacola, FL; and into Alabama, North Carolina, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York before leaving the United States.

Columbia Artists arranged for the tour through Slav Concerts of Czechoslovakia, tour director Roton said, but concerts in much of this area are arranged by Allied Concert Services. Thief River Falls concert association has been involved with Allied and its founder Norm Wendt for a number of years.

Things have gone so much as planned on this tour that there are few human interest incidents to relate, Roton said. One involved having the truck which hauls the equipment get stuck in mud in one of the towns where the group was playing. Immediately the men in the group got out to push. It seemed like the thing to do, apparently, but Roton said it was amusing because "It's not the kind of truck you can get out of deep mud by pushing by hand."

In general the group has been blessed with good weather and functioning equipment so that everything has gone about on schedule. He was complimentary of Thief River Falls and the people here and expressed regret that the group and himself could not stay here longer.

Deere Sells Snowmobile Line To Polaris

Polaris Industries will take over the snowmobile operations of Deere & Company of Moline, IL, and manufacture the 1985 product line in Roseau, according to an announcement made early this week.

Polaris will offer parts and service support to John Deere snowmobile dealers. Manufacturing and engineering responsibility for the current line of John Deere snowmobiles will be moved to Roseau in time for production for the 1984-85 season.

Deere will supply snowmobile clothing to dealers until Polaris also takes over that responsibility in the 1985-86 season.

Mark Rostvold, director of consumer products marketing for John Deere, said he believes the arrangement is in the best interests of John Deere dealers and their customers. He said it will assure the continued availability of parts, service and clothing for the John Deere line of snowmobiles.

Hall Wendell, president of Polaris Industries, said the step was an important one in bringing additional products to Roseau while strengthening the company's position in the snowmobile industry. He said the company intends to capitalize on John Deere's high quality line of snowmobiles, clothing, parts, accessories and dealer network.

The arrangement will allow Deere's consumer products factory at Horicon, WI, to concentrate its efforts on research, development, manufacturing and marketing in the grounds care field. Snowmobiles have represented a rather small part of the company's consumer products operations in the past and space dedicated to their production will now be used for other items.

FmHA Adds Personnel To Speed Loans

ticular group or organization but were appealing for recognition of a unique and serious problem for an agricultural area which required special governmental consideration.

Concerns addressed by the farmers to Sen. Boschwitz and FmHA national director Charles Shuman, along with several aides and assistants from other Washington offices, included the following:

(1) Request was made for a detailed report of the findings of the task force which visited FmHA offices in this area recently;

(2) Objection was raised to dropping of land values 30 to 50 per cent in the past two years in determining FmHA loan qualification. It was pointed out that reported land sales at lower values used to determine land values were forced sales due to weather-related economic conditions of the sellers.

(3) Due to the three to five years of adverse weather and crop losses, it is almost impossible for many farmers to qualify for the 30 per cent loss requirement based on previous crop yields. This requirement is part of qualifying procedure for granting of emergency loans. A farmer who had 100 per cent crop loss one year could not show a 30 per cent loss from that figure the following year.

(4) Limited resource loans must be implemented immediately, the farmers said, providing needy farmers with long-term loans at low interest. Deferral of loan payments and reamortization of loans are also immediate necessities, the farmers pointed out to officials in Washington.

(5) The farmers said that the Minnesota senate agriculture committee leadership had offered to provide outside personnel to assist in FmHA loan processing but the offer had been refused by state director Bjorhus as unnecessary.

(6) Immediate processing is needed for applications from all farmers who have been forced to seek reorganization under chapter 11 of the U.S. bankruptcy code, the farmers said. The loans must be made by FmHA during the period of time before the farmer's plan is approved.

(7) It was indicated that FmHA offers of loan guarantees from other lenders are of no use due to the reluctance of other financial organizations to provide the money.

(8) The farmers relayed the emergency action committee's request for the resignations of Bjorhus, district director Friederichs and assistant district director Paul Dornfeld.

A report from the farmers who made the Washington visit indicates that several comments and commitments were made by the federal officials.

The report indicated that FmHA director Shuman had said his agency should not be the one to drop land values by refusing to grant loans when FmHA had been actively involved in borrowing to farmers based on the higher land values of two years ago.

Sen. Boschwitz reportedly told the farmers that Shuman assured him it should be no problem for FmHA to use normal county yields rather than the previous years' yields to determine an operator's disaster loss and further repayment ability.

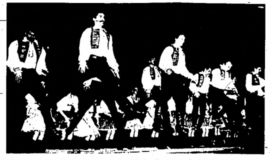
Glenn (Jack) Hertzler, assistant FmHA administrator, told the farmers it also should be no problem for 1982 disaster sign-up to be reopened if proof can be documented that farmers were discouraged from sign-up by FmHA officers because these same officers had devalued the farmers' land and other assets.

Shuman also reportedly told the farmers that FmHA would provide loans to farmers who have filed for reorganization under chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code provided that legal counsel for the agency reviews the loans.

It was also indicated by Sen. Boschwitz that he and Shuman would come to Thief River Falls so that the director could review the local situation on a first hand basis with area farmers and others. The visit would be expected in the next two weeks.

Farmers have contended, and federal officials reportedly agreed, that programs for help have been available but the state has failed to implement them through the county offices. It was also alleged that county directors have the authority to make decisions on all deferrals, reamortizations and recapitalization on interest.

A citizens' "watchdog committee" has been formed to monitor activities locally and remain informed on the procedures being implemented. District FmHA director Friederichs said that the process of contacting individual loan applicants to come in for loan review with supplementary staff has already begun.



SPECTACULAR LEAPS, in unison and in individual performances, displayed the athletic ability of dancers in the Czechoslovak folk ballet "Lucnica" which appeared in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening. The performance was part of the Thief River Falls concert association series.

Council Hears Protest On Zoning Change

would be meeting on the matter so that they could have been present at the February 14 meeting to express their opposition. She also noted that members of the condominium association would set their own rules regarding who would be allowed to live there, which would be controlled by the majority.

After over an hour and a half of discussion with no real changes of opinion on either side, Mayor Carlson suggested that the matter be tabled to a special meeting expressly for the purpose of continuing discussion, on March 6, noting that council still had a long agenda ahead of them.

Alderman Jim Womack reported that the finance committee had settled on salaries for department heads and supervisors for 1984 and 85, and recommended their adoption. Total of 20 employees were considered as part of that group. Although some individual adjustments were made where discrepancies were felt to exist, estimated overall salary adjustments were as follows: 8.5 per cent overall increase in direct salary plus a $5 per month increase in the longevity schedule for 1984, with an additional 5.1 per cent increase in direct salary in 1985.

He noted that because 1983 wage settlement of approximately 1.3 per cent increase had been based on anticipated cuts in state aid which hadn't materialized, salary increases were only 5 per cent per year if averaged out over three years. Benefits which the supervisory people have include term life insurance equal to their annual salaries.

Other salary increases approved by the council included a 7 per cent increase in salary for the city attorney, to $1,161 per month; and volunteer firefighter's pay was increased from $72 to $80 per quarter, or $32 per year. All increases were made effective January 1, 1984.

Alderman Ambrose Wysoski reported that the labor committee had settled on salaries with the Thief River Falls police federation, and recommended their approval.

Contract changes approved by council were also for a two year period. Wysoski noted that because of the 1983 contract settlement of approximately 1.56 per cent increase, they were basing their cost analysis on a three year period also, noting that the increase amounted to 6.3 per cent per year over three years. Starting salary, currently at $1,175 was increased to $1,275 for 1984, and $1,375 for 1985. Employees with one year experience were raised from $1,325 per month to $1,450 for 1984 and $1,575 for 1985. After two years, salaries increased from $1,475 to $1,600 in 1984 and $1,725 in 1985. After three years, salaries went from $1,625 to $1,775 in 1984 and $1,900 in 1985. Sergeants and investigators are paid five per cent above the top patrolman salary.

Other benefits include an employer contribution toward a family health insurance plan of $150 per month, maximum, with the city continuing to pay the total premium for a single insurance plan and $15,000 term life insurance, and two personal leave days per year, to be deducted from accumulated sick leave.

Limited discussion was held regarding possible legal actions which might result from actions on the negotiations to purchase the Consumers Co-op building for use as an off-sale liquor outlet. Apparently, after city council voted to buy the property, papers were drawn up granting an option to purchase, with $100 earnest money transferred to the Consumers Co-op board. After Mayor Carlson refused to sign the papers, council agreed to put the purchase on hold, pending investigation of other possible sites.

Some questions were raised on whether breech of contract could result if the city failed to pursue its option, or whether the fact that the contract was not signed by all parties made it invalid. City attorney Wurst was asked to study the issue.

Rev. Melvyn Budke, pastor of United Methodist church, whose parishoners were greatly responsible for opposition which resulted in the delay, commented, "even if you buy the property, that doesn't force you to put a liquor store on the site."

Members of the chamber of commerce were present to request approval of a "lodging tax" ordinance to raise money to promote convention and tourism business in the city.

As approved by council, the ordinance establishes a two per cent tax on the gross receipts for lodging at a motel, hotel, tourist court or other space used by transients within the city for less than thirty days. At least 95 per cent of the proceeds from the tax are to be used by the city to fund its local convention and tourist bureau for the purpose of marketing and promoting the city, with the balance to provide reimbursement for costs of collection and administration of the tax by the city. Ordinance was made effective March 1, and is to remain in effect on a trial basis for two years.

In other business the council:

—Approved a gambling license for the Pennington county fair board to operate pull tabs at Lon's;

—Authorized an increase in the budget for the community band, from $1,500 to $2,000;

—Approved purchase of the sound-system which was tried at the sports arena during hockey tournaments, at a cost of $5,500;

—Authorized application for an interest free loan from Minnesota department of transportation to construct a new 120 by 60 foot hangar at the airport. Loan would be for about $80,000, with cost of the building estimated at $100,000. Repayment of the loan would be financed by rental of the building. Remaining $20,000 of the cost would be raised through sale of the 100 by 100 foot hangar to the school district.

—Referred a petition from the Eagles Club to vacate Fourth Street between Davis Avenue and Red Lake Boulevard to the planning commission;

—Approved providing of space in city buildings for FHA personnel to process emergency loan applications;

—Granted reduced rent of $100 per day to the Old Timers hockey team to hold a tournament at the sports arena.

—Approved a permit for Tim Sheridan to build an additional apartment within his building at 102 South Markley;

—and discussed the need to support airline service at Thief River Falls regional airport.

lovakia, but only two or three are studying dance in school. Others in the troupe include several engineers and one surgeon who simply enjoy dancing and are interested in preserving this part of their country's culture and heritage.

Arriving in Chicago about two weeks ago, Lucnica was in concert in that area twice, then had Minnesota concerts in Austin, Albert Lea, Virginia and International Falls as well as Milwaukee and Rice Lake, WI, before arriving in Thief River Falls. Traveling in a chartered bus and using an enclosed truck to carry instruments, costuming and other luggage, the group members will virtually circle the United States before leaving for their home country April 21.

Their tour will take them into Lead and Rapid City, SD, Scottsbluff, NB; three towns in Wyoming; Logan, UT; Elko and Carson City, NV; half a dozen cities in California; two cities in Arizona and two more in New Mexico; El Paso, Del Rio and Laredo, TX; Pensacola, FL; and into Alabama, North Carolina, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York before leaving the United States.

Columbia Artists arranged for the tour through Slav Concerts of Czechoslovakia, tour director Roton said, but concerts in much of this area are arranged by Allied Concert Services. Thief River Falls concert association has been involved with Allied and its founder Norm Wendt for a number of years.

Things have gone so much as planned on this tour that there are few human interest incidents to relate, Roton said. One involved having the truck which hauls the equipment get stuck in mud in one of the towns where the group was playing. Immediately the men in the group got out to push. It seemed like the thing to do, apparently, but Roton said it was amusing because "It's not the kind of truck you can get out of deep mud by pushing by hand."

In general the group has been blessed with good weather and functioning equipment so that everything has gone about on schedule. He was complimentary of Thief River Falls and the people here and expressed regret that the group and himself could not stay here longer.

Deere Sells Snowmobile Line To Polaris

Polaris Industries will take over the snowmobile operations of Deere & Company of Moline, IL, and manufacture the 1985 product line in Roseau, according to an announcement made early this week.

Polaris will offer parts and service support to John Deere snowmobile dealers. Manufacturing and engineering responsibility for the current line of John Deere snowmobiles will be moved to Roseau in time for production for the 1984-85 season.

Deere will supply snowmobile clothing to dealers until Polaris also takes over that responsibility in the 1985-86 season.

Mark Rostvold, director of consumer products marketing for John Deere, said he believes the arrangement is in the best interests of John Deere dealers and their customers. He said it will assure the continued availability of parts, service and clothing for the John Deere line of snowmobiles.

Hall Wendell, president of Polaris Industries, said the step was an important one in bringing additional products to Roseau while strengthening the company's position in the snowmobile industry. He said the company intends to capitalize on John Deere's high quality line of snowmobiles, clothing, parts, accessories and dealer network.

The arrangement will allow Deere's consumer products factory at Horicon, WI, to concentrate its efforts on research, development, manufacturing and marketing in the grounds care field. Snowmobiles have represented a rather small part of the company's consumer products operations in the past and space dedicated to their production will now be used for other items.

FmHA Adds Personnel To Speed Loans

ticular group or organization but were appealing for recognition of a unique and serious problem for an agricultural area which required special governmental consideration.

Concerns addressed by the farmers to Sen. Boschwitz and FmHA national director Charles Shuman, along with several aides and assistants from other Washington offices, included the following:

(1) Request was made for a detailed report of the findings of the task force which visited FmHA offices in this area recently;

(2) Objection was raised to dropping of land values 30 to 50 per cent in the past two years in determining FmHA loan qualification. It was pointed out that reported land sales at lower values used to determine land values were forced sales due to weather-related economic conditions of the sellers.

(3) Due to the three to five years of adverse weather and crop losses, it is almost impossible for many farmers to qualify for the 30 per cent loss requirement based on previous crop yields. This requirement is part of qualifying procedure for granting of emergency loans. A farmer who had 100 per cent crop loss one year could not show a 30 per cent loss from that figure the following year.

(4) Limited resource loans must be implemented immediately, the farmers said, providing needy farmers with long-term loans at low interest. Deferral of loan payments and reamortization of loans are also immediate necessities, the farmers pointed out to officials in Washington.

(5) The farmers said that the Minnesota senate agriculture committee leadership had offered to provide outside personnel to assist in FmHA loan processing but the offer had been refused by state director Bjorhus as unnecessary.

(6) Immediate processing is needed for applications from all farmers who have been forced to seek reorganization under chapter 11 of the U.S. bankruptcy code, the farmers said. The loans must be made by FmHA during the period of time before the farmer's plan is approved.

(7) It was indicated that FmHA offers of loan guarantees from other lenders are of no use due to the reluctance of other financial organizations to provide the money.

(8) The farmers relayed the emergency action committee's request for the resignations of Bjorhus, district director Friederichs and assistant district director Paul Dornfeld.

A report from the farmers who made the Washington visit indicates that several comments and commitments were made by the federal officials.

The report indicated that FmHA director Shuman had said his agency should not be the one to drop land values by refusing to grant loans when FmHA had been actively involved in borrowing to farmers based on the higher land values of two years ago.

Sen. Boschwitz reportedly told the farmers that Shuman assured him it should be no problem for FmHA to use normal county yields rather than the previous years' yields to determine an operator's disaster loss and further repayment ability.

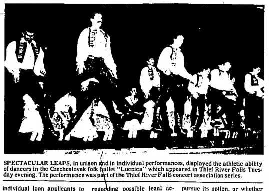
Glenn (Jack) Hertzler, assistant FmHA administrator, told the farmers it also should be no problem for 1982 disaster sign-up to be reopened if proof can be documented that farmers were discouraged from sign-up by FmHA officers because these same officers had devalued the farmers' land and other assets.

Shuman also reportedly told the farmers that FmHA would provide loans to farmers who have filed for reorganization under chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code provided that legal counsel for the agency reviews the loans.

It was also indicated by Sen. Boschwitz that he and Shuman would come to Thief River Falls so that the director could review the local situation on a first hand basis with area farmers and others. The visit would be expected in the next two weeks.

Farmers have contended, and federal officials reportedly agreed, that programs for help have been available but the state has failed to implement them through the county offices. It was also alleged that county directors have the authority to make decisions on all deferrals, reamortizations and recapitalization on interest.

A citizens' "watchdog committee" has been formed to monitor activities locally and remain informed on the procedures being implemented. District FmHA director Friederichs said that the process of contacting individual loan applicants to come in for loan review with supplementary staff, has already begun.



SPECTACULAR LEAPS, in unison and in individual performances, displayed the athletic ability of dancers in the Czechoslovak folk ballet "Lucnica" which appeared in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening. The performance was part of the Thief River Falls concert association series.

Council Hears Protest On Zoning Change

would be meeting on the matter so that they could have been present at the February 14 meeting to express their opposition. She also noted that members of the condominium association would set their own rules regarding who would be allowed to live there, which would be controlled by the majority.

After over an hour and a half of discussion with no real changes of opinion on either side, Mayor Carlson suggested that the matter be tabled to a special meeting expressly for the purpose of continuing discussion, on March 6, noting that council still had a long agenda ahead of them.

Alderman Jim Womack reported that the finance committee had settled on salaries for department heads and supervisors for 1984 and 85, and recommended their adoption. Total of 20 employees were considered as part of that group. Although some individual adjustments were made where discrepancies were felt to exist, estimated overall salary adjustments were as follows: 8.5 per cent overall increase in direct salary plus a $5 per month increase in the longevity schedule for 1984, with an additional 5.1 per cent increase in direct salary in 1985.

He noted that because 1983 wage settlement of approximately 1.3 per cent increase had been based on anticipated cuts in state aid which hadn't materialized, salary increases were only 5 per cent per year if averaged out over three years. Benefits which the supervisory people have include term life insurance equal to their annual salaries.

Other salary increases approved by the council included a 7 per cent increase in salary for the city attorney, to $1,161 per month; and volunteer firefighter's pay was increased from $72 to $80 per quarter, or $32 per year. All increases were made effective January 1, 1984.

Alderman Ambrose Wysoski reported that the labor committee had settled on salaries with the Thief River Falls police federation, and recommended their approval.

Contract changes approved by council were also for a two year period. Wysoski noted that because of the 1983 contract settlement of approximately 1.56 per cent increase, they were basing their cost analysis on a three year period also, noting that the increase amounted to 6.3 per cent per year over three years. Starting salary, currently at $1,175 was increased to $1,275 for 1984, and $1,375 for 1985. Employees with one year experience were raised from $1,325 per month to $1,450 for 1984 and $1,575 for 1985. After two years, salaries increased from $1,475 to $1,600 in 1984 and $1,725 in 1985. After three years, salaries went from $1,625 to $1,775 in 1984 and $1,900 in 1985. Sergeants and investigators are paid five per cent above the top patrolman salary.

Other benefits include an employer contribution toward a family health insurance plan of $150 per month, maximum, with the city continuing to pay the total premium for a single insurance plan and $15,000 term life insurance, and two personal leave days per year, to be deducted from accumulated sick leave.

Limited discussion was held regarding possible legal actions which might result from actions on the negotiations to purchase the Consumers Co-op building for use as an off-sale liquor outlet. Apparently, after city council voted to buy the property, papers were drawn up granting an option to purchase, with $100 earnest money transferred to the Consumers Co-op board. After Mayor Carlson refused to sign the papers, council agreed to put the purchase on hold, pending investigation of other possible sites.

Some questions were raised on whether breech of contract could result if the city failed to pursue its option, or whether the fact that the contract was not signed by all parties made it invalid. City attorney Wurst was asked to study the issue.

Rev. Melvyn Budke, pastor of United Methodist church, whose parishoners were greatly responsible for opposition which resulted in the delay, commented, "even if you buy the property, that doesn't force you to put a liquor store on the site."

Members of the chamber of commerce were present to request approval of a "lodging tax" ordinance to raise money to promote convention and tourism business in the city.

As approved by council, the ordinance establishes a two per cent tax on the gross receipts for lodging at a motel, hotel, tourist court or other space used by transients within the city for less than thirty days. At least 95 per cent of the proceeds from the tax are to be used by the city to fund its local convention and tourist bureau for the purpose of marketing and promoting the city, with the balance to provide reimbursement for costs of collection and administration of the tax by the city. Ordinance was made effective March 1, and is to remain in effect on a trial basis for two years.

In other business the council:

—Approved a gambling license for the Pennington county fair board to operate pull tabs at Lon's;

—Authorized an increase in the budget for the community band, from $1,500 to $2,000;

—Approved purchase of the sound system which was tried at the sports arena during hockey tournaments, at a cost of $5,500;

—Authorized application for an interest free loan from Minnesota department of transportation to construct a new 120 by 60 foot hangar at the airport. Loan would be for about $80,000, with cost of the building estimated at $100,000. Repayment of the loan would be financed by rental of the building. Remaining $20,000 of the cost would be raised through sale of the 100 by 100 foot hangar to the school district.

—Referred a petition from the Eagles Club to vacate Fourth Street between Davis Avenue and Red Lake Boulevard to the planning commission;

—Approved providing of space in city buildings for FHA personnel to process emergency loan applications;

—Granted reduced rent of $100 per day to the Old Timers hockey team to hold a tournament at the sports arena.

—Approved a permit for Tim Sheridan to build an additional apartment within his building at 102 South Markley;

Commissioner Of Agriculture Upset By USDA

(Editor's Note: The following letter from Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Nichols refers to the Times' commentary regarding release of local county sign-up figures in the federal dairy diversion program. It should be noted that the wheat and feed grain program sign-up deadline mentioned late in the letter has been extended and the sign-up is still open.)

I very much appreciate the article about the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) withholding dairy sign-up results. I was glad to see that someone took enough interest in the withholding of this information to write an editorial about that fact.

Like yourself, I began calling the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices in the state and to some offices in other states to find out the results of the dairy sign-up. I was astounded when calling my local ASCS office to have them tell me they could not release the information. They apologized for the fact that they could not release this information, but said they were given strict orders not to release any of this information until a later date.

I appreciate the ASCS offices around the state and I especially like Don Friedrichs, the state ASCS director, and I don't think it was by design or approval on their part that they could not divulge the information. I had hoped for larger participation by Minnesota farmers but was not surprised that Southern and Western dairy farmers chose not to cut production since they already receive $15-$16 per hundredweight for their milk.

An even more interesting date is coming fast upon us, when the sign-up for the wheat and feed grain programs ends on February 24. My preliminary calls indicate that to date the sign-up is running from 10 per cent to 20 per cent. I feel that it is critical for farmers to participate in this program. There is no reason to end the sign-up date on February 24 when March 1 is the standard date for all beginning and ending rent, lease or buying options on land contracts.

Because it is much earlier, many farmers do not seem aware that February 24 is the cut-off date for the sign-up period and I know that you and others in the news media will do everything possible to make them aware of that important date. We have asked Secretary Block to extend the sign-up date to March 15.

Sincerely,
Minnesota Department of Agriculture
-s- Jim Nichols
Commissioner

Load Limits To Go Into Effect On Co. Roads

CSAH 3 south to Red Lake county line; CSAH 23 from CSAH 3 south to Red Lake county line; and CSAH 24 from CSAH 3 north to TH No. 1.

The following roads will be posted for six tons gross weight per axle: CSAH 27 from TH 1 south to Polk county line and CSAH 12 from CSAH 3 south to Red Lake county line.

The following roads can carry a legal axle load of nine tons: CSAH 17 from First street (city of Thief River Falls) south to CSAH 3 and CSAH 3 from TH 59 west to TH 32.

Because of the high cost of maintaining county roads and the shortage of funds available, the Pennington county sheriff's department will be implementing an intensive program to weigh vehicles on the county road system with portable scales, the engineer's office states.

Visiting Now Restricted At NW Hospital

Due to the increased incidents of influenza and flu-like illnesses in the community, Northwestern hospital services is now limiting visitation to immediate family members of patients, according to Richard Spyhalski, administrator.

"Since symptoms occur later than actual onset of the illnesses," Spyhalski said, "our patients need to be protected from potential exposure. In previous years the community has cooperated beautifully when visiting restrictions were necessary and we hope they will do so once again."

Restrictions on visiting privileges for protection of patients will remain in effect until further notice.

Screening For Preschoolers At Newfolden

Preschool screening for children who will be eligible to attend kindergarten in the Newfolden school district in the fall of 1985 will be held March 1 and 2 in the Newfolden elementary school gymnasium.

Appointment letters have been mailed to known parents of eligible children, so any who have not received an appointment should call Janeen Kalsnes at 874-8215 or the school secretary at 874-8805.

Minnesota law requires each school district to offer free health and developmental screening to each child at least once before starting kindergarten. Participation in any part of the program is voluntary and cannot be required for school enrollment. Purpose of the screening is to identify children who may have health or developmental problems. It is intended to help prevent health or learning problems from becoming more serious, but should not be considered as a substitute for care from a family physician or other health care provider.

Alternatives To Disposal Facility Pushed By Board

Minnesota waste management board has often been accused of spending too much time trying to site a facility for disposal of hazardous wastes and not devoting enough effort to such disposal alternatives as waste reduction, recycling, treatment and incineration, notes board chairman Robert Dunn.

"A close look at the board's goals and accomplishments, however, reveals that such critics have misrepresented the board's hazardous waste management activities," Dunn said. "While the board's efforts to site a disposal facility have drawn the most attention from the news media and have generated much controversy in potential siting areas, the board has pursued a hazardous waste management program that approaches disposal as a last resort and emphasizes alternatives to disposal."

The waste management act, a comprehensive law passed by the Minnesota legislature in 1980 to improve the state's waste management capabilities, assigned three major hazardous waste management responsibilities to the board.

(1) Study Minnesota's hazardous waste problem and develop a long-range plan for managing the state's hazardous wastes;

(2) Designate at least nine "preferred areas" around the state where privately-owned waste management firms could be encouraged to construct and operate commercial hazardous waste treatment facilities; and

(3) Select at least one environmentally suitable site for a disposal or long-term storage facility to contain those waste residues that cannot be further treated or reprocessed.

During the last four years, the board has worked on each of the three tasks simultaneously, as required by the act. However, the board has concentrated its efforts on reducing the need to dispose of hazardous wastes and has accomplished much toward this goal.

In December of 1983, the board issued a draft hazardous waste management plan based on a comprehensive study it conducted on Minnesota's hazardous waste problem. The plan — which was developed with the direct participation of citizens in areas the board is considering for hazardous waste facilities as well as representatives of business and industry, environmental groups and local government officials — outlines the state's strategies for properly managing hazardous wastes through the year 2000 and beyond.

In the plan, the board proposes a four-tier hazardous waste management system, with substantial reduction in the amount of hazardous waste generated in Minnesota as the highest priority. Waste recycling and treatment (including incineration) are, in that order, the waste management methods preferred by the board. Disposal or long-term storage will be the last resort for managing Minnesota's hazardous wastes and will be used only to contain those wastes that cannot be further recycled, treated or otherwise reprocessed.

During the 1984 session of the Minnesota legislature, lawmakers will review the draft plan and consider several programs the board has recommended in it to promote hazardous waste reduction and increased recycling and treatment of such wastes.

In addition, the board has designated 21 "preferred" industrial areas throughout the state suitable for hazardous waste treatment facilities — including recycling plants, incinerators and centers to collect and temporarily store small amounts of waste until they can be shipped to a treatment or disposal facility. The board is now encouraging reputable waste management firms to build treatment facilities within "preferred areas."

While the board works to fulfill its responsibility under the waste management act to designate an environmentally suitable site for a disposal or long-term storage facility, it will continue to pursue measures that will reduce the need for such a facility.

For further information on the policies and programs of the waste management board, call toll-free 1-800-652-9747 or write the Board at: 7323-58th Ave. No., Crystal, MN 55428.

Toll-Free Call Available To Area Business

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has announced arrangements for a toll-free telephone number for businesses in disaster-stricken northwest Minnesota. The number (1-800-554-3455) will allow business owners in Polk, Beltrami, Pennington, Norman, Red Lake and Marshall counties to contact the U.S. small business administration (SBA).

"This should cut costs for businesses applying for disaster relief," Congressman Stangeland said. "Before this hotline was available, employers had to pay long-distance charges to the SBA's disaster headquarters in Atlanta, GA."

Disaster relief in the form of loans covering 80 per cent of weather-related losses up to $500,000 has been made available, but small business owners found that applying for the loans could be a costly business.

At a special meeting in Thief River Falls last fall, arranged by Congressman Stangeland between SBA officials and business people, the toll-free number was requested. "I hope this will ease the process of applying for the 1983 disaster loans," he said.

Clearwater Is Most Recent Disaster Co.

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has announced a 1983 disaster declaration for farmers in Clearwater county.

Relief in the form of Farmers Home administration (FmHA) loans will cover 80 per cent of the farmers' 1983 crops losses, up to $500,000 per farm. To qualify for the loans, farmers must show that they lost at least 30 per cent of their 1983 crops and are unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

Congressman Stangeland will now seek disaster relief for small businesses in the northwestern Minnesota county, which includes the towns of Bagley and Clearbrook. Loans from the U.S. Small Business administration would help businesses to survive the loss of farm income in this rural area.

Clearwater is the seventh county in the Seventh District to be declared a disaster area for 1983. Congressman Stangeland said he had earlier secured disaster declarations for farmers in Polk, Beltrami, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties.

"I will keep the pressure on FmHA to approve these disaster loans as quickly as possible," he said. "The time is passing for farmers to buy seed and fertilizer and prepare for 1984 spring fieldwork."

Interest rate on disaster loans is usually eight per cent, but at the Chicago Summit on Drought Relief last September, farm state leaders persuaded U.S. Ag Secretary John Block to drop that rate to five per cent on the first $100,000 of disaster relief loans.

"That increases the purchasing power of these loans by up to $3,000," Congressman Stangeland said.

A member of the House ag committee, Rep. Stangeland has also persuaded Rep. Ed Jones (D-TN), chairman of the House subcommittee on conservation, credit and rural development, to hold Congressional hearings on Stangeland's bill (H.R. 4610) to consolidate farm related debts in counties hit by three or more years of natural disasters. Date for the hearing will be set in the near future.

During the past several weeks, Stangeland said he has also helped disaster-stricken farmers by persuading FmHA to open a new office in Crookston, by securing "limited resource fund" loans for hard-hit farmers, and by working with Sen. Rudy Boschwitz (R-MN) to persuade FmHA administrator Charles Shuman to bring extra workers to the area to process loans.

District One Nurses Plan Two Meetings

Board meeting will start at 7 p.m. and general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Following that will be a program on a peer assistance program for nurses by Jan Naverro, chairman of this committee.

May 17 there will be a workshop on diseases of the ear and hearing loss at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. To register, make check payable and mail to MSPB-PH Ear Workshop, 1203 Pioneer Building, St. Paul, MN 55101. Tuition is $18.50 and meal is $5.50. Registration begins at 7:15 and the workshop ends with the evaluation at 3:30 p.m.

UNIQUE SUSPENSION system of Arctic Cat's newest sled was given a good workout by Joe Hallstrom on Sunday as he turned in a crowd-pleasing performance to win the Sport-7 final. Although the sled was competitive on Saturday, some fine tuning of the suspension Saturday night gave Hallstrom a definite edge over the other seven sleds in the class, allowing him to jump out in front and stay there. The performance drew an appreciable round of applause from the home-town audience, but again it was "The Cat" that was back.

LAVERNE RONDORF, left, recently retired after 15 years of employment with Land O'Lakes in Thief River Falls. At a coffee party in his honor he was presented with a gift certificate from fellow employees and a plaque from the company in recognition of his years of service. Making the presentation is Harvey Hanson, plant superintendent.

Public Forum On Education At Bemidji HS

Public forum on education will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday in the library of Bemidji senior high school at the intersection of 15th street and Beltrami avenue under sponsorship of Congressman Arlan Stangeland.

"Minnesota has very good public and private schools," Congressman Stangeland said, "but there are problems in the classrooms across much of America. Congress will soon be asked to vote on a number of proposals on education spending. This meeting will help to measure support for those proposals and to discuss other alternatives."

He said people are concerned by the report issued by the national commission on excellence in education. Released last year and entitled "A Nation at Risk," the report warned:

"Each generation of Americans has outstripped its parents in education, in literacy, and in economic attainment. For the first time in the history of our country, the educational skills of one generation will not surpass, will not equal, will not even approach those of their parents."

"Although the task of education is best handled at the state and local levels, I am so concerned about this that I felt a special meeting should be held so parents, educators and students could discuss this report," Congressman Stangeland said. "By discussing our problems, I hope we can come up with some solutions."

Dr. Robert J. Brown, an expert consultant with the U.S. department of education, will attend the meeting. Dr. Brown, who has served in several Washington posts, was a professor and director of graduate programs in school administration at the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul. He has also worked as a teacher and guidance director in secondary schools.

Congressman Stangeland has sponsored similar forums in St. Cloud and Moorhead which were lively and well-attended.

Stumpf Reports "Good News" For Employers

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer reports that private employers in the state are receiving good news from the senate employment committee, which reported that in 1982, benefit costs for workers' compensation coverage dropped by 11.7 per cent. This is estimated to save Minnesota employers about $60 million over what they paid in 1980.

"I am certain that the legislative reform measures we passed in 1979 and 1981 are chiefly responsible for this latest premium dollar savings for businesses," Sen. Stumpf said, "and this has effectively reversed the negative trend which had state employers paying out enormous amounts for this coverage over this time. If this had not been corrected, employers would have paid out another $461 million in injured workers premiums than they paid in 1980-82."

The savings in this injured workers insurance program were reported in a recent newsletter published by the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry (MACI), which pointed out that while the wages paid in the state have steadily increased over the past decade, workers' compensation premium dollars paid peaked in 1980, and have continued to decline ever since.

"We are also optimistic that the comprehensive reform of the workers' compensation system we approved last session will result in even greater savings to private employers," Sen. Stumpf added.

According to the MACI article, figures compiled by the Workers' Compensation Insurance Rating association showed the percentage of each employment dollar spent for this coverage dropping by 2.3 per cent in 1980; 10.3 per cent in 1981 and 11.7 per cent in 1982.

Premiums of $481.5 million were paid on $23.7 billion in wages in 1980; $468.3 million on $25.7 billion in 1981 and $421.9 million on $26.6 billion in 1982.

REPORT

From The

Minnesota House of Representatives

by Rep. Wallace Sparby
District 1B

Biennial beginning of grass roots political involvement — the precinct caucus — will be held across the state on Tuesday, March 20. The caucus is the first step in our political process of self-government, rivaled only in importance by election day, and should be marked for attendance by every voting age citizen in Minnesota.

Precinct caucuses are meetings of neighbors who share a concern about the operation and policies of local, state and federal government. These citizens meet to discuss issues important to the year's election and to elect delegates to represent their ideas the county, district and state level conventions.

Anyone who is qualified to vote in the November 6 election is eligible to attend a precinct caucus and I urge you to do so. It is one of the best opportunities private citizens have to participate in government.

Not only will you have a formal opportunity to influence party platforms and campaign issues, you will have a chance to voice your preferences for the candidates who should represent your party.

State law requires each political party to hold precinct caucuses every general election year to elect precinct officers and conduct business. Nominations for precinct officers must remain open for at least the first half-hour of the caucus. Newly elected officers will coordinate precinct activities until the next general election.

The number of convention delegates selected is determined by the number of votes cast by a particular precinct for the party's candidate in the previous general election. Delegates from precinct caucuses will compete in county and legislative district conventions for congressional district and state delegate seats.

If you do not want to run for precinct office or a delegate seat, you can always offer your ideas with a resolution, because anyone participating in a caucus can offer resolutions for consideration. (These do not have to be written in formal language.) Any resolutions approved at the caucus will be carried by the elected delegates to the district and county conventions.

Another opportunity you have to serve your neighborhood in the political process is to be an election judge. Each political party will recruit election judges during precinct caucuses. If you have not served in this capacity before, you might find it interesting because you will be helping citizens at the polls on election day.

You are eligible to be an election judge if you are a qualified voter, belong to a political party, are able to read, write and speak English, and are appointed by your city council or town board. (Names taken of individuals qualified and willing to serve as election judges will be passed on to the county auditors who supply names to the town board or city councils in their county.)

Precinct caucuses from both political parties will convene at 8 p.m., March 20. For the exact location of your precinct caucus, contact the county auditor's office or watch the local newspaper for a list of locations. Those should be printed before March 14.

Again I urge all of you to attend your caucus and speak out on how you want to see government operate. The election process begins with you and you should grab the opportunity to be an active participant.

If you have further questions on precinct caucuses, please contact me at 263 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN. 55155.

MAIDEN VOYAGE for this new truck owned by Russ Holtan of Wedul Trucking of Thief River Falls turned out to be a disastrous one. Driven by Francis Wayne Vaudrin, 32, Thief River Falls, the truck was southbound for Minneapolis by way of Fargo when it overturned on the roadway of highway 32 about five miles south of Marcoux corner. Vaudrin was uninjured but the 1984 Kenworth tractor with only 250 miles on the odometer sustained an estimated $8,500 to $10,000 in damage. The tractor had been driven to Thief River Falls from Fargo when purchased last Wednesday and used on a few short familiarity trips prior to making its first over-the-road trip Monday. The accident happened shortly after 9 a.m. Monday. Holtan said the truck was loaded with wheat which spilled on the roadway and had to be loaded onto another truck. Damage to the trailer was estimated in excess of $3,000. The tractor will be repaired in Fargo and is expected to be back in use in about three weeks. The photo above was taken for the Times by Candace Evans of the Fertle Journal.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Precinct caucuses in both political parties will be held at 8 p.m., Tuesday, March 20, in many locations around Marshall county. Watch your local newspaper for announcements of these locations in a later issue. Those who attend will have the first voice in their party's platform (by bringing in written resolutions) and the first choice in their party's candidates, when they qualify at the caucus as delegates to conventions where these matters will be voted on later this spring.

Government begins at your precinct caucus. Those who attend, about one voter out of 25, make the decisions for everyone else. Don't miss this chance to turn government in the direction you want it to go.

Any citizen who will be at least 18 years old by general election day, November 6, is eligible to attend the caucus of the party whose policies and candidates he or she has supported in the past, or intends to support in 1984.

Your precinct caucus is just a group of neighbors from your precinct (the city or township where you live) who support the same political party as you do, meeting to share ideas on how to make government what they want it to be. They select a few of their number to serve as their delegates and support their ideas (as written resolutions) at their party's county convention a few weeks later.

Your party's platform will be put together at its national convention this summer. The platform will consist of resolutions which started out at precinct caucuses and were passed again at county, district and state conventions, by delegates elected to represent the voters at those levels.

Your party's candidate selection process will begin at local area endorsing conventions this spring. Only persons who attend their precinct caucuses will be eligible to vote for, or select delegates to vote for, the candidates who are chosen at these conventions.

Remember precinct caucuses on March 20; if you care, you'll be there.

Frances Crummy,
Secretary
IR Party of Marshall Co.
Rt. 1, Warren, MN 56762

Buetow Praises Play of Bergland

University of Minnesota hockey coach Brad Buetow was on hand Monday in the sports arena to watch the Section 8 high school hockey tournament semifinal game matching Roseau and Crookston, and he didn't hesitate at all when asked if he might be able to say a couple of nice things about Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland, a freshman skating with the Gophers, for the home town newspaper.

"I could say lots of nice things about Timmy," smiled Buetow. "He's centering our top line right now, with Roger Bowe on the left wing and Steve MacSwain on right wing, and he's there because of his hard work."

Bergland spent some time on the Gophers' junior varsity earlier this year, but has established himself as a WCHA-caliber hockey player as the season progressed, explained Buetow.

"I knew he'd play, but I wasn't sure how well. He's proved he can play at our level. Nobody has worked harder on our team than he has. He's going to get better and better," he said.

Bergland and the rest of the Gophers will be in Grand Forks this weekend for a two-game, total-goal WCHA playoff semifinal series with the University of North Dakota. Games start at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Minnesota swept Colorado College 3-1 and 4-1 in opening round WCHA playoff action last weekend, with Bergland getting his fourth goal of the year in the Saturday victory.

Prowlers Likely To Draw Lumberjacks

Seeding meeting will be held tonight (Wednesday) for the six North Sub-Region 8AA high school basketball teams, and unless there is a surprising development, the order of seeding will apparently find Fergus Falls, No. 1; Moorhead, No. 2; Bemidji, No. 3; Detroit Lakes, No. 4; Park Rapids, No. 5; and Thief River Falls, No. 6.

If that's the case, then opening round tournament games Tuesday would find Thief River Falls at Bemidji and Park Rapids at Detroit Lakes. Semifinals Thurs., March 8, would then have the Thief River Falls-Bemidji winner at Moorhead and the Detroit Lakes-Park Rapids winner at Fergus Falls. Championship game will be played Sat., March 10.

Detroit Lakes has won the tournament the past two years, but Fergus Falls has a 5-0 record against North Sub-Region 8AA opponents this winter, while Moorhead, although just 10-8 overall, is 4-2 and Bemidji, while 14-4 overall, is 5-2.

Fergus Falls kept its record against Class AA opponents perfect last Tuesday with a 67-65 victory at Moorhead on Scott Grohn's tip-in at the buzzer. Grohn, starting his first game, tipped in a missed shot by Len Kretchman for the game-winning points.

Bemidji, meanwhile, lost twice over the weekend, losing a surprising 68-64 Friday night decision to Crookston and dropping a 78-64 Saturday contest at Moorhead.

Thief River Falls, twice a winner over Crookston, lost two one-sided games to Bemidji. The Prowlers, 6-13 overall, will close out their regular season schedule Friday at Warren.

Miscellaneous

+ Darrin Tougas, a senior on the Oklee-Plummer cooperative high school wrestling team, has been selected by the Minnesota High School Wrestling Coaches Association as one of 60 wrestlers under consideration to compete in a Minnesota-Iowa all-star wrestling series, a first-time venture featuring a pair of dual meets in March. First match will be held Sat., March 10, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The second encounter will take place Sun., March 18, at Blaine high school in the Twin Cities at 2:30 p.m. Two separate 13-man Minnesota teams will wrestle at each site, with the 26 wrestlers to be selected from the original list of 60 names, who will be announced on the final day of the Minnesota state wrestling tournament Saturday. Tougas will take a perfect 28-0 record at 119 pounds into this week's Class A state tournament at the St. Paul Civic Center.

+ Mitch Rustad, a senior from Thief River Falls, will begin his final season with the University of North Dakota tennis team this weekend when the Sioux open with a 4 p.m. match against Mankato State Friday and an 8:30 p.m. match against the University of Minnesota-Duluth Saturday at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre. Rustad was a national tournament qualifier in both singles and doubles a year ago.

+ University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) hockey coach Jim Clauson, whose team successfully defended its Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state playoff title over the weekend with a two-game, total-goal series victory over regular season league champion Hibbing, has a 53-14-2 won-loss-tie record in three years with the Trojans.

ROSEAU CENTER Paul Broten raised his arms in triumph as he skated past Crookston goalie Derek Bray after scoring a third period goal during Monday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament semifinal game at the Thief River Falls sports arena. The puck, which went into the net and bounced out again, laid on the ice behind the netminder. Broten collected five points in the Rams' 6-3 victory over the Pirates.

Section 8 Hockey Tournament . . .

Roseau 6-3 Semifinal Winner Over Crookston

It wasn't pretty, but Roseau reached the championship game of the 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament being played in the Thief River Falls sports arena with a 6-3 semifinal victory over Crookston Monday.

Fifteen penalties — eight assessed the Rams and seven against the Pirates — caused frequent interruptions in play and took away much of the excitement normally associated with the tournament despite a large crowd on hand.

"We had eight or ten guys playing most of the game because of the penalties," acknowledged Roseau coach Gary Hokanson. "It was really tough to get into the flow of the game. It doesn't even feel like a tournament win. We're just glad it's over."

Actually, Roseau benefitted the most from the penalty situation when the Rams scored two power play goals just 31 seconds apart midway through the second period. That was part of a three-goal Roseau explosion in a three-minute span that ballooned a 2-1 lead into a 5-1 cushion.

That outburst came after an altercation in the Crookston zone that produced four penalties for roughing — one on the Rams' Bruce Helgeson, one on the Pirates' Dave Holmquist and a double minor whistled against Crookston defensive standout Mike Hastings. Both Roseau goals came during 4-on-3 situations as freshman Jon Helgeson, with lots of time to survey the situation as Crookston goalie Derek Bray lay on the ice, lifted a backhand rebound into the net at 6:06 and Paul Broten of the Rams took Scott Vatnsdal's centering pass from behind the net and quickly converted it into a goal on a nifty-looking play at 6:37.

"We got caught up in the emotion of the game," said Crookston coach Mike Lundby softly as he talked about the penalties the Pirates accumulated. "We drew the three penalties, they got the momentum and they got everything going. You can't play catch-up hockey against Roseau."

Cheering had hardly subsided on the Roseau side when Bruce Helgeson, digging away at the puck that Bray thought he had covered, finally put it in the net at 9:07 for a sudden four-goal edge. Bray stormed out of the goal crease to argue with the officials that a whistle should have been blown to stop the play — to no avail, of course.

For all practical purposes the game was over at that point. Hastings scored on a power play at 12:52 to close the period at 5-2, but Broten put the puck through Bray's pads during a 4-on-4 situation at 2:01 of the third period before the Pirates' Rich Clauson closed out the scoring with a 2-on-1 rush at 9:50.

Lundby said beforehand that the Pirates would have to do a better job containing Broten, who had himself a five-point game during a regular season 5-1 Roseau victory over Crookston. But Broten, a senior center ticketed apparently for WCHA action next year, had five more points Monday with two goals and three assists. Broten, Helgeson, one of his first line wings, and Vatnsdal, a senior defenseman, all figured in the Rams' first five goals. Helgeson scored twice and had an assist, while Vatnsdal scored once and had two assists.

"I thought we really played well the first period, period-and-a-half," said Hokanson. "We had some crisp passes; we moved the puck well."

But it was a scoreless struggle for the first 17½ minutes as Bray, a standout in a 3-0 first round victory over Thief River Falls, extended his scoreless work in the nets. And Roseau's Don Johnson equalled that.

Hokanson, though, figured it would be just a matter of time before the Rams would score. "I thought we had a much better goaltender in Donny Johnson, and that we could beat him (Bray) high. We're capable of putting the puck in the net."

After a relatively sedate first period, the next 15 minutes were pretty wild with seven goals and eight penalties.

Jon Helgeson opened the scoring at 3:42 on a rebound after Bray stopped Broten, who brought the puck down the ice. Vatnsdal got his first goal at 4:23, and Crookston's Shane Schmitz made it 2-1 with the third goal of a frantic 78-second span. He had a wide open net to shoot at when Johnson gambled and lost by coming way out of the net to beat the on-coming Pirates to the puck.

However, just when the Pirates appeared to be back in it, they picked up those three penalties and were quickly out of it.

"We never really gave the kids a chance," said Lundby, meaning the penalties took them out of the game.

Crookston finished the year at 15-8-1. Roseau carries an 18-4 record into the finals Friday.

Bemidji Reaches Section 8 Hockey Finals . . .

Lumberjacks, Peters Top Otters 6-2 In Semifinals

There was just 3½ minutes gone in the first period when frustration began to set in for a Fergus Falls fan seated in the Thief River Falls sports arena Tuesday for the Otters' Section 8 high school hockey tournament semifinal game against Bemidji.

It was at that early point of the game, after Bemidji sophomore goalie Steven Peters had already made a handful of saves that the fan was heard to say, "Sooner or later something has to go in."

But Peters' outstanding play continued for the duration as he kicked out 31 of 33 shots in leading the Lumberjacks past the Otters 6-2 and into the 1984 Section 8 championship game Friday against defending champion Roseau.

Bemidji was out-shot 33-17, but Peters, one of eight sophomores on the Lumberjacks' tournament squad, met the challenge in impressive fashion.

"He played super," praised Bemidji coach Bryan Grand. "He's played well all year, but that certainly has to rank as well as he's played."

Peters combined his obvious skills with a little luck to stop the Otters, who had an apparent game-opening goal nullified by a whistle just nine seconds into the first period when the officials stopped play as Bemidji defenseman Bob Smith laid on the ice after taking a solid check against the boards behind the Lumberjacks' net. Later in the same period Peters stopped Fergus Falls' Mike Donley, who was all alone in front of the net. In the second period, the Otters' Kris Werner caromed a shot off the pipe and Donley again missed an excellent opportunity on a shorthanded breakaway in a then-close 2-2 hockey game.

Just 28 seconds after that Donley miss, Bemidji's Darryn Fossand got the game winner on the power play at 9:18. He got his slap shot from the point over Donley's legs as the Fergus Falls wing went down to block the shot and the puck went just inside the left post to give the Lumberjacks a 3-2 lead they never relinquished.

Back-breaker then came at 12:43 of the second period. After an extended stretch of Fergus Falls pressure in the Bemidji zone, the Lumberjacks broke out and senior Mike Johnson scored his second goal of the game, an unassisted job as he controlled the puck through a crowd in front of the Fergus Falls net and beat Jeff Hanson, the Otters' junior netminder, from close-in.

Bemidji tacked on two third period goals despite being out-shot 12-6 in the final 15 minutes. Junior David Smith put it out of reach at 4:42 with a shorthanded goal directly from the face-off to Hanson's left. He won the draw cleanly and the puck was in the net before anyone moved.

That made it 5-2 and sophomore David Smith hit an open net at 14:13 after Hanson had been pulled in favor of an extra attack with 1:38 remaining.

Grand stopped short of calling it the Lumberjacks' best game of the year, but he say, "It sure has to rank as the hardest everybody on the team worked."

Bemidji junior Don Sauer began the scoring at 6:29 of the first period with a hard backhand shot that slipped just under the crossbar after he took a centering pass in the slot from John Yetter behind the net.

Mike Johnson got his first goal on a power play at 10:46 to make it 2-0. Linemate Pat Braaten bounced off a check near the side of the Fergus Falls net, maintained possession of the puck and fed Johnson, who was alone in front.

Fergus Falls finally dented Peters with just 43 seconds left in the first period when Jason Wentler tipped in Kurt Werner's slap shot from the point.

Chuck Lundeen tied it at 7:20 of the second period, but rest of the scoring was done by the Lumberjacks, who played most of the game without Sauer, their speediest player, who was helped off the ice after hurting his knee at the 6:58 mark of the first period. He spent the rest of the game in street clothes, and his status for the finals is uncertain. Bob Smith, another key figure in the Lumberjacks' line-up, wasn't up to par, either, pointed out Grand after he took that game-opening shot along the boards.

Fergus Falls coach Tim Cullen politely declined to comment on the game in the quiet Fergus Falls lockerroom. The Otters finished the season 16-6, with an 11-game winning streak, which started after a 5-3 loss to Bemidji in January, coming to an end. Bemidji is 16-5-1.

First Period

Scoring — Bemidji, Don Sauer (John Yetter), 6:29; Bemidji, Mike Johnson (Pat Braaten), 10:46; FF, Jason Wentler (Kurt Werner, Mike Donley), 14:17.

Penalties — Bemidji, John Port, high stick, :55; FF, Chuck Lundeen, checking from behind, 9:50.

Saves — Bemidji, Steve Peters 11; FF, Jeff Hanson 3.

Roseau, Bemidji Meet In Finals

Top two seeded teams made their way through the quarterfinal and semifinal rounds and will meet Friday when No. 1-seeded Roseau and No. 2-seeded Bemidji clash in the 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament championship game at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Roseau, after finishing atop the regular season Section 8 standings, made it to the finals with an 8-3 quarterfinal win over Moorhead Friday and a 6-3 semifinal victory over Crookston Monday. The defending Section 8 champion Rams are 18-4.

Bemidji was the regular season second place finisher behind Roseau. The Lumberjacks got by Warroad 4-1 in the Section 8 tournament quarterfinals Saturday and handled Fergus Falls 6-2 in Tuesday's semifinals.

Roseau beat Bemidji twice during the regular season, skating to a 7-3 win the first time and getting by with a 5-4 decision in the rematch.

A 1-0 winner over Thief River Falls in last year's championship game played at East Grand Forks, Roseau has won 23 titles in the 39-year history of the tournament. Bemidji won four titles in a five-year span from 1972-76, but the Lumberjacks haven't had a championship trophy since then. In the last Section 8 tournament to be held in Thief River Falls, Bemidji lost a 3-1 championship game decision to East Grand Forks in 1982, with the Green Wave padding a narrow 2-1 lead with an open net goal in the final six seconds.

It'll be an interesting contrast of ages. Bemidji is fielding a team with eight sophomores, seven juniors and just four seniors. Roseau, meanwhile, features 16 seniors, three juniors and a freshman.

There are no advance sale tickets available in Thief River Falls for the game, but approximately 1,000 tickets will go on sale at the arena ticket counter Friday when the doors open at 6:30 p.m.

Winner will advance to the 1984 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament next week at the St. Paul Civic Center Arena. The Section 8 winner will meet the Section 6 champion in the tournament opener at 12:05 p.m. Thurs., March 8.

Girls Basketball Tournament . . .

Prowlers Lose 1st Round 47-46 Decision To Otters

Host Fergus Falls ran up a 13-point first quarter lead Monday and held on for a 47-46 win over Thief River Falls in an opening round North Sub-Region 8AA girls high school basketball tournament game.

Fergus Falls was the No. 4-seeded team in the six-team field, with Thief River Falls seeded No. 5. The Prowlers, who lost a 63-52 regular season decision to the Otters on the same court just six days earlier, finished the year 9-11 overall.

No. 3-seeded Detroit Lakes, playing at home, eliminated No. 6 Moorhead 53-32 in Monday's other first round game, setting up Thursday's semifinals when Fergus Falls will be at No. 1-seeded Bemidji and Detroit Lakes will be at No. 2-seeded Park Rapids for 7:30 p.m. games. Championship game will be played Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the site of the highest-seeded semifinal winner.

Fergus Falls jumped out to an 18-5 first quarter lead and stayed in front the rest of the game, owning a 28-17 halftime advantage and clinging to a 34-31 third quarter edge.

"No excuses for this one," offered Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "We just didn't go into the game mentally ready to play basketball. We just stood around. Second half we came back, but we just gave them too big of a lead."

Thief River Falls, hurt by Fergus Falls' inside game in the loss the week before, closed down the middle Monday, pointed out Schafer, but the Otters' Linda Knutson hit from the outside in leading all scorers with 18 points.

For the Prowlers, it was their familiar one-two punch of sophomore Michelle Puetz, who had 16 points and 19 rebounds, and junior Michelle Olson, with 15 points and 20 rebounds, leading the way. "They both had really good nights," noted Schafer.

Poor shooting cost the Prowlers. They were 19-for-64 from the field (29 per cent) and just 8-for-22 at the free throw line (36 per cent). The Otters were 20-for-47 from the field (43 per cent) and 7-for-15 at the line (47 per cent). Thief River Falls finished with a big 52-23 rebound advantage, but also had 27 turnovers. Fergus Falls was charged with 15 turnovers.

"It was very disappointing," said Schafer. "We played a very poor ball game and still lost by just one point. We could have won easily."

Top two swimmers in each event, along with the top five divers, will earn berths in the 1984 Minnesota state swimming and diving championships March 9-10 in Minneapolis.

Thief River Falls' list of sectional competitors will include five seniors, two juniors, three sophomores and three freshmen.

Those seniors will be Dave Ose, who will swim the 200 individual medley, the 100 butterfly and either the 200 medley or 400 freestyle relay where coach Jay Forney hasn't determined the line-ups yet; Jeff Rosetta, diving; Craig Goodrich, 50 freestyle, 100 butterfly and probably the 400 freestyle relay; Roger Rivera, 100 backstroke; and Brett Olson, 100 butterfly.

Juniors making the trip will be Todd Wing, diving, 100 backstroke and probably the 200 medley relay; plus Paul Wefald, 100 breaststroke and probably the 200 medley relay.

Sophomore swimmers will be Eric Ose, 200 freestyle, 100 backstroke and the 400 freestyle relay; Jim Amundson, 100 freestyle and probably the 200 medley relay; and Jeff Michalicek, 50 and 100 freestyle.

Freshmen representing the Prowlers will be Joe Drevlow, 200 I.M., 500 freestyle and 400 freestyle relay; Rick Rosetta, 100 butterfly and 200 medley relay; and Todd Carlson, 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle.

Each school is allowed two entries in each event, but can have up to four in each race if the individuals meet pre-set qualifying times. Fastest six swimmers in Friday's prelims will be seeded into Saturday's finals, with the next six going into the consolation finals.

Wing and Rosetta will be favored to battle each other for the Section 8 title in the diving competition, and Dave Ose was a third place finisher last year in the 200 I.M. But while the divers are expected to do well, Forney acknowledges the fact that it'll be tough for the swimmers to gain a high placing in the 13-team field that will be headed by favorites Brainerd, Bemidji, Fergus Falls and Alexandria.

"We're looking for that fifth place spot," he pointed out. "I think that a fifth place finish is very realistic for us. That would put us at the top of the second division."

It would also continue a steady Thief River Falls climb up the ladder that has produced a ninth place finish in 1982 and a seventh place finish in 1983.

Thief River Falls was 6-3 in dual meet competition this winter.

FWS Payment Is Made To Marshall Co.

A check for $88,727. was presented to the Marshall county treasurer February 27 by Joseph Kotok, Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge Manager, as part of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) annual revenue-sharing program.

The program is designed to compensate local units of government for loss of tax revenue on lands owned by the U.S. government and administered by the FWS. The funds may be used for any governmental purpose. The program is authorized by the Refuge Revenue-Sharing Act of 1964, as amended in 1978. The original Act provided for payments only on lands within the National Wildlife Refuge System. The 1978 amendment provided that payments be made on all lands administered by the FWS. Such lands in the North Central Region include national wildlife refuges, national fish hatcheries, waterfowl production areas and administrative sites.

Check presented to the Marshall county treasurer is this year's revenue-sharing payment for lands being occupied by the 61,449-acre Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge in eastern Marshall county.

Argyle Upsets Middle River Girls 45-44 . . .

Skippers' Winning Streak Ends In District 32 Play

Unbeaten status of the Middle River girls high school basketball team was shattered Monday in almost unreal fashion when Argyle sophomore Cherlyn Timm made both ends of a bonus free throw opportunity with time expired to give the Eagles a 45-44 District 32 tournament semifinal victory at Newfolden.

Winners of 20 straight games, including a 47-29 District 32 tournament quarterfinal win over Lancaster Saturday, the Skippers were on the verge of stepping into the championship game when they owned a 44-41 lead with just six seconds left Monday.

But six seconds took an agonizingly long time to play for the Skippers. Argyle missed two field goal attempts in that short stretch of time, but grabbed the rebound and drew fouls on both occasions.

Middle River still led 44-43 after Argyle's Janelle Hapka sank two free throws, but the Skippers promptly threw the in-bounds pass away. Again Argyle missed from the field, but Timm was fouled at the buzzer, and with time expired she made both the tying and game-winning free throws.

To make it even more frustrating for the Skippers, the only lead of the game for the Eagles came on that final free throw.

"We led for 32 minutes, and lost," pointed out disappointed Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "It was tough to take."

Middle River led 6-2 at the end of the first quarter, had a 17-11 halftime lead and maintained a 27-22 edge after three quarters. But Argyle more than doubled its point production in the final eight-plus-minutes, out-scoring the Skippers 23-17.

Bonnie Safranski led the Argyle come-back by scoring 16 of her game-high 18 points in the second half. "We couldn't stop Safranski in the second half," noted Neibauer.

Timm, who didn't start, finished with 15 points, getting five key free throws down the stretch. Paula Rantanen and Tammy Sorter scored 15 and 13 points, respectively, for the Skippers.

Middle River shot 34 per cent from the field (14-for-41) and 64 per cent at the free throw line. Argyle was 11-for-20 at the line.

Argyle will meet Hallock in the District 32 championship game Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Newfolden. Hallock edged Stephen 42-41 in the first of Monday's thrilling doubleheader semifinals. Defending champion Middle River and Stephen will play in the 6:30 p.m. third place game.

Jody Pahlen scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds Monday to lead Plummer past Goodridge 48-44 in an opening round District 31 tournament game played in the Pershing high school gym.

Plummer began with a 14-8 first quarter lead and never trailed, owning a 22-20 halftime edge and ahead 33-28 after three quarters.

Goodridge, the No. 10-seeded team in the 11-team field, ended the year with a 6-12 record.

"We hustled and worked hard, but whenever a crucial time came where we needed the basket, we'd lose the ball," explained Goodridge coach Patti Johnson.

Sheila Jaeger scored 10 points to join Pahlen in double figures for the Cardinals. Jennie Boutain and Diana Troska scored 14 and 12 points, respectively, for the Huskies.

"We lacked emotion," said Plummer coach Rick Kolvisto, who also said the Cardinals again showed their lack of a "killer instinct" when they failed to put the game away after building that early lead.

Shooting percentages were identical for the two teams both from the field (30 per cent) and from the free throw line (67 per cent). The Cardinals were 17-for-57 from the field and 14-for-21 at the line. The Huskies were 18-for-61 from the floor and 8-for-12 at the line. The No. 7-seeded Cardinals had a 43-33 rebound advantage and the Huskies had one more turnover, 17-16.

Underdog Plummer played heavily favored Crookston to a 35-35 tie through three quarters, but the Pirates out-scored the upset-minded Cardinals 16-3 in the final eight minutes to escape with a 51-38 District 31 quarterfinal victory Tuesday at East Grand Forks.

"We played three excellent quarters, but it was the same old story — one bad quarter beat us," explained Plummer coach Rick Kolvisto.

Crookston, the tournament's No. 2-seeded team behind East Grand Forks, led 10-7 at the end of the first quarter, but No. 7-seeded Plummer went ahead 25-23 at halftime.

Jody Pahlen of Plummer led all scorers with 19 points, but nobody else had more than four points for the Cardinals. Ember Rogalla scored 16 for the Pirates.

Crookston shot 49 per cent from the field (21-for-43) and was 9-for-18 at the free throw line. Plummer shot 31 per cent from the field (17-for-55) and was just 4-for-10 at the line. Plummer had a 37-25 rebound edge, with Robin Brantl and Sheila Sorenson both grabbing 10 caroms for the Cardinals. Crookston topped the turnover figures 15-12.

Plummer finished the year 11-9.

Conservation Directory Is Now Available

They save wetlands and whooping cranes; they fight toxic wastes and water pollution; they hike, fish, farm and take care of zoos.

People who know natural resources are listed in the National Wildlife Federation's 1984 Conservation Directory, which lists 12,000 individuals and 1,800 organizations.

The 300 pages of the directory's 29th edition, published this month, list key contacts and addresses for organizations involved with natural resource management in the United States and 113 countries.

Included are federal, state and Congressional officials, committees and agencies concerned with the environment, as well as thousands of citizens' groups — with interests as varied as trumpeter swans, prairie grouse, New England wild flowers and American wilderness.

Listings of organizations include the address, telephone number, names of directors, statement of purpose and size of each group.

The 1984 Conservation Directory can be obtained for 19 plus $1.55 for shipping charges per order (regardless of number of books ordered) by writing to Conservation Directory, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

DOG CHASING DEER are an almost annual spring problem in this area, and the two deer pictured above were killed by dogs during the weekend, according to local conservation officers. The two fawns were killed and partially eaten Saturday and Sunday. The German Shepherd dog was shot by conservation officers as it was chasing another group of seven deer Monday morning near highway 59 about six miles south of Thief River Falls. The person who notified the conservation officers had seen four dogs chasing deer Sunday morning and found one of the fawns in its death throes in the woods. Warden supervisor Craig Backer of Thief River Falls reminds people that deep snow is not necessary for dogs to catch deer and that dogs should be confined at least during the next five or six weeks when they seem to be the most active as deer chasers. He also calls attention to the law that states: "Any person may, and it shall be the duty of every conservation officer to, kill any dog pursuing or killing deer or moose, and no action for damages shall be maintained against the person for the killing. The owner of any dog which is found pursuing or killing deer, moose or domestic livestock shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Workshop At RLF March 7 For Nurses

A nursing workshop entitled "Fluids & Electrolytes" will be presented at St. John's Hospital in Red Lake Falls on Wednesday, March 7 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Julie Berglund, RN, currently head nurse on the organ transplant unit at the University of Minnesota hospitals and clinics, will present the workshop.

Program is sponsored by the University of Minnesota resource network cooperative liaison office, St. John's hospital and the Thief River Falls AVTI.

By the completion of the program, the participant should be able to identify the four major functions of the kidney; explain the role of the kidney in maintaining fluid and electroylyte balance; and describe the medical and nursing interventions and to treat fluid and electrolytes.

Course is designed to provide three contact hours of credit. Pre-register by March 5 by calling Sherry Raymond, director of nursing at St. John's hospital 253-2131. Fee for the workshop is $10.00 per participant.

Peterson Would Speed Buy-Out Of Fishermen

State Senator Collin C. Peterson of Detroit Lakes has introduced legislation to accelerate the buy-out of commercial fishing operations on Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake. He scheduled a hearing on the bill this week in his fish and wildlife subcommittee.

Peterson's bill would put into law Minnesota's portion of a tentative agreement with the Canadian Province of Ontario. Ontario, on its part, will not institute a proposed $3 daily fee on people staying at Minnesota resorts but fishing in Canadian waters, Peterson said.

Also included in the legislation is a provision allowing the cross-deputization of conservation officers.

Last year Peterson was the chief author of a law that would begin phasing out commercial fishing operations on the lakes in 1985. His new legislation would begin the process one year earlier. Financing of the project comes from a special fund financed by a portion of fishing license fees.

Peterson said it has been estimated that an end to commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake would make an additional 160,000 pounds of walleyes available for sport fishing.

Peterson said the $3 fee proposed by Canada would have been "devastating" to northern Minnesota resorters and charter boat operators. Canadian officials have admitted that one purpose of the fee was to encourage U.S. tourists to stay in Ontario instead of Minnesota in order to avoid the fee, he said.

Set World Day Of Prayer At Redeemer Fri.

"Living Water from Christ, Our Hope" is this year's theme for World Day of Prayer services to be held at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Friday at 10 a.m.

This annual celebration has been held as a day of prayer for many years in this community and around the world. Sharing in the preparations for this day were ladies from Trinity and Zion Lutheran, United Methodist, St. Bernard's Catholic, Evangelical Covenant, Black River and Redeemer Lutheran churches.

The service was written by Christian women in Sweden using water as a focus. They have drawn upon many examples from Scripture when this essential element symbolizes life and hope. In recognition of the fact that water is one of the most serious deprivations from which the world's people suffer, this service seeks to motivate not only prayer, but action to alleviate physical and spiritual thirst in the world.

Joyce Halbasch of Redeemer will serve as organist and Jan Peterson and LeRoy Aasland of Trinity will sing. A poem written by Flora Mercil on "Living Water" will be read by Audrey Donarski of St. Bernard's. Also taking part in the service will be Sylvia Rondorf, Patsy Johnson and Erna Scholin of Black River church, Cammy Johnson and Kathy—Hoffman of Zion church, Sharline Hess and Jean Hellie of United Methodist, Maxine Wicklander, Jo Helgeland, Jan Olson, Lori Sorteberg and Alice Engelstad of Trinity church, Louise Shefveland of Evangelical Covenant church, and Enid Sande and Donna Poole of Redeemer church.

The offering from this service will be divided between Church Women United, the American Bible Society and the local food shelf program.

All men and women of the area are invited to attend this ecumenical service. Coffee and fellowship will precede and follow the service. Nursery service will be provided from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. by women from Redeemer.

Franchise Buyer Should Be Aware

Ever dreamed of starting your own business. . . setting your own hours. . . being your own boss? If these types of thoughts frequently run through your mind, perhaps you should consider buying a franchise, suggests the Minnesota department of commerce.

Franchises provide the opportunity to begin a business with the benefit of an established name, good-will and marketing program.

Want-ad columns list franchise opportunities in fast food restaurants, carpet cleaning services, transportation services, and lodging accommodations, among others. These opportunities are frequently touted as the chance of a lifetime to be financially independent. Before investing in these types of businesses, however, it is wise to cautiously research the franchise and the offering. The range of franchise fees and expenses to be borne by the franchisee vary significantly from one franchise to another and are often not readily ascertainable. Some franchises may appear one day and disappear the next.

This year the department of commerce ordered a franchisor to stop selling "frozen fish" franchises for which the franchisor was charging $10,000 apiece. The cease and desist order was issued after an investigation into allegations that the program had not been registered prior to its being offered within the state and that the franchisor was failing to deliver the promised products. In another case, franchisees were persuaded to pay out fees in excess of $10,000 each for the opportunity to manufacture molded plastic parts at home. Several months after parting with their money, these individuals discovered that the salesman had misrepresented the alleged demand for these materials and in fact there was no one willing to purchase the finished products.

The potential for extreme financial harm, in these situations, is compounded by the fact that franchisees often acquire the required franchise fee by placing second mortgages on their residences. Thus if the business opportunity fails, the franchisee may also face the loss of his or her residence.

The Minnesota franchise law provides a degree of protection for the consumer wishing to pursue franchise business opportunities, by requiring (among other things) registration and disclosure by the franchisor. Anyone who wishes to offer or sell a franchise (franchisor) in Minnesota must be registered or exempt. The franchisor files with the department of commerce a public offering statement and any proposed agreements on a particular franchise. The public offering statement provides a summary of certain material provisions of the franchise agreement, including the amount of initial investment required, information regarding existing franchises and future plans for franchises. Prospective franchisees should carefully read the public offering statement and if necessary, obtain assistance in understanding the provisions.

The franchise law facilitates the opportunity for the consumer to receive the most recent and accurate information in order to make a sound business decision. Its provisions include the following:

(1) The prospective franchisee must receive a copy of the public offering statement and any proposed agreements at least 7 days prior to executing a binding franchise or other agreement or at least 7 days prior to payment of any consideration by a franchisee, whichever occurs first.

(2) A franchise cannot be terminated without 60 days written notice and good cause.

(3) All franchises must be filed with the commerce department or be exempt.

Franchising is a rapidly growing industry providing infinite business opportunities. It is vital that the consumer obtain, read and thoroughly understand the public offering statement and proposed agreements prior to remitting any money or signing agreements. This knowledge can prevent any disastrous future consequences.

Anyone with franchise-related questions should contact Lenor Scheffler-Rice, at the Minnesota Department of Commerce, 500 Metro Square Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, (612) 296-6328.

THE SPIRIT of the sport, touted on the side of a Polaris racing team van, was momentarily forgotten following a five-sled pile-up on the first turn during the Pro-A event of the World Series snowmobile race grand finale on Sunday. With big money at stake, everybody wanted the same line through the corner, resulting in some displaced bales and lost tempers. Pointed fingers led to blows between Todd Elmer and Lee Falck, but they soon got back to the business of racing. With 10 sleds vying for the top spot, two restarts were necessary before they got spread out enough to really race cleanly, but the crowd seemed to love every minute of it.

PIT CREWS and spectators had to contend with bright sunlight to keep track of their favorite drivers during the World Series snowmobile race last weekend. These two young women were part of the crew for Ron Weigel of Blaine, who took second place in the Expert class.

Future For Sunflowers Seems Bright

With a strong but quiet sunflower market facing the industry today, oilseed analyst Joe Smith looks to more bullish prospects and the real possibility of an explosion in all fats and oils that would affect sunflowers.

Smith, president of Oilseeds International in San Francisco, CA, spoke to a crowd of 1,800 sunflower growers attending the annual sunflower day in Jamestown, ND on Wednesday. He expects prices to stay strong into the fall or longer, but the bomb may explode on the basis of edible oilseed stocks being drawn down and raising prices much higher. "Carryover stocks are less than anytime since records have been kept. Sunflower prices will be determined by and follow soy and palm oil," he said.

"This nation has a tremendous excess capacity," stated Dr. Sung Won Sohn, chief economist for Norwest Bank corporation. "I am not optimistic about exports having great importance on (commodity) prices. "The farm income will continue to improve, but farmers will not experience growth in actual cash flow."

The situation, according to Sohn, has been "masked by short '83 crops. Stocks in '84 will build, prices will decline, demand for U.S. grain and oil will remain weak". Exports will be influenced due to financial crises in many developing countries and recovery will be slow, keeping commodity prices low, he added.

In his price outlook for '84, Pro Farmer magazine editor Dan Manternach predicted a very exciting 12 months for feed grains, soybeans and sunflower and stressed the importance of weather on the outlook for sunflower prices. "An actual drought was necessary this year before rally was possible, but now the mere threat or forecast of bad weather will influence movements and may cause explosive changes in the market".

During the technical session of the sunflower day program, growers listened to SIGCO research director G. N. Fick describe the future for high oil, high yield hybrids. Dr. Fick anticipates a technological boom in the industry which will support other markets for sunflower oil. These technologies were presented by Dr. Craig Cowley, plant breeder and geneticist for Sungene Technologies of Palo Alto, CA. Cowley explained the company's goal of genetic modification of major field crops through integration of genetics with conventional plant breeding. Sungene conducts biotechnological research to develop new proprietory germplasm for the production of improved hybrids.

Another morning speaker, Sam Tutt of FMC, reviewed the stem weevil yield reduction of the 1983 crop and presented data on the use of Furadan to fight the sunflower pest. Clearance for the use of Furadan on sunflowers is still pending.

The North Dakota wheat producers were represented by president Bob Knorr, who did not paint a rosy picture for wheat in the near future. Knorr stated that long term U.S. farmers must work with longshoremen and the corporations responsible for exporting wheat to help promote U.S. wheat exports.

STRIKE IT RICH !

|---|---|
| Sunday | Psalm 119:1-8 |
| Monday | Jeremiah 17:5-13 |
| Tuesday | Psalm 1:1-6 |
| Wednesday | 1 Corinthians 15:12-34 |
| Thursday | Luke 6:17-19 |
| Friday | Leviticus 19:1-37 |
| Saturday | Psalm 103:1-22 |

How many times have you heard this remark? How many times has it raced through your own mind? It's very easy to think that having enough money would make you happy.

Many people have found that millions of dollars just won't eliminate all their difficulties . . . or won't make life's problems easier to solve.

What then? For generations people have solved their problems by going to the church of their choice. In this way they have "struck it rich." Because, with God's help they have found the courage and the power to fulfill life's demands.

And so there is a way to strike it rich. Try it next week in your place of worship.

It's Not Worth It

Following editorial is from the Wall Street Journal:

The equal-rights movement has found its crusade for the 1980s. Walter Mondale is on board. The big unions support it. And a recent court case in Washington state has made it an issue in President Reagan's reelection campaign. It's called "comparable worth" and, unfortunately, it's another example of how far the equal-rights lobby has strayed from its original ideals.

Comparable worth tries to guarantee that women who work in jobs donimated by women (nursing, say) will earn as much as men who work in "comparable" jobs dominated by men (say, truck driving). In other words, it takes a giant leap beyond the "equal pay for equal work" principle that most people agree with. In fact, it leaps right over any common sense.

The first problem here is that any comparable-worth standard is impossible to implement in a free society. Who can say which jobs are comparable? And using what criteria?

The potential for disputes is endless. Shouldn't nurses earn as much as doctors, who after all get the glory and never empty bedpans? How about a secretary who can also drive a car: Should she make more than a truck driver who can't type? And, come to think of it, we've long thought journalists should be paid more. Human nature being what it is, everyone will assume she (he?) deserves a raise. Wages will have to be set by committee. The economy will choke on negotiations.

Only a free labor market can fairly arbitrate such competitive self-interest.

The entire comparable-worth crusade, moreover, is built on a dubious reading of the continuing pay gap between men and women. On average, that gap remains nearly 40 cents on the dollar, and our crusaders blame it on discrimination that confines women to underpaid "pink-collar" jobs.

But as the Urban Institute's June O'Neill explained on these pages recently, sexism has little to do with it. Much more important is the way women chose to participate in the economy. Many work part-time, for instance. Others leave the job market for a few years to raise children. Ms. O'Neill figures that women, on average, work only 50 per cent to 60 per cent of their available years once they leave school; men, on the whole, work all of those years. The average woman thus has less experience (and fewer skills), and is therefore less valuable to an employer.

This is slowly changing, of course, as more women choose full-time careers. But that underscores another fact ignored by the comparable-worth crusaders: Women have in recent years made their greatest progress ever in the job market, even in the high-paying professions. In 1970, for example, women won only eight per cent of U.S. medical degrees. By 1980, they'd won 23 per cent. Nearly a third of all law-school graduates (up from five per cent in 1970) and some 10 per cent of engineering graduates (up from one per cent) are now women. In time, this higher education will help narrow the pay gap.

Comparable worth, in fact, might even create a pink-collar class by raising salaries for those secretarial-type jobs. Women would have less incentive to study or work to gain the skills that are the only real guarantee of mobility and promotion in the job market.

In ignoring these facts, the push for comparable worth reminds us of the drive for affirmative action. In that case, too, reasonable tactics to end discrimination gave way to extremism that created its own problems. Eventually, it was challenged and pared back in court.

That may happen to comparable worth, too. In December, a federal judge ruled that Washington state must pay its employees according to this standard. But the state is appealing, and the U.S. Justice Department says it plans to intervene to help overturn the decision.

Unfortuantely, some of President Reagan's political advisers are warning that Justice should shun the case because it might add to his notorious "gender gap" with women voters. That would be a shame, because comparable worth has much less to do with the interests of women that it does with the interest of certain political activists. It represents exactly the sort of group favoritism that Mr. Reagan had deplored so often in the past.

Lawyers say the Washington case could make it to the Supreme Court and as such become an important precedent. That's all the more reason for Justice to avoid the political hand-wringers and come out, guns blazing, against this misguided crusade.

Hostile To Religion

In the guise of protecting Americans against infringement of the constitutional separation of church and state, several elements in the United States have effectively waged war on religion. It would seem the insistence of these groups and individuals goes beyond the constitutional guarantee and intent.

"At the direction of unelected judges," writes columnist Richard Viguerie, "the schools have become hostile to the idea of a Creator. In public schools, study of ethical questions is limited to helping students 'get in touch with their own feelings' and the teaching of moral absolutes is considered indoctrination."

He points out that courts have interpreted First Amendment wording to ban voluntary, student-initiated religious meetings from high school property before, during and after school hours.

In Tennessee, a state official ruled that high school coaches violated the First Amendment by leading their teams in prayer prior to football games. In Florida, a history film depicting such events as the first Thanksgiving and George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge was banned because of its religious content. In Michigan and Virginia, Gideons were prohibited from distributing free Bibles to school children.

Bonnie Bailey of Lubbock, TX, was upset when school officials banned the inspirational program which she had attended each morning at Monterey high school before start of the school day.

"Americans are allowed to picket, demonstrate, protest, 'use four-letter words and take God's name in vain,'" she said, "and the courts seem to uphold their actions and their words as being protected by the constitution even though they are highly offensive to those who see or hear them . . . However, we students are not allowed to speak of religious matters on school property. . . . It seems to us that the government is not neutral but that it is against religion."

Many members of the public are upset that the right of high school students to voluntarily discuss the Bible and pray together is unprotected while the First Amendment is used as an excuse to allow everything from homosexual groups meeting on campus to four-letter words in school newspapers, pornographic publications at the corner newsstand and nude dancing at the local bar.

"Why are we so reluctant to engage our students and our children in questions of character and virtue?" asks Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, the daughter of Robert Kennedy, in "Washington Monthly" magazine. "Why are we afraid to raise the issue of honesty when we teach politics, to raise the issue of love when we teach sex, to raise the issue of faith when we teach science? Is there something really terrible about encouraging students to read . . Biblical texts?"

Such activity by liberal causes risk emphatic social backlash. As columnist Viguerie writes: "If liberals continue to ridicule the beliefs of the average American, it won't be long until they are perceived as being against God as well. When that day comes, their grip on the nation's political system will come to a sudden end."

Interesting Opinions:

Please send a summer shower, Lord,
My garden is so dry.
Oh, thank you Lord, I think I see
A cloud bank in the sky.

The gentle drops are falling now,
My plants have had a drink;
The water still is rising, Lord,
They've had enough, I think.

There's some misunderstanding, Lord.
Some sunshine would be nice.
If I had prayed for this monsoon,
I would have planted rice!

—Ellie Womack

Borrowed Nonsense:

A little girl was telling her friend about what it felt like when her foot went to sleep. "It feels like gingerale," she explained.

Two youngsters were fascinated to learn that a neighbor had a glass eye.

"You mean it's really made of glass?" one of the youngsters asked.

"Of course," the older of the two explained knowingly. "If it wasn't glass, how could he see through it?"

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

A recent letter to the editor from a TRF person representing a liquor business stated in defense of the industry that the Sky Ranch for boys in South Dakota "is funded totally by members of our business".

Pennington county welfare has used the Sky Ranch for placement of troubled or delinquent youth and has paid to use it. The current $35.40 per day cost is reasonable as compared to the cost of other adolescent facilities, but is not without cost to the user as might be implied by the earlier statement.

School tuition of $21.50 per day is charged in addition to the facility per diem for an annual taxpayer cost of about $17,350 per youth placed. Sky Ranch would no doubt charge much higher fees if they were not aided by generous donations.

Since the incidence of juvenile delinquency can be attributed in part to liquor consumption, the situation is somewhat ironic in that if liquor sales decreased the very need for this type of facility might also be much less.

Sincerely,
Gary Erickson

RACE FANS CROWDED into the city parks on both sides of the Red Lake River on Sunday to watch the World Series snowmobile race. Although nearly the entire track could be seen from any vantage point, they tended to congregate on the south end, where hairpin turns and the first jump provided plenty of action. Saturday's crowd was not as big, with many people coming and going between hockey games and curling matches. Weather was practically ideal both days, remaining just cold enough to keep the track dry.

BATTLING THEIR WAY through the first turn, drivers in the World Series snowmobile races last weekend in Thief River Falls really worked for every inch. Reaching speeds close to 80 miles per hour on the straightaway, they had to brake hard in order to make the sharp left, with a mistake meaning lost time as they struggled to gain traction in the shavings pushed to the outside of the turn by the studded tracks. Most of the accidents occurred in that turn, with one spectator struck by a sled which lost its brakes and went through the fence at nearly full speed. Ambulance crews were present throughout the race, but fortunately treated only three minor injuries.

ONLY HALF A LAP from the finish line, Mike Bedard of Burnsville rejected offers of help and struggled to restore a shredded drive belt enough to complete the Sport 5 class final under his own power. Persistence paid off with a third place trophy, as two of the five sleds starting the race failed to finish.

FmHA "Expediter" Reviews Area Loan Situation

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Like a smoke jumper with a full pack, Maurice McLinn has come to northwestern Minnesota with a directive to put out the fire. The veteran of 34 years with the Farmers Home administration in South Dakota reviewed the local situation as he sees it and answered questions at a meeting attended by approximately 300 people at Northland community college theatre in Thief River Falls Friday evening.

"I have instructed the county (FmHA) supervisors that whenever they are in doubt to come down on the side of the farmer," McLinn told the crowd. "We're clicking out loans quick and fast and I don't see any problem with handling the 500 to 700 loan applications in area offices by planting time."

McLinn's assignment as an expediter here appears to be Washington's answer to pleas for assistance from farmers claiming undue economic hardship due to successive bad weather for the past several years. He was named by FmHA supervisor Charles Shuman of the U.S. department of agriculture to handle the northwestern Minnesota situation. McLinn believes it is because he was chief of farmer programs in South Dakota for 27 years and has considerable experience in high volume loan making.

A number of area people have been complaining for some time about inability to obtain long term loans at reduced interest which they say is necessary to allow them to keep their farms and continue farming operations. Complaints have also been made about difficulties with FmHA offices in getting loans processed or in receiving the maximum assistance for which farmers may be entitled.

At Friday night's meeting, McLinn said what many farmers apparently wanted to hear. He noted that 18 to 20 supervisors from other areas and clerical help had been brought into northwestern Minnesota to help process the backlog of approximately 700 loans. A total of 729 unprocessed loans had been reported by a task force from USDA following a survey of area offices at Shuman's direction several weeks ago.

"I've told these people that they can go home when it's (the loan processing) is over," McLinn said, "and I think we're already seeing results. I personally want to get this over as soon as possible, although I expect to be here 60 days or longer. I'll be here until the job is done."

Referring to himself as an "expediter," McLinn explained some of the actions that FmHA is authorized to do in attempting to assist farmers who are having financial difficulty. These include the following:

Consolidation of similar loans with FmHA into a single loan with re-scheduled payment;

Deferral of emergency and economic emergency loans and operating or farm ownership loans with new loans to be scheduled at the limited resource loan rate (five and one-half per cent on the first $100,000 and eight per cent above that amount);

Deferral of loan payments for up to three years of a seven-year loan with the loan then payable in full in the following four years;

Schedule loans for repayment with a "balloon" feature, providing for low repayment early in the loan but a larger "balloon" payment at the end of the loan period;

Rescheduling of the loan repayment when the ballon feature comes due; and Arrangement of a loan so that a commercial lender is paid first with the FmHA loan to be paid later.

"We're trying to figure out ways to help farmers," McLinn said, "not to throw stumbling blocks in your way. We have to get this situation turned around. I hope you will see a change in attitude (among supervisors) if that has been a problem. If we don't get things turned around I'll go home defeated, and I won't go home defeated," he said.

McLinn spent much of the meeting time answering questions and fielding comments or complaints from individuals. He reassured one farmer who said he had been told he could get no further loans from FmHa because he was delinquent on his present loan that money could indeed be available. "We make loans

Average Crop Yields Decline, Agent Reports

Information compiled by Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension director, supports the contention of reduced crop yield averages due to adverse weather in the area during the past five years.

The reduced yield in crop history has a substantial impact on government program payments as well as qualification requirements for Farmers Home administration loans.

Courneya made comparisons of yields for wheat, barley and sunflowers in the three northwest Minnesota counties of Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake. Comparison was made between the three "normal" crop years of 1976, 1977 and 1978 and the past five crop years from 1979 through 1983.

Data for the comparison was taken from Minnesota agricultural statistics compiled and issued by the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service and the U.S. department of agriculture economics, statistics and cooperative service.

In Pennington county, the comparison shows a yield reduction of 5.8 bushels per acre for wheat, 3.4 bushels for barley and 416 pounds for sunflowers for the past five year period. In Marshall county the reduction is 8.4 bushels for wheat, 1.7 bushels for barley and 509 pounds for sunflowers. Red Lake county has an average drop of 4.6 bushels for wheat, 4.9 bushels for barley and 467 pounds for sunflowers.

Pennington county wheat yield average dropped from 35.3 bushels per acre to 29.5, barley dropped from 46.7 to 43.3 and sunflowers dropped from 1,503 to 1,087 pounds.

Marshall county wheat yields declined from 36.3 to 27.9, barley from 50.3 to 48.6 and sunflowers from 1,529 to 1,020. Red Lake county wheat yields dropped from 36.6 to 32, barley from 51.4 to 46.5 and sunflowers from 1,504 to 1,037.

In a letter to Minnesota's U.S. Senators and Congressman Arlan Stangeland, Courneya points out that the years of 1976, 1977

Committee To Meet Thursday

Project Review

Marshall county local project review committee on hazardous waste will meet Thursday at 3 p.m. at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls with the meeting to continue through dinner at 6 p.m.

In addition to a report from Lawrence Sunsdahl of Stephen, temporary member of the state waste management board as representative of northwestern Minnesota, the committee will hear from department of natural resources and pollution control agency staff.

DOT Allocates $21,105 For Pennington Co.

Pennington county will receive for the first time $21,105 as its share of the $3,659,080 allocated to the town road account, according to Gordon Fay, director, office of state aid, Minnesota department of transportation (MnDOT).

Yearly township road allotments to the counties are made from a special five per cent set-aside from the highway user tax distribution fund according to a formula established by the state legislature in 1983. The highway user tax distribution fund is composed of monies from the state motor fuel tax and motor vehicle registration fees.

Monies are distributed to the counties. The counties in turn distribute these funds according to a formula adopted by their county boards to those townships that have levied at least two mills for road and bridge purposes on their assessed valuation in 1983. This money is only to be used for construction or reconstruction of township roads, Fay said.

Remaining 95 per cent of the highway user tax distribution fund is distributed as follows: 62 per cent to the trunk highway fund, 20 per cent to the county state-aid highway fund and nine per cent to the municipal state-aid fund.

House Speaker Sieben Is Chamber Speaker Thurs.

SHARING THEIR VIEWS on area and statewide problems at a meeting sponsored by the legislative affairs committee of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce Thursday were Bob Wolfe (left) and Rep. Harry Sieben. Wolfe is district engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation at Bemidji and Sieben is Speaker of the Minnesota House of Representatives. The meeting was conducted at the Best Western Inn.

Rep. Harry Sieben, Speaker of the Minnesota House of Representatives, reviewed the state situation as he sees it and answered questions at a meeting Thursday sponsored by the legislative affairs committee of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce. The noon luncheon meeting was conducted at the Best Western inn.

Also speaking at the program was Bob Wolfe of Bemidji, district engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation. Wolfe reviewed some of the projects being planned, underway or completed for this area of the state.

Rep. Sieben told the group that "things have changed drastically since 14 months ago". He said at that time the state had serious financial difficulties, that the economy was bad and getting worse. "Then Wally Sparby was elected to the legislature," he quipped about the District 1B representative from Thief River Falls who had introduced him on the program.

Tax increases and budget cutting by the last session of the legislature have helped turn things around, he said, although there are still questions of wage situations, labor laws, environmental laws and tax climate.

There is a common thread which runs through talk of the business climate, Rep. Sieben said. That is that business can live with workmen's compensation problems and unemployment insurance difficulties but can't live with the uncertainty of what government is going to do six months from now. While the state should not lose sight of the situation of 14 months ago, he added, it is necessary to develop a better system of continuity in programs.

The issues in this session will be which taxes to lower and which programs to reinstate, the legislative leader said. He also expressed the opinion that it is all right for state government to have "money in the bank". "I would not be embarrassed," he said, "for the state to have three or four or five per cent of our budget in reserve to provide continuity of service."

Rep. Sieben complimented Thief River Falls chamber of commerce and Jobs Incorporated for "fighting to

10 Years Of Near Annual Raises Add Up For City

Salary contracts for department heads and supervisory personnel on the city of Thief River Falls payroll were recently approved by the city council for 1984 and 1985. A chart accompanying this article shows a 10-year progression of those salaries, detailing an increase of approximately 100 per cent in nearly all positions.

It should be remembered that the people drawing these salaries are department heads, responsible for supervision of other city employees and insuring that municipal services are maintained.

In explanation of some of the blanks in the chart, it can be noted that the city planner's office did not officially come into existence until 1977; the sanitation commissioner and liquor store manager were union positions until

Holes And Heieren Vows Exchanged In St. Paul

St. Rose Catholic church in St. Paul was the scene of the recent wedding of Myra Elizabeth Holes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holes, St. Paul, and Daniel Edward Heieren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Heieren, rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. James Woinik officiated at the 11:00 o'clock, double-ring ceremony. The church organist Mrs. Bea Bowman played "Allegro" from Handel's "Water Music" as the bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. During the ceremony Julie Pellinger, Cleveland, Ohio, a college roommate of the bride, sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and "Thou My Blessing."

Arrangements of pink flowers banked the altar.

The bride was attired in a white satin gown with a sheer netting off-the-shoulder yoke featuring a deep back dip and a high lace neckline. Lace trimmed the bodice, three-quarter length, puffy sleeves and accented the netting inserts that complemented the satin train. Matching lace appliques bordered the veil of sheer bridal illusion attached to a Juliet headpiece. She carried an all white bouquet of roses, stephanotis, gardenias, and babies' breath with cascading roses.

Maid of honor was Michelle D. McQuarrie, Edina, who was a roommate of the bride while they were attending St. Olaf college. Bridesmatrons were Linda Warham of Minneapolis and Ann Antolik of St. Paul. All wore deep dusty-rose skirts and white lace blouses designed with high necklines and long, full sleeves gathered at the wrist by dusty-rose ribbon. Matching ribbon accented the neckline and waistline. All carried colonial bouquet of white roses and dusty-rose and pink carnations with babies' breath.

Gregory Omdahl of Fargo, N.D., attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were David Borning, Minneapolis, and Steven Peterson, Boca Raton, Fla. All are friends of the groom. Serving as ushers were David Heieren, Helena, Mont., a brother of the groom, and William Ernst, Minneapolis, a friend. All wore black tuxedos with cummerbunds, white pleated shirts with winged collars, black bow ties and white rose boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holes selected a light rose georgette dress featuring a blousy pleated bodice with high neckline and long sleeves. To accent her attire, she wore burgundy shoes and carried a burgundy suede purse topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Heieren was attired in a long-sleeved burgundy georgette dress with ruffles around the neckline and down the front. Her shoes and purse were gray and her corsage was a white orchid.

Special guests were James V. Nolan, uncle of the bride; Margaret Motl, aunt of the groom; Becky Heieren, Minneapolis, the groom's sister who presided at the guest book and served as the bride's attendant, and Mrs. Doris Howe, who attended the bride's mother and assisted at both the wedding and reception.

Approximately 180 relatives and friends attended the wedding reception and brunch which followed at the Midland Hills Country club. A chamber string quartet provided background music during the catered meal which included a chocolate wedding cake, iced in pink and decorated with white lilites of the valley.

Following the wedding rehearsal, the groom's parents hosted a supper at McGuires Inn at Arden Hills.

Following a wedding trip to Ocho Rio, Jamaica, the bride and groom were honored at a reception at St. Hilaire at the groom's parental farm home.

Present, in addition to the couple's parents, were Rev. and Mrs. Berton Hushagen, Mrs. Clara Heieren, Janet Heieren, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Heieren, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Christopherson, Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Legvold, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bredeson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Borning, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hendrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Williamson, Mrs. Esther Wegge and Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, all of Thief River Falls;

Also Margaret Motl, Mrs. Howard Chandler, Mary Jane Chandler, Mrs. David Chandler and John of Bemidji; Kristina Ness and Mrs. John Fosholm, Sarah and Jill of Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Larson, Oklee; Mrs. Tim Martin and Mrs. Kelly Cain and Leah of Fargo; Mrs. Todd Parkman and Cory, Hope, N.D., and Mrs. Milla Anderson and Ron Anderson of Red Lake Falls.

Unable to attend but sending gifts were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ballingrud and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wigness of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Art Vik of St. Hilaire.

The couple is now at home at 1302 Boardwalk avenue, Minneapolis. The bride is a graduate of St. Olaf college, Northfield, and is a doctoral candidate in Pathology at the University of Minnesota medical school. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school, attended the university of Minnesota medical school, and is employed by E. Leitz, Inc., a German based company headquartered in New Jersey with offices in Minneapolis. Photo, Gene Garett, Minneapolis.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that the misery and plight of farm families hit by several years of natural disasters are being used cynically by DFL Legislators for their own political ends.

According to a recent article in your paper, state Sen. Keith Langseth and his associates are "protesting my inaction" in securing Federal aid for farmers in perennial disaster areas.

If this was not such a blatant political move, I would ignore their tactics. But, the record must be set straight.

Agriculture is what I know best and for the seven years I have served in Congress, one of my key goals has been to provide personal assistance to farm families in our area. Every case has different requirements and needs individual work and attention.

In every year I have been in Congress, I have secured disaster relief for farmers who lost crops to bad weather. In some cases that has been difficult. In 1981 both Pennington and Red Lake county farmers were denied declarations. I personally led and won the appeals.

Later, working with state Rep. Willis Eken, I secured Marshall county relief when many believed it was no longer possible.

I have now secured 1983 declarations for all seven counties hit by a variety of bad weather. Interest for those loans is usually eight per cent. But at the Chicago Summit on Drought Relief, I helped to persuade Ag. Secretary John Block to drop that to five per cent on the first $100,000. This boosted the purchasing power of disaster loans by up to $3,000.

I convinced FmHA chief Charles Shuman to authorize the use of "Limited Resource Fund" loans for heavily devastated farmers. I got FmHA to open a new Crookston office and to train new teams to handle aid requests. Senator Rudy Boschwitz and I convinced Shuman to double the FmHA staff in disaster areas to process all loan requests in the next five weeks.

I have written a bill to provide special relief to farmers in counties hit by three or more years of disaster. Rep. Ed Jones (D-TN), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development, has guaranteed to hold hearings on my bill.

I secured loans, clinics and a toll-free number from the U.S. Small Business administration to help disaster stricken areas to ride out the loss of farm income. Members of many farm families have jobs in those small businesses.

When USDA was considering a lengthy appeal of a court order to release $600 million for the Economic Emergency program, I helped to persuade Secretary Block to drop that appeal.

This isn't a matter of blowing my own horn. The federal government must stand ready to lend a hand to hard working farm families who are in deep trouble through no fault of their own.

While I have been working especially hard on these matters for the past three years, Mr. Langseth has not contacted me once or, to my knowledge, even once raised his voice about the seriousness of the situation. Now he is fabricating a campaign issue. I'll let your readers, the people, be the judge on this matter.

Sincerely,
Arlan Stangeland

Phone Co. Completes Its Change-Over

Northwestern Bell has completed a 14-year, $115 million service improvement project to eliminate four-party service in Minnesota.

The company completed elimination of eight-party service in May of 1982. The December conversions of Carlton, Moose Lake, Tofte, Chisholm, Grand Rapids, Thief River Falls and Bemidji from four, to one and two-party service completes Northwestern Bell's rural service improvement program in Minnesota.

The company's rural service improvement program, which began in 1969 with the elimination of eight-party service, has directly benefitted over 66,000 Minnesota customers by making it possible for them to have a choice of one or two-party telephone service. Four and eight-party service was once the standard for customers in rural and remote parts of the state.

Conversion to one and two-party service means more privacy and convenience for telephone users. It also means improved service in locations where central office switching equipment was upgraded during the conversion and older, aerial facilities were replaced with new buried, storm-proof cable.

A bid of $24,740 was accepted from chief industries for auto body frame straightening equipment to be used at the AVTI. Bids on remodeling for handicapped students were delayed to a future meeting.

Supt. Block asked board members to submit names of parents who would be willing to serve on a district discipline committee.

Resolutions were approved directing the administration to make recommendations for reducing the K-12 and AVTI programs and positions. Authorization was given for a maxi audit on the school district service center subject to prior grant approval by the state of Minnesota.

Employment was approved for Diane Marshall, long-term substitute in first grade at Mark Twain; Tim Prestebak, AVTI farm operations instructor; Ray Semrud, AVTI aircraft and powerplant coordinator; Dean Ornquist, AVTI carpentry technical tutor; and Dennis Langston, one-third time sales and marketing instructor.

Briefly discussed were a request from the nursery school to rent space in Knox elementary school building for another year; need for additional space for the Northwest Educational Cooperative Service unit (NWECSU); progress in contracting to perform PCB possible contamination tests; and a report on teacher contract negotiations.

Two regular board meetings for March were canceled and one regular meeting was instead scheduled for March 19. A mediation session with teachers and the state mediator is scheduled for March 15 at 10 a.m. at the Pennington county courthouse.

Correspondence reviewed included a report on success of the Operation Child Print program by Police Chief Ken Froschheiser; letter of opposition to change of school board election date from Dr. William Corliss; letter from Dr. Orley Gunderson noting that the AVTI could obtain an electric van at no cost for use as a demonstration model; letter from Sen. Rudy Boschwitz congratulating the LHS band on selection for its trip to Norway; and a letter from Gov. Rudy Perpich indicating appointment of Dr. Leo Ruberto to the state council for the handicapped.

Debarking Elm Wood Required By April First

City tree inspector John Johnson has issued a request for public cooperation to help save local elm trees from the threat of Dutch elm disease by disposing of all elm firewood with bark intact before April 1.

"The tall, stately elms that line our streets are being threatened by a very serious disease," he said, adding that Dutch elm disease is present in both the city and the surrounding countryside. "Bark intact elm wood can undo much of the progress the community has achieved so far in controlling Dutch elm disease, by serving as a breeding place for the elm bark beetles which carry the disease fungus to healthy trees." Johnson says that in the spring, adult beetles (up to 1,500 in a single fireplace log) emerge from diseased wood with the fungus clinging to their bodies. When they fly to healthy elms to feed, they spread Dutch elm disease to previously uninfected trees.

Because of this danger to healthy elms, Johnson notes, the city enacted an ordinance permitting storage of bark intact elm wood only between September 15 and April 1. Elm bark beetles are dormant during this period. Any elm firewood not burned or debarked by April 1 must be disposed of in a sanitary landfill. To ensure that the ordinance is complied with, Johnson says park department employees will be checking wood piles sometime in late March.

Since any tree planting, pruning or removal on the boulevards must be coordinated through the park department, Johnson asks that person desiring further information contact him by calling 681-2519. "The trees that line the streets in Thief River Falls are for everyone's enjoyment and benefit," he says, "and every citizen can assist in their maintenance, care and protection."

FmHA Leader Reviews Area Loan Program

all the time to persons with delinquencies," he said. "And if we don't like delinquencies we reamortize and make them current."

He said he didn't anticipate that a liberal attitude toward handling of loan applications would cause the administration to run out of money. The 20 per cent limit on limited resource loan funds has been removed, he said, so that more of that low-interest, long-term money can be made available. "We weren't sent up here to process a lot of loans that won't have the funds to be paid," he said.

Asked if local loan applications would have to go through a lengthy procedure which would delay their payment, McLinn said that county supervisors have a good deal of loan approval authority. Most loan applications being forwarded to St. Paul will be approved, he speculated, and added that he had specified that no "turn down" letters be sent to applicants until he had had an opportunity to personally review the applications.

Mood of much of the crowd was evidenced when attitude and ability of FmHA officials at state, district and county levels was questioned.

Farmer Lowell Lindemoen of Newfolden drew loud applause and cheers when he said, "Drawing attention is not our business. We would rather be farming. But I think you've got a few shunks in the woodpile and the smell isn't going to go away until you get them out of there." He was apparently referring to previous calls from resignation or dismissal of two district officials and the state director.

McLinn, who opened his portion of the program by saying he thought he had a good idea of the magnitude of the problem until he saw the size of the Friday night crowd, closed by saying he sensed there were enough problems to keep him busy for quite awhile.

Willard Brunelle, who organized and chairs the Northwest Minnesota emergency action committee, presided at the meeting. He also announced a list of the committee which had been prepared for distribution at the meeting. Other officers listed include Norma Hanson, Goodridge, vice chairman; Sam Genereux, Thief River Falls, secretary; and Norman Eldenschink, Crookston, treasurer.

Other committee members listed include the following: Don Stenberg, Kory Chervestad, Twyla Fore and Ray Swenson, Oklee; Earl Miller, Clint Hoffman, Dennis Kainz and Paul Troska, Goodridge; Bruce Elseth and Dennis Hanson, Newfolden; Mark Erickson, Erskine; Joe Ose, Garret Reierson and Cecil Anderson, Thief River Falls; Steve Sparby and Amos Thompson, Grygla; Vern Wavra, Red Lake Falls; and Bob Miller, St. Hilaire.

Announcement was also made of a "watchdog" committee to oversee the local situation and field complaints. Named on that committee were Jacki Dobmeier, Grygla; Jim Noyes, Erskine; Russ Iverson, Middle River; and Bruce Elseth, Newfolden.

Zoning Powers Are Workshop Subject Thurs.

Duties and powers of zoning boards of appeals and adjustment will be the subject of a workshop to be held from 3 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday, March 8, at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls. Registration begins at 2:30 p.m.

Co-sponsored by the agricultural extension service and the government training service, this refresher course is designed for various city, county, township and regional development commission professionals. Subject matter will include recent legal requirements for granting variances from local government zoning ordinances, along with historical and geographic perspectives on present day functions of the board of adjustment and appeals in Minnesota.

Instructor Bob Snyder, an attorney and extension land economist at the University of Minnesota, has extensive experience as an educator and is familiar with Minnesota case law and statutes dealing with all aspects of zoning. He says that sessions will feature an informal give-and-take format which will allow every participant an opportunity to have specific questions answered.

Pre-registration is requested. Further information is available by calling Mary Sadek, toll free at 1-800-652-9719; or the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116.

Coordination of the workshop has been accomplished with cooperation of the Minnesota Planning Association, AMC, Minnesota League of Cities, the Association of Townships, and local county extension office.

Rustlers Take Animal From Vigen Herd

Cattle rustlers struck the Bert Vigen farm southeast of Thief River Falls early Sunday morning, but they didn't do it in old west fashion. Instead of swooping down and driving part of the herd off, they butchered a choice animals and made off with only the meat.

Vigen said the butchering was done in a barn on a vacant farmstead a short distance from his home farm. His insurance coverage includes a reward feature which makes a $500 reward available to anyone providing information leading to arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in the theft.

Convenience must have been foremost in the minds of the rustlers, Vigen said. They apparently shot the approximately 650-pound animal under a hook in the barn where they could hoist it up to dress it out, taking only the four quarters. Information regarding the theft may be presented to the Pennington county sheriff's department which is conducting the investigation.

Funding Asked To Build Dam Near Winger

Lower Red Watershed Management board will hold its next meeting at the UMC campus in Crookston on Friday, March 9. Representing eight Minnesota watershed districts in the Red River valley, the board is contemplating a hike in its current .7 mill construction levy to help fund a reservoir project near Winger.

Board is seeking direct state aid for a proposed $4.86 million floodwater detention structure along Trunk Highway 59, one mile south of Winger. Watershed officials have received partial funding commitments, including $500,000 from the Lower Red board, $850,000 from Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT), and $150,000 from the Sand Hill watershed district. In addition, State Senators Roger Moe and LeRoy Stumpf and Representative Wally Sparby have said they will lead a legislative effort during the next session to gain additional funding.

Sources being considered for further revenues include the department of natural resources, department of transportation, legislative commission on Minnesota's resources, and the state grant-in-aid program.

Proposed multiple use structure would control a 106-square-mile drainage area on the Sand Hill river through use of an earthen dam and gated storage. Current plans call for a reservoir of 1,275 surface acres and a temporary storage capacity of 11,600 acre feet. Permanent pool depth would be about 25.5 feet at the dam, with a maximum depth of 30 feet during spring runoff.

Options have reportedly been obtained for 90 per cent of the right-of-way easements, with costs totaling $225,000.

Lower Red Watershed Management board has funded 23 flood-water detention projects since its inception in 1976, at a total cost of $8.91 million.

Forsberg's Art Featured This Month At NCC

(Thief River Falls community arts council features an area artist each month whose work is placed in a public exhibit for the month. People who would like to recommend an artist to be featured should contact the council at 228 North Crocker Avenue, Thief River Falls, or by calling 681-2980 evenings).

March "Artist of the Month" is LaVonne Forsberg, who lives at 312 North Tindolph Avenue, Thief River Falls, with her husband Larry, and daughters Valerie and Veronica. They also have two grown sons, Jeffrey and Mark, who live elsewhere in Thief River Falls.

Examples of LaVonne's artwork will be on display during regular hours at Northland community college, through the end of March. This display includes work in various mediums, such as rosemaling, oil painting, pen and ink and watercolor.

As owner-manager of Country Class Arts, LaVonne is well-known in the area as both an arts and crafts instructor and as an artist. Her wide-ranging artistic abilities have been successfully applied to a variety of mediums, including oil painting, pen and ink, watercolors, whittling, quilting, rosemaling, hardanger and others. Although she works in whatever medium suits her creative mood at the time, she also does artwork on special order for customers. "As long as it's creative," she says she thoroughly enjoys herself, no matter what she does.

LaVonne says her interest in art didn't begin until after she had graduated from school. As a member of a homemakers group she attended an extension class on rosemaling. Her interest was so aroused that when the class ended she helped the instructor organize another. Once started, LaVonne set a personal goal of attending classes on Norwegian art at a center in Decorah, IA., and saved her money until she was able to achieve that goal.

She notes that attending classes is very important to her because it allows her to learn new techniques and pick up pointers from other artists. She still attends at least three or four classes given by other artists each year. "You can always keep on learning," she says. "There's no limit."

She adds that teaching has been a learning experience for her as well. "Because of the classes I teach, it's important for me to be aware of what I do. I have learned a lot about both myself and art, just from things which I do naturally, without really thinking about them."

LaVonne says that most people have the ability to paint and to create, but that it has to be developed. "Just like walking and talking. . . You need to want to learn, then you can develop."

Being a part of that discovery process is important to her. "It's fun to see people begin to discover why so many things are beautiful. . . the colors and shapes in nature. . . It's really exciting."

LAVONNE FORSBERG has been chosen as "Artist of the Month" for March by the Thief River Falls community arts council. Skilled in a wide variety of artistic mediums, she has a particular attraction to traditional Norwegian rosemaling, such as she used to decorate this trunk. Some of her oil paintings are also visible in the background. Examples of LaVonne's work will be on display during regular hours at Northland community college throughout the month.

10 Years Of Raises Add Up For T.R. Falls

1976; positions were not created for the airport manager until 1979, assistant airport manager until 1981, and park supervisor until 1983; and 1979 was a transitional period in the water department, with Allan Lamm spending a portion of the year in training as the new manager.

It can further be noted that salary increases have been negotiated on an annual basis, except in 1982 when the wage was set for a two year period; and in 1984, when the 1985 increase was negotiated in advance.

In the process of arriving at the salary adjustments for 1984-85, the finance committee of the city council began in late December by meeting individually with all available department heads and supervisory employees. Through a series of meetings, the committee reviewed data submitted by department heads, as well as a 1983 salary survey done by the League of Minnesota Cities. They reportedly also considered the relationship of salaries of all city employees as a group, in addition to the local economic situation.

Using across-the-board and average percentage increases given in the settlement with the Teamsters union as a base, the committee reviewed all salary levels, and proposed adjustments in areas where they felt discrepancies existed. As an example, the fire chief was moved to the top salary in his position effective January 1, instead of March 1, as recommended by the public safety committee.

Noting that the 1983 wage increase of approximately 1.3 per cent had been based on anticipated large cuts in Minnesota state aid which didn't materialize, the committee based its cost analysis over a three year period (1983, 84 and 85), and averaged the increase out to five per cent per year. Estimated overall salary adjustments for the 20 employees considered as part of the department head and supervisory group were worked out to an 8.5 per cent overall increase in salary plus a $5 per month increase in the longevity schedule for 1984; and a 5.1 per cent increase in direct salary for 1985.

Other adjustments made included increasing the amount of term life insurance from $3,000 to an amount equal to their annual salary, for the building inspector, line foreman, park supervisor, and billing office supervisor-computer programmer. This was a benefit which all other department heads and supervisors already had;

Also, the city attorney was granted a seven per cent salary increase, from $1,085 to $1,161 per month. (No adjustment was given the attorney in 1983); All hours worked by the current building inspector at the off-sale liquor store are to be paid at the hourly rate of a full-time off-sale clerk; and volunteer firefighter pay was increased from $72 per quarter to $80 per quarter, an increase of $32 per year.

As passed by the council at their February 28 meeting, the salary adjustments were made retroactive to January 1. Over the next two years, the finance committee recommended that a thorough study be made of salary levels and job classifications of all department heads and supervisory personnel, which would include comparisons with both the private and public sectors of the job market.

A man should never be ashamed to admit that he has erred, by doing so he is also saying he is wiser today than he was yesterday. Mistakes are part and parcel of our human estate and if we learn from them we experience a great deal of growth. Admit it when you're wrong, apologize if you've hurt someone, then get on with your life. Don't burden yourself with unnecessary guilt, after all if you were perfect you'd have little in common with your fellow humans.

House Speaker Reviews State Situation Here

maintain your ability to be a thriving economic center". He said the community's efforts were being looked at as a model for what others ought to be doing.

Asked about the decision by 3M company to expand its operations in Texas as announced last week, Rep. Sieben said the company president had criticized environmental laws and the personal income tax in Minnesota.

"We don't have to have income taxes in Minnesota," Rep. Sieben said. "But we also don't have to have community colleges, AVTI's, a good highway system, good education, nursing homes, medical services and the other things that lead to our high quality of life."

He said that an income tax is the fairest form of tax but it may not be competitive with what is being done in other states. Contrasting the 3M management's attitude, he added that Control Data management believes that Minnesota is a good place to do business and that other firms agree. While the 3M decision to expand in Texas is widely publicized, other firms have been expanding or starting new business in the state. "How we net out on the bottom line is the important thing," Sieben said.

Major change in the state budget came about in 1971 when the funding system for education was overhauled, the legislator added. Where K-12 education had formerly been funded with 30 per cent state funds and 70 per cent from local property taxes, the system was changed for schools to be supported 65 per cent by the state and 35 per cent from local property taxes. The "Minnesota Miracle" boosted sales and income taxes but equalized educational opportunity throughout the state, he said.

In answer to another question from the audience, Sieben said he expected to see horse racing and parimutuel betting in operation in the state by the summer of 1985.

Dep't. Of Ag. Recalls Three Food Products

Minnesota department of agriculture announced recently that two firms have initiated a voluntary recall of their food products.

Dr. Rollin M. Dennistoun, deputy commissioner, stated that preliminary lab results on samples of these foods showed concentrations of Ethylene Dibromide (EDB) in excess of Environmental Protection agency guideline levels.

Food products that are being recalled are identified as follows:

- Twenty ounce boxes of Old Fashioned Maltex iron fortified hot cereal, Maltex brand, from the Standard Milling division of the Uhlmann company, Kansas City, MO 64141. Codes involved are Sept. 8, 1985 and Apr. 27, 1985.

Thirteen ounce packages of wild blueberry muffin mix, Duncan Hines brand, from the Proctor and Gamble company, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Codes involved are 3070W4 and 3174W4.

11.5 ounce packages of Spicy Apple Muffin mix, Duncan Hines brand, from the Proctor and Gamble company, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Code 3222W4.

Dr. Dennistoun has asked Minnesota retailers and wholesalers to remove the above products from sale for return to the manufacturer.

Consumers who have the products with the above identifications and code numbers should return them to the place of purchase.

Council Says Farm Sign-Up Is Good Sense

President of the Minnesota Agri-Growth council today said that "it is imperative that farmers use their good common sense" by signing up for the federal government's 1984 commodity price support programs. Russel G. Schwandt, a former Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, said that "American agriculture will once again be awash in a glut of grain if we don't achieve a sign-up level of at least 50 per cent of our producers."

"Throughout the farm community," Schwandt said, "one constantly hears talk about planting not just fence to fence, but from the middle of one road to the middle of the next road. Such an attitude of uncontrolled production can only result in outright disaster for farm prices.

"It's imperative that American farmers use their good common sense to realize that we need to get a massive participation in the commodity price support program if we are to have any hope of preserving our market prices," Schwandt stated.

Schwandt's remarks came on the heels of a decision by Secretary of Agriculture John Block to extend the signup deadline by three weeks. The previous deadline had been set for February 24.

Minnesota Agri-Growth council is the umbrella trade association representing all phases of Minnesota's agriculture industry from the farmer's field, through the processor, to the consumer's table.

Survival Hints For Winter Given By DPS

Citing the number of tragic deaths that occurred during the sudden winter storm that struck western and southern Minnesota the weekend of February 4 and 5, Minnesota public safety commissioner Paul Tschida reminds motorists that winter is still present and survival for stranded motorists depends upon proper preparation and reaction.

"The best advice for motorists who become stranded on the road is to stay with their vehicle," said Tschida. "Trying to seek shelter by leaving your car when temperatures are zero or below, and winds are whipping making the wind chill factor much lower, means almost certain death or injury. Many people also become disoriented with the low visibility and lose their way."

But staying in the vehicle also requires following recommended precautions in order to survive, reminded Tschida. Some of these must be taken care of before even getting on the road. Such things as having a properly tuned car with a good battery, plenty of gasoline, a good tight exhaust system and having some extra clothing or blankets for warmth.

If a vehicle becomes stalled and the occupants have to wait in the car, start planning how to do so safely. Do not run the engine constantly. Rather run the engine to warm up the interior of the car for short periods about every half hour. Before starting the engine, be sure the tailpipe is not plugged with snow and that snow has not drifted over the rear of the car so that exhaust fumes cannot be carried away. When the engine is running, crack the window open slightly on the downwind side for fresh air.

Finally, prepare a winter survival kit and place it in the vehicle in the event you should need it.

Use a three-pound coffee can for the survial kit.

Before filling the can, punch three holes around the top edge in a triangular pattern. By fastening a cord, string or wire (stored inside the can) through the punched holes, the container is ready for the melting and heating use mentioned above. Leave enough string to hang the can from the rear view mirror. A candle or canned heat, placed on the dashboard or center hump, will warm the contents.

Keep the kit inside the car. The trunk could get jammed by a collision or buried in the snow.

Place these supplies in the can:

+ Matches, stubs of dinner candles and canned heat.
+ Small, sharp knife.
+ Facial tissue.
+ Large size plastic garbage bag. This can be used as a container and is also an improvised rain poncho.
+ Safety pins, spoons, pencil stubs, plastic whistle.

DOING THEIR PART to help finance a trip to the special olympics, students from the TMH (trainable mentally handicapped) class in Thief River Falls collected over $425 in pledges for a bowlathon sponsored by the Office Education Association (OEA) of Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute recently. They proudly turned in their funds to OEA cochairmen Judy Tunheim, left, and Karol Altepeter, right. TMH students include (left to right) Paul Johnson, Tina Kostrzewski, Mike Burkel, Paul Rysavy, Carmen Souto, Diane Plante, Everett Hoddy and Steven Kiesow. TMH instructor Polly Reed noted that the students get no money from the school district to attend the special olympics, which made her especially appreciative of the contributions made by members of the OEA, parents of the students and other people within the community. Kiesow was the high fund raiser among the TMH students, at $161. OEA students raised an additional $925.

Jobless Rate Up Slightly In January

Minnesota's unemployment rate inched up to 7.8 per cent in January from 7.7 per cent in December 1983, according to Commissioner Barbara Beerhalter of the Minnesota department of economic security.

December state unemployment rate of 7.7 per cent is revised from an earlier announced rate of 7.5 per cent.

Increase was due to seasonal variations in the labor force, but was about half a percentage point less, on average, than has been experienced between these months for the past five years, Beerhalter said.

Department analyst Wayne Graner said that perhaps the early onset of harsh weather may have forced layoffs in late November and early December 1983 which usually occur in early January.

Nevertheless, the jobless rate remains very high, Graner added. Although the rate is down from 10.2 per cent a year ago, he said, January 1984 registered the second highest rate for a January since 1970, the earliest year for which comparable data exist.

Nationally, the unemployment rate for the month was 8.8 per cent.

Total employment in the state dipped 1.2 per cent in January. However, compared to a year ago, total employment in Minnesota rose 4.7 per cent, reflecting the trend of continued improvement in the overall economy.

HHS Seeking To Place The Handicapped

HHS secretary Margaret M. Heckler today announced a new departmental initiative seeking private sector support to place 25,000 developmentally disabled Americans in new jobs by the end of 1984.

"The developmentally disabled have much to offer to an employer, including most of all a strong, positive desire to contribute and succeed in the workplace," Secretary Heckler said in announcing the new HHS efforts. "Employers owe it to themselves to find out more about the capabilities of our developmentally disabled citizens."

Federal efforts will concentrate on disseminating to prospective employers relevant research, exemplary training models and information about the experiences of companies and businesses which already employ severely disabled individuals.

Developmentally disabled persons, as defined by law, have severe chronic disabilities manifested early in life. Their disabilities result in limitations in some, but not all, life activities. Professional estimates are that at least 95,000 developmentally disabled persons each year graduate from high school special education and adult vocational education classes and enter society, usually without real prospects for jobs and economic independence.

Employers who seek to provide training and employment opportunities for the developmentally disabled should write: HHS Employment Initiative, Administration on Developmental Disabilities, Room 348-F, HHH Building, Washington, D.C. 20201.

Set A Reading Example

Lucille Nyland, a reading instructor in the Thief River Falls public schools for a number of years, has written the following thoughts about encouraging children to get into the reading habit:

During this last decade, we have been hearing more about an increasing number of poor readers in our public schools.

Although I have no sophisticated research to support my theory, I believe that as television has become more common-place, leisure reading has become less popular, and in some homes, it is non-existent.

We are all aware of the fact that if we do not use our skills we lose them. For example, I studied German in college, but have never had the opportunity to use it. Consequently, all I remember is how to count to ten, how to say "good morning," "good afternoon," "good evening," and "I love you."

As an educator, I see a more concentrated effort to teach reading skills now than ever before. For example, students are placed in levels where they can learn. Phonics, vocabulary, sight words and comprehension are all emphasized. But, I believe that unless students use those skills at home after school, during vacations, etc., they too will forget much of what has been taught.

Has T.V. viewing replaced leisure reading in most homes today? It seems that watching T.V. has become such a habit that shows viewed often are not even selected because they are particularly good, but rather, they may be watched because they are the lesser of the evils.

What can we as parents do to make leisure reading as enjoyable as watching television? Just as children need parental guidance in all other areas, I believe parents must take an active part in guiding their children into using leisure time wisely.

Some concerned parents that I know have even limited T.V. viewing to one hour per evening. Whatever the limitations agreed upon by any particular family, it seems that some guidance may be necessary.

I also believe that children are quite capable and should be allowed to choose their own books. In my opinion no book is "too easy" for leisure reading. If books are easy they will be able to read more books than if they are difficult. If they choose books that are too hard for them, they will soon realize that they must become more selective in their choices. If we try to force children to choose harder books we may cause them to develop a negative attitude toward reading in general.

On the other hand, there is nothing wrong with giving books as gifts for birthdays and Christmas or in place of the traditional Easter basket. They may even decide that you are better at picking out interesting stories than they are!

If your child is too young to read alone, read to him. Many parents are probably spending hours daily helping older children with homework because they didn't have time to spend a few minutes every day reading to them when they were young. Even infants can learn to enjoy books. That is the time to start.

There are several companies that publish records or cassettes that go along with the stories. Libraries have some of them available. They also make exceptionally wise choices in gift giving for the younger children.

Probably more important than anything yet mentioned is the example we as adults set. If children see parents and other adults reading during their leisure and really enjoying it, they are more apt to choose reading as a favorite pastime. Often times it is true that "more is caught than taught."

Local Politics At Work

Following editorial comment is from publisher Earl Anderson of the Stephen Messenger:

For the past few years, we have worked closely with Marcella Gonsorowski of Newfolden in various capacities. She is the first woman to hold a county commissioner position in Marshall county, and she was recently elected to serve as chairman of that group, making her the first woman ever to hold that position.

When she first took office, it was difficult to get used to the idea of having a female county commissioner. I could not help but wonder how a woman could fit into a post which required knowledge of roads, ditches, lawsuits, and politics — and where pressure was very much an everday occurance. Well, Marcella has certainly proven her ability. With her aggressiveness and desire, she just may turn out to be one of the best county commissioners ever. Commissioner Gonsorowski is not only doing her job, she is opening some doors which have never been cracked before in Marshall county.

Hats' off for a very good representation. Keep up the good work!

About State Tax Structure

Mike Adair, Brooklyn Park editor for the Twin Cities Suburban Newspapers, commented as follows recently about the state tax structure:

With only a few days remaining before the 1984 Minnesota State Legislature convenes March 6, we must ask ourselves whether we have adequately prepared our legislators for this annual policy-making event?

Legislators are not omniscient individuals who know outright what their constituents want, but they must be informed on what citizens feel are crucial decisions for the state of Minnesota. With issues such as whether to repeal the 10 per cent surtax on state income taxes facing this year's legislators, let's hope they've heard the voice of the populace.

The 10 per cent surtax was implemented as a temporary measure to aid the state during its recent financial crisis. With the most recent economic forecasts indicating that Minnesota is expecting $600 million in revenues, we believe it's time to repeal this "temporary measure."

Four major business groups recently invested $250,000 in an advertising campaign waging battle against Minnesota's high taxes. The St. Paul Area and Greater Minneapolis Chambers of Commerce, the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry and the Minnesota Business Partnership ran advertisements in newspapers throughout the state Feb. 19 claiming that the state is in danger of losing people, business and its tax base due to high taxes. The state already has lost people, businesses and a portion of its tax base due to high taxes.

The repeal of the 10 per cent surtax on state income taxes is a step in the right direction in making Minnesota more competitive with nearby states. Gov. Rudy Perpich has made the repeal of the surtax a high priority item for this year's session; we wish him all the luck in his bid for the repeal.

It is important, however, that we are careful not to be overly hasty and plunge the state into the same predicament from which it just recovered. We believe it is necessary to keep an adequate budget reserve in the event of an economic emergency. Forecasting indeed is not an exact science when dealing with changes in the state and U.S. economy.

The real question facing the 1984 State Legislature should be not if they should repeal the surtax but when they should? The next economic forecast for the state will be April 10 and it plans to have a major impact on the decision. The repeal could be made retroactive as of Jan. 1 or on July 1 or Jan. 1, 1985.

It is reported that the state will lose approximately $350 million in revenues if the repeal is made retroactive; this loss would not be too severe if the current projection of a $600 million surplus holds true.

Interesting Opinions:

"Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself. They come through you but not from you, and though they are with you, they belong not to you. You may give them your love but not your thoughts, for they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies but not their souls, for their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow which you cannot visit even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday. You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth."

—Kahlil Gibran

Borrowed Nonsense:

National statistics conclude that one in four people is mentally unbalanced. Think of your three closest friends. If they seem to be all right, you may be in big trouble.

Not familiar with all of the local precedents, the new county judge frequently called his predecessor for advice. One day he called the retired judge and said, "I've got a bootlegger coming up this morning. What should I give him?" "I never gave him more than $4 a quart," the old judge advised.

UNANNOUNCED VISIT was paid to Thief River Falls Saturday by Congressman Arlan Stangeland. The congressman said he wanted to drop in and check on handling of the Farmers Home administration loan situation. Stangeland found FmHA staff members working Saturday in processing loans and talked to Maurice McLinn, who is assigned to expedite the loan processing in this area. He said he was satisfied that so far it appears objectives of the program are being carried out and some problems of area farmers should be alleviated.

Tornado Drill Will Be Held On March 29

Tornado awareness will be stressed during Minnesota tornado awareness week, March 25 through 31, as proclaimed by Governor Rudy Perpich.

A statewide tornado drill has been scheduled for Thursday, March 29, according to emergency services director Tom Motherway of the Minnesota department of public safety. This is the third year of the state tornado drill. The past two years have succeeded in communicating the necessity of having practical tornado awareness plans. The drill is intended to allow local governments and other groups to test their emergency plans.

Public safety division of emergency services will be coordinating the drill which will involve more than 500 school districts, counties, cities, hospitals and other organizations including the American Red Cross which are concerned with planning for potential weather-related disasters.

National weather service (NWS) will activate the emergency broadcast system with a test message at 1:40 p.m. central standard time at which time sirens will be sounded. All broadcasters are requested to air initial test messages on radio and television stations in the state.

Cooperating with the tornado drill will be the Minneapolis National weather service forecast office, other federal and state agencies including the Minnesota department of education and major industries.

To review definitions connected with the exercise, a tornado watch means that weather conditions are conducive to the development of tornadoes. A tornado warning means that a tornado has actually been sighted.

Do Not Use Cruise Control On Icy Roads

Motorists who have vehicles equipped with speed or cruise control devices are advised by state patrol chief Roger Ledding not to use them when driving on slippery ice or snow-packed roads.

"Most, if not all, operator manuals that come with new cars warn against using speed or cruise control devices on slippery, wet, non-hard surfaces, or winding roads," Ledding said.

"I have had a number of state troopers who have investigated accidents this winter tell that many motorists involved have admitted they were using the cruise control devices at the time of their accident," Ledding said. "This undoubtedly contributed to the accident because the operator was not in complete control of the vehicle and could not react properly to a skid situation."

Ledding advised motorists to decrease speed when icy or slippery conditions occur. Get the feel of the road and drive according to existing conditions and don't use a speed or cruise control device.

If a motorist should get into a skid situation, Ledding offered these tips:

With any vehicle skid, the main idea is to keep the rear of the vehicle from overtaking the front. To do this a driver must either slow the rear wheels somewhat (release pressure from the accelerator on a rear wheel drive car) or speed up the front wheels (maintain some power on front wheel drive vehicles to help pull the car straight) and turn the steering wheel in the direction the rear of the vehicle is skidding.

If the brakes must be applied to stop, a driver should apply steady, gentle pressure just to the point where the wheels are ready to slide. If the wheels start to slide, immediately let off the brakes and again start applying gentle pressure.

State Poison Prevention Week Slated

"Keep poisons out of reach or swallow the consequences" is the Minnesota poison control system's (MPCS) theme for this year's poison prevention week.

MPCS in cooperation with other state health and safety organizations will conduct a statewide education program during national poison prevention week March 18 through 24.

Poison prevention is important because if is believed that most poisoning incidents can be prevented. Each year in the U.S. five million poisonings occur. In Minnesota, 100,000 people require poison information and-or emergency treatment annually, according to Dr. Sam Hall, MPCS medical director.

Hall also added that 70 to 80 per cent of the poisonings occur in children.

To help decrease the incidence of poisonings among children MPCS and cooperating agencies will supply a home poison check list to school districts, day care centers and nurseries throughout the state. Along with the check list, teachers will receive suggestions for poison education activities.

A major goal of this home poison search project, Hall explained, is to increase parents' awareness of poison hazards in their home and take appropriate measures.

Other poison prevention materials will be mailed to hospitals, retail pharmacies, emergency rooms and obstetrical departments throughout the state.

Getting Syrup of Ipecac into every home will be another strong focus during poison prevention week. Syrup of Ipecac is a drug extracted from the Ipecacuana plant of South America and is available without a prescription. It is a natural irritant to the stomach and safely induces vomiting. Syrup of Ipecac should never be given unless instructed by the poison center or a physician.

"Syrup of Ipecac is a very important substance to have in the home," Hall said. "When used with the proper advice, it could save a life."

Ipecac will be available in pharmacies throughout the state with MPCS's 24-hour information telephone number on the label. Minnesotans should ask their pharmacist about Syrup of Ipecac.

Billboards and radio and television public service announcements will be distributed throughout the state reminding Minnesotans about the risk of poisons and poison prevention week.

MPCS is the state-designated poison information center based at St. Paul-Ramsey medical center. MPCS provides around-the-clock poison telephone information and emergency assistance to the public as well as to other health care professionals. The numbers to call are: Twin Cities 221-2113; Outstate (toll free) 1-800-222-1222.

News Council Elects Four Media Reps

Minnesota news council has elected four new media members to the 24-member council which hears complaints against the media. New members are Kerry Ashmore, publisher of the "Northeaster" community newspaper in Minneapolis; Beth Bednar, executive news producer and anchor for KAAL-TV Channel 6, Austin; Don R. Casey, editor of the "St. Cloud Daily Times"; and Charles R. Persons, broadcaster from Brainerd.

Bednar and Casey were elected to full three year terms. Ashmore will serve out a remaining one-year term. Persons will serve two years remaining on an unfinished term. Half of the news council's 24 members have media backgrounds and half are "public" members.

Dairy Farmers Elect Council Reps March 13

Dairy farmers will elect 11 of their fellow producers to represent them on the Minnesota dairy promotion council (MDPC) March 13.

County extension offices will serve as polling places and will be open for voting from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. that day. In addition to county extension offices, polling places in District One include Corner garage in Blackduck and the creamery co-op in Grygla.

Counties included in MDPC District One are Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wadena.

Candidates for the board from the district are Charles Boyer of Frazee and John Lund of Bemidji.

Minnesota dairy promotion council (MDPC) is responsible for the dollars dairy farmers throughout Minnesota invest for dairy product promotion through the American dairy association of Minnesota, and nutrition education and research through the dairy, food and nutrition council of Minnesota.

Lincoln high school basketball team will be hard-pressed Tuesday to produce its first post-season win since 1979 when the Prowlers open the 1984 North Sub-Region 8AA tournament with a 7:30 p.m. game at Bemidji.

Bemidji, after two easy regular season wins over Thief River Falls, will be heavily favored to make it a three-game sweep tomorrow night. The Lumberjacks handled the Prowlers 84-39 in a Jan. 6 mismatch here and added a 70-54 victory in the second encounter Feb. 17 in Bemidji.

Thief River Falls has had some success on the Bemidji court in recent years, but the Prowlers will obviously be a big underdog when they make the trip this time. A lot of things would have to fall into place for the Prowlers to beat the Lumberjacks, but the opportunity for an upset is always there. If they continue their season-long hard work and get a few breaks, they could present Bemidji with a challenge.

If nothing else, the Prowlers must appreciate the fact that for the first time in four years they don't have to open their tournament schedule at Moorhead. Not that Bemidji presents an easier task, but that trip to Moorhead was getting to be a drag.

Last time Thief River Falls enjoyed post-season success came in 1979 when the old four-division set-up within the North Half of Region 8AA found the Prowlers beating Bemidji 60-56 and Crookston 72-69 for a North Sub-Region 4 title at Crookston. Thief River Falls then lost a Region 8AA semifinal game to St. Cloud Tech 67-45 at Bemidji State University.

In 1970 Thief River Falls lost a 57-48 North Sub-Region 4 game to Crookston, and beginning in 1981, the tournament format was changed to its current north and south sub-region structure. And each year the Prowlers have opened and closed their tournament schedule against Moorhead, losing 91-53 in 1981; falling 67-37 in 1982; and bowing 70-34 in 1983.

District 32 Games Held At LHS

While Thief River Falls makes the trip to Bemidji for a North Sub-Region 8AA basketball tournament game Tuesday, the Lincoln high school gym will be filled with Class A basketball fans for the District 32 tournament semifinals.

Thief River Falls will be hosting the event for the first time. Games have been kept within the District 32 boundaries in the past, but with increased demand for a neutral court playing site, district officials made the switch to Thief River Falls.

Some interesting quarterfinal match-ups tonight (Monday) will precede Tuesday's semifinals as a wide-open, very balanced District 32 field is narrowed.

Tonight's quarterfinals will feature Kennedy vs. Stephen and Marshall County Central vs. Tri-County at Roseau, with Lake of the Woods vs. Hallock and Argyle vs. Roseau at Newfolden. All four should provide some great basketball entertainment.

Tuesday's semifinals will feature the Kennedy vs. Stephen winner against the Marshall County Central vs. Tri-County winner at 6:30 p.m., and the Lake of the Woods vs. Hallock winner against the Argyle vs. Roseau winner at 8:15.

Fans attending the Thief River Falls Christmas Classic in December had a chance to see Kennedy, Marshall County Central, Argyle and Roseau, and they were impressed with the likes of Tommy Jon Deere and Scott Johnson of Kennedy; Scott Boe and Chad Swan of Marshall County Central; David Durand and Donnie Magnusson of Argyle; plus Gregg Welin and Neal Feldman of Roseau. But they didn't get to see the best player in District 32 — Lake of the Woods' Joe Krouss, a 6-6, 215-pound senior with a 24.7 scoring average and 13.4 rebounds per game.

While some hail Krouss as the best basketball player to come out of District 32 in recent memory, he'll switch to football in the fall after signing a letter-of-intent to play the sport at the University of North Dakota, where he has been projected as a tight end.

He was signed by the Sioux despite the fact that Lake of the Woods didn't have a football program during Krouss' sophomore or junior years. And as a senior this past fall, the tight end-defensive end played only three games before he fractured his wrist in the fourth game of the season and din't play the rest of the season.

To add to his athletic accomplishments, Krouss has batted .375 or higher each of the last three years while serving as the starting catcher for the Bears in baseball.

Tuesday's games will be expected to produce the tournament excitement and spirit in the Lincoln gym that is unmistakeably missing from the Class AA games played at various sites.

District 32 third place and championship games will be played here Thursday.

Miscellaneous

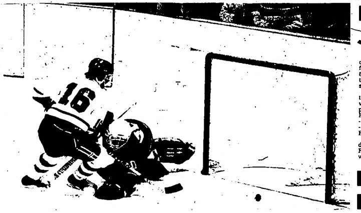
+ Darwin Hagen has been named head football coach for the Grygla-Goodridge cooperative nine-man high school team, succeeding Rick Nelson, who was named the new head football coach at Northland community college earlier this winter. Hagen served as head football coach at Grygla before working as an assistant under Nelson in the first year of the cooperative venture in 1983. Nelson had been the head football coach at Goodridge before the Huskies and the Eagles became the Blue Devils.



ROSEAU WING David Drown had Bemidji goalie Steve Peters out of position as he tried to tip the puck into the net, but instead his shot went off the goal post at 5:51 of the first period during Friday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament championship game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Four minutes later Drown hit another pipe, but he still wound up with a three-goal hat trick as the Rams edged the Lumberjacks 4-3 for a state tournament berth this week in St. Paul.

Rams Edge Lumberjacks 4-3 In Section 8 Championship Game

Coaching can be a tricky business. Figuring the way to beat Roseau would be to place special emphasis on stopping Paul Broten, Bemidji coach Bryan Grand assigned a "checker" to shadow the Rams' star center for Friday's Section 8 high school hockey tournament championship game played before an overflow Thief River Falls sports arena crowd.

That strategy shut out Broten, but left gaps in the Bemidji defense that produced three goals for David Drown and one for Jon Helgeson — Broten's linemates — as the Rams edged the Lumberjacks 4-3 for their 24th Section 8 title in the 40-year history of the tournament.

Drown, a senior, scored the first three Roseau goals and assisted on the fourth by Helgeson, a freshman.

"When they put that checker on Broten — and we knew they were going to — it opened it up for the others," explained Roseau coach Gary Hokanson. "I expected Drown and Helgeson to pick up the slack and they did."

In the other lockerroom, Grand was telling his side: "That's the first time I've done that (assigned a checker), but we felt Broten is in on such a high percentage of their goals we had to try to stop him."

And he felt the strategy worked. Not to demean Bemidji sophomore goalie Steve Peters, who was outstanding in a 6-2 semifinal victory over Fergus Falls earlier in the week, Grand said, "I thought two of the goals Drown got shouldn't have gone in."

Way things started, Drown looked like he was going to be in for a long night. He hit two pipes as Bemidji jumped ahead 1-0 on a hard, quick wrist shot from the slot by sophomore forward David Smith at 7:37. But Drown finally corrected his aim and even as he was well-covered on the left wing, beat Peters with a hard backhand shot at 12:50 as the first period ended in a 1-1 draw.

Drown went with the backhand again for an unassisted goal at 7:21 of the second period moments after a futile Roseau power play has expired. A little over three minutes later he completed a hat trick performance for a 3-1 cushion at 10:49.

Bob Smith, Bemidji's big junior defenseman, scored on a wrist-shot from in front just 2:25 into the third period to make it a close and exciting 3-2 hockey game.

Helgeson rebuilt the two-goal Roseau lead at 7:23 when he slammed a hard close-in shot off Peters' chest that caromed into the netting for a 4-2 game.

HOLDING THE 1984 Section 8 high school hockey tournament championship trophy aloft after Friday's 4-3 win over Bemidji in the Thief River Falls sports arena were Roseau teammates Tom Pederson (10) and Paul Broten (7). The Rams will make their state tournament appearance Thursday at 12:05 p.m.

Drown then went back to his game-opening tricks by hitting his third pipe of the night at 9:14.

Bemidji made it interesting at the end when Peters was pulled in favor of an extra attacker with 1:12 left and the Lumberjacks controlled the puck in the Roseau zone until David Smith scored his second goal of the night by deflecting in John Yetter's shot at 14:28, pulling the Lumberjacks within 4-3.

After successive time-outs, first by Bemidji and then by Roseau, a face-off at center ice with 32 seconds left and the Lumberjacks' net still empty was won cleanly by Broten, who sent the puck all the way down into the Bemidji zone to use up most of the remaining time.

"We didn't make it easy on ourselves," admitted Hokanson. "Their forechecking got to us. We were making bad passes. Give lots of credit to those (Bemidji) young kids. I'm not looking forward to playing them in the next couple of years."

Roseau will take a 19-4-0 record into state tournament play Thursday, playing Section 6 champion Edina in the 12:05 p.m. tournament opener in the St. Paul Civic Center Arena.

"It's such a good feeling to be a winner," smiled Hokanson. "We felt we were a good enough team to come out of the section."

Bemidji finished the year 16-6-1. The Lumberjacks missed a number of excellent scoring opportunities that kept them from tacking a win instead of a loss onto that record and a state tournament berth for the first time since 1974. Bemidji out-shot Roseau 28-19, but three times in the early stages of the second period they failed to convert chances when Jeff Nevitt was stopped at the doorstep at 2:23; Pat Braaten was stopped at point-blank range as he sped toward the net at 3:07; and Jason Meyer snuck through when the puck was dumped into the Roseau zone, but came up empty-handed at 4:23.

"Overall, we played well, especially the last two periods," noted Grand. "But we gave up some key goals at times that really hurt us."

Bemidji was also hurt by the fact that Don Sauer, the team's fastest skater and an offensive threat on every shift, missed the game after suffering a broken leg in the semifinal victory over Fergus Falls.

Prowlers Tackle Jacks Tuesday

As expected, Fergus Falls drew the No. 1 seeded position for the 1984 North Sub-Region 8AA high school basketball tournament, scheduled to start Tuesday at two sites.

Coaches met Wednesday for the seeding meeting, and their votes produced the following post-season positions: 1 - Fergus Falls; 2 - Moorhead; 3 - Bemidji; 4 - Detroit Lakes; 5 - Park Rapids; 6 - Thief River Falls.

That sets the stage for Tuesday's first-round games when Fergus Falls and Moorhead will be on the sidelines with byes while Thief River Falls plays at Bemidji and Park Rapids visited Detroit Lakes.

Semifinals will be played Thursday, with the Thief River Falls- Bemidji winner going to Moorhead and the Detroit Lakes-Park Rapids winner going to Fergus Falls. Championship game will be played Saturday at the site of the highest-seeded semifinal winner. All games have 7:30 p.m. starting times.

Detroit Lakes is the two-time defending North Sub-Region 8AA champion.

Ponies Defeat Prowlers 40-34

Warren took advantage of the free throw opportunities Friday to collect a 40-34 regular season-ending high school basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls.

Although the Prowlers had three more field goals (16-13), they wound up losing because of a big difference at the free throw line. Thief River Falls was only 2-for-3 at the line while Warren was 14-for-22.

Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt let it be known that he was not happy with the officiating.

"The foul situation hurt us quite a bit," he said.

Warren led at the quarter stops 10-6, 21-12 and 28-24.

"We played too tentative in the first half," explained Hunt. "We played much better in the second half. We played pretty tough defense, and we had a couple of opportunities to tie them."

Thief River Falls shot just 34 per cent from the field (16-for-47), while Warren shot 43 per cent (13-for-30). The Ponies had a 21-16 rebound advantage and also topped the turnover figures 14-9.

Finishing the regular season at 6-14, Thief River Falls will begin post-season play Tuesday with a 7:30 p.m. North Sub-Region 8AA game at Bemidji.

All-Conference In North Border Are Announced

Three selections from unbeaten league champion Middle River led the 1983-84 North Border Conference girls' high school basketball all-conference team announced last week.

Middle River all-conference choices were Paula Rantanen, Vonda Peterson and Jody Christofferson.

Marshall County Central and Warroad were both represented by two selections. Shelly Anderson and Nancy Nelson were the Nordics' picks, while Robin Marvin and Lisa Blondi were the Warriors' selections.

Other all-conference players were Kathy Foss of Grygla, Laurie Knutson of Lake of the Woods and Anna Sjoberg of Badger.

Honorable-mentioned status was given to Barb Garthus of Marshall County Central and Devonna Dahl of Lake of the Woods.

Warren Beats LHS JV 39-38

Warren defeated Thief River Falls 39-38 Friday in junior varsity high school basketball action.

Thief River Falls, finishing the season at 4-13, trailed at the quarter stops 11-2, 20-12 and 29-25.

Kevin Nelson scored 16 points and Darrell Miller 12 for Thief River Falls.

Each year, several billion tons of soil are washed into our waterways, making them unfit for use.

Middle River Drops 65-61 Game Against Tri-County In District 32

Middle River had three double figure scorers in Kevin McKeever with 20 points, Darrin Peterson 16 and John Scheff 10. "Kevin, John and Darrin really played well for us," pointed out Sparby.

— DNR NEWS —

Minnesota boat owners whose licenses expired last year have been reminded by the Department of Natural Resources to get their renewal applications in before spring.

Officials at the DNR License Bureau said about 156,000 licenses expired December 31, 1983, and only 65,000 boat owners have renewed their licenses to date.

"It takes approximately six weeks to process an application, so if renewal applications are mailed in now, they can be processed and mailed to the owner before it is time to put the watercraft in the water this spring," said Margaret Winkel, license bureau supervisor.

"Boat owners should also remember that their licenses must be renewed in order to retain the same license number and thus avoid the need to remove existing numbers from the boat, replacing them with different ones."

Offers Tree Seedlings

Free tree seedlings are being made available by the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry, to communities, schools and non-profit civic organizations for Arbor Day planting.

By state law the seedlings must be used to establish or reforest woodlots, windbreaks and shelterbelts, or used for erosion control, soil and water conservation, or permanent food and cover for wildlife.

Forestry officials said that at the present time the only seedlings available are Norway pine and white pine; however, other species may be obtainable after March 15.

Requests for seedlings should be made to the nearest area or district forestry office. Orders will be accepted until April 13. If additional information is required call (612) 296-5958.

Arbor Day is celebrated the last Friday in April; this year it is April 27.

Officials noted that since 1876 the state has observed Arbor Day and that through the years it has developed into a school festival and holiday for the planting of trees to beautify the grounds of public buildings and other areas within Minnesota communities.

Middle River Girls End Year With 21-1 Record

Five Middle River senior starters closed out their high school basketball careers with a 61-37 victory over Stephen Thursday in the 1984 District 32 girls tournament third place game at Newfolden, giving them a combined 42-3 won-loss record over the past two years.

Season-long unbeaten status of the Skippers came to an end earlier in the week when Argyle pulled out a come-from-behind 45-44 win in the semifinals — getting the tying and winning points at the free throw line with time expired. The win over Stephen closed out the Skippers' 1983-84 season at 21-1. A year ago they had a 17-game regular season winning streak, won the District 32 title and finished as the third place game winner at the Region 8A tournament for a 21-2 record.

A Middle River vs. Stephen match-up was expected to take place in the District 32 finals, but the Tigers, like the Skippers, dropped a one-point semifinal game when they fell to Hallock 42-41.

Paula Rantanen led the Skippers to a surprisingly easy victory over the Tigers with a 32-point night, which included a 14-for-16 showing at the free throw line.

"She took the ball to the basket," explained Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. And when Stephen was unable to stop Rantanen's drives, they fouled her.

Jody Christofferson added 12 points and Tammy Sorter 11 for the winners. Debbie Kazmierczak scored 13 for the Tigers, with Neibauer praising the defensive work by Rantanen and Vonda Peterson, who shut down Stephen's high-scoring Brenda Igaszewski and Connie Lundeen to just 4 and 2 points, respectively.

Middle River jumped out to a 14-4 first quarter lead, made it 34-16 at halftime and maintained a 49-26 third quarter spread.

"We played pretty relaxed," explained Neibauer, "but the kids still worked hard."

Middle River shot 39 per cent from the field (21-for-54) and had a productive 19-for-23 night at the free throw line (83 per cent). Stephen was just 5-for-12 at the line (42 per cent).

DNR hotline

1. While removing my fish house, part of the bottom remained frozen to the ice. Can I leave the debris on the lake?

No, you would be subject to a littering charge. All fish houses and fish house parts must be removed from the ice by midnight of the last day of February. Conservation Officers mark fish houses and are charging people for leaving litter such as debris, floors, etc on lakes. Bryon Dyrland, Regional Enforcement Supervisor.

2. What can be done about stray dogs that seem to be on the run and are causing a problem with my own dog?

DNR has no law or regulation covering stray dogs. We suggest you contact your county or township authorities about your problem. The Department of Natural Resources does have authority to deal with dogs chasing big game animals. Byron Dyrland, Regional Enforcement Supervisor.

3. When does the new 1984 fishing license go into effect?

The 1984 fishing license is valid for the period March 1, 1984 through February 28, 1985. Stanley Daley, Regional Fisheries Supervisor.

4. When is the best time to put up my wood duck house?

Wood duck houses can be put up anytime, but it's best to have them ready before the birds return. Wood ducks return to Minnesota by late April, but may be seen as early as March 25 in northern Minnesota. It is essential to have your wood duck house ready for the returning birds to investigate, and for this reason, houses should be erected by early April. This is also a good time to clean our squirrel nests and other debris from existing houses. Kathleen Hirsch, Nongame Wildlife Specialist.

5. Do you have a question, complaint, or suggestion regarding how your natural resources are being managed?

DNR Hotline is your direct channel to a representative who will answer you, whether it concerns parks, fish, wildlife, forests, waters of minerals. Write: DNR Hotline, 2115 Birchmont Beach Road NE, Bemidji, MN 56601; telephone 755-3976.

More than 40 per cent of the world's rain forests have been cut down or burned d. wn, says International Wildlife magazine. Studies indicate this is reducing rainfall and increasing temperatures — perhaps affecting global water patterns.

Applications For Farmer Program Taken

Lt. Gov. Marlene Johnson, chair of the Governor's council on rural development, announced the application deadline for the 1984 beginning farmer scholarship program.

Beginning farmer scholarship program, which is in its third year, is a coordinated effort of the Governor's council on rural development and the state department of vocational education. Nearly 400 scholarships will be awarded to farm couples and individuals throughout the state for participation in local adult farm business management programs.

"The ability to manage the farm business will be a critical factor for young farmers in the 1980's. Minnesota farmers are top-rate producers, but the current farm economy will demand the same kind of business management skills in agriculture that have long been recognized as necessary for success in mainstreet small businesses. Beginning farmer scholarship program is designed to help new farmers get the business management background that will pay off, in the future, for individual farmers, lenders, and the state," Johnson said.

Deadline for application to the beginning farmer scholarship program is April 15. To request application materials, contact your local school district adult farm business management instructor, Area Vocational Technical institute (AVTI), Area Vocational Agriculture coordinator, county agricultural extension service agent, or Farmers Home administration county supervisor.

Post-Winter Safety Check Is Suggested

Now that Minnesotans are emerging from a winter season that at times has been extremely cold and snowy, it is a good time to have a vehicle safety check, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

General check list for all motorists should include brakes, tires, oil, transmission, lights, turn signals and steering. Vehicle alignment should also be checked, especially due to the existence of deep potholes on many roads.

Another reminder pertaining to general vehicle safety is on headlight use. Minnesota law requires headlights to be on during the hours from sunset to sunrise. Motorists are also required to turn on headlights at any other time when visibility is less than 500 feet. Parking lights or four-way flashers are only allowed to be used when a vehicle is stopped.

Bell Reduces Request For Rate Increase

Northwestern Bell has reduced its request for a Minnesota rate increase by $11.3 million, citing lower-than-anticipated revenue requirements resulting from divestiture, actual operating results that exceed forecasts and lower costs of equity capital.

The company filed amended figures and supporting data with the Minnesota public utilities commission (PUC) and reduced its original request of $109.5 million, filed with the PUC in September, to $98.2 million.

The amounts are part of the company's rebuttal testimony, filed in response to intervenors' testimony. The PUC has until July 30 to rule on the final amount to be granted.

Under the original request, area residential customer now paying $12.56 would pay $18.96 after next July. Based on the revised filing, and if the company's proposals are adopted, these residential rates may be somewhat lower than those proposed by the company. Most business rates would decrease, and are not affected by the testimony filed recently.

Gene A. Bier, Northwestern Bell vice president and chief executive officer for Minnesota, said, "Divestiture has been a very complex process for us, and some of our estimates last summer now have been replaced with actual data for eight months of the test year."

Bier added that actual transfer of assets to AT&T is completed, and contractual agreements with AT&T are now firm. Those agreements are for long-distance billing and other services to AT&T, which were not firm when the rate case was filed.

On January 1, Northwestern Bell and two other former AT&T operating companies became part of the 14-state U S West holding company as the 22 operating companies were divested from AT&T. "The divestiture process is largely behind us, but its complexities are immense, and this is just one example," Bier said.

CAPACITY CROWD filled the Northland community college theatre Friday evening as farmers and others from Thief River Falls and surrounding area came to hear a report on Farmers Home administration loans. A number of the group also asked questions or expressed comments for Maurice McLinn, who has been assigned to this area by the FmHA office in Washington, DC, as an "expediter" to speed up processing of area loan applications. McLinn said he has instructed county FmHA supervisors to "come down on the side of the farmers" when there is a question of loan eligibility. He added that loans are being "clicked out quick and fast" and that he expected the 500 to 700 loan applications in this area to be processed without difficulty in advance of planting time.

COURAGE DAY CAMP at Thief River Falls received a gift of $390.84 Friday from Lincoln high school student senate officers Tim Kruse and Melissa Bondy. The funds are used to assist in paying for roller skating, swimming, bowling and field trip events for handicapped youngsters.

Truck Weight Limits Set For Mn. Highways

Spring axle weight limits on Minnesota trunk highways will go into effect in zones 4, 5 and 6 on March 5, according to Bob Wolfe, district engineer for the Minnesota department of transportation.

Area involved includes trunk highways north of a line formed by Highway 55 between the west state line and St. Cloud, Highway 23 between St. Cloud and Hinkley, and Highway 48 between Hinkley and the east state line. Weight restrictions are already in effect south of this line.

Exceptions to the seasonal weight restrictions in northwest Minnesota are Highway 75 between the Canadian border and Polk County 9 south of Crookston, and Highway 2 from border to border. These routes will be held at 10 tons until further notice.

All restricted routes will be posted and truckers are reminded that the posted weight is the final authority.

Further information on weight limits is available by calling Mn-DOT permit offices in Bemidji, 755-2492, or Crookston, 281-3503.

Fort Snelling Is In 1985 Vet Budget

Fort Snelling national cemetery is in line for major improvements in the Veterans administration's fiscal year 1985 budget request that recently went to congress for approval.

The VA, which has operated the national cemetery system since 1973, has requested $3.4 million for administration and service buildings at the Fort Snelling facility.

President Reagan's budget proposes $27.2 billion in budget authority for the Veterans administration, including almost $822 million for construction, the largest construction program level in VA history.

Largest VA construction project in the new budget is a 1,039-bed replacement for the VA medical center in Houston, which would incorporate a 120-bed nursing home care unit. The proposed Houston hospital will be developed with design funds requested in 1985 and construction funds to be requested in a future budget for a total estimated cost of $286 million.

News Council Finds For The Austin Herald

Minnesota news council said in a decision announced today, that while the Austin Daily Herald could have done a better job of reporting on the Mower county sheriff race last fall, charges of unfairness or bias brought by the campaign committee for the losing candidate were not proved.

Complaint grew out of a heated dispute in the campaign for sheriff of Mower county between incumbent sheriff Wayne Goodnature and challenger Jim Barlett, a deputy sheriff. The complaint was brought to the council by the Bartlett for sheriff campaign committee and made four specific charges: that the Herald failed to adequately cover negative aspects of the incumbent sheriff's record; that it unfairly demanded changes in several of the committee's paid political advertisements and refused to publish one ad; that it unfairly denied Bartlett supporters access to the letters to the editor column; and that it failed to give proper coverage to the election results.

All of the 13 council members present at the hearing agreed that the Herald did report the negative stories referred to about the incumbent sheriff and that the amount of coverage given to those incidents by the Herald as within reasonable editorial discreation. The council said that it was not unreasonalbe for the paper to request that the word "illegal" be changed to "unauthorized" in a Bartlett advertisement which referred to the sheriff's "on-call" payments to a deputy.

Another part of the advertising complaint concerned alleged refusal of the words, "tall," "trustworthy" and "honest," in referring to candidate Bartlett, and the council upheld the Herald's contention that it did not reject such an ad, because the Bartlett committee did not present copies of the ad or proof of rejection.

Council also decided that it was not unreasonable for the Herald to refuse to publish a letter to the editor in which a Bartlett supporter stated that she had witnessed the wife of sheriff Goodnature destroying a Bartlett lawn sign. The paper refused to print the letter on advice of legal counsel. The news council noted that other letters from Bartlett supporters were printed by the Herald and no "rejected" letters were brought to the council for review.

In the matter of the post-election report, the council noted that the Herald did fully report election results and that placement in the paper and partial box-score format of the voting results were acceptable editorial judgments.

In a concluding statement, the council questioned whether the Herald's coverage of the Goodnature-Bartlett dispute was as complete as it might have been and noted that two other newspapers provided more comprehensive coverage of the race for Mower county sheriff.

News council is an independent nonprofit group whose volunteer members hear and evaluate complaints against the media in Minnesota. Its determinations are publicized but do not carry penalties or force of law.

RAISING OF FUNDS by Thief River Falls Jobs Incorporated to fulfill its obligation of support for the recently revamped job development program is being emphasized this week by the organization. Jerry Sandstrom (left), executive director of Jobs Incorporated, reviews the "building" program with Roger Reuter, co-chairman of the revenue effort. Contributors of $100 toward the Jobs Incorporated budget will have their names painted on a "brick" which will be fastened to the display pictured above. When 100 of the donations are received, the wall of the building will be covered with the personalized "bricks." A letter encouraging participation is being sent to local business places this week.

Jobs Builder Program To Finance Development

Activation of the "Jobs Builder" program to raise funds for Jobs Incorporated of Thief River Falls has been announced by Roger Reuter and Dr. John Seaverson, co-chairmen of the campaign. Objective is to fund the organization's $10,500 share of operational expense for the expanded community jobs development program.

Key to the campaign is the selling of 100 "building bricks" to supportive business and professional firms or individuals for $100 each. The "bricks" will be inscribed with the donor's name and attached to a building outline sign created by the Thief River Falls AVTI. The portable sign display is designed so that 100 "bricks" will cover the wall.

"We presently have 31 participants in the program and are hopeful that many others will voluntarily join in the program within the next few days. The voluntary response will mean fewer personal contacts will be necessary to explain the program and reach the goal," Reuter said.

The sign display is presently located at Norwest bank and will be moved to a number of other locations in the community in the next few months. Reuter emphasized that support for the program has been favorable and encouraging and that additional emphasis is also being placed on selling individual memberships in Jobs Incorporated. The individual memberships were increased from $10 to $25 this year.

The expanded community development program has a total budget of about $80,000 which is being shared during its initial year by the chamber of commerce, Jobs Incorporated, city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county and School District 564.

Restrict Water Withdrawal For Rice Production

Minnesota department of natural resources (DNR) has announced that it has accepted a recommendation from a state hearing examiner that will prohibit withdrawl of water from the Clearwater River by wild rice growers when river flows fall to 36 cubic feet per second.

DNR officials said that the development of wild rice paddies along the river has increased from 6,000 acres to 11,000 acres since 1973.

During times of low river flows there has been competition and conflict among rice growers for water, and complaints from down stream river users concerned with fishing and other recreational uses.

In 1981 the DNR proposed a protected flow of 72 cubic feet per second (cfs) for spring and summer and 36 cfs for the fall and winter. During the next two years department

Council Hears Debate Over Zoning Decision

SUPERIOR QUALITY in Grade A milk production in the National Farmers organization (NFO) dairy program was recognized for two area dairy families Tuesday in Thief River Falls. Recognition awards were presented at a three-county NFO informational meeting and awards program at the Best Western Inn. Honored were Merle and Armilla Lundeen and their son Perry of Trail and Len-Stan Farms of Brooks, including Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boucher and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Tvedt.

At a special adjourned meeting in city auditorium last night, the city council heard arguments for and against allowing real estate developer Julian Gunderson to build two 12-unit "condominium" buildings along the Red Lake River on Breezy Drive, in an area located just off Sherwood Avenue where it intersects with East First Street.

For the council, the issue is complicated by a decision made February 14, approving the development, in spite of a unanimous decision by the planning commission to deny Gunderson's request for rezoning from R-1 to R-3. As approved by the council, that rezoning allows Gunderson to build two 12-unit buildings, which are two and a half stories high, restricting the construction to be "as presented" in an accompanying site plan.

Other property owners in the neighborhood are now threatening legal action against the council if they do not rescind the action, fearing reduction of their property values. On the other hand, Gunderson claims that he has invested considerable money in plans for the development, and will sue if council reverses its decision.

Opening the meeting, Mayor Bob Carlson explained that council had made its decision after considerable discussion, voting 7 to 0 to approve the rezoning, with Alderman Don Goodrich abstaining. As reasons for that decision, he cited the economics of additional development and revenues from utilities, as well as a "keen interest" in providing housing for the elderly. Carlson emphasized that opponents to the project had not attended that meeting, although legal notice had been published in the newspaper, stating that the matter would be on the agenda, and the planning commission had issued a warning that their decision could be overturned by the council.

City Planner Jack Quinlivan and attorney Paul Ihle explained that the city could not legally require a developer to limit housing to any age group, or in any other way which could be considered discriminatory. Alderman Bill Penning commented that his only interest was that the city "get what was originally proposed," adding that he had voted in good faith because he liked what Mr. Gunderson proposed. "If he can't offer some kind of assurance that this will be limited to low density housing, I might have

Three Honored For Helping To Catch Thieves

Three area residents were recognized as meritorious citizens by the Minnesota police and peace officers association recently, for their part in helping local police officers to solve a burglary and apprehend the criminals.

Citizens Meritorious Service awards were presented to Timothy J. Molstad and Connie Benitt, both of Thief River Falls at the February 28 meeting of the city council, with a third award served for Keith McDonagh of Gatzke, who was out of state at the time. After an explanation of the basis for the awards, which was given by Police Chief Ken Froschheiser, plaques were presented by Patrolman James Fulton, who was responsible for making the arrest of the thieves.

Froschheiser related that Connie Benitt, a dispatcher for Fred's Cab, had called the law enforcement center at 12:16 a.m. on September 4, and reported that one of their drivers, Timothy Molstad, had observed a suspicious looking vehicle sitting in the yard area of a local lumber business. While proceeding to the scene, Officer Fulton observed a vehicle with lumber on its roof and in its trunk, and stopped it. As he was approaching the vehicle to make inquiries, McDonagh pulled alongside and informed Fulton that he had seen the occupants taking the lumber from the lumber yard. After being arrested, the three occupants later confessed to the crime.

In a letter to Les Loch, director of the MPPOA, nominating the three individuals for the award, Chief Froschheiser stated, "It is very obvious to us that we would probably not have been successful in solving this crime if it had not been for these three citizens. I believe they should be recognized for their willing effort to get involved in assisting law enforcement, and I respectfully request that they be given the meritorious citizens award by MPPOA."

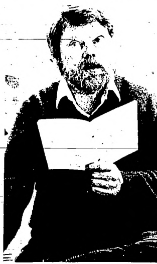
Pro Writers Seek To Inspire Local Students



BILL HOLM is a poet who likes down-to-earth poetry with a heavy emphasis on word pictures and no concern for rhyme or meter. He read some of his favorites to students during his week of instruction in Thief River Falls schools last week. Holm is from Minneota and has been a full-time teacher for 20 years, including two years in Iceland.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Elementary and middle school students in Thief River Falls public schools had an opportunity to meet and work with real live writers last week. Nancy Paddock of Litchfield and Bill Holm of Minneota spent the week working with students on poetry through a program called Community Programs in the Arts and Sciences (COMPAS).

Paddock spent her time with elementary students, emphasizing poetry is just one art form through which a person can express thoughts or ideas or feelings.

"Using language creatively is something everyone does," Paddock said, "but poetry seems to often be something left to the experts, when there may really be no experts.

Everyone should have some art form for expression. It is an enhancer of experiences — you have to be fully aware of something and study and think about it to write about it. And the writing itself is theapeutic in nature."

Paddock said she began her writing interest by keeping a daily dairy, then writing her thoughts in a notebook. Like most present-day poets, she says using rhyme and meter in poetry is like building a cage around the language. Poetry is imaginative language, lifted out of the ordinary, she says, and the form follows the thought of the writer. Poetry must be real, she adds, and good poetry demonstrates economical use of language.

McCollum And White Marriage Vows Spoken

Laurie McCollum and Jim White exchanged marriage vows at a recent mid-afternoon wedding at Immanuel Lutheran church at Bejou.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary McCollum of Bejou and the late Loren McCollum. Parents of the groom are JoAnn White, Thief River Falls, and Larry White, Marshalltown, Iowa.

Rev. Joseph Vold officiated at the double ring ceremony. Jeanie Harger was the organist and Marcia Knutilla, the pianist. Both are friends of the bride's family. For the processional, they played the traditional wedding march. Selections sung by Chris Kays, a friend of the groom, and Margaret White, a sister of the groom, were "Wedding Song," "Time for Joy," "God, a Woman and a Man," and "May the Lord Mighty God." During the ceremony, the groom sang "All My Life, All My Love." Wendy Nelson, a cousin of the groom, and Janelle McCollum, a niece of the bride, distributed the wedding bulletins.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dennis McCollum. She was attired in a white chiffon Victorian gown with the floor-length skirt and chapel length train edged with a deep flounce, trimmed with ribbon and Schiffli lace. Matching trim complemented the long full sleeves gathered into deep cuffs. The bodice with a high collar of Schiffli lace, featured a lace appliqued sheer yoke outlined with a wide Schiffli lace ruffle. Her headpiece was a Schiffli lace hat featuring silk flowers on the upswept side and an illusion netting pouf in the back. She carried a cascade of silk huckleberry and white roses, mini lavender carnations, lavender tipped mums and preserved plumosa, babies' breath and peekaboo ribbon.

Margaret White, a sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Darcy Nelson, Colorado Springs, Colo., a niece of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Cindy Courneya, Fargo, N.D., a friend of the bride, and Theresa McCollum, Bejou, a sister-in-law of the bride. All wore identical gowns of huckleberry sheer with sweetheart necklines, double puffed sleeves, and full skirts featuring bustle effect backs and a double flounced hem. In their hair, they wore floral clips featuring single lavender tipped mums, babies' breath and greenery. Each carried a round bouquet of huckleberry roses, accented with light lavender mini carnations, lavender tipped mums, stephanotis and babies' breath with plumosa, babies' breath, and ribbon streamers.

Flower girl was Tara McCollum, Bejou, a niece of the bride. Her gown corresponded with the gown worn by the bride. The rings were carried by Aaron Natwick, Twin Valley, a nephew of the bride. Like the groom, he wore a white tuxedo and cummerbund with a huckleberry rose boutonniere surrounded by lavender tipped carnations and babies' breath.

Chuck White, a brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Mike Semanko, Denny Llewellyn, Des Moines, Iowa, and Danny Norland, friends of the groom. Serving as ushers were Phil Ehlke, a friend of the groom; Darrel Miller, St. Hilaire and Jesse McCollum, Bejou, nephews of the bride, and Noel Nelson, Ankeny, Ia., a cousin of the groom. They wore gray tuxedos with silver trim and silver cummerbunds.

The mother of the bride wore a dark huckleberry street length dress with a corsage of five lavender tipped roses, huckleberry blossoms, babies' breath, ribbon and netting. A similar corsage complemented the light huckleberry colored street-length dress worn by the groom's mother.

Honored guests were Margaret Van de Pol, grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCollum, Mrs. Phyllis Miller and Dennis McCollum, godparents of the bride. Renae Dalen was the bride's personal attendant.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted a reception in the church dining room for approximately 300 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCollum, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson, uncle and aunt of the groom, served as host and hostess. At the guest book were Dawn Larson and Diane Miller, nieces of the bride. Ladling punch were Chris Kaiser, and Debbie Kvale, friends of the bride.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Phyllis Miller and Mrs. Pat McCollum, sister and aunt of the bride, respectively. Mrs. Marilyn Natwick, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Cynthia McCollum, sister-in-law of the bride, poured coffee.

At the gift table were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jenkins, Julie McCollum, Dana Miller, nieces of the bride, and Lisa Svenby and Alison Ringstad, friends of the bride, were waitresses. Mr. and Mrs. Ordell McCollum, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, pinned the flowers.

The bride is a graduate of Mahnomen high school and the groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school. Both are graduates of the Thief River Falls AVTI and are employed here, the bride in the X-ray department at Northwestern hospital, and the groom by KKAQ radio station. ## Varied Topics Discussed At WCTU Meeting Varied topics were discussed at the meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Woman's Christian Temperance union meeting held February 28 at the home of Mrs. Valborg Hanson at the Riverside Terrace apartments.

Discussed, in addition to the program theme "Challenge of Vision," were the spring district meeting, the National WCTU "God's Bottle," sung by the Northland Community college choir, and the temperance bulletins to be distributed to the youth in the area.

Information regarding the district meeting was outlined in a letter from District President Mrs. Pearl Loe of Wannaska. It was noted that the meeting will be held at the Wannaska Riverside church on April 14, at 9:00 a.m., with State LTL leader Mrs. Hester Rhodes of Austin as guest speaker. Mrs. Rhodes replaced Miss Irene Morse, who died in July of last year. It was also noted that Mrs. Rhodes will be meeting with the local group on April 13.

To correspond with the theme, "Challenge of Vision," Hildur Lian read Exodus 3:11-14 for evotions. Members noted that when Moses was called by God to free his people, he felt inadequate as his only possession was his rod. After being commanded to "Take it and use it to His honor and glory, "Moses' rod was used to turn water into blood, to separate the waters of the Red Sea, and to bring waters from the rock." The devotional meditation concluded with the admonition "God expects us to use what we have to fulfill our tasks."

"God's Bottles," sung by the Northland Community college choir, was read by Geneva Overum. It was noted that apples and grapes, in their original form, are God's bottles, filled with sweet juice. When men take the juice and make strong drinks, put into glass bottles, those drinks harm the bodies. The National WCTU ended its article by saying "We will drink from God's Bottles".

The distribution of Youth Temperance bulletins was discussed. Mrs. Valborg Hanson was instructed to order 5000 bulletins for distribution in the area.

The meeting also included the readings: "Punchbowl Delights," by Valborg Hanson; "Are You Watching Me" by Geneva Overum, and the February Radio Releases.

On Display at the meeting was the Advance Union certificate from the WCTU headquarters at Evanston, Ill. To certify as an Advance union, all members of the union paid their dues before November 30. The dues were sent to the state treasurer, who sent them to the National treasurer before January 15. This is the third year the local union has qualified as an Advance Union.

A potluck lunch concluded the meeting.

REV. ISAAC BROWN, his wife Dorothy and children Kathy and David, will be special guests of the Viking Covenant church in Viking this week, kicking off a four-day missions conference. Having spent nine years with the Evangelical Alliance mission in Trinidad, the Browns will discuss their work at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Rev. Brown will also be a speaker for a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Special activities will be featured at the church each evening, through Sunday, and all are open to the public.

Conference On Missions Opens At Viking Thur.

Viking Covenant church in Viking will be having a number of special guest speakers this week, from Thursday through Sunday, as part of its annual missions conference.

Starting the program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 8, will be Rev. Isaac Brown, his wife Dorothy and children Kathy and David. The Browns spent nine years with the Evangelical Alliance mission in Trinidad and will give a presentation on their work there. Brown currently serves as pastor of the Glencross Mennonite church in Morden, Manitoba.

Rev. Brown will also be a guest speaker at a 7:30 p.m. meeting on Friday, which will feature Dr. Carl Edstrom and his wife Vivian. The Edstroms have been missionaries to Zaire, Africa since the early 1950s, under sponsorship of the Evangelical Covenant church. They have most recently been located at Gemena in northwest Zaire, where Dr. Edstrom served as principal of a high school-level technical school, specializing in training electricians. He also supervised correspondence Bible study courses, assisted in local church work by preaching and literature distribution, and supervised a number of construction projects.

Mrs. Estrom, a nurse, conducted a mini-dispensary for students and other school personnel, served as bookkeeper for the school and conducted reading classes for Africans. The couple has two children. The Edstroms will share their work in Zaire through a slide presentation and display of artifacts.

Gene and Alice Gowin and their children will be part of a program starting at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday. An international dinner to be served in the basement of the church will offer a wide selection of both unusual and familiar foreign foods. The Gowins recently returned from an evangelism crusade in Senegal, West Africa. Gowin will also speak at the combination Sunday school class and morning worship service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Mission conference activities will be concluded with a program at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, featuring David Gloude of Warren, a staff member of Campus Crusade for Christ, and David Rowe, presently serving through Intervarsity Christian Fellowship. Rowe also spent a short time in Belize, Central America.

All of the meetings will be open to the public, including the international dinner on Saturday. Refreshments will be served each evening. Offerings collected will be used to help fund mission enterprises.

Council Again Debates Area Zone Decision

to change my vote."

Statements from the opposition were opened by Lyle Hanson, who commented that he had "done some legwork", adding a couple names to a previously submitted petition. Names added were those of Kathryn Kinsman and Lawrence Lindahl. Kinsman was verified as a homeowner within the perimeter of the affected property, but Lindahl was not.

Hanson expressed concern that under zoning regulations, the building could be built as close as 25 feet to his house, but was informed by Gunderson that 45 feet was the distance specified in the site plan. Hanson also expressed concern over the lack of control over the number or economic status of the building's occupants, noting that if the condominium units failed to sell, under R-3 zoning, they could be offered as apartments. He further noted that he had purchased his property, as Gunderson had, knowing what the zoning was, adding that Gunderson owned "plenty of other property where he could build his condominiums."

Ken Wiebolt questioned the council regarding its basis for assuming there was a need for housing of the type offered by the condominium. He noted that condominium housing on the southeast side of the city had stood empty for a long time. Alderman Jim Womack allowed that the council had relied on the developer's opinion that there was a demand.

Gunderson commented, "If I didn't figure there was a demand, I wouldn't invest that kind of money." He further stated that the location of the property along the river was a big factor in making it attractive to buyers. "I've been in real estate for 22 years," he said. "I haven't done that by throwing my money away." In response to questioning, Gunderson said that he had made contacts with buyers, and could have commitments on 12 units "without going out and selling them."

Bob Ekeren questioned whether the council could legally approve the development as presented, but directed major comments at the situation faced by property owners in the neighborhood. "Many are facing difficult times, and the bank is going to look closely at our properties," he said. He also questioned the "pattern" established in notification given the property owners, noting that they had been informed by mail of hearings with the planning commission, but that the subject had been dropped from the city council agenda the first time it was scheduled. He allowed that he had been personally informed by Quinlivan that it was on the council agenda "late in the afternoon" on February 14.

Asked if he had any comments regarding the matter, Ed Langlie commented to Mayor Carlson, "You talk about the economic implications of this thing. It looks to me like you're putting the almighty dollar against the neighborhood."

Attorney John Novacek, stating that he was representing the four parties opposed to the development, said he saw the council's decision as a case of "illegal spot zoning," taking an area which was predominantly zoned R-1 and inserting a little area of R-3. He cited what he considered to be legal precedent for finding that action illegal.

Gunderson stated that he was "willing to work wholeheartedly with the council" to develop the project as they wanted it, offering to write age limits into the sale agreements on the condominium units. "I'll do what I can within the limits of the law," he said.

After discussing the matter for over an hour and a half, (in addition to the hour and a half spent at the February 28 council meeting), Mayor Carlson stated that he intended to hold a "closed executive session" during the March 13 council meeting, for the purpose of obtaining legal advice without the concerned parties or their attorneys present. He stated that he would adjourn that meeting to March 20 for the purpose of making a decision on the matter.

Poets Inspire Local Students To Creativity

five years, she is now employed with a land stewardship project at Litchfield with her husband. The project grew out of the American Farm program, she said, and her work includes publishing a newsletter for which she does much of the writing. This year her work with COMPAS is at Thief River Falls and Elk River.

While she has worked with students from all grade levels including senior high school, Paddock said she thinks youngsters in second through fourth grade are probably the most fun. Older students have greater ability but younger students seem to have more vivid imaginations.

Bill Holm, who would not look out of place in the horned helmet of a Norse Viking, likes practical poetry with down-to-earth language and images.

And he also is fond of teaching poetry to youngsters at about the fourth grade level, before they become more competitive with one another and aren't inhibited about expressing their thoughts, opinions and feelings. "They're more able to please themselves," he said. "Creative work is done to please one's self."

Holm has written poetry since he was a youngster, probably influenced to some extent by his father's Icelandic friends who seemed to have a particular fondness for poetry. He has been a full-time teacher for 20 years, teaching for two years at Southwest State university and for two years in Iceland. A number of his poems have been published and he has done poetry readings at workshops and other events.

Having worked with COMPAS for nine or 10 years, usually for a week or two during the year, this year he is spending a total of seven weeks with the program. The reason, he said, is that he needed the money, but his classroom attitude revealed that he also enjoyed the work.

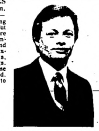
Holm has worked in public and parochial schools from center city schools to small rural schools. The talent is equally divided, he says, but city school kids show an earlier maturity, which he doesn't necessarily see as being an advantage.



REV. ROBERT WARWICK, Maplewood, will be guest minister at the Assembly of God tabernacle, 315 North Duluth Avenue, Thief River Falls, at 7 p.m. Saturday, and 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday. Saturday evening's service will be on the subject of Bible prophecy, while Sunday services will deal with principles of leadership, relationships and character in the local church.

"I can remember what it was like to be a kid in a small town who mostly liked to read and play the piano," Holm recalled. "I was probably in my twenties before I met a professional writer. I think the strength of this program is to show young students that there are actually adults who are involved in writing.

Thief River Falls public schools has been involved for several years in having writers visit the schools to work with students in developing their creativity. The program has also been expanded locally to include artists in the school, and that program was also recently completed.

Restrict Water Withdrawal For Wild Rice

officials met with wild rice growers in an attempt to negotiate an agreement.

Finally, a formal "contested case hearing" was held at the request of the rice growers during six days in June of 1983, in Bemidji and Minneapolis. Extensive testimony of aquatic biology and the economic problems of the rice growers was entered in the hearing record.

The hearing examiner concluded that a flow of 36 cfs should be established for the river for the entire year, and commissioner of natural resources Joseph Alexander adopted the recommendation on February 21.

The ruling means that pumping from the river must cease whenever river flows reach 36 cfs. Prior to that, if river flows reach 400 cfs and begin to decline, a water allocation plan that has been accepted by the growers will be implemented.

Department water specialists said it is recognized that the water supply in the river is insufficient to meet the needs of all growers under low flow conditions. They said they will work with all interests concerned in an effort to find water management alternatives that will be "feasible and acceptable."

Based on current climate data, officials said there will be total flow in the river of 57,000 to 85,000 acre feet from November of 1983 to April of 1984. It is therefore unlikely that a water use conflict will occur this spring when the wild rice paddies are being filled.

Copies of the commissioner's decision establishing protected flows for the river during low water periods can be obtained by contacting Hedia Rieke, DNR Division of Waters, phone 612-296-0508, or from the DNR's regional office in Bemidji, phone 218-755-3973.

Jobs Builder Program Funds Development

"When we entered into the program we envisioned a three-year project," Reuter said. "We realistically didn't expect to see many tangible immediate results. But we have been pleasantly surprised by the progress which has been made and are optimistic that further goals of the plan will be realized."

He pointed to U.S. chamber of commerce statistics which estimate that 100 new manufacturing jobs in a community would mean a 360 population increase, 100 new households, 91 more school children, $410,000 increase in personal income, $229,000 increase in bank deposits, $331,000 in retail sales, three more retail outlets and 65 industry-related jobs.

"Any portion of those projections that can be realized through out expanded and intensified program will be a decided plus for our community," Reuter said.

Reuter and Jerry Sandstrom, executive director of Jobs Incorporated, said that additional means of funding the program are being considered and pursued. Sandstrom also noted that emphasis is being placed on serving local business and industry as well as attracting new industry and he encouraged firms to contact him if they need assistance in obtaining assistance or information. An estimated 80 per cent of business and industrial expansion comes from existing firms in the community.

Senator Seeks Applicants To US Academies

Although the school year may be a year and one-half away, it's not too early to begin thinking about applying for a nomination to one of the United States service academies.

Senator Rudy Boschwitz has opened applications for men and women between the ages of 17 and 22 who wish to attend the United States air force, merchant marine, military or naval academies for the school year of 1985.

In past years, young people selected for nominations to a service academy have had extraordinary academic records and a broad range of interests, pursuits, extracurricular activities and athletic achievements.

"Last year we received nearly 500 applications and out of those 40 were nominated," Boschwitz said. "It is easy to see that the competition is tough, however, if you are nominated for a position, you know you are well qualified. All nominees have potential to win appointments to the academies."

To be considered as a candidate you must be a citizen of the United States, a legal resident of the State of Minnesota, unmarried and have no children.

If you wish to apply, you will need to take either the SAT (scholastic aptitude test) or ACT (American college testing), preferably both.

Second, three letters of recommendation and a transcript of your grades through the end of the high school junior year are needed. Third, include a written essay, no longer than one page in length, on "Why I Want to Attend a Service Academy."

It is important that applications be sent in by November 1 of this year in order to ensure adequate time to assess each candidate's qualifications. "In addition, if a nomination is offered to you, be sure of your commitment to attend an academy and serve as an officer in the United States armed forces," Boschwitz said.

"If you are seeking a nomination," Boschwitz said, "I urge you to write to both Senator Dave Durenberger and myself, as well as your Congressman. My address is: 210 Bremer Building, 419 North Robert Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101."

Change Made In Handling Cost Share Funds

A new procedure for handling state cost-share funds was announced at an SWCD-SCS training session in Bemidji last week, according to Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district clerk Cheryl Sistad.

In the past, all funds unencumbered by the first of May were returned to the state soil and water conservation board to be redistributed to other soil and water conservation districts around the state to be used to get conservation practices on the land.

This year, because of a change in the contract agreements, this procedure will not be followed and unused funds will not go toward installing conservation practices in other parts of the state. Instead, all unused funds will be returned directly to the state treasurer for general revenue.

Therefore, if the funds allocated to each district are not used by that district, the funding that was set aside by the state legislature to help get conservation practices installed will not be used for their intended purpose.

The Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district has $3,900 to be used for qualifying cost-share practices, with cost-share assistance not to exceed 75 per cent. Qualifying practices include erosion control structures, stripcropping, diversions, stormwater control systems, field windbreaks, animal waste control systems and critical area stabilization. For more information, contact the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district office in Grygla.

VFW Auxiliary Plans Event At Capitol Mon.

Minnesota Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary's annual legislative day at the state capitol will be held Monday, March 12.

State Legislative Chairman Emily Lodgaard, St. Paul, is in charge of arrangements and has announced some changes from previous years. Because of renovation in some of the rooms at the Capitol, the meeting will be held in the Veterans Service building, Conference Room D, fifth floor, beginning at 9 a.m. Coffee and rolls will be available Bus transportation to the Capitol and the transportation building for lunch will be provided.

Sears parking lot has been made available for parking. People using the lot should enter from Marion Street by the auto service station and park in the southeast corner, near the Holiday Inn.

Among highlights of the session will be presentation of the annual award to the legislator who has consistently promoted benefits for veterans and their families.

Stangeland Asks Voluntary School Prayer

Supporters from across America listened outside the U.S. capitol recently as Congressman Arlan Stangeland spoke until past midnight for a Constitutional amendment to permit vocal and voluntary prayer in the nation's schools.

"I present tonight the heartfelt message of thousands of my constituents," said Stangeland, who held the House floor from 11 p.m. until midnight, reading letters of support from constituents in northwest Minnesota.

The 24-hour vigil in the House of Representatives by 49 Congressmen from both parties was a symbol of support to U.S. Senators who are expected to vote on three proposed constitutional amendments on the issue. If the Senate passes one of the amendments, the House will be expected to debate the issue in the near future.

"The supreme court will let you sing the 'Amen Chorus' at a high school basketball game, but you had better not say anything else that ends in 'Amen' in our schools under today's laws," the four-term House veteran said. "This situation must be changed."

DECORATIVE FOOD exhibited at the Pennington county 4-H favorite foods show Saturday in Thief River Falls included this creation by Kelly Swanson. Called "Tuna Train Cars", the main item featured tuna salad on a hotdog bun with citrus slices added to simulate wheels.

Green Thumb Salutes Older Minn. Workers

Reminder that March 11-17 has been designated by President Reagan and Governor Perpich as "Employ the Older Worker Week" has been issued by Paul Anderson, unit director of Minnesota Green Thumb, Inc.

"Many employers have known for years that older persons are as productive, reliable, safety conscious and punctual as younger workers, and have better attendance records. Many older persons actually out-perform younger workers. This is because of their 40-50 years of labor-force experience, and because maximum intellectual functioning occurs between the ages of 45 and 80," Anderson said.

"Studies have shown that older employees have an accident rate one-third that of younger persons in comparable jobs!! Older persons miss fewer days of work because they '. . . are highly committed to their jobs, they are more likely to see the job through to completion despite possible interference of minor ailments', according to Kerr-McGee corporation. Thus, not only do older employees produce as much as or more work in a day than younger employees, but they cost the company less money in sick leave and workers compensation," he added.

"Older workers can bring increased profits to any employer. Why neglect this valuable economic resource? We encourage all employers to consider hiring an older person, and to give recognition this week to those older persons already serving the company."

Bill To Reduce Steel Imports Is Introduced

Steel imports into the United States would be cut by one-third over five years under a bill introduced today by Senators Rudy Boschwitz (R-Minnesota) and John Heinz (R-Pennsylvania).

The bill would decrease imports from their current level of 23 per cent to 15 per cent and restrict imports of iron ore from 30 to 25 per cent.

"The limit on imports of steel would increase the production of domestic steel, which will require more use of ore," Boschwitz said. "Further, the restrictions on imported ore will ensure that the ore will be mined in the United States, and not imported.

"Obviously, my interest is in the Iron Range," he added. "In 1981, 49 million long tons of taconite pellets were produced. Last year, 25,285,000 tons were produced.

"Employment in the Iron Range was 15,000 five years ago," he added. "Today it is little more than 6,500. And the total Minnesota iron ore payroll in 1983 is half what it was just two years ago.

Boschwitz quoted Lake Superior industrial bureau estimates that the $400 million payroll in 1981 meant more than $900 million in purchases across the range. Last year's $204 million payroll was worth only $450 million.

Boschwitz links much of this economic damage to the steel trade practices of foreign competitors. He said his bill would give the U.S. steel industry a chance to regain its vitality.

"Without this legislation, we generously forfeit our jobs and our future to those who have abandoned the spirit of free trade," he said. "The fair trade in steel act gives the American steel industry a chance to modernize and become more efficient and competitive in the international economy."

Foundation Offers Booklet On Arthritis

When people find out that they have arthritis, they often feel a sense of shock, disbelief or helplessness, the Arthritis foundation has found. After they learn more about arthritis and its treatment, they may feel overwhelmed or angry. Others become depressed.

Any of these reactions are quite normal, a foundation spokesman pointed out. Being told that you have a condition that is not likely to disappear may be hard to believe and accept.

But having arthritis requires changes in routine ways of living. A good beginning, according to the foundation, is to learn as much as possible about the disease. This means asking your doctor to explain any aspects of your condition that you do not understand. It can mean asking the Arthritis foundation for pamphlets you can read and share with your family. Or it can mean finding out from the foundation whether there are arthritis support or education groups in your community.

During March, the Arthritis foundation has a special message on coming to terms with arthritis that may be heard by calling the foundation's toll-free number, 1-800-552-1278. A free new booklet, "Taking Charge: Learning to Live with Arthritis" is available to callers as one of the services of the Arthritis foundation.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

As we move into the opening week of the 1984 legislative session, it seems only appropriate to take a few moments to discuss some of the major issues which will be debated — including repeal of the state's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

These issues will in large part be shaped by the governor's supplemental budget recommendations submitted to us a few weeks ago. That package includes additional state aid for schools, economic development, employment programs, student financial aid and repairs to state buildings.

The additions would increase the 1984-85 state budget from $9.72 billion to $9.79 billion.

Among the recommendations contained in the plan is a proposal to repeal the 10 per cent income tax surcharge as of July 1 and increase the state's "deficit cushion" from its current $250 million level to $375 million.

We will also be asked to consider a recommendation to appropriate $37 million for welfare assistance to employable Minnesotans who can't find jobs. This is a continuation of a 1983 program whose funds were exhausted.

Other proposals include $8 million for economic development programs and an additional $1 million for Duluth's enterprise zone program.

If adopted intact by the legislature, the state budget would include $1.2 million to convert the Minneapolis veterans home building into a 96-bed nursing care facility and $2.1 million to assist public television stations.

Public education in Minnesota would receive a $14 million financial boost under the plan.

State-owned buildings would have available $28.5 million for repair and $1.76 million would be set aside for salary increases for judges, state constitutional officers and legislators.

In addition to budgetary considerations, changes in the state unemployment compensation system in an attempt to reduce the state's fund deficit will be one of the major sources of controversy in the 1984 session. Similarly, further streamlining of the Minnesota medical assistance nursing home reimbursement system will demand the attention of lawmakers.

Although this session set for an April 19 adjournment date is one of the shortest in history it also promises to be one of the busiest as we turn our attention to the wide variety of issues outlined here. I'm quite optimistic, however, that this will prove to be a very progressive and satisfying session in furthering Minnesota's strength and vitality.

Land Bank To Hold Meet In Grand Forks

Federal Land Bank association of Grand Forks annual meeting has been set Monday, March 19, with registration of stockholders and guests scheduled for 3 p.m. at the Grand Forks Ramada Inn.

Business session will include the election of two directors. Nominees include incumbent Allen St. Germain, Argyle; Alvin Nybladh, Stephen; incumbent Paul A. Nilson, Hoople, ND; and Felix Rudnik, Minto, ND.

Other business will include financial reports, election of a nominating committee and a report to the stockholders by a member of the association's board of directors. The FLBA of Grand Forks serves farmers in four counties in northeastern North Dakota and seven counties in northwestern Minnesota with 3,325 member-borrowers having an outstanding volume of $294.9 million at the end of 1983.

Mark Mayfield, former national president of the Future Farmers of America, will be the featured after dinner speaker. His topic is agricultural optimism.

Highway Funds Now Available To Minnesota

After a six-month delay that threatened to postpone or cancel $76 million in Minnesota highway projects, the U.S. Senate has passed the controversial interstate cost estimate bill, legislation that frees up $5.5 billion in federal highway money.

Congressional action came two days after introduction of a bill sponsored by Senators Rudy Boschwitz (R-Minnesota) and Steve Symms (R-Idaho) that would have repealed the nickel-a-gallon gas tax.

"Sometimes you have to threaten to take something away from someone before they realize how much it means to them. If they were not going to use the money at all, we may as well give it back," Boschwitz said. "We threatened to jeopardize the gas tax in the hopes that Congress would act, and indeed it did just that.

"While different factions argued over what pork barrel projects to include, the legislation was held up for over six months. Now there is no more danger that some of the Minnesota contracts will not be negotiated, and approximately 3,000 workers can look forward to work this summer," Boschwitz said.

The money allotted for each state is only available through April 1 of this year, therefore, Congress must pass another bill to release any more funds past that date.

"I think the reason for the April 1 deadline is that, once again, the House leadership will get another shot at sticking in some more pork barrel projects. To prevent such long delays in the future, Senator Symms and I will push to keep our bill on the front burner," Sen. Boschwitz said.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It was rewarding to learn from FmHA representative, Maurice McLinn Friday evening of the progress being made in expediting and re-evaluating loan applications for FmHA borrowers. His authority, forthright manner and expressed concern should do much to restore the credibility of the lending agency in the eyes of its patrons.

Although perhaps not all borrowers will or should be successful in obtaining credit, as is the case with loan applications in any lending institution, each applicant deserves the same courtesy, promptness, explanation of options available and elucidation of the decision as is afforded by private financial institutions.

Having lived and farmed in the "monsoon belt" during the last five years myself, I can identify with those who spent heavily, worked hard and lost money. Not only did our crops fade but our spirit and land equity did as well. Hence, I have compassion for FmHA borrowers who lost crops but perhaps more empathy for farmers who are not eligible for low-interest FmHA loans due to their creditworthiness. Those farmers whose weather-related crop loss was equally as great will be forced to seek capital for planting from the private sector at interest rates nearly threefold those of the low-interest FmHA disaster loans.

While many of these farmers held back on capital purchases such as better equipment and land expansion it appears that they are drawing a penalty for their more conservative management decisions. Thus, I would suggest that the fairest approach in dealing with farmers in a federally declared disaster setting would be to treat all of those affected equally if their loss was equal.

The reamortization and-or deferral of existing FmHA loans and new low interest loans will breathe some new financial life into our community; however, all three "finger in the dike" modes of financing will have a day of reckoning, as a loan is a loan. If substantial improvement in commodity prices is not achieved before that day, one can not help but muse the future of those involved and all of agriculture.

While sifting through records for income tax preparation a review of prices received and expenses paid reveals the heart of our agrarian problem. Many commodities were priced the same or less than they were 10 years ago; and no, there were no cost of living increases nor higher contracts negotiated as with other segments of society. Expenses skyrocketed; real estate taxes being a prime example.

In 1981 my payable real estate taxes after credits on 549 acres were $1,709. In 1984 real estate taxes on the same parcel after credits are $4,416. This, of course, includes the rocks, brush and sloughs. State officials were quick to appreciate land values based on speculative prices for assessment purposes, but seem less responsive to depreciate values even though land contract defaults have occurred and prices have declined. Let us challenge our local legislators to lead the charge to remedy this inequity.

With spring planting season approaching let us once more attempt to elevate our optimism, lower our input costs and trust that the good Lord will provide us with an excellent growing season!

Sincerely,
Dennis McCullough

Young People Encouraged To Attend Caucus

Special encouragement to young people to attend the March 20 precinct caucus was provided this week by Richard Sather, Pennington county chairman of the Independent-Republicans of Minnesota.

"The IRM is receptive to ideas young people have to offer," Sather said. "The party has traditionally welcomed youth participation in all aspects of political activity. The actions of every level of government in the U.S. affect every aspect of our present and future lives. The present system needs to be changed and today's citizens will have to change it."

Precinct caucuses are the best place for citizens to voice their concerns, Sather said, because they are the grassroots source for political activity in the state.

"Party platforms are hammered together out of ideas which come to light at the precinct caucus," the county chairman said. "Residents of each precinct also choose delegates to represent them at the county, congressional district and state I-R conventions. Candidate support is born at the local level and it is here that citizens can make their ideas count."

While Sather said party members of all ages are expected to participate in the caucuses, the party is looking forward to having young people from the AVTI, community college or high school join in the process.

"Democracy provides for decision making by the majority of those who make themselves heard," Sather added. "Since young people have the largest stake in the future of this country their involvement is mandatory."

For additional information on the caucuses, contact Charles Oakes, precinct caucus chairman, at 681-6830.

Employ Older Worker Week Is Proclaimed

Governor Rudy Perpich has proclaimed March 11-17 to be "employ the older worker" week in Minnesota, recognizing the contributions to the labor force of workers 40 years of age and older and encouraging employers to give equal hiring consideration to them.

Jim Korkki, older worker specialist in the Minnesota department of economic security, said that U.S. department of labor studies indicate that older workers, when compared to their younger counterparts in the work place, have better attendance, health and injury records.

A department of labor survey shows that approximately 1.2 million Minnesotans are 45 years of age or older and that half of them are active in the labor force. The number of older workers in the labor force is expected to increase in the coming years due to population changes.

First Minnesota Woman Senator Was From T.R.F.

(Women's History Week March 4-11 celebrates the heritage of women's contributions in the United States. This article recognizes a local woman, Minnesota's only woman state senator before 1975. Information on Laura Naplin was gathered by Yvonne Bredeson, Bonnie Folkedahl, Jean Hogan, Treasure Omdahl and Gretchen Beito from 1920's newspapers and from interviews with Laura's sister, Louella Stordahl Brandt, and her nephew, Edgar Naplin.)

by Gretchen Beito

The first woman in the Minnesota state senate was from Thief River Falls. Laura E. Naplin, of the Farmer-Labor party, was elected in 1927 and represented Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties for eight years.

Oscar Naplin died the first month of his second term in the Minnesota Senate, and the Governor immediately set a special primary and general election. Oscar's 34-year-old widow agreed to run, with considerable hesitation, the "St. Hilaire Spectator" reported. She consented "Only upon argument that I was so well acquainted with the desires and plans of my husband."

Four candidates filed; Laura won.

In the Senate she concentrated on uses of state lands, the administration of state, county and local governments, and taxation.

During Laura's first term she was credited with defeating controversial legislation that would have allowed duck hunters to roam freely across private farming land. "Because of that," she recalled, "every barbershop in the state was seething over this woman who helped defeat the duck pass bill."

When she ran for reelection in 1932, two heavily financed opponents stumped in favor of the hunting bill, but their campaign backfired. Laura's agricultural district returned her to office.

During the depths of the Depression, Laura introduced bills that would have provided a moratorium on mortgage foreclosures, and extended the redemption period of property lost through farm foreclosures. However, these bills did not pass. The mortgage foreclosure moratorium bill was especially popular; she later recalled that is was mentioned favorably for years afterward by constituents.

She chose not to run for a third term. Laura had demonstrated that rural women can develop skills necessary for participation in political life. She was the only woman elected to the Minnesota Senate until Nancy Brataas of Rochester won a seat in 1975.

Laura was born in Brookings, S.D., on Feb. 14, 1893 to Elvina and Nels Johnson, the fourth of five children. Her father died in 1898 and her mother married Archie McMillin the following year. At the age of seven Laura traveled by covered wagon with her family from Brookings to the Gatzke area in Rollis township. The trip took three weeks.

Although her mother had a good farm in Brookings, the family decided to move to northwestern Minnesota when part of the Red Lake Indian reservation land was opened for homesteading. Rollis township was a wild and simple place at that time — wolves howled close to their log house. Neighbors helped build the house one mile southwest of Gatzke. It was a 40-mile walk across bogs and wilderness to Thief River Falls.

Laura helped with milking and hay-making, and was given a calf that she named "Laura-Belle." She drove a headstrong team of oxen, and would get exasperated with them; she kept her sense of humor, though, even when the oxen would not mind "gee" and "haw" when they hauled cream to the Gatzke creamery.

She began school at age seven in Gatzke. There were homemade wooden benches all along both walls of the log school house.

Later she was confirmed in the Lutheran faith, using the Norwegian language, by Reverend Lofthus. She could play the piano; she sang in the choir.

After finishing eighth grade she went to teachers' training in Stephen for six weeks. After passing state board exams in arithmetic, grammar, history and geography, she taught several terms in Rollis township. The family later moved to Thief River Falls and her mother took in boarders, among them Lyda Batten and Oscar Naplin.

Later the whole family moved to Crookston while two sons attended the Northwest school of agriculture. Her stepfather had a position of herdsman at the school. Laura found a position teaching in the country. Soon Mr. McMillin obtained a job as manager of the Mayowood Holstein farm in Rochester.

Oscar Naplin, the state senator from this area, and Laura were married July 29, 1919 in Rochester at Mayowood, the home of Dr. Charles Mayo. Mrs. Mayo played the wedding march and gave a party for them as well as offering them the use of their cottage on the lake for their honeymoon.

The newlyweds came back to Thief River Falls to live; their daughter Arloine was born here. Mr. Naplin, a graduate of University of Minnesota law school, was a partner of H.O. Berve. Oscar was elected to the legislature in 1918, but was defeated in 1922. He again won a seat in the Minnesota Senate in 1926 and died in 1927.

From 1937 to 1939, Laura headed the division of hotel inspection in Minnesota. In 1940 she ran for Ninth District Congress as a Farmer-Labor candidate, but she was unsuccessful. She and Arloine then moved to Bremerton, Washington, where Laura worked during World War II.

She sold insurance for many years, then moved to California where she sold real estate. At eighty-two she said she had "no ambition to retire — that would be the dullest thing in the world." Today she lives in an Oakland nursing home not far from her daughter and family.

Edgar Naplin of St. Hilaire, Oscar's nephew, remembers his aunt as a stately and assertive woman. Edgar reports that Archie and Elvina McMillin moved back to their farm in 1920 and lived the rest of their lives there. The log cabin at Gatkze that once belonged to her family was moved to the state fair grounds in St. Paul in the 1970's. Some family pictures are in the house and Laura's name is posted outside declaring that the cabin was Minnesota's first woman senator's childhood home.

District 32 Basketball Entertainment

That was a tremendous basketball game played in the Lincoln high school gym Tuesday night when Lake of the Woods edged Argyle 56-55 in the final seconds of the District 32 tournament semifinal contest.

Biggest basketball crowd in recent memory packed the gym. The crowd, the down-to-the-wire finish, the outstanding performances of Lake of the Woods center Joe Krouss and Argyle guard Donnie Magnusson and the exciting tournament atmosphere made for an exciting show.

The fans were the real winners in that one. It was a crushing loss for the Eagles, who draw admiration from everyone for their all-out effort they show on the court. Argyle was District 31 champion a year ago, but switched to District 32 this season along with Stephen when East Grand Forks and Crookston dropped from Class AA status into Class A and District 31. Addition of the Eagles and Tigers into the ranks of teams like Kennedy, Marshall County Central, Lake of the Woods and Roseau made for one of the strongest and most balanced District 32 fields in recent history.

One more night of wildly exciting small town basketball tournament fever will occur Thursday when the District 32 third place and championship games are played in the Lincoln gym.

Miscellaneous

+Northwest Division champion Fergus Falls, twice a winner over Northland community college this winter, continues to win post-season games in an attempt to reach the NJCAA national basketball tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas later this month. The Spartans won the recent eight-team Minnesota state tournament and added two wins in the four-team Region 13 tournament over the weekend. They will host the Region 9 champion (yet to be determined) March 16 as the NJCAA field is reduced from 24 to the 16 who will arrive in Hutchinson.

+Hockey fans in northwestern Minnesota will have an opportunity to both watch and listen to the 1984 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament, scheduled to start Thursday with the 12:05 p.m. meeting between Section 8 champion Roseau and Section 6 winner Edina. Sjoberg's Cable TV will carry the WCCO television broadcast on Ch. 5, while KTRF of Thief River Falls, KROX of Crookston and KRWB in Roseau combine forces to feed the area radio listeners.

+That's quite a scoring race Section 8 products Neal Broten of Roseau and David Christian of Warroad are having this year in the National Hockey League. After Monday's games both had 74 points. Broten has 24 goals and 50 assists to lead the Minnesota North Stars in scoring, while Christian has 27 goals and 47 assists for the Washington Capitals.

+Matt Fontes, the second-leading scorer in Northland community college basketball history with 1,100 career points for the Northmen during the 1981-82 and 1982-83 seasons, finished his junior year with the University of North Dakota basketball team sporting a 12.0 scoring average for the Sioux, who finished 17-11. A full-time starter at forward, Fontes was the third leading scorer in the balanced UND attack. Terry Harris is the Northland leading career scorer with 1,440 points, accumulated during the 1979-80 and 1980-81 seasons. David Dickey is the only other member of the Northland 1,000-point club with 1,073 scored during the 1973-74 and 1974-75 seasons.

+Thief River Falls' Mark Collins, a junior transfer student from Northland community college, is scheduled to play No. 2 singles for the Moorhead State University tennis team when the Dragons open their 1984 season in the Creighton Tennis Classic this weekend in Omaha, Neb. Mark Lundin, another Thief River Falls junior transfer student, is also on the MSU roster. Their former Prowler teammates, Bill Jury and Mitch Rustad, hold down top positions on the University of Minnesota-Duluth and University of North Dakota tennis teams, respectively. Jury lost a 6-2, 7-5 decision to UND's Dean Rudrud at No. 1 singles in a UND-UMD dual meet over the weekend. Rudrud was elevated to No. 1 singles ahead of Rustad, taking away a chance at a head-to-head confrontation between the former teammates. The Sioux beat the Bulldogs 9-0, with Rustad beating Mark Parrott 6-0, 6-3.

Rockets, Bears Move Into District 32 Finals

Kennedy and Lake of the Woods will meet Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Lincoln gym for the District 32 high school basketball tournament championship.

The tournament moved into Thief River Falls for the semifinals Tuesday when Kennedy defeated Marshall County Central 53-45 in the doubleheader opener while Lake of the Woods edged Argyle 57-55 in the down-to-the-wire nightcap.

Marshall County Central and Argyle will face each other in Thursday's 6:30 p.m. third place game.

Marshall County Central put itself in a hole early, and spent the rest of the game trying to climb out as the Nordics lost a 53-45 contest to Kennedy.

Kennedy jumped in front 18-8 at the end of the first quarter, managed to hang on to a 28-26 halftime edge and opened up a 42-35 third quarter advantage.

It wasn't a very smooth ball game, admitted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "It was kind of chaotic," he said. "We got so far behind so early we had to create chaos. We had to play 3½ quarters like you normally would play the last two minutes when you're trying to catch up. We just didn't get into any rhythm at all on offense. It was more like the first game of the year instead of a tournament game."

'Kennedy's one-two scoring punch of Tommy Jon Deere and Scott Johnson got half of their combined 36 points in the first quarter — producing all 18 points for the Rockets in the first eight minutes as Deere scored 10 of his 22 and Johnson had 8 of his 14.

"They were perfect in the first quarter," Ueland said in praise of the Rockets. "After the first quarter we stopped those two defensively," noted Ueland. "We had an absolutely tremendous game defensively after that."

Ken Krohn led the Nordics with 20 points, but high scoring Chad Swan had just 4 and Kevin Boe was held to 3 as the Nordics suffered through a poor shooting night. After shooting over 50 per cent in recent starts, Marshall County Central struggled with a 29 per cent figure last night (19-for-65). Kennedy shot 47 per cent (24-for-51). The Nordics were 7-for-13 at the free throw line, where the Rockets were 5-for-7. Kennedy had a 32-26 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 20-12.

"They played good defense on the perimeter, and we missed a lot of shots," explained Ueland.

Marshall County Central fell to 15-8 with the loss. "You never like to lose, but nobody ever worked harder in trying to win than our kids did," noted Ueland. "They didn't save anything; they didn't have anything left when it was over."

In a great show played in front of a packed, screaming house, Lake of the Woods edged Argyle 57-55 with a come-from-behind effort in the final nine seconds.

It was wild down the stretch when Argyle's John Keller hit back-to-back jumpers to put the Eagles ahead 55-54 with 2:19 remaining. Argyle then gained possession on a missed Lake of the Woods free throw with 2:10 left, prompting the use of a four-corner spread offense that worked the clock down to 36 seconds before the Bears fouled Brian Riopelle.

Standing at the free throw line for a bonus opportunity, Riopelle watched as he first shot shot went in and out and was rebounded by the Bears. A lob pass under the basket to 6-6 Joe Krouss produced an easy go-ahead basket for the Bears, 56-55, with nine seconds to go as Argyle backers screamed for a foul in watching over-matched 6-0 center David Durand bounce off Krouss and fall to the floor.

Argyle called a quick time-out, rushed the ball downcourt and had a chance to tie or go ahead when Ray Safranski drew a blocking foul from the Bears' Mark Erholtz with five seconds left. But Safranski missed his first try on the 1-and-1 opportunity, Lake of the Woods ended up with the rebound and the Bear's Tim Erholtz would up at the free throw line where he made the first of his bonus chance with just two seconds to play for the 57-55 final.

It was close all the way. Biggest point spread was a six-point Lake of the Woods lead early in the fourth quarter. Argyle's biggest lead was a four-point difference in the first half. The Eagles led 19-15 at the end of the first quarter, the Bears went ahead 31-29 at halftime and Lake of the Woods nursed a 45-43 lead into the final eight minutes.

Fans were treated to outstanding individual performances by Krouss, who showed why he is considered the best basketball player in northwestern Minnesota with a 28-point night on a variety of moves on the inside, and Argyle guard Donnie Magnusson showed that he may be the most exciting player in the area with a 25-point outburst, mostly from long range.

Argyle shot 51 per cent from the field and still lost because Lake of the Woods, with Krouss rarely missing underneath, shot a remarkable 72 per cent. The Eagles were 27-for-53 and the Bears were 26-for-36. Neither team shot well from the free throw line, though, as Argyle went 1-for-6 and Lake of the Woods was 5-for-12. The much taller Bears, again led by Krouss, wound grabbing 25 of the game's 32 rebounds. Argyle's pressure defense, meanwhile, forced Lake of the Woods into 21 turnovers while the Eagles lost the ball just three times.

THREE LINCOLN high school competitors will be entered this week's Minnesota state high school swimming and diving championships at Cooke Hall pool on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis. The Prowlers earning state meet berths at last week's Section 8 competition in Bemidji are, left to right, Jeff Rosetta, a senior who will compete in the diving portion of the meet; Todd Wing, a junior diver; and Dave Ose, a senior who will swim the 200 individual medley.

Prowlers Lose Tourney Opener At Bemidji 65-34

Bemidji jumped out to a 19-4 first quarter lead and never looked back Tuesday as the host Lumberjacks rolled to a 65-34 North Sub-Region 8AA high school basketball tournament win over Thief River Falls.

Detroit Lakes edged Park Rapids 48-43 in Tuesday's other opening round game in the six-team tournament, setting up Thursday's semifinals when Bemidji will be at No. 2-seeded Moorhead and Detroit Lakes visits No. 1-seeded Fergus Falls.

Championship game will be played Saturday at the site of the highest seeded semifinale winner.

In South Sub-Region 8AA action, Melrose beat St. Cloud Apollo 72-64 in the first round of the seven-team tournament Monday. On Tuesday, St. Cloud Tech eliminated Alexandria 56-37 and Little Falls stopped Brainerd 78-54.

Thursday's South Sub-Region 8AA semifinals will match Melrose vs. Rocori and Tech vs. Little Falls. Finals will be played Saturday at St. Cloud State.

North and South winners will meet in the Region 8AA championship game Sat., March 17, at St. Cloud State.

After out-scoring Thief River Falls by 15 points in the first eight minutes, Bemidji maintained a 31-14 spread at halftime and opened up a 48-18 third quarter gap.

It was the Lumberjacks' third win this season over the Prowlers, with Bemidji sweeping the regular season home-and-home series by the scores of 84-39 and 70-54.

"They came out and killed us on the offensive boards," explained Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "We just didn't keep them off the offensive boards."

Bemidji racked up points in a hurry with four three-point plays in the first quarter.

Thief River Falls hurt its own cause with a poor 6-for-24 first half shooting performance from the field (25 per. cent), and an equally ineffective 2-for-8 production at the free throw line, including misses on the front end of three bonus opportunities. Bemidji, meanwhile, was 12-for-22 from the field in the first half (55 per cent).

"We didn't play all that bad, except we didn't keep them off the boards and we had such a poor shooting percentage," said Hunt. "We knew before the game we had to shoot 45-to-50 per cent to play with them, and we didn't do it. The first and third quarters were disasters."

There was only one players on each side to reach double figures last night, with Bemidji's Joe Edlund scoring 12 and Thief River Falls' Jeff Hamerlinck getting 11. But five other Lumberjacks had eight or nine points apiece, while the Prowlers' offensive production came to a halt after John Brandt's 8 points.

Bemidji finished with a 23-for-48 shooting night from the field (48 per cent) and a 19-for-30 game at the free throw line (63 per cent). Thief River Falls was 13-for-45 from the field (29 per cent) and 8-for-20 at the line (40 per cent). The Lumberjacks had a 33-20 rebound advantage and the Prowlers topped the turnover charts 19-16.

Thief River Falls finished the 1983-84 season with a 6-15 overall record. Bemidji will take a 16-4 mark into the tournament semifinals.

3 Prowlers Earn State Swimming Meet Berths

Three Thief River Falls entries will participate this week in the 1984 Minnesota State High School League state swimming and diving championships, scheduled to be held Friday and Saturday at Cooke Hall pool on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis.

Earning state meet berths through the Section 8 meet held Friday and Saturday at Bemidji State University were the Prowlers' Todd Wing, Dave Ose and Jeff Rosetta.

Wing, a junior, won the Section 8 diving competition with 377.25 points; Ose, a senior, was second in the 200-yard individual medley in 2:09.86; and Rosetta, a senior, was third in the diving portion of the meet with 344.0 points.

Top two swimmers, plus the top five divers in the Section 8 finals earned state meet berths.

In the closest battle in meet history, Alexandria overcame a 38-point deficit in the final three events Saturday to win the Section 8 team title. The Cardinals finished with 210 points, followed by Brainerd with 207, defending champion Bemidji 197, Fergus Falls 196, Thief River Falls 102, Staples 61, Moorhead 60, Park Rapids 53, Little Falls 33, Detroit Lakes 27, Sauk Centre 27, Melrose 23 and Fosston 11.

As expected, the top four finishers ran away from the rest of the field, but Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney was more than satisfied with the Prowlers' fifth place performance.

"We did what we set out to do," explained Forney. "The kids did a good job."

Wing and Rosetta were expected to be the leaders in diving and Ose was given a shot at qualifying in the I.M., but he was ranked just fourth going into the finals when he turned in a strong effort to overtake a pair of higher-seeded Alexandria swimmers.

Five new meet records were established, with Alexandria's Dave Irgens the top record-setter as he broke marks in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle races and also swam the lead leg on the Cardinals' record-setting 200-yard medley relay team. Bemidji's Dale Brown rewrote the record in the 500-yard freestyle and Fergus Falls' Darin Lindig set a new 100-yard breaststroke standard.

Friday prelims opened the Section 8 meet. Top six qualifiers moved into Saturday's finals, while the 7-12 places competed in the consolation finals.

Ose also swam in the 100-yard butterfly finals where he placed fourth in 58.03, and teammate Craig Goodrich, a senior, was sixth in 58.28.

Only other Thief River Falls entries in the finals came in the relay races. The 200-yard medley relay unit, featuring freshman Rick Rosetta, sophomore Jim Amundson, Wing and junior Paul Wefald placed sixth in 1:56.97, and 400-yard freestyle crew, featuring Dave Ose, Goodrich, freshman Joe Drevlow and sophomore Eric Ose also placed sixth with a 3:41.76.

Alexandria's Kelly Lewis was named Section 8 coach of the year.

Warren Free Throws Top Huskies 53-44 Monday

Warren free throws spelled the difference Monday as the Ponies held off upset-minded Goodridge 53-44 in District 31 high school basketball tournament quarterfinal action at the University of Minnesota - Crookston.

Goodridge kept pace with Warren from the floor (18 field goals apiece), but not at the free throw line where the Huskies were 8-for-11 while the Ponies were a busy 17-for-30.

"That was the game right there," said Goodridge coach Dan Brinkman, pointing to the free throw figures. He indicated he wasn't happy, either, with the wide gap in the number of fouls called — 26 against Goodridge and just 12 against Warren. "I don't think that was right," he said.

Warren led 10-7 at the end of the first quarter and had a 21-15 halftime edge before Goodridge tied it 31-31 at the end of the third quarter. The Huskies led briefly but then went almost four minutes without scoring as the Ponies rebuilt their lead, with the help of free throws as the winners stepped to the line 20 times in the final eight minutes.

"We played well. I was really proud of the kids," said Brinkman. "We played better than the final score indicates. We needed some breaks, but we just couldn't get them. They (Warren) got the breaks we wanted."

Mark Carlson of Warren led all scorers with 21 points. Scott Groven of Goodridge had 14 and teammate Tony Wiseth added 10.

Goodridge shot 39 per cent from the field (18-for-46), compared to Warren's 53 per cent shooting (18-for-34). The Huskies owned a 28-19 rebound advantage, but they were also charged with 17 turnovers.

A 47-36 opening round District 31 winner over Fisher Friday, Goodridge finished the year 9-13 overall.

Marshall County Central broke open a close ball game in the final minute of play Monday to collect a 68-59 District 32 tournament quarterfinal victory over Tri-County at Roseau.

Ahead by a single point to start the final minute, the Nordics gained breathing room when Chad Swan, the game's high scorer with 21 points, hit a 15-footer with about 30 seconds left. Four free throws and a Danni Halvorson fast-break bucket at the end closed out a game-ending offensive flurry by the winners.

Swan was 5-for-5 from the field and 4-for-5 from the free throw line in the final quarter for the Nordics, who trailed 14-11 at the end of the first quarter and were down 34-31 at halftime before going ahead 47-46 at the end of the third quarter.

"We won with our bench," explained Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, who uses eight players on a regular basis throughout the course of a game, producing fresher troops down the stretch.

Ken Krohn and Kevin Boe joined Swan in double figures with 14 and 10 points, respectively, for the Nordics. Kevin Larson had 17 for the Rabbits to lead a group of four double figure scorers.

Accurate shooting, both from the field and from the free throw line, made things easier for the Nordics, who were 26-for-50 from the field (52 per cent) and 16-for-22 from the line (73 per cent). Tri-County was 24-for-56 from the field (43 per cent) and 11-for-13 from the line (85 per cent). The Rabbits had a 28-18 rebound advantage, which included 13 offensive boards, much to the dismay of Ueland, and also topped the turnover charts 20-15.

State Swim Meet To Start Friday

Sixty-first annual Minnesota State High School League's state boys' swimming and diving championships will take place on Friday and Saturday at Cooke Hall pool on the campus of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Two-day event commences at 10 a.m. Friday with diving preliminaries. Swimming prelims that day start at 3 o'clock. Saturday's championships in all 11 events will begin at 1:30 p.m.

There will be more than 250 swimmers representing 75 high schools in this year's state meet, reports Larry Larson, MSHSL director of information and publications.

Defending state team champion Mounds View is not expected to challenge for team laurels this season. Edina, who last won a state boys swimming title in 1968, is considered the school most likely to win top honors. The Hornets will be looking for their fourth state title in swimming. In addition to 1968, other state championships were won by Edina in 1965 and 1967. Last year Edina finished fifth in the state meet.

Two individual winners from a year ago have won their way back into the 1984 state meet. They are senior freestyler Jeff Lee, Richfield, and junior Mike Yasis, St. Paul Johnson.

Lee, an outstanding 500-yard freestyler who owns the state record in that event — 4:37.23 set in 1983 — will try and win his fourth and fifth gold medals in swimming in the 200 and 500-yard freestyle events. His qualifying times were tops among swimmers involved in those two events at last week's section meets.

Defending titlist in those two events, Lee also captured the 500 freestyle title as a sophomore. Should he win a third straight 500 free title in 1984, his three consecutive championships in that event would be the first since T.R. Lundquist, Golden Valley High School, accomplished the feat in the years 1971, 1972, and 1973.

Trying to win again in those two events will not be an easy task. Last year's runner-up in the 200 and 500 free races, Mark Granovsky, a senior from Como Park, is having an excellent senior season and is expected to seriously challenge Lee for the gold medals in those two events. In fact, meet officials expect Lee's 500 freestyle record time to be broken.

Other defending champion, diver Yasis hopes to become Minnesota's first double winner in diving since Mark Anton, Rochester Mayo, won back-to-back titles in 1976 and 1977. Only a junior, Yasis is in a position to win three gold medals should he win again as a senior in 1985. If that happens, he would become the state's first three-time diving champion in more than two decades. The last diver to win three straight titles was Bruce Brown, Rochester, who in fact won five years in a row from 1958 through 1962.

Based on section qualifying times, meet records will be difficult to break. The oldest record on the books dates to 1974 in the 100-yard backstroke event.

Two-day state meet is traditionally a sell-out and this year will be no exception.

A total of 109 high schools sponsored interscholastic swimming and diving programs under the auspices of the Minnesota State High School League in 1983-84.

Coach Dale Wennberg's Thief River Falls Pee-Wee B team lost 12-0 in opening round action in the regional tournament at Moorhead Friday. Gilbert had a 25-0 record coming into the game.

Thief River Falls lost its second start in the double round-robin event 7-1 to Cook, a team that scored four shorthanded goals and played with only nine skaters.

Thief River Falls defeated Grand Rapids 5-2 for its only win of the weekend. Roger Anderson, Paul Borchert, Paul Kezar, Jason Furuseth and Blake Tangquist scored for the winners, with Karl Heinrichs playing a strong game in goal, making 18 saves.

Pee-Wee B team finished with a fine 22-7-2 record.

Pee-Wee A

Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team won its opening round regional game in Duluth with a 4-2 decision over Grand Rapids behind the 27-save effort of goaltender Chris Lawrence and single goals from Aaron Janisch, Corey Poole, Aaron Bruzek and Rick Looker.

Unbeaten Roseau stopped Thief River Falls 11-2 in second round action, with Looker scoring twice for the losers.

Proctor defeated Thief River Falls 6-4 to end any chances of a state tournament berth. Looker scored twice while Mike Howe and David Stengrim added single goals.

Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team is now 19-12. Coach Tim Engelstad would like to thank the parents, fans and cheerleaders for all their support this winter.

Squirts

Unbeaten Grafton All-Stars out-scored the Thief River Falls In-House First Line Squirts 9-4 Tuesday in the sports arena in the second meeting of the year between the two teams. Ross Dalzell scored twice for the Thief River Falls squad, with Nathan Hunt and Brian Gillespie getting single goals.

At the same time in the old arena, Grafton beat the Thief River Falls Section Line Squirts 9-1. Ross Boldt scored the lone Thief River Falls goal.

A Thief River Falls weekend series here against the Westdale Warriors has been postponed because the Warriors will be involved in the Winnipeg City Squirts championship series this weekend.

All three Thief River Falls Squirts In-House teams participated in the Bemidji Jamboree Saturday and Sunday, finishing with a combined won-loss-tie mark of 5-6-1.

TG Sporting Goods beat Park Rapids 7-1, edged Coleraine Gold 5-4, tied Bemidji Kroll's 5-5 and lost to Bemidji Core-Craft 9-1.

Coke blanked Coleraine Maroon 9-0, decisioned Park Rapids 6-3, lost to Bemidji Kroll's 8-2 and was thumped by East Grand Forks 17-2.

Hardees shut out Park Rapids 11-0 but lost twice to East Grand Forks entries 8-1, 5-2 and fell to Bemidji Jerry's Baits 6-2.

First annual Thief River Falls Squirts In-House invitational tournament, an eight-team event with teams from Bemidji, Red Lake Falls, Winnipeg and Thief River Falls, will be played March 17-18 in the old arena.

If a vampire bat attacks, you might not even notice it. According to National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine, vampire bats sneak up on sleeping "victims" and lap, not suck, the blood from a wound. And the bats usually only swallow about one teaspoon at each meal.

State Hockey Opener . . .

Sec. 8 Champion Rams Meet Hornets

Biggest high school hockey tournament in the nation unfolds for a 40th year Thursday afternoon when the annual Minnesota State High School League's state hockey tournament is held before virtual sell-out crowds at the St. Paul Civic Center Arena.

For the sixth consecutive year tournament attendance totals are certain to surpass the 100,000 mark. Last year a record attendance of 102,596 was established for the six session event. More than two million fans have attended the annual tournament since it first began in 1945, reports MSHSL director of information and publications Larry Larson.

Defending state champion Hill-Murray, making its eighth state tournament appearance since joining the MSHSL 10 years ago, will be after a second state title. Other tournament entries this year include repeaters from last year in Edina, Roseau, Bloomington Kennedy and Burnsville, the 1983 runner-up. Newcomers are St. Cloud Apollo, St. Paul Johnson and Hibbing, who last appeared two years ago and is rated the top team in the state in one final regular season poll.

First round Thursday quarterfinal pairings are as follows:

Upper Bracket — 12:05 p.m. — Section 6 Edina (18-4-1) vs. Section 8 Roseau (19-4); 2:15 p.m. — Section 7 Hibbing (21-1-1) vs. Section 2 St. Cloud Apollo (17-6-1).

Lower Bracket — 7:05 p.m. Section 5 Bloomington Kennedy (14-8-1) vs. Section 1 Burnsville (20-4); and 9:15 p.m. Section 4 St. Paul Johnson (22-3) vs. Section 3 Hill-Murray (22-3).

Friday's second day of the tournament schedule will find the upper bracket first round losers meeting in the first consolation game at 12:05 p.m. followed by the upper bracket semi-final game at 2:15 p.m. The evening slate has the first round lower bracket losers facing off at 7:05 p.m. followed by the 9:15 p.m. encounter between the first round lower bracket winners.

Saturday's timetable: 12:05 p.m. consolation championship; 2:15 p.m. third place game; 7:35 p.m. state championship game.

Roseau leads this year's field with most appearances (24) in state tournament play. St. Paul Johnson and Edina teams (East, West, and Edina High) are close behind with 20 appearances. Hibbing is making its seventh state tournament appearance; Bloomington Kennedy its fourth; Burnsville its second; and St. Cloud Apollo, founded in 1970, is in its first ever state tournament.

Five schools in the field have previously won state titles — Edina (6); Roseau (4); St. Paul Johnson (4); Hibbing (2); and Hill-Murray (1). Should Edina win this year they would become the first community to have teams win seven times. International Falls and Edina squads have previously captured six state titles.

First-timer St. Cloud Apollo has the opportunity to become only the fifth school to win a state championship while making a first appearance. Previous first-time entrants capturing a title trophy included Eveleth in the first year (1945), Roseau in 1946, Hibbing in 1952, and Rochester John Marshall in 1977.

A total of 149 high schools began a quest for a state tournament for a state tournament berth last November.

Tournament Notes

WCCO-TV, Minneapolis, will televise all 11 games of the tournament. 1984 marks the second year of the three-year contract WCCO has with the MSHSL. . . NBC-Sports will have a team of four at the tournament to prepare a feature on a showing later this month on its Sunday program, "Sports World". . . Some 12 radio stations are expected to carry the championship series. . . Edina head mentor Willard Ikola, the dean of coaches with most appearances in the state tournament (16) takes a career record of 493-101-32 into the tournament. . . St. Paul Johnson head coach Rod Magnuson has a 265-183-10 record and Hill-Murray's Terry Skrypek has a won-lost-tied record of 256-30-2. . . St. Paul Johnson's Dewey Wahlin is the leading scorer among players with 50 goals and 38 assists. . . Hibbing has the best record (21-1-1). . . Edina forward Marty Nanne is the son of Minnesota North Star General manager Lou Nanne. . . Ed Zins, St. Cloud Apollo coach, was an assistant coach under Ikola at Edina for 20 years prior to moving to St. Cloud four years ago. . . Hill-Murray has 12 returning letterman back from last year's title team, including Todd Norman, a first-line center who has five hat-tricks this season. . . Ten members of the St. Paul Johnson team are on the academic honor roll at the school. . .

Bloomington Kennedy has had 52 players go on to play college hockey. . . Edina (East, West, and Edina-Morningside's) composite won-lost record in state tournament play is 34-20. . . Roseau's Paul Broten, the team's leading scorer with 30 goals and 23 assists, is the brother of National Hockey League players Aaron and Neal Broten.

8A, 8AA Girls Games Are Set For This Week

North and South winners Bemidji and Little Falls will meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Detroit Lakes in the 1984 Region 8AA girls high school basketball tournament championship game.

Both the Lumberjills and Flyers were No. 1 seeded teams going into their respective North and South Sub-Region 8AA tournaments last week.

Bemidji took the North title with a 46-44 decision over Park Rapids and Little Falls won in the South with a 73-46 title game victory over St. Cloud Apollo.

Friday's winner will move on to the 1984 Minnesota Class AA state tournament.

Meanwhile, Region 8A semifinals will be played Friday at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) when District 29 champion Cass Lake plays District 30 winner Erskine at 7 p.m. while District 31 titlist Warren goes against District 32 representative Argyle at 8:45.

Saturday's schedule will include the third place game at 6:30 p.m. and the championship game at 8:15.

New champions are assured in both tournaments. Defending Region 8AA champion Albany is now a Class A school and defending Region 8A winner Waubun lost in District 30 play.

State Tournaments Draw Large Crowds To St. Paul In March

Annual state high school Class AA and Class A wrestling tournament started it off March 1-3 — and from then until the last basketball goes through the hoop on March 24, the spectators, players and coaches who are a part of the three Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) tourneys in Saint Paul will be given the best treatment possible by the City of Saint Paul and all its assorted businesses and civic enterprises, report city officials.

Tournaments in hockey, basketball and wrestling are expected to attract more than a quarter of a million people who will spend at least $7 million for tickets, lodging, food and retail shopping, plus attending the many cultural and entertainment activities in the area.

So Saint Paul puts out "the red carpet" for this annual frenzy in the city (sometimes called "March Madness"), as everyone, from Mayor George Latimer on down, makes sure that visitors are treated royally and with the friendliness for which Saint Paul and its people are known.

This year is no exception. Downtown retailers and restaurants are ready. Dayton's, for example, is trying to help make the 1984 tournament season the best that Saint Paul can offer. The downtown store is inviting all high school students to come to its Plaza area where they can make free long distance phone calls home, see the action on large screen television, keep up to date on tournament scores at a display and message board and have special savings in selected departments. The store also will have an artificial ice rink on its fifth floor parking ramp during the hockey tournament, a basketball hoop there during the basketball tourney and be open until 8 p.m. Fridays, March 9 and March 23.

Saint Paul Convention, Exhibition and Tourism Commission works directly with the MSHSL and the Saint Paul Civic Center, which houses the sporting events. Besides handling housing and lodging requests, the Commission also coordinates parking arrangements and is instrumental in telling the public about nearby food establishments, parking sites and room availability. Maps and information are distributed to all the schools participating in each tournament.

One item of note given to hockey tournament spectators is just how long it takes to park and get into their seats in the Civic Center. Allow 40 minutes from parking in the area of the Civic Center to the time of hockey action — if you want to see it right from the beginning.

And in case people need directions about getting around in Saint Paul, the Minnesota Highway Patrol has more than a thousand maps to give out to those who are heading into the Capitol City.

When the three March tourneys call Saint Paul "home," Saint Paul and its people will be ready for the excitement of the games, for the huge throngs and for the chance to once again host the MSHSL events.

For additional information about the tournaments, housing, parking and Saint Paul attractions, contact the Saint Paul Convention, Exhibition and Tourism Commission, Landmark Center, B-100, Saint Paul, MN 55102; telephone 612-292-4360.

Hunting Dog Is AKC Topic Tues.

Selection and training of dogs for hunting and field trials will be the topic of a meeting being sponsored by the Agassiz Kennel club at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 13, at Northwest regional library.

Guest speaker will be Jerry Bjerken, McIntosh, a breeder of English setters, who also trains dogs for upland bird hunting and retrieving and participates in field trials. He will discuss selection of puppies and older dogs, and training of both pointing and retrieving dogs.

Every year, Louisiana loses 40 square miles of land into the Gulf of Mexico, says the National Wildlife Federation. This quickly-vanishing area of lush swamps and marshes of the Mississippi Delta provides a nutrient-rich underwater shelf that, in turn, provides more than a third of the nation's annual fisheries harvest.

For Minnesota sportsmen who find that the warm weather has awakened thoughts of summer fishing, the Department of Natural Resources has announced the opening dates for the season.

Season for walleye and northern pike will open Saturday, May 12, on inland waters and Minnesota-Canada boundary waters. Limit on walleye is 6 and northern pike 3.

Muskellunge may be taken starting June 2 on inland waters and June 23 on Minnesota-Canada boundary waters. The musky limit is one fish, and anglers should check the "1984 Minnesota Fishing Regulations," available at all license agents, for special restrictions on the minimum size of muskies that may be taken.

Season on walleye and northern pike will open April 28 on waters that form the boundaries between Minnesota and the neighboring states of Wisconsin, South and North Dakota, and Iowa.

Except for a portion of northeastern Minnesota, the bass season on inland waters will open May 26 this year and on that same date on Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters. On Minnesota-Canada boundary waters the season will open May 12. On boundary waters with Iowa and the Dakotas, the bass season will open April 28.

Limit on largemouth and smallmouth bass is 6 on all waters except the Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters where the limit is 5.

Trout fishing in streams will open on all waters April 14 except for streams tributary to Lake Superior. On the St. Louis river and estuary, and on all tributary streams below the posted boundaries, there is a continuous season. Above the posted boundaries on streams other than the St. Louis river, the stream trout season opens April 14, as it does elsewhere in the state.

Trout anglers are advised to consult the regulations for size restrictions, fishing hours and trout stamp requirements.

U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

Farmers (as well as stamp collectors) might want to take note of a new 20-cent commemorative stamp that marks 50 years of soil and water conservation.

The stamp was issued by the U.S. Postal Service a couple weeks ago after an unveiling at a convention of the National Association of Conservation Districts, a private group that helps promote conservation and natural resources development.

What a 50-year history to commemorate! As dust storms hit the Great Plains in 1934, the Soil Erosion Service in the U.S. Department of the Interior began to work directly with farmers through demonstration projects. The agency was transferred to the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 1935, and under the Soil Conservation Act of 1935, it became the Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

The SCS now directs a national soil and water conservation program throughout nearly 3,000 local conservation districts that cover more than 2 billion acres of land. It also works in agricultural pollution control, environmental improvement, and rural community development.

However, despite the efforts by the SCS, the struggle to conserve our natural resources continues. The potential for topsoil erosion has risen with the intensification of agriculture over the years, and sedimentation in our waters is a serious problem. In fact, a November 1983 report by the Comptroller General to the Congress cited a USDA figure: 6.5 billion tons of soil are displaced each year by erosion. In other words, that's about 43 million acres losing an inch of soil a year.

Erosion lowers soil productivity in several ways, ranging from loss of plant nutrients to damage to soil structure. Moreover, studies have shown that yields fall as thickness of topsoil decreases. Other results of erosion are water pollution — from ag chemicals eroded away with the soil — and air pollution — from dirt blown away by the wind.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, of which I am a member, has kept an active interest in the conservation of our farmland. For example, the Senate late last year passed and sent to the House an agriculture Committee bill, S.663, called the "Highly Erodible Land Conservation Act of 1983." I was a cosponsor of this bill, which was sponsored by Senator Bill Armstrong (R-Colorado).

S.663, known as the "sodbuster" bill, prohibits agriculture incentives for persons who produce commodities on highly erodible land, as defined by the SCS in its land capability classification systems. (High erodible land is class IVe, VIe, VII, or VIII land.) The incentives include price supports, crop insurance, and any new Farmers Home Administration Loan that will contribute to excessive erosion of such land.

The bill covers crops grown on highly erodible land that has not been farmed during the past 10 years, and directs the Secretary of Agriculture to use Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation county committees to administer the program.

The "Sodbuster" bill would have little impact on Minnesota. Much of our state's highly erodible land has been farmed for years through the use of contour strips and careful management.

But the bill would have great importance in western states, where speculators have bought large tracts of grazing land and plowed the land to plant wheat.

Even a half century after the "Dirty '30s" soil and water conservation are still major concerns. Thanks to the SCS and the many farmers who have cooperated in conservation projects, the outlook is improving.

COMBINING EFFORTS at the Pennington county 4-H favorite foods show Saturday were Lana Wagner (left) and Susan Peterson. They exhibited cheesecake and hamburger steak as their favorite foods at the show held in the Falls Mall.

TEAMING UP to provide a demonstration at the Pennington county 4-H favorite foods show Saturday at the Falls Mall in Thief River Falls were Deborah Grundhaus (left) and Edna Johnson.

ENERGY BREAKFAST was exhibited by Leslie Engen at the Pennington county 4-H favorite foods show Saturday at the Falls Mall in Thief River Falls. The menu included applesauce muffin, egg nog, orange juice, butter and jelly.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls water utility announced today that the State maximum allowable limit for turbidity in drinking water is being exceeded.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity levels do not create any health hazard because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with State Health Department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lamm at the Water Plant, phone number 681-3809.

Card of Thanks

There is no way we can possibly tell you how thankful we feel in our hearts for all of the thoughtfulness everyone showed our family in our time of sorrow. But we would like to try with a special thank you to all of the friends, neighbors and relatives for all the support and kindness they showed us, those who brought food to the house, visiting us and for their prayers.

A special thank you to Pastor Galland for his support.

We would also like to thank the ladies of Our Saviour's for the lunch they served following the service, the Bantam A hockey mothers who brought our family a special supper to our home, to all those who sent flowers, and the thoughtfulness shown by the coaches and players in the hockey and baseball programs.

We wish to thank the organist, Mrs. Gary Erickson; the soloist, Solveig Swenson; the active pallbearers: Warren Hanestad, Jon Looker, Wally Grovum, LeRoy Bugge Joseph Ose, Larry Forsberg and the Thief River Falls Fire Department for being honorary pallbearers.

We would also like to thank the Green Funeral Home for making the arrangements and giving our family moral support in our time of need, to Our Saviour's Junior Choir who came to our house with a special message in song, and to all those who sent cards and memorials.

Also a big thanks for all of the kindnesses too numerous to mention and may God bless all of you.

Lindahl Speaks For Senior Day

Ivadell Lindahl will be guest speaker at the senior citizen's day program to be held in the Northwest regional library meeting room from 3 to 4 p.m. Thursday, March 8.

Lindahl will talk about her pig collection, telling why and how she got started. Refreshments will be served and the meeting is open to the public.

Three Films To Be Shown Sat. At NW Library

Films to be shown at the Northwest regional library meeting room from 2 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 10, will be "The Elves and the Shoemaker", "If I Had a Million" and "It's So Nice To Have a Wolf Around The House".

"The Elves and the Shoemaker" features variations on a classic story about a poor but honest shoemaker; "If I Had a Million" is a W. C. Fields film in which he receives a million dollars without strings attached from an eccentric millionaire, and goes on a one-man rampage to eliminate roadhogs as a menace to society; "It's So Nice To Have a Wolf Around The House" is a children's film teaching a lesson in forgiveness when a wolf with a sordid past tries to endear himself to an old man and his pets.

Movie showings are open to the public.

AVTI Students Place High At State Contest

Thirteen sales, marketing and management students from the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute attended the Minnesota DECA (Declarative Education Clubs of America) career development conference in St. Paul from February 26 to 29, which had the theme, "The Best Is Yet To Come."

Students competed with other Minnesota AVTI students in areas such as retail sporting goods, fashion merchandising, hardware, human relations, general sales, general merchandising, visual merchandising, job application, entrepreneurship and chapter civic consciousness project.

Local winners included Connie Udby, Lankin, ND., who placed first in the civic consciousness are with her manual and interview. Her manual was developed from a "Christmas Crusade" project run by the local DECA chapter in November and December, which provided gifts for 21 needy children in Pennington county. She also presented the manual in oral form to the judges. Winning the trophy qualifies her to participate in national DECA competition at Kansas City, MO. in May.

Kristen Simpson, Thief River Falls, placed second in the general sales series with her manual. In her competition she acted as a consultant to an office products and computer sales company.

Gwen Nelson, Thief River Falls, placed third in the written entrepreneurship event with her manual detailing a new business startup, and was a finalist in the oral event. She chose a day care center as her business.

While in St. Paul, the students also toured Town Square, the state capitol, state historical museum, St. Paul's Basilica, and attended the awards ceremony at the Carleton Celebrity Room in Minneapolis. They were accompanied by Dorothy Dodds, instructor and DECA advisor, and Tammy Swick, student teacher.

U. of Minn. Plans Strategies For '84 Recruitment

Faced with stepped-up competition for high-ability students, the University of Minnesota plans more aggressive recruitment — particularly of the top 20 per cent of high school seniors.

"I think, very frankly, that we've been complacent (about recruiting top students)," university President C. Peter Magrath told the board of regents recently. "I really think we have felt that we are good and therefore the good students will come here. What has happened, of course, is that the university has become an afterthought."

Although specific strategies for attracting high-ability students won't be presented by the administration until March or April, board members offered suggestions for how high school students should be approached by the university, including earlier written contact and increased personal contact.

Administration hopes to increase enrollment among Minnesota high school seniors in the top 20 per cent of their classes and out-of-state high school students in the top 10 per cent, while maintaining the current number of minority students and international undergraduate students.

This fall 60 per cent of the 3,074 freshmen who enrolled at the Twin Cities campus were in the top 20 per cent of their high school classes; at the Morris campus half of the 391 freshmen finished in the top 20 per cent; and at Duluth 35 per cent of the 1,647 freshmen had a similar class standing, according to figures from the higher education coordinating board.

Of Minnesota's high-ability students who don't enroll at the university's Twin Cities campus, 27 per cent go to private colleges in the state, 27 per cent go to colleges in Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota and 29 per cent go to other four-year schools. The rest attend Minnesota state universities, the university's coordinate campuses or two-year schools in the state or do not attend any schools.

Mary Schertler, a regent from St. Paul, suggested that contacting top students during their junior year of high school is essential. "If every private school in the country is contacting students in our state in their junior year and we're waiting until their senior year, we're not going to have a chance," Schertler said. "I'm convinced that if we have one strategy, it should be that the kids be contacted sooner. It's worth the postage and it's worth having that brochure. Then, at least we're in the running."

Charles Casey, a regent from West Concord, said that his daughter, a high school senior, wasn't contacted by the university until February 3 — two months after she applied for admission.

"I can't believe it's taken this long to get off the ground," said Erwin Goldfine, a regent from Duluth, who said he's been talking about the need to step up recruitment of top students for "as long as I can remember."

Magrath and Minneapolis regent David Lebedoff said they think personal contact is the most important approach. Having well-informed alumni and staff available to visit and advise high school students could have a great impact on recruitment.

"We apparently have no apology — and I certainly don't — that we go out to try and recruit high-ability, gifted athletic students and everybody says, 'yes, you should do that,'" Magrath said. "Very few people are critical when we go out and try to attract the very best graduate students from around the world to come to the University of Minnesota. Why shouldn't we try to attract the very best undergraduates?"

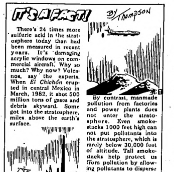
The board deferred action on a contract with Midwest Cable and Satellite, a WCCO-TV affiliate, for broadcast of university sports and educational programs. Magrath said he thinks the contact is basically a good one, but that some issues need to be resolved. One issue — a stipulation that WCCO be given the right of first refusal to telecast football games if the university were to get the right to authorize broadcast — drew the most concerns. The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to decide in the antitrust suit against the NCAA whether that organization has the exclusive right to authorize broadcast of college football.

About 175 students packed a regents committee meeting to register complaints about a plan to lower by 20 per cent starting wages for entry-level jobs. The idea of lowering from $5.35 to $4.10 starting wages for student workers was proposed by coordinate campus students, who felt more students could have jobs if the salaries were lower. The central issue was the inclusion of the Twin Cities campus on the plan.

Schertler, chair of the facility, staff and student affairs committee, told Frank Wilderson, vice president for student affairs, to return to the committee after more consultation with student groups and administrators on the coordinate campuses.

In other action, the board approved plans for a $4.5 million athletic facility — including a covered football practice field. The covered practice field is expected to be completed by Aug. 15 and offices and team facilities should be finished by the end of the year.

Regents also were updated on Gov. Rudy Perpich's recommendation that $59.3 million of the university's $74.3 million capital request be funded by the Legislature.



IT'S A FACT! By Thompson

There's 24 times more sulfuric acid in the stratosphere today than had been measured in recent years. It's damaging acrylic windows on commercial aircraft. Why so much? Why now? Volcanos, say the experts. When El Chichón erupted in central Mexico in March, 1982, it shot 500 million tons of gases and debris skyward. Some got into the stratosphere, miles above the earth's surface.

By contrast, manmade pollution from factories and power plants does not enter the stratosphere. Even smokestacks 1000 feet high can not put pollutants into the stratosphere, which is rarely below 30,000 feet of altitude. Tall smokestacks help protect us from pollution by allowing pollutants to disperse before settling close by. The height of smokestacks has little effect, if any, on pollution beyond about 60 miles.

Motor Vehicle Registration Down In '83

The number of motor vehicle registrations in Minnesota declined slightly in 1983, according to the Minnesota department of public safety. Total number of registrations was 3,634,5800 compared to 3,659,400 in 1982.

Passenger vehicle registrations increased to 2,185,457 from 2,157,922 but there were lower totals in most other areas. Number of motorcycle registrations dropped to 155,502 from 159,345. Farm trucks were down to 45,147 from 50,303.

Number of small trucks weighing one ton or less and licensed as passenger vehicles increased to 469,116 from 464,801. Gross weight trucks dropped to 48,269 from 51,926.

Moped registrations in the state dropped to 14,516 from 14,725. The number of recreational vehicles with living quarters went down to 77,600 from 78,664 the previous year.

Driver and vehicle services provides the public with three major programs: The registration of motor vehicles (licensing and titling) for identification and revenue-collecting purposes; the manufacture of license plates and validation stickers to serve as proof of registration and tax payments; and rgulation of motor vehicle dealerships.

Registration totals reflect the period from Jan. 1, 1983, to Dec. 31, 1983. Totals include all vehicles registered during the calendar year.

New Cigarette Campaign Is Challenged

"Cigarette companies are running scared, and will take desperate measures to keep their multi-billion dollar industry alive," says Dorothy Berg, managing director of the American Lung association of Minnesota. "Last year they spent $1.5 billion to promote their lethal product, a figure that health agencies cannot hope to match."

Mrs. Berg's comments were in response to ads placed by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company in major newspapers and national magazines calling for an open debate on the subject of smoking. The ads refer to smoking issues as "controversial" ones that should be debated.

"There is no controversy about the smoking and health issue," Mrs. Berg said. She cited a study recently released by the Minnesota department of health, which revealed that cigarette smoking led to 5,000 deaths in Minnesota in 1981. That was 15 per cent of all fatalities in the state that year.

A recent gallup survey conducted for the American Lung association revealed that 92 per cent of those polled — both smokers and non-smokers — believe smoking is harmful to health and further, a majority prefer designated smoking areas in a number of locations.

The per capita consumption of cigarettes in 1983 was the lowest it has been in 20 years.

Tobacco companies are also not the friend of the American tobacco farmer they pretend to be, according to Mrs. Berg. "Tobacco manufacturers import low-priced tobacco from overseas in direct competition with the American farmer," she said. "In 1982, 33 per cent of the tobacco used in the United States was imported. The problem for smokers is that this imported tobacco can contain pesticides so strong that they are banned in this country, and the FDA, which issues warnings or regulates distribution of drugs and foods that may not be safe, has no authority whatsoever over tobacco." Manufacturers put additives in cigarettes to make them burn better, for flavor, etc. "The ingredients of a breakfast cereal must be listed on the package," Mrs. Berg said. "There is no listing on cigarette packages of additives or pesticides."

Minnesota has been a leader nationally on many smoking issues, such as the clean indoor air act and Minnesota D-Day ("Don't Smoke" day.) Mrs. Berg is hopeful that Minnesotans will not be swayed by the new aggressive advertising R. J. Reynolds is undertaking. "They're hoping to convince people that smoking and the effects of smoke on non-smokers has not been proven," Mrs. Berg concluded. "The American Lung association of Minnesota believes those arguments are distortions."

CHAIN REACTION

With great ceremony, the boy gave the lead domino a gentle poke. A rapid series of sharp clicks proceeded down the line, paused briefly at a gap too large, then continued onward. Then, abruptly, everything was still.

He was tickled speechless. He clapped his pudgy hands together and gave me a big, proud smile.

Giving our faith to God is like pushing over that first domino. It starts a chain reaction — one that results in a richer life, greater happiness and a deeper confidence in ourselves and in the future.

Why not attend the church or synagogue of your choice next week.

Start a chain reaction in your life.

Registration Is Open For Camp Superkids

Registration is now open for Camp Superkids 1984, the camp for kids with asthma, the American lung association of Minnesota has announced. Two six-day sessions for boys and girls 7 to 9 years old and one 12 day session for ages 8 to 14 will be held July 9 through 20, at Y.M.C.A. Camp Induhapi on Lake Independence near Loretto.

"Camp Superkids is fun," commented Pat Kasell, regional program manager for the American lung association of Minnesota. "We teach breathing exercises, what asthma is, how medications work, and how to keep asthma under control in highly active outdoor situations."

Superkids campers take part in a variety of camp activities, including swimming, horseback riding, canoeing, sailing, fishing, arts and crafts, and sports. A team of nurses, physicians, and camp counselors help the kids learn how to live with and control their asthma. A parent education program is also provided. A child must be on a daily medication for asthma in order to attend the camp.

American lung association of Minnesota can provide a free audio-visual presentation to community groups interested in learning more about Camp Superkids. For information on scheduling a presentation or for registration information, contact: Pat Kasell, American lung association of Minnesota, 614 Portland avenue, St. Paul, 55102, 612-227-8014. Outside of the metro area call toll free: 1-800-642-LUNG.

Winning At Crop Judging Takes Fast Eyes And Fingers

by Lynette Lamb
'U' M News Service

On a Tuesday in mid-November when most students were in class, four University of Minnesota students were distinguishing Wichita wheat from federation wheat, and, what's more, they were spelling the Latin names right.

Agronomy students Brian Anderson, Mary Joyce and Christer Ohlsson and agricultural education student Roger Wippler made up the winning team in this year's Kansas City national collegiate crops contest, beating out 11 other highly trained groups from throughout the country.

Earning 5,106.8 points out of a possible 5,400, the team is the fourth University of Minnesota team in a row to win the Kansas City crops judging contest. The 1983 team also took second place at the Chicago Intercollegiate contest November 17.

Their victory was particularly impressive since they were pitted against such top agricultural colleges as Iowa state and Kansas state. But for the uninitiated, a nagging question remains: Just what is crops judging?

As is obvious from the locations and dates of the contests, judging crops does not involve strolling through fields of clover and rye. Rather, it is a highly skilled discipline involving three separate competencies: plant and seed identification, commercial grain grading and seed analysis. Contestants, seated at long tables and armed with grain samples, scales, calculators and pencils, are given 90 minutes to complete each of the contest's three parts.

Plant and seed identificaion, the first part, involves the most memorization. Contestants must know the common and Latin names of more than 300 plants and seeds and be able to correctly identify and spell the names of the 100 specimens they are given.

Identifying specimens is even harder than it sounds because, from contest to contest, contestants will never see the same sample twice. Therefore, it is critical that they learn the characteristics of a given crop rather than merely the look of a certain sample. Minnesota team coach and agronomy professor John Goodding prepares his team by providing a nearly infinite number of samples for them to practice on. "We could never get through all the samples we have collected," he said.

Establishing the grades for eight grain samples is the object of commercial grain grading, the second part of the contest. Samples are made up by federal grain inspectors, who have previously determined the grades of the samples. Students must attempt to match those grades using official U.S. Department of Agriculture grain standards. "This is a particularly difficult contest in Kansas City because it is home of the 'Supreme Court' of federal grain inspection," Goodding said.

Seed analysis, the third and final section of the crops judging contest, involves checking seed samples for purity. Contestants must check 10 samples in 90 minutes, keeping an eye out for foreign matter such as weed seeds in the samples. Besides other qualities, contestants truly need "fast eyes and fast fingers" to succeed in crops judging, Goodding said.

Although exacting, judging crops is more than simply an exercise in minutiae. The skills undergraduates learn and test in the contests serve them well in their careers as agronomists. Indeed, seed companies have been known to wait for certain top competitors to graduate so they could be the first to offer them jobs.

Many crops judging alumni have gone on to become well known in their fields: they include among their number many Ph.D.s, some university deans and even a Nobel Prize-winning geneticist.

Student's experience on a crops judging team also makes it easier for professors like Goodding and former coach Laddie Elling to write graduate school letters of recommendation for those whose grades were only so-so. "We have sent on to graduate school many students who would never have gotten in without the crops judging experience and recommendations," Elling said, citing one man, now a distinguished agriculture professor at Purdue University, who managed to earn only a 2.5 grade point average while he was an undergraduate.

Goodding and Elling can recommend these students with confidence because they feel crops judging gives students "the discipline to do something better than they've ever done anything before," Elling said. "It brings out the best in a person."

This discipline is a time-consuming business. In the fall, team members spend 20 hours a week on practice contests in addition to whatever time they spend studying and memorizing on their own.

But for the students, the time spent is well worth it. Besides the obvious advantages of who they get to know, the trip gives team members the chance to travel farther from Minnesota than many of them ever have, to tour industries and boards of trade in Kansas City and Chicago, to see the agricultural products of most of the Midwest, and to do something quite difficult, something most of them thought they could never do.

Speaking of the team members he has coached in the last four years, who have hailed from small towns and urban areas alike, Goodding said, "They're different people when they return. They have broadened vistas, and that's the most important part of their training."

And although the Minnesota team hasn't done much of it in recent years, even losing at crops judging has its long-term rewards. "Some students have lost contests because they just didn't pay enough attention," Goodding said. "And you know, they never forget that lesson."

Bran Muffins: Flavorful Fiber

The benefits of fiber in our daily diets has received special attention in recent years. Fiber is a valuable aid to our digestive process and often can be indirectly helpful in preventing certain digestive-related disorders. It is found in many different foods, but most noticeably in bran, the outside seed-coat of cereal grains.

Bran has a flavorful taste and is used in countless recipes for muffins, breads, cakes, and cookies. Dried Apple and Bran Muffins are a good example of how to put healthful and appetizing bran into your diet. These muffins rely on bran flake cereal and chopped dried apples for their wholesome taste and nutritious quality. Nutmeg and cinnamon are also used to add just a hint of spice flavoring.

Although muffins are traditionally served at breakfast, these tasty baked goods can easily find their way into menus for brunch, lunch, tea-time, or snack-time any time of day. Serve them piping hot with butter or jam and coffee, tea, or fresh-squeezed juice.

DRIED APPLE AND BRAN MUFFINS

(Makes 12 muffins)

1 1/2 cups 40% bran flakes
1 cup water
1/4 cup oil
1 slightly beaten egg
3/4 cup chopped dried apples
1 1/4 cups flour
1/3 cup dry Carnation nonfat dry milk
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt

Soak bran flakes in water in medium bowl 5 minutes. Stir in oil, egg, and apple. Combine flour, dry nonfat milk, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, and salt. Make a well in center. Stir in bran mixture just until moistened. Spoon into 12 buttered 2 1/2-inch muffin cups. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 to 25 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from muffin cups and serve warm, or cool on wire racks.

Distorted News?

Conservative columnist Richard Viguerie points out that bias in the major news media "rarely stems from a conscious desire to distort the news. Instead, it is the result of ignorance. Most national reporters don't know what conservatives think because they have little contact with conservatives. But there is plenty of contact with liberals."

Viguerie says that the problem is not that there are liberals in the news media, but that persons who hold traditional values are usually excluded because editors and producers tend to hire and promote people like themselves. The result, he says, is that basically the same attitudes are held by more than four-fifths of the most influential people in the news business.

According to a survey in 1980 of the decision-makers in the national media, 91 per cent voted for Lyndon Johnson, 87 per cent for Hubert Humphrey, 81 per cent for George McGovern and 81 per cent for Jimmy Carter (in 1976).

A study of students at what is considered to be the nation's leading journalism school showed that 85 per cent called themselves liberals, 59 per cent voted for Carter in 1980 and only four per cent voted for Ronald Reagan.

Viguerie then calls attention to the following:

Although there are very few identifiable conservatives in important positions in the major media, there are plenty of persons who have worked for liberals. Consider these examples from the electronic media alone:

John Kennedy's press secretary is now chief diplomatic correspondent for ABC News. Lyndon Johnson's press secretary is now the top commentator for CBS News. George McGovern's press secretary is now executive producer of ABC's evening newscast. Ted Kennedy's administrative assistant is now vice president of ABC News. The communications director for the Democratic National Committee (DNC) is now political assignment editor for ABC; her husband is political director for CBS. The deputy communications director at DNC is now a researcher in the political unit of ABC News.

NBC's researcher on Latin America used to be a researcher for Philip Agee, the former CIA agent who (according to Newsweek) "says he aspires to be a communist." The person who until recently was director of news information for ABC News is the wife of a liberal Democratic former senator. A reporter on the CBS Morning News and the new "American Parade" program worked for Ted Kennedy in 1980. The top commentator for NBC News served in the Johnson Administration. The man who until recently headed National Public Radio was a top aide to George McGovern.

How many conservatives are given the chance to report the news in the nation's top media? Occasionally conservatives like Pat Buchanan will be hired as "opinion journalists," but they are almost never hired for positions that involve making judgments on what is and is not newsworthy.

In fact, when a person associated with a non-liberal politician is hired, it causes an uproar. When CBS hired Diane Sawyer, Dan Rather complained because she had helped Richard Nixon write his memoirs. When The New York Times hired former Nixon staffer William Safire as a columnist, there were numerous complaints from other Times writers. I know of no instance in which reporters complained because a new staff member was too liberal.

News people, being human, usually judge the importance of ideas by the degree to which those ideas match their own beliefs and prejudices. Until persons with traditional values are given equal access to jobs in the national media, the American people will never get to see both sides.

Price Of Legitimacy

If past records and present attempts are any indication, it would seem that state and federal governments agree that legitimacy of activities is directly proportional to the government's share in the proceeds.

What brings this thought to mind is a news release from Sen. Bob Lessard of International Falls which notes hearings will be held soon in his veterans and general legislation committee. The hearings would consider legislation allowing voters to decide on whether the state constitution should be amended to allow for a state-run lottery.

Lessard points out that the bill would place a constitutional amendment question on the 1984 ballot "for the voters to decide whether to legalize lotteries, as they did pari-mutuel betting in the 1982 election."

Perhaps the assessment that governmental view of legitimacy depends on its income from the activity is unfair, but let's consider several areas as examples:

Most Americans would agree that a huge amount of the nation's social and criminal problems are the direct or indirect result of alcohol abuse. While prohibition has been decried as a noble experiment which did not work, it must be pointed out that the present lack of prohibition isn't working all that well for society either.

But the point is that liberal manufacture and distribution of alcohol is condoned and even encouraged by the government, and we doubt it is merely coincidental that such manufacture and sale provides abundant revenue to government. The inference here is that government will accept the misery to society which the product provides in exchange for a cut of the proceeds.

Somewhat similarly, tobacco use and especially smoking of cigarettes has been quite definitely linked to a number of health problems. Yet government permits the manufacture and sale of cigarettes, although somewhat ludicrously requiring a printed health hazard warning on the packages and restricting methods of advertising. And in the end, government collects a tax on the product.

Horse racing in Minnesota didn't get a lot of attention until someone pointed out that race track gambling could provide revenue for the state. Any inherent evils in playing the horses were obscured in the smoke screen of percentage take for the government.

Government operated lotteries have taken billions of dollars from people in the United States and Canada under the rationale that if people want to gamble, government should take their money. How far would a legislative bill progress to allow a private organization to set up and operate a statewide lottery for profit in Minnesota? About as far as the desk of the committee chairman.

What government is telling us is that it's okay to make and peddle booze if government gets a cut. It's okay to promote cancer-causing tobacco use if government gets a cut. It's okay to bet on the horses if government gets a cut. It's okay to run a lottery and encourage people to gamble if the state profits by it.

What can we expect next? A bill to authorize the public to vote on state-operated prostitution? Someone has suggested that what the state's tax program does to the people would make such an activity appropriate. There appears to be little question of what it would take to make any such program legitimate; just cut the government in for a percentage of the take. Government's share is the price of legitimacy in today's society.

Legislastive Spur

Following editorial is from the Rochester Post-Bulletin:

The decision by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. to expand its research facilities in Texas, rather than Minnesota, is a severe blow to the state, not only for its practical effect but for symbolic reasons.

Since 3M is an internationally known company, its major decisions could well have an impact on the decision-making of other companies.

In explaining the move, a company official cited the high cost of doing business in Minnesota and specifically mentioned the cost of unemployment compensation, workers' compensation, high personal income taxes, and regulatory policies — particularly the state's "superfund" legislation designed to clean up hazardous wastes.

The company objected to the fact that the superfund legislation imposed retroactive legal liability for hazardous waste dumps and that the law was more stringent than federal legislation.

State legislators and the state government cannot create jobs, but they can create conditions which foster business expansion. The 3M decision should be a spur to that progress.

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

All the noise over the breakup of AT&T is enough to make anybody's ears ring. What does it mean to the average household customer? It means more choices, but one way or another, it also means higher local phone rates. That leaves some important questions: How do we assure fair rates, and how do we guarantee all Americans access to phone service?

The separation of Ma Bell from her offspring — local phone companies — is bringing a new concept to our system of phone rates: basing the price of service on the cost of delivering it. In the past, rates have been based on the "value" of the service. We decided that a call to London is worth more than a call across town, and we were willing to pay the difference.

But the real costs don't work that way. Making a phone call isn't like traveling. It may cost you more to get to London than to drive across town, but the cost of the two phone calls isn't much different once the phone equipment is up. It's the cost of installing and maintaining that equipment that the local companies need to recover.

Much of those local costs have come out of long-distance rates. For every minute of your long-distance call, AT&T has sent about 15 cents to local phone companies (Bell affiliates and independent phone companies).

That subsidy from long-distance to local companies will continue to some degree, but the Federal Communications Commission wants to phase it out. That means you and I will bear more of the cost of our local phone system, and that means higher rates. How high? It's too early to tell. Experts will tell you that even if rates tripled you wouldn't be paying any larger percentage of your income for phone service than you would have 30 years ago. Maybe so, but that's little comfort when the bill arrives. And because the cost of providing local service differs greatly from place to place, local rates could vary widely. For example, many rural customers could end up paying much more than city dwellers for the same service.

Worst of all, many low- or fixed-income people may not be able to afford a phone at all. To help those folks, there's talk in Congress of setting up special low-cost "lifeline" service for lower income households. To help smooth over the differences in rate increases from one place to another, enter FCC's so-called "access charge."

The proposed access charge would be an extra $2 (eventually rising to $4) for home phones and businesses with only one phone line, and $6 for other business users. After prodding by Congress, the FCC has postponed the residential and small business charge until at least 1985.

It's important to realize that this is not a charge for access to long-distance lines, but for local service. It would help replace some of the money that used to come from AT&T. The money would be pooled and distributed to local companies to help even out the rate increases. The reduction in AT&T's costs would also help lower its long-distance rates, encouraging competition for long-distance service.

It may be that we will need an access charge, but now is not the time to take that step. We should take time first to see how the market responds to all of the changes caused by the breakup. The federal government may also discover that it's better to let the states take care of local phone issues, including "lifeline" service. In any case, it will be the state public utilities commission, not the federal government, that will have the biggest hand in determining local rates and service.

We are not used to thinking of our phone service as a marketplace. Suddenly we're faced with consumer decisions about acquiring a phone and choosing long-distance service. In the long run it will be a bad news - good news story: Long-distance rates should fall, but local rates will rise. Congress will closely watch the changes being implemented by the FCC since the breakup, paying special attention to effects on the poor, the elderly and the handicapped, and residents of rural areas.

Joining Sen. Boschwitz and Gov. Perpich on the platform were Maurice McLinn, Farmers Home administration (FmHA) expeditor from South Dakota; Sen. Roger Moe of Ada, majority leader in the Minnesota Senate; and Willard Brunelle of rural Crookston, chairman of the Northwest Minnesota Emergency Action committee.

McLinn has been in the area for about two weeks at the request of FmHA administrator Charles Shuman, supervising a force of approximately 20 extra workers in the processing of loan applications. He praised office staffs in county offices in Thief River Falls, Warren, Crookston and McIntosh, saying he was impressed with their dedication. They have put in long hours and have been working Saturdays to speed up the loan process. He characterized Thief River Falls FmHA office manager "Butch" Kochmstedt as "one of the finest county supervisors I've ever met."

McLinn said that upon his arrival there were 489 loan applications on hand in the four offices mentioned. During the past week there were 73 loans approved and 41 rejected, he said, and 246 loans listed as remaining to be processed. Unless a large number of loan applications are received at the last minute, he added, there should be no difficulty in completing the processing of applications by seeding time.

Stepped-up deferrals, consolidations and reamortizations had been employed, he said, and use of the low interest rate has been put into practice whenever possible. There are some loans that simply can't be made, he added, because it can't be shown that they would be adequately secured to protect the interest of the United States.

It was announced the same day that two career FmHA employees in the district office at Crookston had been reassigned by Russ Bjorhus, Minnesota director for FmHA. J.P.W. Friederichs, director for the northwest district who has 32 years of service with the agency, was asked to take a lesser post at Grand Rapids. Paul Dornfeld, assistant director, was also to be transferred.

McLinn referred to the actions with some reluctance. He referred to Dornfeld as "a young man, a good employee, who deserved to continue his career in an area where we don't have these problems." Later he said "the same is true for Mr. Friederichs."

Willard Brunelle, introduced by Sen. Boschwitz as being "extremely persistent", thanked the senator for arranging for a task force to study the local situation and working to get additional help in the area. He said that McLinn has a tough job, but that farmers in the area had gotten in trouble because the FmHA had not processed loans as should have been done in the past several years.

He asked farmers present to give McLinn their full support and said that the special action was necessary to keep from losing farmers and thereby losing businesses, churches and other vital parts of area communities.

Sen. Roger Moe said that the state usually doesn't get involved in farm programs but Gov. Perpich had included funding for training of people to process loan applications. He said the state can help in other ways, such as property tax relief, water management and other items. Cooperation of his office and of his legislative colleagues was offered to provide assistance.

Gov. Perpich noted that he had gone to Washington with local legislators several months ago to help obtain disaster designation for the area. He said he was pleased to work with Sen. Boschwitz and that in putting partisan politics aside they had been able to work together to accomplish necessary action. The DFL governor expressed his thanks to the I-R senator for his work on the problem in Washington.

Sen. Boschwitz explained his involvement in the effort, saying that some criticism may have been directed at him for becoming so deeply involved. If we have a large number of farm failures, he pointed out, it will severely impact on the communities, drive down land prices for everyone, mean the end of business and jobs throughout the northwestern part of the state.

"Farmers are a little hard on one another," he said. "I believe it is in the interest of the entire area that FmHA loans which should be made are made in a timely manner. That was my motivation for involvement after I listened to a problem which I believe affects the entire area."

The senator also thanked Rep. Merlyn Valan, who he said helped serve as an advisor for this area of the state, and Congressman Arlan Stangeland, who worked with him in Washington to initiate activity there. He praised Gov. Perpich as "a marvelous catalyst" in bringing things together

Area Women Pioneered In Statewide Politics

(Women's History week March 4-11 focused on women's contributions in the United States. This article about local women's achievements in politics was researched and written by Mrs. Gene Belto.)

by Gretchen Belto

What area of Minnesota was the first in the state to send a woman to the Minnesota House? to the state Senate? to U.S. Congress? Northwestern Minnesota was first to elect women representatives to each of these elected offices.

Hannah Kempfer of Erhard was one of four women elected in 1922. Three other women elected in that first election just after woman's suffrage were from Minneapolis. Hannah won reelection eight times and represented Otter Tail county in the Minnesota House 1923-1929 and 1933-1941.

Laura E. Naplin of Thief River Falls represented Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties in the Minnesota Senate 1927-1933.

Coya Knutson of Oklee was a U.S. Congresswoman in 1954-1958 after serving as state legislator from Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties in the Minnesota House 1950-1954.

In a state that is sometimes dominated by its metropolitan areas and often stereotyped as a place of lakes and woods, it is intriguing to find that it was here where the horizon is far beyond enormous fields, that voters first elected Minnesota women to office.

All three women grew up on the edge of the great prairie formed by ancient Lake Agassiz: Hannah at Erhard, Laura near Gatzke and Coya at Edmore, N.D. All were daughters of homesteading farmers. They knew the value of hard work, and as adults they demonstrated the perserverance and competence that had been highly valued in frontier women.

Their childhoods do not necessarily match that of television's "Little House on the Prairie". Laura Naplin's widowed mother moved her family by covered wagon from Brookings to Gatzke after she remarried. Hannah, an orphan, was adopted by a Norwegian couple and brought to the U.S. at the age of six. Coya's immigrant parents become well-to-do farmers.

The three plainswomen all lived great distances from the capital city in a time when air service did not exist, yet they were able to blend their family's lives with their careers. (At that time the APPROXIMATELY 400 PEOPLE attended a meeting in the national guard armory in Thief River Falls Saturday morning to hear further discussion on farm disaster problems and loan programs in this area. Major participants in the program were Sen. Rudy Boschwitz and Gov. Rudy Perpich, and their joint appearance also attracted several television camera crews from around the area. As this Times photo was taken, Vance Wiseth (standing in upper center of photo) of Goodridge was reading a list of concerns which he said farmers in this area share. Waiting to speak behind him was Homer Grinde. In addition to comments made by Gov. Perpich and Sen. Boschwitz, comments were also made by Maurice McLinn, assigned by the Farmers Home administration to expedite loan applications in the area, and Sen. Roger Moe of Ada, majority leader in the Minnesota senate.

New Business To Serve T.R.F. Area

North Country Paving, Inc., will begin operation in Thief River Falls in early May and expects to have about 17 people on the summer payroll this year. Owners Curt Hovet and Gary Lien announced their plans Friday morning at temporary offices in the Allwood building on First st. W.

Hovet said the corporation had purchased an asphalt plant which will be operated seven miles west and one mile south of Thief River Falls on the Marian Langevin farm. The firm has also obtained a paver, sweeper and roller which will be used in the surfacing of driveways, parking lots and streets in the local area.

Expectations are that the firm will hire about five people to start work on May 1, seven more on June 1 and an additional five for the summer season. Payroll is expected to total $190,000 to $200,000 this year, Hovet said, and if the business proves out on the local market and expansion seems advisable, highway surface contracting could be in the future with up to 40 employees needed. Intensions are to hire all workers from the local area.

This area has been at the mercy of large contractors who take on small jobs when in the area on larger highway contracts, Hovet said. There are two asphalt contractors in Bemidji, one in Crookston and two in Grand Forks, he said, but none to serve Thief River Falls and the area to the north. With the equipment which has been purchased, he added, it will be possible to recycle old asphalt and provide a saving of about 25 per cent.

Hovet began working with asphalt contractors in the Twin Cities in 1968 and in the fall of 1969 joined Border States paving company, most recently serving as asphalt supervisor and working with recycling, estimating and bidding of private jobs. In 1982 he worked for Mayo Construction company of Cavalier, ND.

Gary Lian has operated a construction company at Grygla for about the past 10 years, working primarily in excavation. He will continue

Hovet has about 16 years of experience in asphalt work and Lian has operated his own construction company at Grygla for about 10 years.

Shippers On BN Incorporate To Assure Service

Shippers along Burlington Northern's Warroad to Red Lake Falls rail line took a necessary step toward preserving rail service to the area by incorporating as the Northwestern Minnesota Rail Shippers corporation on February 22. As a non-profit corporation, the shippers' primary goal is to work toward improving rail service on this 115-mile line, thereby promoting increased rail usage, according to Buzz Marvin of Warroad, president of the corporation.

Marvin said the shippers recognize the need for preserving rail service as nearly 90 per cent of ag production from this area is exported to distant major marketing centers primarily Duluth-Superior and the Twin Cities. In terms of grain shipments along from the 10 elevators located along this line, approximately 13 million bushels are shipped out with preliminary indications showing over half going by rail. The per cent going by rail has been increasing in recent years as

Lorie Ann Skjerven And Andrew J. Gildea Wed

Lorie Ann Skjerven of Plummer and Andrew J. Gildea of Alexandria, VA., exchanged marriage vows at 2:00 p.m., on January 1 at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Plummer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Skjerven of Plummer. Parents of the groom are Capt. Joseph and Dr. Sheila Gildea of Indialantic, Fla.

Rev. Timothy Miller officiated at the single ring ceremony, witnessed by approximately 150 relatives and friends. Linda Hesse was the organist and Renate Schmitke sang "The Wedding Song," "I Love You Truly," "God A Woman and A Man," and "The Lord's Prayer."

For the ceremony, the church was decorated in the Christmas motif with a tree in the chancel, evergreen boughs and ivory carnations on the altar, the evergreen boughs and burgundy roses on the pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white chiffon knit gown, in empire style, with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring an embroidered illusion net yoke. Rose patterned lace with seed pearls formed the collar, outlined the yoke, graced the bishop sleeves and edged the tripletiered skirt which flowed into a chapel-length train. A pearled lace headpiece held her lace edged, fingertip veil, which had been worn previously by her mother on her wedding day. She carried a bouquet of burgundy roses, with pink and white carnations and Christmas greenery.

Kathy Pahlen was the bride's personal attendant. Maid of honor was Peggy Jo Skjerven, Plummer, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Dawn Carlson, St. Paul, a friend. They wore burgundy crepe floor-length gowns styled in empire fashion with white lace yokes and stand-up collars. Each carried an ivory long-stemmed rose accented with burgundy ribbon and greenery. Their gold bracelets were gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Lt. Daniel H. Gildea, who is stationed on the USS Enterprise. Bill Toops, Park Rapids, a friend of the couple, was groomsman. Like the groom, they wore black tuxedos with the groom having a red rose pinned on his lapel. The ushers, James Skjerven, Plummer, a brother of the bride; and Kermit Genereux, Brooks, a friend of the couple, wore gray tuxedos, and like the groomsmen, had ivory boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a burgundy crepe street-length dress complemented by a corsage of ivory carnations and burgundy colored roses.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson, Bemidji, godparents of the bride, and Congressman and Mrs. Arlan Stangeland of Barnesville.

At the reception which followed, host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. John Skjerven, Bemidji, uncle and aunt of the bride. Heidi Bunkowske, Fergus Falls, a friend of the couple, registered the guests. At the punch bowl were the bride's cousins: Lisa Skjerven, Bemidji, and Tamara Niemi of Thief River Falls.

The white, three-tiered wedding cake, baked by Mrs. R.H. Pahlen, Plummer, a friend of the couple, featured iridescent pillars, white doves and burgundy roses. It was cut and served by Barbara Linert, Thief River Falls, and Aleta Furuseth, Rochester, cousins of the bride. Delphine Wilson, Bemidji, godmother of the bride, and Emma Thorbeck, Gonvick, aunt of the bride, poured the coffee.

Waitresses were Karen Skjerven, Plummer, cousin of the bride, and Kelly Jesme, Plummer, a friend. At the gift table were Tracy and Nicki Skjerven, Bemidji, cousins of the bride, and Marueen and Deirdre Gildea, Indialantic, Fla., sisters of the groom.

Following the rehearsal, the groom's father hosted a dinner at Lon's for 20 guests.

After a wedding trip to Florida, its beaches, Cape Kennedy and Disneyworld, the couple is at home in Alexandria, Va. The bride is a graduate of Pershing high school, Plummer, and the University of Minnesota, and is currently a student at the Georgetown university law center in Washington, D.C. The groom is a graduate of Peninsula high school, Gig Harbor, Wash., and the University of Virginia. He is employed in the Washington office of Congressman Arlan Stangeland. Photo, Alice Hofstad, Plummer.

Northwest regional library now has catalogs available showing the selection of large-print books which the library owns, including both fiction and non-fiction holdings.

Catalogs are compiled to let people know what is available on request from the Northwest regional library system. Compiling the catalogs was part of a senior citizen project done jointly with the Lake Agassiz regional library system.

Although most of the large-print books in the system's collection were purchased as part of that project or out of the library budget, a large number of new books were added as a result of a grant given by the Otto Bremer foundation this past year. New books purchased include many popular titles set in large type for the visually handicapped.

Copies of the catalog are now available at all Northwest regional library branches, including Thief River Falls, Greenbush, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Warren, Warroad and the bookmobile. Catalogs will also be mailed to senior citizens groups in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties. Thief River Falls city council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers at city auditorium.

Mayor Bob Carlson has announced that he intends to close a portion of that meeting to the public for the purpose of discussing possible legal action which may result from the spot rezoning of low density R1 property to R3, which would allow Julian Gunderson to construct two 12-unit condominiums along the Red Lake river. Four owners of property adjacent to the site have threatened to sue the city if the action is not rescinded. Gunderson has also threatened legal action if the council reverses its rezoning approval granted February 14.

Other topics on the agenda include: status of the 1984 street and utilities project; removal of "no parking" signs on the east side of Kendall Avenue near the Evangelical Free church; application for a liquor license by Loren McCullough of the Magic Dragon restaurant; request for a rate increase by the Greenwood cemetery commission; approval of approximately $117,000 in bids for utilities department purchases; approval of club liquor licenses; vacancy on the park board; and bids on plastic refuse bags.

Stumpf Urges Participation In Caucuses

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer urges all persons aged 18 and older to participate in their local primary party caucuses, beginning at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, March 20 at their designated caucus locations.

The primary caucus is the first step in the state and federal election process that will see eight new congressmen, one U.S. senator and the entire Minnesota House of Representatives standing for reelection this year. Attendees at the caucus will participate in the election of caucus and precinct officers; delegate selection for county and legislative congressional district conventions; recruitment of election judges and discussion of the issues which may be included in the party's platform.

"Our local precinct caucuses are the first step in our political process," Stumpf added. "This important first step will be taken by citizens concerned enough about the future of our state and federal policies over the next two to six years. Your participation in this process is important and necessary for our system of government to function effectively and fairly."

Caucus participants should check their newspapers for caucus locations or may contact their county auditor or current party chairperson.

Si Hanson Made State Advisor On Extension

Si Hanson, Thief River Falls, has been named as a three-year member of the University of Minnesota extension citizens' advisory committee, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension director, and Norman Brown, dean and director of extension. In this role he provides informal counsel to the director of extension regarding extension programs and building public support.

Hanson brings a variety of experience to support this role. He and his wife Marjorie have farmed near Thief River Falls for about 40 years, producing foundation and registered grain seed stock. Si also operates an insurance agency, serves as director of the Pennington county fair and is director of the Pennington county crop improvement association. In 1983 he and Marjorie received the Valley Farmer and Homemaker award.

Official membership on the committee began with a three-day trip to Washington D.C. to participate in the eighth annual extension lay leaders seminar, March 4-6. Minnesota's group joined other advisory groups from across the nation to exchange information and discuss concerns about opportunities for extension work and support building from regional and national perspectives.

Members also learned about extension funding at the federal level, and met with members of the Minnesota congressional delegation to discuss support building from within their communities.

Minnesota extension citizens' advisory committee was organized informally in 1976 as part of a grassroots movement to advise the director of extension about program concerns and strategies to build support for extension statewide.

Besides the Washington trip, they meet twice a year, once in March and once at the end of August during the state fair, to discuss program objectives and priorities.

Minnesota committee has developed a strong support system for extension and provides timely advice about programs to the dean and director.

Street Rodders Vote To Donate $1200 Locally

Prairie Schooners street rod club of Thief River Falls will distribute approximately $1,200 in profits from the 1983 North Country Auto Show to various pre-selected community organizations and projects during the next few months.

Local President Ed Walseth stated that the programs were screened by the club officers, with the final selections chosen by the membership. Walseth commented, "the idea of the donations is to help those less fortunate than ourselves, while promoting street rodding as our sport and hobby." (Street Rod is basically defined as a pre-1949 car that has been modernized for the safety and convenience of the driver and family.)

Prairie Schooners club presently consists of about 25 Thief River Falls area families and about 15 from other outlying communities. Club activities include monthly meetings, family events, and weekend outings, plus the North Country Auto Show, a major event held each May at the Thief River Falls sports arena complex. People interested in "street rodding" or the car show can contact Ed Walseth, Bryan Steiger, or Randy Adamson of Thief River Falls for more information.

FmHA Update Features Gov. And Senator

to assure a bipartisan effort and reviewed current activity in the Senate agriculture committee to bring out a two-year wheat program.

When the floor was opened for public comment, the first speaker was the first to voice publicly that a number of farmers have expressed privately in recent weeks. Danny Johnson of the Goodridge area took issue with the amount of money being made available at low interest to some farmers he didn't believe were capable managers.

After getting his farm mortgage paid off a few years ago, he said, he was shocked at the amount of money which would have been available for him to borrow against it from the government — equal to about three times its value, he said. Instead, he elected to borrow from commercial lenders and pay the commercial rate while many farmers did their borrowing with government subsidized loans. Some of that borrowing was done "more out of greed than need", he said.

Borrowing the government funds and defaulting on the loan would have been a good way for him to sell his farm at a high price, he said. He added that farmers who said they had to borrow to buy more land for efficient operation were "an insult to my intelligence" in continuing to operate his existing acreage. "Some of these guys would run me off my farm if they could," he said, adding that he didn't think the large volume, low interest loans demanded by some farmers were fair.

Sen. Boschwitz thanked Johnson for his comments, then added his opinion that any farmer caught in a period of land value decline could find himself in trouble after two or three or more years of poor crops. He reiterated his thoughts on the affect of farm failures on business and communities. Brunelle added the opinion that 40 to 50 per cent of the farmers in the area would "go down" if they didn't receive emergency held and that everyone would be hurt if that happens.

Vance Wiseth read a 12-point statement of "items needed to help farmers and businessmen" which had been prepared that morning and circulated at the meeting. He explained the reasons for each of the points. Maurice McLinn responded to the points made and gave his views on what he thought could or could not be done through FmHA.

On the question of using distressed sale of land in determining land values, he said such sales would be excluded. On the question of using a normal yield for a crop history basis in disaster payments, he said the loss would have to be limited to the yield that the farmer had that year. To use an average yield would necessitate re-figuring thousands and thousands of loans across the country, he said.

Wiseth had suggested that farmers not be forced to plant poorly prepared acres in 1984 since much of the land was not in condition for plowing last fall. McLinn said that, "If you're going to miss a whole year of production, I don't think our pencils are sharp enough" to write such loans.

Homer Grinde, a Thief River Falls area farmers, said he has been appreciative of the support he has received from FmHA. He chided farmers who he said he had heard were bringing tape recorders with them when they met with FmHA loan officers. "If you want to be treated like a man, act like one," he said.

He also said he didn't believe land should be mortgaged over $700 acres and that a $500 figure would be more accurate. He also said he didn't believe any land speculators should be eligible for low interest loans.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer noted that weather has certainly been a factor in the local farm situation, but that interest rates has also been a major problem. He mentioned a bill being introduced which would allow agriculture revenue bonds to be sold to provide lower interest rates to farmers for land, machinery and breeding stock. Lower interest rates and a decent price for what is produced are both needed, he said.

Introduced by Sen. Moe as legislators attending the meeting were Sen. Valan, Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls, Sen. Stumpf and Rep. Willis Eken of Twin Valley.

Shippers On BN Join In Corporation

reduced rail rates for multi-car shipments become more commonly used.

"A savings of three to eight cents per bushel can be realized with the three to 25-car unit rate versus a single car rate. Thus, viable rail service is essential for area elevators to be competitive," Marvin noted.

"These reduced rates in turn allow higher prices to be offered to area farmers for their products. As agriculture is the backbone of this area's economy, improved rail service to more efficiently link the farm producer to the final market benefits not only the farmer and the rail shipper, but everyone in the area as the local economy is strengthened."

Currently, track conditions are such that trains are restricted to less than five to 10 miles per hour and problems have been encountered in obtaining enough rail cars to assemble multi-car units to capture the reduced multi-car rates. By working with Burlington Northern in a constructive manner, the shippers feel that an arrangement can be worked out whereby a more efficient transportation system can be attained to the mutual benefit of BN and the entire area.

"As the Northwestern Minnesota Rail Shippers corporation continues to work toward preserving and strengthening the rail system in the area, thereby allowing the area to be economically competitive with other localities of the state and nation, the shippers corporation needs the support of area communities, businesses and people in addressing these future transportation system needs," Marvin said.

Area Women Pioneered In State Politics

legislature met every other year for four months.) Each had very small families — Laura, a widow, had one daughter, Arloine, of grade-school age; Hannah had her husband Charlie, who remained on the farm; and Coya her husband Andrew and teenage son, Terry who stayed in Oklee.

Hannah ran as an Independent, and during her nine terms in the House served on all but one permanent committee. During her 18 years on the game and fish committee, dozens of laws relating to conservation, such as limits and seasons on fish, wildfowl and animals were begun; fees for fishing licenses were levied and proceeds designated to establish hatcheries, and create wildlife habitat.

In the state legislature, Coya was a supporter of fair employment legislation, state aid to education, and a state health program to provide school nurses. In Washington, she introduced legislation to strengthen the family farm, expand the school lunch program and establish the student loan fund for college students.

These women came from districts where successive reform movements — Progressive, Nonpartisan League, Farmer-Labor — had dominated politics.

A fourth area woman, Harriet Weeks of Detroit Lakes, served in the legislature from 1929-1931. Only 10 women served in the state legislature before 1950, and four of them were from northwestern Minnesota. A surprising fact is that no northwestern Minnesota women have been elected for a full term since that time. Today 16 per cent of Minnesota legislators are women, but none are from the northwestern part of the state.

County's Rural Cancer Drive Opened Sat.

"volunteers of the rural Pennington unit of the American Cancer society began a door-to-door battle against cancer during C-Day Saturday," declared Ernie Swanson residential drive chairman of the 1984 cancer crusade.

C-Days are the door-to-door aspect of the annual month-long educational and fund-raising campaign of the American Cancer society, when volunteers call on their neighbors and friends to distribute information about cancer.

"This year, trained volunteers will be carrying information on the two most common and deadly forms of cancer," Swanson said.

A folder offering a "Quick Test on Cancer Risks for Lung, Colon and Rectum" will be handed out to all residents.

C-Days also will provide an opportunity for people to contribute toward the support of the society's year-round cancer control program.

"C-Days are important to the entire community. We're urging everyone to become involved. We need enough people to make sure that every home in rural Pennington is visited. Become a C-Day volunteer by contacting the American Cancer Society at 378-4262," Swanson said.

27 4-H'ers In Favorite Foods Show Saturday

Clam chowder and cream of broccoli soup were some of the favorite foods that 4-H members prepared and displayed on Saturday at the Falls Mall in Thief River Falls as part of the Pennington county 4-H favorite foods show.

Each 4-H member prepared a favorite food and planned a menu around it. Entrants were judged on their food knowledge, food item menu and place setting. Each participant received a participation prize at the close of the afternoon. The recipes were collected and will be made into a cookbook, which will be available in a couple of months.

4-H members who participated included Sara Anderson, Lisa and Kim Sorter, Lana and Lora Wagner and Susan Peterson, Silverton; Jenny Tweet and Nicolina Mostrom-Ose, Steiner; Stacy Rondorf, Michelle Swanson, Kimberly and Kelly Hoefer, Black River; Teresa Johnson, City View; Heather Olson, Kratka; Mathew Carlson, Carla Sorenson, Erica Alberg, Kelly Swanson and Lisa Rahn, Happy Acres; Kerry Helle, Carla Kleinwachter and Lezlie Engen, Sanders; Sherry Josephson, Ridge Runners; Valarie Horachek, Highlanding; Troy Forsberg, Satellite; Kristi Van Horn and Jaki Weleski, New Solum. Jaki displayed a recipe she developed herself for a "Meal in a Bun."

Another area of the favorite food show is the demonstrations. Edna Johnson and Deborah Grandbois of Sanders made salt water taffy for people visiting the show while Kristine and Crystal Sorteberg of Smiley made vanilla ice cream.

Judging the contest were Joann Rambeck and Annette Hendrix.

4-H To Build Puzzle For Guiness Record

Minnesota 4-H announced today that members will help to build the world's largest jigsaw puzzle. The six story, 40 foot wide puzzle of interlocking pieces will be erected on the east wall of the coliseum at the 1984 Minnesota state fair.

"The Puzzle is a marvelous way to show the world just how big 4-H is in Minnesota," stated Bryon Schneider, executive director of the Minnesota 4-H. Members will be selling buttons. Proceeds from the button sales will be used to defray expenses and raise funds for Minnesota 4-H and COMPAS.

Local 4-H members will sell the kelly-green buttons beginning March 1. Individuals purchasing a button will write their name and hometown on an official ledger which will be affixed to the puzzle and make them a part of the Guiness world record.

Anyone wearing the 4-H-COMPAS button at the 1984 Minnesota state fair will be identified as a part of the world record project. "Button wearers will be part of the Guiness world book of records because they will be part of the puzzle," said Schneider. "We expect to sell 100,000 buttons by August."

"As the largest community art organization in Minnesota, COMPAS reaches more than 100,000 residents each year," said Molly LaBerge, executive director of COMPAS. "This cooperative venture with the Minnesota 4-H will enable COMPAS to continue such programs as the COMPAS writers and artists-in-the-schools."

World's largest jigsaw puzzle will be designed by COMPAS artist Lou Ferreri and will include an intersection or crossroads unique to each county. Ferreri will use drawings and photos sent to him by the county 4-H clubs of their particular intersection.

For further information or to purchase buttons, call the Pennington county extension service at 681-2116.

DORIS EISBRENER compares the selection of large type books available at Northwest regional library to the large print catalog which she helped compile to make the library more accessible for the visually impaired. Copies of the catalogue are now available at all branch libraries of the system, including the bookmobile, and are expected to be made available to senior citizens groups within the area served by the library in the near future. "Doris has been instrumental in making this project a reality," said Heidi Hoks, assistant director of the library.

Awards Given At Area NFO Dairy Meeting

Awards for dairy production quality were distributed at a recognition dinner and informational program for National Farmers organization (NFO) dairy producers in Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties Tuesday at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Participating in the program were Bill Archer, NFO regional director; Lee Groehler, assistant area director and quality assurance director; and Jeff Colton, dairy field representative. County dairy chairmen are Arden Lundeen of Oklee for Pennington county, Leonard Boucher of Brooks for Red Lake county and Randy Gast of Beltrami for Polk county.

Bill Peterson of Plummer was elected commodity chairman and Arden Lundeen as alternate to serve in setting policy for NFO dairy operations in this area.

In his comments to the meeting, assistant director Groehler said that NFO and Farmers Union are seeking a reopening of enrollment in the paid dairy diversion program. He expressed the opinion that the administration in Washington really wanted a price support cut and not a diversion program.

In the diversion sign-up completed late in January, 37,800 farmers nationally enrolled in the program and agreed to reduce dairy production a total of 5.5 per cent. A 10 per cent reduction had been anticipated. Since it is likely the percentage reduction will not be sufficient to meet federal guidelines, an additional 50-cents per hundredweight reduction in dairy support price will be made on April 1. This price cut is expected to force some dairymen out of business.

Groehler said the price of fluid milk increased 20 cents per gallon at the retail level and the price of cheese went up five cents per pound after the dairy diversion sign-up took place. He noted that the federal commodity credit corporation is still the best market for milk buying plants since the base price for milk nationally through CCC is $12.05 per hundredweight.

Many innovations are available for modernization of dairy operations but a fair price for the product is still lacking, Groehler said. The fair price will come eventually, he noted, but farmers will have to determine if it is a result of reducing farm numbers through lowering of support price or organizing of dairy farmers to control product and price.

Groehler said the NFO milk program has grown by 10 per cent in the past year and the potential is there for doubling that figure in 1984.

Sec. Of State Urges Caucus Involvement

Secretary of state Joan Growe urges Minnesotans to make the political process work by attending precinct caucuses on Tuesday, March 20.

"In our democracy," Growe said, "the quality of government depends upon the quality of citizen involvement. Through caucus participation, concerned citizens can help select good candidates and focus campaigns on important issues."

Precinct caucuses are open to anyone who will be qualified to vote at the November 6, 1984 general election, explained the Secretary of State. No previous party affiliation is required. Anyone participating in the caucus may offer a resolution or recommend candidates for elective office. Delegates to county and district conventions will be selected, and candidates may be endorsed.

"The 1984 election really begins at 8 p.m., the evening of March 20," said Growe. "The candidates who will be on the ballot and the platforms and policies of the political parties can be chosen by citizens who get involved now."

Growe said that voters can find out caucus locations by calling their political party or the office of their county auditor. For caucus locations in Hennepin county, call 348-5151, and in Ramsey county call 298-7097.

Vet Budget In '85 More Than $27 Billion

Veterans administration's budget for fiscal year 1985 calls for more than $27.2 billion to fund medical, compensation, and other programs for the nation's 27.9 million veterans, eligible family members, and survivors of deceased veterans.

Request is approximately $1.2 billion more than the agency's initial request of last year. For fiscal year 1984, VA set an all-time high with a request of $26.1 billion. This was followed with requests for supplemental appropriations totaling $301.1 million to fund new programs and increases in compensation, pension and employee pay. The total for 1984 was $26.3 billion.

VA officials said that total agency employment will increase by 2,231 to 223,296. The increased employment will provide for staffing of new medical facilities, additional medical workloads, selective medical program improvements and increased research personnel.

"The President has once again emphasized his strong commitment to help veterans and we at the VA stand ready to carry out that commitment," said VA administrator Harry N. Walters.

Budget contains a 4.3 per cent cost-of-living increase in compensation and pension payments. The pension increase would be effective December 1, 1984, and the compensation increase on April 1, 1985. The budget also proposes a 15 per cent increase in subsistence allowances paid to GI Bill trainees. Though total GI Bill payments will decrease due to fewer trainees, the rate increase accounts for an additional $132.7 million in 1985.

A total $821.8 million in new budget authority is requested for the construction program. This would finance design, site preparation or acquisition and, in some cases, initial construction funds for major hospital replacement and modernization projects at Allen Park, Mich.; Augusta, Ga.; Houston; Mountain Home, Tenn., and New York. The request also includes funds for seven nursing home units.

The $10.4 billion request for compensation payments is based on VA estimates that 2.3 million veterans with service-connected disabilities will remain eligible for monthly payments along with 343,000 survivors of veterans who died of service-connected causes. VA anticipates that $4 billion in pension payments, based on financial need, will be made to 732,200 wartime veterans and 817,700 survivors of wartime veterans.

VA medical programs, which will treat more than 1.4 million inpatients and provide for approximately 18.9 million outpatient medical and dental visits, will be funded at $9.1 billion, an increase of $561 million. This funding also supports medical and prosthetic research programs, a health professional scholarship program and grants to states for construction of extended care facilities for veterans.

Business And Economics Seminar Set

For the fourth consecutive year Minnesota Business Venture and the state's business community are offering 300 selected high school sophomores, juniors, seniors and teachers scholarships to explore business and economics this summer.

Minnesota Business Venture an intensive week long seminar, is coordinated and sponsored by the Business Economics Education foundation of Minnesota (BEEF) in cooperation with the state department of education, the Minnesota association of commerce and industry (MACI), the Minnesota Agri-Growth council and St. Olaf college. This summer's program will be conducted from June 17 to 23 at St. Olaf college Northfield.

Minnesota Business Venture is designed to introduce secondary students and teachers to the concepts of the private enterprise system and the economics of Minnesota. It also will acquaint the participants to the challenges and excitement of operating a business.

Participation in the seminar will be limited to 300 students and teachers who must apply for the program by April 2, through their high school principals or school coordinators. Those accepted to the program will receive $225 scholarships covering the majority of the program costs. Students will be required to pay $50 covering a portion of their room and board expenses.

Scholarships will be funded by Minnesota businesses, financial institutions, trade associations, cooperatives, service clubs, chambers of commerce and individuals across the State.

During the week long program, students will learn about the private enterprise system by exploring small business operations; the impact of foreign trade; Minnesota's economy and career opportunities. Student and teacher "companies" guided and counseled by business representatives will compete in a computer simulation of the marketplace to organize, manage, manufacture and market products.

Students and teachers interested in applying should see their principal or write directly to Minnesota Business Venture, c-o BEEF, S-297 Griggs Midway building, 1821 University avenue, St. Paul, 55104, 612-645-5561.

Ag Women To Hear Kanten At Convention

Assistant Minnesota commissioner of agriculture Anne Kanten has top billing et the 1983 annual convention of Minnesota Women for Agriculture. The convention, slated for March 30-31 in Detroit Lakes, will bring togehter farm women from across the entire state.

"Agriculture: A Partnership of Pride" is the convention theme for 1984. An afternoon session on March 30 will focus on promoting agriculture, lobbying, fundraising and media-public relations. Anne Kanten will speak at the session on March 31.

NWA's Otter-Beck chapter if hosting this year's convention. For a detailed agenda and-or registration information, contact LuAnn Carow, 430 3rd Ave., NW, Perham, MN 56573. Minnesota Women for Agriculture is a state affiliate of American Agri-Women.

Bargain Feast To Show What Farmer Makes

Jean Fellows, Worthington, chairman of the Minnesota Farm Bureau women's committee, recently announced that a "Feast for Least," will be held at Town Square in downtown St. Paul, March 20, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

"Feast for Least is our way of informing those not involved in agriculture what Minnesota farmers receive for the products they produce. This is an effort to truly communicate with the urban public — in ways we can't ordinarily do. We'd like them to taste our food, and to hear what we can do to break down the barriers between producers and consumers," said Fellows.

Feast for Least, planned on National Agriculture Day, will feature Farm Bureau women serving lunch and charging just what the farmer's share of that portion is. At last year's event in Waseca, a half-pint of milk sold for six cents, a turkey salad pocket sandwich cost 13 cents, and a barbeque cost 14 cents.

Prepared to serve the first 1,000 people at Town Square, the women will offer a full menu of wholesome, farm fresh products. "As President Reagan said when announcing National Agriculture Day, we're doing this to achieve a greater understanding of the stake each American has in maintaining the strength of the nation's most basic industry. . .", said Fellows.

Children And Teens May Have Sight Problems

A good number of children and teenagers may have vision problems and not know it, says the president of the Minnesota optometric association.

In a "Save Your Vision Week", March 4 to 10 message, Dr. Mark Fisher said changes in vision occur so gradually and subtly that it is difficult even for adults to notice them. Most children and teenagers just assume everyone sees the way they do.

"This is why we recommend that children in school have a thorough optometric examination every year," Dr. Fisher said. "The earlier we diagnose and correct a vision problem the less likely it is to interfere with the child's or teen's performance in school, sports or behind the wheel."

Dr. Fisher added that, "between examinations, parents should be alert for behavior clues that may indicate a vision problem." He gave several examples. Always sitting close to the television set can be a sign of nearsightedness. So can a preference for reading or other close work over outdoor or sports activities requiring good distance vision.

The reverse — preferring active play to close work — may be a sign of a vision problem. So is frowning, scowling or placing the head close to the book or desk while reading or writing.

Closing or covering one eye or turning the head to use one eye only could mean vision is much better in one eye than the other.

Losing the place while reading: using a finger or marker as a guide; or omitting, repeating and miscalling words may be signs of an eye tracking or eye coordination problem.

After the second grade, children who persistently reverse words; have difficulty identifying the reproducing basic geometric forms; or confuse similar words may have vision perception problems.

Dr. Fisher also advised not to rely on school vision screenings because they are limited and do not detect many children's vision problems.

1.3 Million Visitors At Info Centers

More than 1.3 million tourists, including travelers from each of the 50 states and from 61 foreign countries, visited the travel information centers (TICs) operated by the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) during 1983.

Although poor weather plagued the state during virtually every major holiday weekend, from rain on Memorial day to bitter cold during Christmas, the number of tourists using the centers increased by nearly three per cent over the number of TIC visitors in 1982.

Number of visitors ranged from 269,384 at the Albert Lea TIC — Mn-DOT's busiest — to 7,084 visitors at the St. Croix TIC, a temporary facility operated from July 4 to Labor day in the St. Paul suburb of Oakdale.

Tourists who visited Mn-DOT's eight travel centers made a total of 208,291 inquires, an increase of 11.9 per cent over 1982, and received 833,309 brochures, 12.4 per cent more than were distributed in 1982.

Number of maps requested by tourists also increased significantly during 1983. A total of 131,480 state highway maps were distributed, 11 per cent more than in the previous year, and nearly 158,000 other maps were distributed, an increase of 4.7 per cent.

Richard P. Braun, commissioner of transportation, said the growing number of tourists visiting the centers, the marked rise in inquires made, and the number of maps and brochures distributed indicate Minnesota is attracting a steadily growing number of visitors who plan to spend time enjoying the state's attractions.

In addition to setting up the temporary St. Croix TIC during the summer, Mn-DOT enlarged the Moorhead TIC on I-94 to provide better service to the ever-increasing number of tourists using that center. The remodeled TIC includes more lobby and counter space and a new area advertising Minnesota attractions. A similar advertising display has also been added to the Dresbach TIC in southeastern Minnesota.

Braun said that TIC facilities staffed with well-informed personnel provide visitors with a positive impression of the state. "The travel centers," he said, "welcome visitors and provide them with helpful information about Minnesota's wide variety of attractions to support the state's growing emphasis on tourism."

Permanent information centers and their locations are: Albert Lea — northbound lane I-35, one mile north of Minnesota-Iowa line; Anchor Lake — US 53, nine miles south of Eveleth; Beaver Creek — eastbound lane I-90, 4.5 miles west of Beaver Creek; Dresbach — westbound lane, I-90, 2.5 miles north of La Crescent; Fisher's Landing — US 2, nine miles west of Crookston (open from mid-May until mid-October); Moorhead — eastbound lane I-94, 1.5 miles east of the junction with US 75 at Moorhead; Thompson Hill — I-35-US 2 junction at Duluth west limits.

Temporary St. Croix TIC is located at the intersection of I-694 and Minnehaha Avenue in Oakdale. It will be open during 1984 from the Memorial Day weekend through the Labor Day weekend.

"We Found A New World"

Theme for the annual Girl Scout Week being observed March 11-17 is "We Found A New World — Look Wider Still." The following suggested editorial has been provided to us by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.:

Some may argue that there are no new worlds to discover. We've walked on the moon, shuttled through space and conquered the mysteries of the deep.

But today's Girl Scout might disagree. That's because she's been busy finding new and exciting worlds every day through her participation in Girl Scouting.

What worlds can a Girl Scout discover? How about aerospace technology and mountain climbing? Or some more down-to-earth pursuits like camping and group sports?

Perhaps the best part about the new world a girl finds in Girl Scouting is the opportunity to share her delight of discovery with others. Girl Scout activities encourage friendship and teamwork and foster global awareness and understanding that link girls across the street or across the ocean.

By taking an active part in serving her community, a Girl Scout learns how local concerns may affect the world at large, and how she may contribute to finding solutions.

The wonderful world of Girl Scouting isn't just for girls. Women and men who serve as adult volunteers discover their own new worlds in the support and guidance they lend to the Girl Scout movement.

Girl Scout Week, March 11-17, serves to remind us that for 72 years, girls have been having fun, gaining solid learning experiences and enriching their world through Girl Scouting. We applaud their enthusiasm and trust they'll continue to find new worlds as Girl Scouts.

Do You Know Where They Stand?

Political action committee of Handgun Control, Inc., has issued a neat little booklet entitled "Do You Know Where They Stand?" It outlines the positions and past actions of Presidential candidates regarding handgun legislation.

The committee claims it was established ". . . .to help elect to the Congress candidates who will support legislation designed to keep handguns out of the wrong hands."

The booklet draws some interesting comparisons and points out some unusual situations. Sen. George McGovern, for example, says in his campaign statement: "I have been a consistent supporter of all previous efforts to control the spread of handguns and thus reduce the threat of handgun-related crime. . . . We must recognize the fact that state and local attempts at control will always be limited in their effectiveness because of the differing standard imposed by each jurisdiction. . . . The time has come for this country to finally deal with the problen of handguns through comprehensive, direct federal action. We must ban the manufacture, sale and possession of all handguns except those use by the police, military, collectors and target shooters."

But McGovern was opposed to amendments which would have made the 1968 federal gun control act more restrictive and did not vote on the bill during its final passage. And in 1980 he was a co-sponsor of the McClure-Volkmer bill backed by the NRA and which would have allowed mail order sales of firearms.

Sen. Walter Mondale, however, told the press in Iowa in January, "In terms of regular handguns or regular long guns, I would not proceed with regulation. . . . But the snub-nosed gun — yes."

Yet in 1968 Sen. Mondale not only voted for the final gun control act but for the Tydings amendment to require a license for the purchase or carrying of a concealable weapon, the Tydings amendment to require federal gun registration and licensing of gun owners, the Brooke amendment to require notification of local authorities of transfers of inventory with incentives to encourage local authorities to report that information to National Firearms Registry, and the Jackson amendment to prohibit interstate gun sales between states which have not met minimum federal registration and licensing standards.

Sen. Mondale said in Iowa that he favored tough handgun legislation during the 1960s but has changed his position in recent years.

Sen. John Glenn served as chairman in 1968 of the Emergency Committee for Gun Control, a lobby which worked for passage of a federal firearms law calling specifically for the licensing of gun owners and the registration of guns.

Sen. Gary Hart says he firmly believes in what he calls "the right of law-abiding citizens to enjoy the legitimate uses of firearms." He told the Denver Post in 1980 that he believes in the constitutional right of citizens to bear arms and said he felt a national registration law would violate that right. He said he would favor imposition of increased penalties for individuals who commit a crime with a handgun. Campaigning for the Democratic Presidential nomination this year, he publicly stated, "I have never voted for federal gun control."

President Ronald Reagan is a life member of the National Rifle associaton and has repeatedly refused to be supportive of any handgun control measure. Although he was wounded by an assailant with a handgun, he said the attack in the District of Columbia — which has stringent gun control laws — only shows that such laws are ineffective in reducing criminal use of handguns.

That's where the Handgun Control Political Action committee says some of the major Presidential candidates stand. It is apparent that some say one thing and do another while others notably Sen. Hart and President Reagan — have been consistent in their expressed views and activities.

While Handgun Control, Inc., has a lofty goal in "keeping handguns out of the wrong hands," we belive the goal is unattainable. Restrictive legislation will do the opposite — take handguns from the hands of the law-abiding while the lawless elment continues to possess and use the weapons in crime.

Stealing The Thunder

Political maneuvering sometimes has its humorous moments, although the extent to which it frustrates actual accomplishment of good legislation has to be disappointing.

One of those humorous moments occurred during the first five minutes of the first day of the 1984 legislative session in St. Paul. It was an obvious attempt by the Independent-Republican minority to steal the thunder from the DFL majority in the House of Representatives and we can imagine the scene it created.

David M. Jennings, minority party leader in the House, asked during those first five minutes of the session that the rules be suspended temporarily and that the House consider adoption of HF 1591, a bill to repeal the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"I wish all the readers of your newspaper could have seen the flurry that set off in the House chamber," Rep. Jennings states in a letter to the state's newspapers. "Democrats, who four hours earlier had been tripping over themselves extolling the virtues of repealing the tax, were suddenly coming up with reason after reason not to do it now."

Jennings' motion was a classic political stroke. He was well aware of comments by a number of DFL legislators that they would support repeal of the surcharge retroactive to Jan. 1, 1984. He was also well aware that the party planned to milk the repeal for every political drop they could strip out of it. His motion was designed to beat them to the punch, to make the repeal an I-R initiated action and to embarrass DFL members through either supporting the I-R move or backing off their stand on repeal. It accomplished just that.

And the situation once again points up one of the sad aspects of our political system. Both political parties seem to want to support good legislation, but neither is willing to let the other share in any of the credit. As a result, an action which should be accomplished quickly on a bipartisan basis is going to be scrambled around at great unnecessary waste of time and money.

Rep. Jennings may have contributed to this delay by his cagey political move. But he is right when he states his viewpoint on the situation.

"I want the surtax repealed, and I'm confident that — sooner or later — it will be repealed," he says. "But I also want the House and Senate to take a clean vote on repealing the tax. I don't want the surcharge repeal tucked inside an omnibus tax bill that contains 30 or 40 separate pieces of legislation, pieces that I might well oppose. I want a straight vote, up or down, whether to repeal the 10 per cent surtax."

Jennings says the question is one of accountability. "If lawmakers are to be accountable for their actions, it must be clear what they're voting on. That can't be done if so-called Christmas tree bills are thrown together," he said. He added that the I-R legislators will continue to push for repeal of the surcharge every day the House is in session until the charge is repealed.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

For the past three weeks we have been hunting for that "sure thing" investment that will probide both income and preservation of our purchasing power. We found that stocks, bonds, precious metals, gems, collectibles, limited partnerships, real estate, tax shelters, options and commodities don't necessarily satisfy these objectives.

What about United States Savings bonds and other government securities?

Series EE bonds are sold for half their face value ($50 to $10,000), maturing in eleven years, with a return of seven per cent Series HH bonds are sold for face value ($500 to $10,000) with annual interest of six and one-half per cent, one-half paid every six months, and the principal (face amount) returned in 10 years. These bonds are guaranteed by the government. The concern with savings bonds is that the high levels of inflation, you not only don't get back your purchasing power, but you have to pay taxes on the interest. With the kind of inflation expected in the future, based on high federal deficits, these bonds are as bad a bet as their Series E and H predecessors.

To show you what bothers me, if you paid $50 for a $100 Series EE bond, and our inflation rate was only five per cent each year, the $100 you would receive at the end of 11 years would really be worth, in today's purchasing power of the dollar about $57, and you would owe an income tax on the extra $50 you received in paper. That tax would exceed the $7 in additional purchasing power, so you would have loaned your money to the government for nothing. You would have been lucky if the inflation rate was only five per cent. If it went any higher, you wouldn't even get back your original investment in purchasing power.

Bank and savings and loan guaranteed savings accounts at 5:25 per cent, while insured, present the same problem. If inflation is not effectively controlled, you will not get back what you invest. Sure you will receive paper, but it will have less value.

Bank and savings and loan certificates of deposit at interest rates above the inflation rate and income tax factor to be deducted, with their insurance, provide a safe way for the typical American with no time for investment study to invest with care.

While Series EE and HH bonds pay back the face value, there are other government securities where you may have a problem is you must sell before their payoff date. Treasury long term bonds and short term notes and certificates fluctuate with the market. Government agency securities as well as bonds issued by states, counties and taxing districts (some guaranteed and others supported by revenues) are available and go up and down with the market.

If you don't have time to study investment alternatives, you should stick with bank, savings and loan and federal government bonds. If you do have time to study your investments, and make decisions based on knowledge and understanding, then you should find yourself a reputable stock broker and an interested banker. You should review your investment ideas with both of them, remembering that your stock broker lives on commissions and your banker lives on interest.

For almost a decade, I served as a pension fund trustee for subsidiaries of a billion dollar corporation. I learned to be a skeptic when it came to advice. I gave up investment opportunities that demanded quick decisions and didn't allow time for me to understand fully what I was asked to do. I finally turned over this trustee responsibility to a bank when being a trustee took more time than I could afford. I had a good record because the 1960's were a time when everything went up and everyone believed stock was a hedge against inflation. Starting in the 1970's, investment has become a more demanding master. Stacks of law suits against stock brokers and investment advisers indicate that you don't just accept advice, but must consider the source of that advice and make decisions based on facts.

With IRS's and savings, everyone is an investor. Over the past four weeks I have tried to get you thinking about investment, recognizing that there is no "sure thing," that it is easy to lose what you have, and that making money and preserving what you have requires work on your part.

If you are not willing to work at investing, then you should put your money into insured investments with a high enough interest rate to exceed the inflation rate. You won't make much money, but you won't lose much money, either!

That's Straight Talk!

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

By the time you have read this letter you will still have time to act prior to the city council's closed session, Tuesday, March 13, at 7:30 p.m. If you are a property owner or prospective buyer, there is a lesson in city politics to be learned.

A developer from outside of Thief River Falls may buy a parcel of property next to you. He pays a low price and it's in a good location. The problem: All parcels of land surrounding his land are zoned for single family dwellings. The developer wishes to change the zoning to high density to maximize his original investment.

Neighbors face the matter by religiously attending the prior hearings of the planning commission and are vocal in their concerns. They attend the follow-up council meetings with the same intent. One hitch: The most important meeting of all, in which the planning commission's unanimous recommendation against the development can be overturned, is put off by the council to deal with the liquor store problem and other matters.

Time elapses and notice appears in the newspaper. One citizen is notified mid-afternoon on Valentine's day, one of the 10 busiest days of his business year. Because of the press to take care of customers before personal business, he is unable to notify the other neighbors of the delayed meeting. Consequently there is no opposition in attendance and the project goes through following the developer's presentation. After the fact, the council gives the opponents substantial hearing and choses to decide the issue in closed session. Such are the facts; now the questions.

Are zoning laws passed to protect the residents who have investments in their homes and not to be changed by city council members for any arbitrary reason?

Should tax benefit be such a compelling criteria that the entire character of a neighborhood can be changed in a dramatic fashion?

Should not this high density condominium project be located in an area designated by the comprehensize city plan, and only after a complete study demonstrates such a housing need?

Were the interests of all homeowners planning to sell their real estate on the same market with the developer's units considered?

What's to stop a developer from purchasing property in any location, submitting a site plan to the city, and expecting its approval, in light of the irresponsible February 14 council decision:

If our city council wants to serve the best interests of the public at large, it will rescind its motion. Please call your alderman today (Monday or Tuesday) and help send the message to city hall that the citizen, not the almighty dollar, must prevail.

To The Editor:

I'm sure most people have received their 1984 real estate tax statements by this point in time. How many of your readers just accept the methods used in computing the tax, increases and unexplained tax assessments on their statements? I used to be one of those people, until this year!

Sometimes, we as tax payers feel that government is like a large snowball rolling down a hill out of control and there is nothing we can do to stop it. Following is a letter addressed to John Tomlinson, chairman of the tax committee in the house of representatives concerning a situation which I'm sure affects many others.

"Dear Mr. Tomlinson,

"After receiving my 1984 real estate taxes, I was shocked! I own two parcels of property located outside the Thief River Falls city limits. One home is my personal dwelling while the other is used as a foster home for four mentally handicapped persons. The estimated market value of each parcel of property is basically the same.

"When I started the foster home, I had anticipated that I would no longer receive the homestead credit, and that I would pay taxes on the amount listed before any tax credits are applied. This is where the unfair tax inequity begins. In 1983, the tax before credit amount was $736.68. In 1984, the tax before credit increased $453.24 to $1,189.92. I had anticipated paying approximately $770.00 because of not being eligible for any homestead credits.

"Thinking the assessor's office had made a mistake, I contacted Jerry DeHann, the Pennington county assessor. He told me that even when both parcels of property have basically the same estimated market value, the method used in computing the tax on a rental unit is much higher than a private dwelling, even without the homestead credit. I feel this is a gross injustice and unfair taxation. The properties of equal value should be taxed by using the same tax method less the homestead credit for a rental unit.

"Enclosed are the 1983 and 1984 copies of the rental unit and my private dwelling real estate tax statements for your comparison. I contacted Wallace Sparby, State Representative, and he suggested I address this matter to your attention. I also plan to send copies of this letter to other State Representatives and officials for their review.

"Mr. Tomlinson, I would like to continue to provide this service for the mentally handicapped in our area, but due to the current unfair taxation on this property and the limited funding by counties for people in such programs, I cannot conceivably continue to operate at this rate.

"The Constitution of this country was based upon fair and equal taxation for all individuals. It certainly seems the intent has changed drastically and the concept totally misconstrued. I understand Minnesota uses over 50 different tax computation methods to determine one's real estate taxes. These are based on the type of property, locations and the business one runs. North Dakota uses four different computation methods. Why is this?

"The tax structure as it is now penalizes a person for trying to improve himself and his surroundings. The people renting from me are entitled to a renter's credit while I get stuck paying the increased taxes. Even if a renter could afford paying the additional rent costs, what guarantee is there that there would be full occupancy 12 months of the year? In order to legally bring my real estate tax in line, I could divorce my wife and we could live in the separate houses along with letting the house deteriorate to the point where its value has decreased. Why does the system make a person stoop so low as to consider such drastic methods?

"I would greatly appreciate any assistance you or any other members of the House of Representatives may give in correcting this travesty of this unfair taxation. I am sure there are many others who share my frustration concerning this matter.

"Thank you for your time and consideration. I will be anxiously awaiting your reply."

I would encourage any readers who question their real estate tax statements to contact the county assessor's office and to write their state legislators. If we as tax payers can unite in this effort, possibly the Minnesota tax structure could be changed. It only takes a few minutes of your time. If there is not enough input from the tax payers, the practice of unfair taxation will continue to run further out of our control.

Sincerely,
Paul Johnson

CONSIDERABLE SMOKE and heat damage resulted from a fire at 401 South Tindolph Avenue on Wednesday morning, but structural damage was limited by a rapid response from the Thief River Falls fire department. According to Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman, the fire was reported at 11:18 a.m. by Linda Hawks, who rents the building from owner Clarence Carlson of McIntosh. She reportedly left the building at about 9 a.m., finding it full of smoke when she returned at 11:15. Bjorkman said the fire appeared to have started near [illegible] the blaze was brought under control within 15 minutes after firemen arrived, although they remained for about an hour to make sure that it was completely out. No estimate was available on the amount of damage caused.

To The Editor:

After reading Dennis McCullough's letter to the editor in the March 7th edition of the Times concerning the FmHA fiasco, we can not refrain from making our feelings public on the subject. Although we were happy to see additional staff come to our area to speed up the loan-making process, following are some of our concerns and questions.

(1) Why aren't all farmers who had crop loss in the declared disaster area eligible for the low interest FmHA loans? If we are denied this, are we not subsidizing those who are competing with us?

(2) Are all loans made going to be "sound" loans based on today's land and machinery values rather than inflated values of a few years ago? These are government funds and we think that they should be invested responsibly.

(3) How can such a small percentage of the total farm community create such a response from governmental officials? As we understand it there was less than a 20 per cent response by area farmers to the questionnaire circulated.

(4) Although it is certainly not true in every case, aren't some of the most vocal people the ones who exhibited the most greed through expansion and as a result are hurting the worst and squealing the loudest? Do we want to encourage the expansion of the large operations with government money, then bail them out when they run into trouble?

(5) Is it true that some of our local legislators are getting large volume low interest loans also?

(6) Since we are dealing with government funds, would it be unreasonable to publish the names and amounts of their FmHA loans in The Times?

(7) How does it work that some farmers have the time and money to lobby in Washington when most of us are busy at home trying to make ends meet and find a trip to the Winter Shows a major luxury?

We know that there are farmers in the area who are in financial trouble through no fault of their own and are trying to do their best. We also feel that there are so-called farmers who are trying to "farm" the FmHA and Federal Crop Insurance and feel that they should be nipped in the bud.

Yours truly,
Stanley Hruby

District 32 Tournament Was Great

Once again it bears repeating to say what a treat it was to have the District 32 high school basketball tournament semifinals and finals played in the Lincoln gym here last Tuesday and Thursday.

Down-to-the-wire finishes, great individual efforts, disciplined team play and a Lincoln gym that was packed full of fans made for great basketball entertainment.

Caliber of play in Lake of the Woods' 52-51 championship game victory Thursday over Kennedy wasn't as sharp as it was in the Bears' 57-55 semifinal win Tuesday over Argyle, but with a title and Region 8A berth on the line it was no less exciting.

It was an extremely well-balanced District 32 tournament field this year, and a very talented one at that. The final four — Lake of the Woods, Kennedy, Argyle and Marshall County Central — were all capable of winning the title, along with three that didn't even make it that far — Roseau, Tri-County and Stephen.

Those that made it to Thief River Falls for the semifinals and finals put on a great show that was greatly appreciated by the fans. They cheered wildly for their favorite teams and booed the opposition. It was a real display of emotion from the small town fans that is conspicuously absent in the Class AA ranks.

Hopefully District 32 officials will consider bringing the tournament back to Thief River Falls again in 1985.

EGF, Crookston Fail To Win Titles

East Grand Forks and Crookston teams failed to win the tournament titles that might have been expected of the Green Wave and Pirates following their switch from Class AA to Class A status in basketball this winter.

Both the girls and boys teams from East Grand Forks were No. 1 seeds for post-season District 31 play, but both times the Green Wave lost to Warren in the finals.

East Grand Forks girls, 19-1 going into the championship game, let a 14-point fourth quarter lead slip away in a 46-43 loss to Warren. East Grand Forks boys, 17-4 going into the finals, lost a similarly close decision to the Ponies, 43-41, last Thursday.

It was expected by many observers that the Green Wave would be sending both their girls and boys teams to state tournament play, but they found out in a hurry that being the "big" school in District 31 doesn't mean instant success.

Crookston suffered much the same fate. The Pirates were upset 54-48 by East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in the quarterfinals of the boys' District 31 tournament and the Crookston girls lost to Warren 44-32 in the semifinals to finish 17-4.

Region 8AA Membership Shrinking

Region 8AA, which has undergone numerous changes in membership since being formed by the Minnesota State High School League starting with the 1975-76 school year, may be down to as few as 11 schools in a couple of years, reports Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes Tribune.

There are 14 schools in Region 8AA in 1983-84, down four from 1982-83 and that will be reduced by one in 1984-85 since Park Rapids will be dropping down into Class A next year because its senior high enrollment will be below 500.

Within a short time, explained Anderson, projected enrollments at two other Region 8AA schools — Melrose and Sauk Rapids — will fall below the 500-mark and those schools will be assigned to a Class A district and region.

Region 8AA members this year include Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Park Rapids, Moorhead, Bemidji and Thief River Falls in the North; Alexandria, Melrose, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, Brainerd, Little Falls, Rocori and Sauk Rapids in the South.

Albany, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Wadena dropped from Region 8AA into the Class A ranks this year.

Bears Edge Rockets 52-51 In District 32 Finals Played Here

So much for the theory that Lake of the Woods is a one-man team.

Oh, to be sure, 6-6 senior center Joe Krouss is still the main man, but the Bears showed they have other weapons as well, particularly in 6-0 senior forward Tim Erholtz, as they edged Kennedy 52-51 in a thrilling championship game finish to the District 32 high school basketball tournament played Thursday in Thief River Falls.

Erholtz matched Krouss' 18-point output and kept the Bears in the game when their star performer was (A) closely guarded and unable to shake free for his deadly accurate close-in shots in the first half; and (B) when Krouss was sitting on the bench with four fouls late in the third quarter.

Kennedy led 15-11 at the end of the first quarter on Scott Johnson's 18-footer at the buzzer and matched its biggest lead of the game 19-15, on a long jumper by Brian Sather midway through the second quarter. The Rockets appeared to be in good shape at that point, checking Krouss on just six points.

But Tim Erholtz suddenly asserted himself with six straight points, and Mark Erholtz, a 5-9 sophomore guard added a long jumper to make it a string of eight unanswered Lake of the Woods points and a 23-19 lead with 1:33 left in the first half.

Sather's long jumper 20 seconds later made it a 23-21 game at intermission.

It was 31-31 when Krouss picked up his third consecutive foul and his fourth of the game with 2:22 remaining in the third quarter.

Someone mentioned to Lake of the Woods coach Ron Omerza that it appeared the Bears might be in trouble at that point.

"We were in trouble," he answered quickly, putting emphasis on the were. "But we opened up a lead when he went out. "My kids really played well there for 2-or-3 minutes when Krouss was on the bench.

Indeed they did, as Tim Erholtz made a free throw and scored on a drive and Chris Snyder hit one from long range for a 36-31 Lake of the Woods lead with 30 seconds left. Third quarter ended on Johnson's shot from the corner as the Rockets pulled back within 36-33.

"When he (Krouss) went out, we relaxed," acknowledged Kennedy coach Louis Deere. "They thought it was going to be softer without him in there."

Krouss was back on the court for the start of the fourth quarter and he made his presence known immediately with a short turnaround jumper, then a steal at mid-court, a dribble to the basket and a powerful two-hand slam dunk that produced a tremendous roar from the standing room-only crowd packed into the Lincoln gym. That made it 40-33 with 7:08 to play — the biggest lead of the night for either side.

But that lead disappeared in the face of the Rockets' potent one-two scoring punch of Johnson, a 6-1 junior guard-forward, and Tommy John Deere, a 6-4 junior center-forward. A rebound basket by Deere tied it 43-43 with 4:10 still to play, and his long jumper with 1:34 remaining provided Kennedy with a 49-46 lead.

Next six points, though, were scored by the Bears as Krouss hit a short turnaround jumper and Tim Omerza hit one from the base line to give Lake of the Woods a 50-49 edge with 42 seconds left.

That was followed by a Kennedy turnover that forced the Rockets into a must-foul situation. Snyder made one of two free throws with 13 seconds left for a 51-49 lead and Krouss was fouled as he rebounded Johnson's off-balance shot on a drive with four seconds left. Krouss, too, made only one of two free throws, but that gave the Bears enough of a cushion to allow Johnson an uncontested length-of-the-court dribble and game-ending basket.

Deere finished with 18 points to match Tim Erholtz and Krouss for game-high scoring honors, with Johnson close behind at 17.

Although most of the attention was focused on Krouss, neither coach was surprised at Erholtz' performance.

"He didn't surprise us," said Louis Deere. "We knew he was a good ball player, and he proved it tonight."

"That was nothing new," explained Ron Omerza. "He's been playing real well for us all year."

Kennedy actually fared better from the field than Lake of the Woods. The Rockets shot 48 per cent on a 23-for-48 night while the Bears shot 43 per cent on a 20-for-47 showing. But Lake of the Woods made 12 of 20 free throw opportunities while the Rockets were a less-busy 5-for-8. Lake of the Woods finished with a 27-20 rebound advantage and topped the turnover charts 10-7.

Lake of the Woods will carry a 21-2 record into Region 8A play. Kennedy finished at 20-4.

Eagles Top Nordics 51-42 In Third Place Ball Game

It was anything but your typical half-hearted go-through-the-motions and get-it-over-with consolation game Thursday as Argyle and Marshall County Central battled each other for a full 32 minutes of all-out basketball before the Eagles laid claim to the District 32 tournament third place trophy, 51-42, in the Lincoln gym.

Played with championship game enthusiasm, the two rivals locked up in what may be the most intense third place game you're likely to see. And that despite the fact that both were coming off heart-breaking semifinal losses in the same gym two days earlier when Argyle dropped a 57-55 decision to Lake of the Woods and Marshall County Central fell to Kennedy 53-45.

Argyle out-scored Marshall County Central 21-13 in the first quarter and that eight-point difference wound up as a nine-point victory. The Eagles maintained a 29-21 spread at halftime and kept it a 39-29 margin at the end of the third quarter when they worked the ball for a final shot and Brian Riopelle hit one from the side at the buzzer.

Free throws by Riopelle and Donnie Magnusson provided Argyle with a 44-33 cushion midway through the fourth quarter before Marshall County Central staged a comeback effort that cut the gap to 45-40 as Ken Krohn scored on a drive with 1:09 still to play.

But that was as close as the Nordics got. Twice in the last minute of play they watched shots by Kevin Boe and Scott Gustafson go in and out while as the other end of the court the Eagles' David Durand cashed in on two bonus free throw opportunities to make it 49-40.

Chad Swan hit a longer jumper from the side, but with just 14 seconds left and the Nordics still facing a 49-42 deficit. Durand closed out the scoring by finishing off a fast break with six seconds on the clock.

"The ball just didn't roll our way," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "All we needed was the ball to roll our way and we would have won. The kids played hard, maybe too hard. They were probably too tight."

Durand led all scorers with 16 points, while Magnusson added 15 and Riopelle 10. Swan scored 14 for Marshall County Central and Krohn contributed 10.

Marshall County Central struggled with a 28 per cent shooting night, hitting 16 of 58 attempts. Argyle shot 40 per cent on a 20-for-50 showing. The Nordics were 10-for-14 at the free throw line, where the Eagles were 11-for-14. Marshall County Central finished with a 28-24 rebound edge and topped the turnover figures 17-15.

Season ended at 15-9 for the Nordics. "Being in the final four in this tournament is no disgrace," said Ueland, who called it one of the strongest District 32 fields in recent memory. "We worked hard. We're really proud of the kids."
